He also said the CNR intends to keep the backbone of a strong rail service. Explaining a proposed $15,000,000 advance to Canadian National Transportation Company, a subsidiary of the CNR which handles its new small highway transport operations, he said that at the start the company intends to try to buy existing truck companies rather than move in competitively.

Shipping Jam Seems Easing

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The shipping jam at the Welland Canal appeared to ease slightly today but even as it did officials feared a new tieup when the vessels make their return upstream.

About 35 ships were anchored in Lake Ontario off Port Weller late Thursday, awaiting their turn at the 27½-mile canal to Lake Erie.

Officials feared a jam at the Port Colborne end of the canal as some of the early arrivals are already in port or on their way back.

Some of the ships have passed through the canal only to find docks filled at Detroit and another bottleneck at Toledo, Ohio. Four foreign ships were awaiting space Thursday.

Between 40 and 50 ships were involved in the tieup Wednesday so the busy canal appeared making some headway.

Canal officials say delays at the canal entrance and in the newly-opened St. Lawrence Seaway came from locks, harbormasters and Great Lakes shipping officials.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: High pressure moving into the Great Lakes area gave generally clear skies through Ontario Thursday night with low temperatures fairly close to their normal values of the season and near or above the low freezing in the north. This afternoon, with sunny skies, temperatures will rise to near 60 in Southern Ontario and to the 50s in the North.

High-pressure persisting over Ontario will carry sunny weather over into Saturday with temperatures showing little change except in Northern Ontario where warmer air will continue to move in from the Prairies.

A combination of clear skies and light winds indicates a risk of frost in the north and in the lower lake regions tonight with more general freezing temperatures forecast to the north of this area.

FEDERAL SUPPORT PRICE FOR CATTLE UP 30 CTS. CWT.

Supports for Lambs Will Be Continued

OTTAWA (CP) — An increase of 30 cents a hundredweight in the federal support price for cattle, and continuation of present supports for lambs, were announced today.

The statement by L. W. Pearsall, chairman of the agricultural stabilization board, said the support for beef will be $17.80 a hundredweight for good quality live steers on the Toronto market in the 13 months from last April 1. This is an increase from $17.50.

The support for lambs will be $19.50, a hundredweight for good lambs, live, at the Toronto market, unchanged from last year.

Both figures are at the manufacturing floor — 60 per cent of average prices over the last 10 years. The increase in the cattle support results from new market prices in the last year.

NOTES PRICES

The announcement noted that "good grades of both steers and heifers have been selling at around $25 a hundredweight on the Toronto market.

"Prices and buying supports for other markets in Canada have been established commensurately these are scaled down from the Toronto level.

"The advisory official commented that present market prices appear to be above the support level, and indicated there is no immediate prospect that the floor will be brought into effect.

This year the stabilization board was not required to buy any cattle at the support price, owing toward the end of the year and away from the opposition Labor party.

With a handful of results still to come, Labor's net loss stood at 219 seats. The party conceded the loss of control in 17 town councils, including Northampton, York and Plymouth, and also the loss of the London borough of Stepney.

Victories in Local Elections Cheer British Conservatives

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan's government took heart today from a steadily-growing tide of victories in local areas and county council elections throughout the country.

Conservative party supporters regarded wins at the local level as a good omen for national election expected next fall.

Fresh results reported today by BBC gave town elections areas. Thursday Thursday throughout England and Wales continued the gradual swing toward the Conservatives and away from the opposition Labor party.

Pearson Wants Parley on Jobs

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson has suggested that the federal government call a conference with provinces and municipalities to discuss unemployment measures for next winter.

Speaking in the Commons Thursday night in a debate concerned that if adequate government policies were not forthcoming Canada might be faced with the prospect of a continuing "hard core of unemployment" — possibly as many as 300,000 or about five per cent of the labor force this year.

Even with "intense prosperity" during the next 10 years, there was the "serious prospect of "structural unemployment" due to technical progress, automation and unfavorable economic conditions in certain "depressed areas" unless steps could be taken to avoid the only if adequate steps were taken to solve these problems of change in the country's economic structure.

Riots Inside and Outside of Jail Mark Hanging of Bobby's Slayer

LONDON (AP)—Ronald Marwood, a 25-year-old cop killer, was hanged today in Pentonville Prison amid scenes of pomp mingled about the gates protesting the execution.

The crowd outside stood an all-night vigil, and inside the jail prisoners rioted for two days demanding that the hanging be called off.

The execution took place only 600 yards from the home of Conservative Cabinet minister Butler. The crowd of about 1,000 outside the prison were some carrying placards reading "Save Marwood." "Revenge is contrary to justice" and "If Marwood really guilty?"

Constables guarding the prison gates were booed and jeered. Five policemen grabbed one youth and carried him inside the gates.

"Savage! Beastial Murderers!"

Mounted police then rode into the throng and after it back Police police joined hands to keep the gates clear.

Following the hanging the usual death notice was posted outside the prison. Five people, which included seven-age girls and boys and some mothers carrying babies or pushing baby carriages, and pieces of furniture out of windows. A red glow in some cell windows indicated sheets or blankets had been set on fire.

The condemned man's pretty 20-year-old wife Rosalie waited in an apartment 200 yards from the prison and read over and over again the last letter from her husband.

Election Campaign Heats Up, Leaders Make Key Addresses

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

All three major party leaders spoke at nominating conventions Thursday night as the campaign for Ontario's June 11 election started gathering momentum.

Premier Frost made the opening big he had stolen the Liberal platform, Liberal Leader Wintermeyer was reiterating his charge that the premier's 30-page election manifesto contained 11 specific proposals made by the Liberal opposition within the last year.

The premier also came under fire in Toronto where CCF Leader Donald MacDonald said Mr. Frost had actually been opposed to Avro workers getting new jobs. He said other employers have hesitated to hire them because of Mr. Frost's promise to get "all the best brains in the province" to find a substitute for the Arrow jet interceptor cancelled by Ottawa in March.

Speaking at Strathroy, Mr. Frost said "I plead not guilty" to the Liberal leader's charge. "I have never seen his platform and I do not know how I could steal anything from it."

Ontario C of C Takes Stand Against Welland Canal Tolls

KINGSTON (CP)—The Ontario Chamber of Commerce has declared its opposition to the charging of tolls on the Welland Canal.

In doing so the chamber Thursday gave its support to a resolution from the St. Catharines chamber, backed by a number of other chambers in the Welland area.

The resolution, moved by W. B. C. Burgoyne, recounted that a number of Ontario chambers have asked that the canal remain toll free but the federal government "has not seen fit to accede to these requests."

It added that Premier Frost of Ontario had also stated the canal should be toll free. It said the premier "heartily endorses" the statements of Mr. Frost and offers its strong support to the province for the purpose of having the tolls suspended, refunded or revoked.

J. H. Moore of Hamilton said products which never had paid tolls now would have to pay them. They received no benefit from the St. Lawrence Seaway, but are being asked to help pay for it; they therefore would be increased prices for the users of these products. The resolution carried.

The Elliot Lake and district chamber, supported by other Northern Ontario chambers, got

KNOWLES CALLED 'HATCHETMAN' BY PC MEMBERS

Said Taken Into CLC by Back Door

OTTAWA (CP)—In the Commons, where for 15 years he was a powerful socialist voice until his election defeat, Stanley Knowles has been castigated as a political hatchetman currently scheming to dominate labor and the labor movement.

Two Progressive Conservative MPs participated in the attack on the former CCF MP for Winnipeg North Centre who, one day last week, was elected executive vice - president of the Canadian Labor Congress at a backdoor attempt by politicians to take over the big labor organization.

Donald MacInnis (PC — Cape Breton South), a member of the United Mine Workers (Ind.), described Mr. Knowles as "sanctimonious" and insincere about labor and said he "was taken into the CLC by way of the back door."

Bobby McDonald (PC—Hamilton South) said trade unionism was never intended "to have political hatchetmen like Stanley Knowles come in the back door . . ."

SPEECH SUSPICION

He suspected that at the 1958 Winnipeg convention of the CLC "the hand of Mr. Knowles via president "a group of bigwigs" politicians tried to sneak in the back door and take over."

Both members criticized joint efforts of the CLC and CCF on behalf of a new political party of the left, with Mr. McDonald charging that the people who are "scheming" to take control of the economy "are the Stanley Knowleses of today."

Doctors Record Exact Cause Of Crash While Awaiting Death

LINCOLN, N.H. (AP)—A desperate but hopeless four - day fight for life in a hospital operating room was disclosed Thursday in a report that revealed that two doctors scribbled notes on their survival efforts while awaiting the fatal outcome.

The physicians carefully recorded the exact cause of the crash last February—they said the carburetor ducted fuel to the engine, the successive storms buried them and their tiny plane under four feet of snow.

Dr. Ralph E. Miller, 60, and Dr. Robert Quinn, 32, both members of the Dartmouth College medical school faculty, preserved their observations in plastic dictaphone containers.

The notes, stuffed into a duffel bag, gave this picture of their fight for life:

Starved from lack of food in the desolate heart of the White Mountain national forest, about seven miles east of Lincoln.

Half-frozen by sub-zero temperatures.

Exhausted by vain attempts to walk through snow drifts that piled up to five-foot depths.

Frustrated by failure of crude attempts to fashion snowshoes from birch branches and adhesive tape.

Tantalized by the distant drone of engines which they knew came from search planes looking for them.

And, finally, disheartened when the federal search was ended and the dying doctors waited for the fate they knew was inevitable.

Their single-engined plane, with Dr. Miller, a veteran pilot, at the controls, plowed into a clump of trees Feb. 21. The doctors were flying to Lincoln to attend a meeting in Lebanon, N.H., on the return leg of a mercy mission to treat a heart patient.

The plane was spotted from the air Tuesday after a warm weather had removed the snow that hid it from the eyes of searchers.

One note indicated neither was injured in the crash.

Other notes showed the men had established quarters in the wilderness for at least four days and tried to keep warm by building a fire in an aquala apparently extinguished.

No Summit Talks If East Germans Get East Berlin

Ike Will Balk if Russia Signs Separate Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will refuse to go to a summit conference if Russia carries out its threat to turn East Berlin over to the East German Communists.

He will take the same stand if Russia signs a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

Any such one-sided bowl-out action in the next few weeks undoubtedly would wreck the Big Four foreign ministers conference due to begin in Geneva Monday.

This American attitude became known authoritatively a few hours before State Secretary Christian A. Herter's scheduled talks for pre-conference strategy talks with the British and French foreign ministers.

Herter himself already has served notice that the Russians must make concessions for discussion to end the danger of war.

Despite pressure for a summit talk regardless of agreement in Geneva, Eisenhower was reported insisting the foreign ministers first must make concrete gains in easing the Berlin crisis and other German problems.

This means, informants said, that more agreements must be worked out, on a time, place and agenda for a summit meeting, before there is enough to convince him that a conference with Premier Khrushchev would be worthwhile.

Herter outlined the U.S. position for the East-West talks starting Monday in a TV-radio broadcast Thursday night, his first since he took over from John Foster Dulles April 22.

He arranged a final meeting with President Eisenhower this morning. The meeting of the Geneva meeting with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and Russia.

Herter's speech was praised from Democratic Senator Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, as "candid" and "statesmanlike."

PLEDGED FIRMNESS

The new secretary pledged firmness and latter to hope for peace in good faith. He called on the Communists for "business-like negotiations and not a propaganda exercise."

He set down three basic guide-lines of western policy for the negotiations and summed them up, saying:

"The heart of our policy can be stated in three words. It will be this: A Germany reunited in freedom, a reunification to be worked out with arrangements for arms control, and in the interim a free and secure Berlin."

Govt. Purchase Of Eggs Will Soon Be Ended

OTTAWA (CP) — The government plans to make deficiency payments to egg producers to prevent large-scale commercial production ceasing to the benefit of egg price supports which are being continued for another 12 months.

Agriculture Minister Harkness announced to the Commons Thursday that the support price of 44 cents a dozen for Grade A large eggs at Montreal will be continued to May 5, 1960.

The continued expansion in egg production can be largely attributed to the growth in numbers and size of large commercial producers, he said. The present support program was providing no incentive to commercial operators to increase production. Disposal of the surplus accumulated that once a year was creating "an extremely serious problem."

"I have therefore directed the stabilization board to develop as soon as possible a method of providing producers with shell eggs by means of payment to producers of the amount described as a deficiency payment—rather than to continue the present method of offer to purchase."

FEARSON CRITICIZES

His deficiency payment revelation met with immediate criticism from Opposition Leader Pearson, who charged the government is "adopting the principles of deficiency payments in respect of some agricultural commodity yet it refuses even to consider it in respect of wheat and other grain products."

The minister said the payment of 44 cents a dozen was calculated on the difference between the actual market price for shell eggs for the period concerned and the prescribed support price.

"This method, as in the case of the arrangement proposed with respect to hogs, would make it possible to withhold payments from certain organizations operating under the so - called floor price stabilization plan, or to restrict payments to a specific volume of eggs declared by any one producer at a given period."

Judge Anderson Heads Board Giving Wage Hike

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal conciliation board has recommended in a majority report an eight-per-cent wage increase for members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians to settle their dispute with the CBC.

The report by the three-man board headed by Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville, was announced Thursday by the department of labor. Affected are 1,100 CBC radio employees.

It provides a two-per-cent increase retroactive to Aug. 1, 1958, and three-per-cent increase effective to May 1 and an additional three per cent "effective Feb. 1, 1960. Expiry date would be Oct. 31, 1960.

Union nominee Guy M. Desaulniers of Montreal dissented on the wage proposal and recommended employees get a four-per-cent increase as of Aug. 1, 1958, for a total increase of 10 per cent. He also wanted the contract to be effective to March 31, 1961.

Company nominee H. Brooke Bell of Toronto signed the majority recommendation, but in an addendum said there is no justification for a general wage increase.

The majority wage recommendation would raise the minimum annual salary for the lowest classification from $4,836 to $5,220 after Oct. 31, 1960.

The disputing parties have not yet indicated their intentions to accept or reject the report.

Miss K. McFarland, Napanee, Named UEL Assoc. President

ADOLPHUSTOWN — Election of officers for the ensuing membership year was the principal item of business at the third annual meeting of the Quinte Branch of the United Empire Loyalists' Association of Canada, held in the old township hall at Adolphustown on Wednesday evening.

The retiring president, Lieut.-Col. Wm. G. Deverell, was in the chair for the early portion of the meeting, during which he called for a standing one-minute period of remembrance for the late Charles Frederick Allen, honorary vice-president. He is missed by many.

A lengthy mimeographed report of the many activities of the Branch during his term in office, was brought down by president Deverell, who read aloud a number of the items he felt would be of such interest as to raise a discussion, if desired. Since inauguration of the Branch in July 1956, seven regular meetings and four honorary vice-presidents have been elected. Also, the members of a side, quoting figures from report of membership chairman Allan Demorest. Motions and resolutions members were taken in to the organization prior to April 30th, 1959. Despite the loss of some members through neglect to keep dues paid up, the membership roster shows an increase of seven members over twenty-three over the previous year. Copies of this annual report are to be mailed to all members in good standing.

Genealogist Miss Kay C. Burleigh recommended approval of application for membership of Mr. Wayne Neil of R.R. 2, Consecon. The vote was unanimous and Mr. McFarland was warmly welcomed into the Branch.

Reports of the nominating committee as submitted by E. Dunnington, Napanee, which recommended election of the following slate of officers for the ensuing year: Past president, Miss Kaye McFarland, Napanee; honorary president, (1) Mr. E. John Chard, Stirling; (2) Mr. Maurice H. Young, R 1, Bath; (3) Mrs. Marjorie DeCew, Belleville; (1) Capt. J. A. C. Rogers, Picton; (2) Mrs. Mildred (J. L.) Robin, R. 1, Bath; genealogist, Col. H. C. Burleigh, M.D., Bath; treasurer, Mr. Ralph G. Blakely, Picton; secretary (recording), Miss Ella M. Allison, R 1, Bath. By unanimous vote the above were elected.

Before handing the symbolic gravel to Miss McFarland, Lt. C. Burleigh reviewed the U.E.L. Memorial Park project. During the year just closed considerable progress was made in the implementation of the objective announced on June 30, 1957, by the Hon. Leslie M. Frost Q.C., during the dedication ceremony of the granting of the first U.E. Loyalist burying ground in the Province of Ontario, in which he initiated the creation of a U.E.L. Tatham Company Offers $2,900,000 Land Trade to Town Council

TRENTON — The Tatham Construction Company offered to trade the VanAlstine gravel pit for 18 acres of town-owned property north of the 401 highway, Jack Tatham, manager of the company attended the council meeting to back up a letter the company had sent to the town.

The original request had been for 22 acres, but Mr. Tatham said they had had a board meeting the afternoon and had decided the minimum they could get along with would be 18 acres. He said the area would be used for rock crushing and gravel washing.

They had picked this site because of its nearness to the 401 highway and Glen Miller Street where they would be able to draw an unlimited supply of water.

The letter stated the gravel pit would be exhausted of gravel in the next two years but once they were finished there and had put the proper slopes to the banks of it, it would have a natural look that the town could put it to. One of the suggested uses was an area for sports, and even a bathing beach or boat shelter.

However they amplified on a suggestion to use it for a sanitation land fill scheme in this line it was said it would take about 100 years to fill, but if the population of the town continuation-wise, at its present rate, then it would probably take only 50 years to fill. The company said they felt it would cost the town about $200,000 to duplicate a place such as this for any of the purposes mentioned.

The company also stated they would like to have the land north of the 401 right away and still have the right to complete the hauling of gravel from the pit until it was finished then they would sign it over to the town. They said the rock crushing plant would employ about 20 men.

CAN GET NO HELP

Councillor Worrell asked about the former agreement that this area would be part of a scenic drive along the Trent River and he was informed this could be done if the towns along the route paid for it, but apparently can get no help from the government along this thought, as far as money was concerned.

The council was told the area was zoned under the Planning By-Law as M-1 and M-2 which qualified it for heavy industry. There was a strip along the river which was zoned as a park area but it was explained this was a roadway and would not affect the Tatham Company's plans.

Acting Mayor Lange said he had talked with Mr. Tatham on the trade and had been told the company would go along with less than the 22 acres. He suggested the matter be up at a committee to go into it with the Tatham Company and bring a report back. Councillor Cowan want them (the Tatham Company) in town," said the acting mayor.

It was decided that the Public Works committee, with the chairmanship of Councillor Lloyd Weese would be given authorities appointed for this project and would include the town engineer, Eric Alderney.

Fire Trucks, Police Cruisers To Be Covered

TRENTON — A recommendation to the town council by Councillor Lloyd Weese that certain fire trucks and the police cruisers by covered by collision insurance was accepted by the town fathers at their last regular meeting.

The matter was brought up in a letter to the town from Frascan Insurance Insurance Company concerning the truck insurance for collision coverage only. The insurance agent felt that if the town set the coverage at $250 deductible instead of the present they would save a considerable amount of money.

In the past all town vehicles have been covered with collision insurance which also in-

Council Turns Down Offer by Weese Motors

TRENTON — An offer from Weese Motors to buy a lot across their present stand on Front Street was turned down at a special meeting of the town council held in the board rooms of the municipal building last night.

The application for the purchase was made by Councillor Lloyd Weese who offered the town $8,000 for the 66-foot by 120-foot lot to be used for the displaying of second-hand cars.

Speaking on the matter Councillor Vaip Lange reminded the council that when they had purchased that land along with the municipal parking lot there had been a lot of criticism over the purchase. He said in his own opinion he didn't see how they could justify selling it at this time. He felt that some day it should be made into another parking lot as the present one on Front Street was filled to capacity on Fridays and Saturdays.

Councillor Lange said that he thought the reason why they were leasing it to the Weese Motors until the town wanted it for parking purposes was to help them support any motion to sell it.

Mayor Ben Burrows said he was also opposed to selling the land but would go along with council if they should decide to sell it for a year at a time. The mayor said that the reason why most of the lot couldn't be metered and put into use for the town all through summer was because of etc., would have to be done to it.

Councillor Cowan said that he opposed the selling of it and asked Councillor Weese if he was prepared to lease it from the town and if it would be suitable for his purpose.

Councillor Weese said that if the town fixed it up and cribbed in the land along the side of Front Street River and asked a reasonable price per foot he would like to him. He said he would like to purchase it but if the council decided not to sell it there, would be no hard feelings.

The council then decided to turn the matter over to the town's Traffic Committee to see if the land was needed and would have the town engineer find out how much it would cost to have it filled in made suitable for parking.

The sale of four lots on the north side of Kidd avenue was given a second reading at the council meeting and the land will go to James Hennessy and Donald A. Galloway.

Included the trucks used by the public works department.

Acting Mayor Vaip Lange suggested raising all trucks to the $250 category, except the cruisers, which would be insured about $600 per year in insurance. Councillor Cowan then said "it will be safe enough if we don't have any accidents."

It was at this point Councillor Weese made his recommendation in these lines: I wish have the policy of the town to protect the vehicles with insurance. He said there has been no accidents with the works department's trucks that he knows of.

Town engineer Eric Alderney said the town could save money out of the town limits at a maximum of ten times during the year and he felt that with the town old rust travel at a very low rate of speed.

Councillor Lloyd Worrell said he felt it was a very good idea and Councillor Howard Aziz said perhaps it would be best to check on the difference between the price of insuring all the trucks and just the fire trucks and cruisers and if there was not too much difference then he felt it would be best to insure them all.

He said mayor Lange said the town has a total of 12 vehicles and would be a saving of about $1,000 if it considered the council they were only talking of collision insurance and the public liability insurance would still be carried on all town vehicles.

Council Approves All Motions of Traffic Com.

TRENTON. — Six to eight more meters in the Market Square - was recommended by Councillor Lloyd Weese, chairman of the Trenton Traffic Committee at the last regular meeting of the town council.

Councillor Weese said that at a recent meeting of the committee members they had decided that a lack of meters along the present island at the fire hall and the sidewalk on the south east corner of Dundas and could be installed to accommodate the cars which park there now and are usually ticketed by the police department.

The committee did not feel it would hinder driving in and out of the parking area but that perhaps it would improve it.

He also said his committee suggests the installation of a wincomatic at the corner of Elizabeth Street and Front Street, showing the street is one-way and this would eliminate the present detour sign there now. The committee report also suggested a "No Left Turn" sign on Elgin street to keep motorists from turning south on Front. Councillor Weese said the town now owns a wincomatic and that sign and it could be necessary to buy one.

Councillor Weese told the council his committee felt it would be in the safety of pedestrians if the subway from Dundas Street West, past the Belleville Hydro Office which runs along Fraser Park was banned to motors vehicles and the fence was put just left open for pedestrians.

The council approved the recommendations of the traffic committee.

Public Works Dept. to Buy Line Marker

TRENTON — A line marker for cross-walk lines at intersections on the town streets will be purchased by the Public Works Department, it was decided at the last meeting of the council.

In making his report to the council the chairman of the committee, Councillor Lloyd Weese, said that at the present time the work is done by hand and his committee would recommend the purchase of the machine to save time and to do a better job. He told the council that the machine was on display and that it had been budgeted for in the new budget was brought in.

He also recommended that permission be given for the extension of North Scott Street under certain conditions and if the property owners concerned agreed to go it under the Local Improvement Act.

He said the town has received a letter from the consulting consultants, that the Tatham Construction Company will resurface Scott Street, by their asphalt and they have been advised they can do the work within three days of any week between now and June 15.

Councillor Weese was asked the council to approve a change in Scott Street, by the Local Improvement act in that all residents requiring work gone on their lots, at their own homes be charged under the local improvement scheme now in force.

He said the committee felt if the taxpayers wanted sewers they should help pay for them. He informed the council that the residents and these fellows myself."

The council adopted the report in a resolution.

He said the firemen will be trained be Engineers Mo Mitts, Bob Fisher, Frank Zaritsky and Homer Stacey. The firemen will go in pairs at different times of the year and their training will double up in their duties so it will be some time before all these extra help while the firemen are away. He said the firemen will be required to pay their expenses but the money will be refunded at a later date by the government.

Merchants Want By-Law With 'No Loopholes'

TRENTON — Ian Darling was elected to the post of secretary at the last meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association held in the Quinte Lounge of the Trenton Country Club on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Darling replaces the former secretary, who has moved away from Trenton. Seven new candidates nominated for the post declined, leaving the job open for Mr. Darling.

During their business meeting the merchants discussed the new by-law now before the council with the help of the council and the town solicitor, with the idea that a by-law with no "loopholes" be sought.

Chairman John Lyttle told the group the present by-law would be in effect until the end of the stores breaking it wanted to battle it in court. Mrs. Hartman, who owns a grocery store on the corner of Dundas West and Lorne Street, also felt that they should be allowed to remain open the same as bigger stores just outside the town limits.

Ben Menard told the merchants he can easily remember when they were fighting to get the present by-law in force and now it would appear as though the pendulum is swinging the other way going back to that again. He said he felt that a good by-law is needed and it would cover the stores in town and keep them in line. As for the stores just outside of town limits, there was nothing which could be done by the town, he said. Chants to make them have the same by-laws as Trenton.

The merchants did not favor the proposal that stores should stay open on Wednesday afternoon if there was a holiday during the week and the merchants favor the closing of stores the day after New Year's which passed in December with the mayor to get in touch with the president of the Retail Merchants' Association before the year.

May Sell Land Near Armouries For Housing

TRENTON — Councillor Claude Graham told the council last night that he could get a good price for the land near the armouries which was returned to Trenton some time ago by the Federal Government.

The property is ideal for a housing project and the town had been made an offer for it some time ago by former councillor Joe Gould, but they had decided not to sell it at that time because it was being considered as a suitable site for the building of another fire station to serve the east side of the river.

Councillor Graham brought the matter up to council again and said he had been approached by contractors who had offered a good price for it all and was anxious to put a bid in to the town for it if they were going to put it up for sale.

The council was reminded that during the budget discussions they had decided to divide the property up into lots and would not invested in this way it was felt they could make a considerable amount of money on them. However they also were of the opinion that if they were to sell it all at that time and the same amount it would be the same thing as far as the sanitation land was concerned. The price the town has placed on these lots was not revealed at this council meeting.

The statement on the lots came up during the Sanitation and Wastes committee's report by Councillor William Bradshaw. The councillor in his report told the council his committee had agreed to accept the tender for culvert pipes as bid by the Allen Construction Company. He said the supplies were to renew the present ends on these pipes and that it was not an additional expense and had been budgeted for.

RECOMMEND SALE

He said his committee also recommended the sale of some equipment that had no use for to the Fairbanks and Morris Company for the sum of $1,000.

In speaking on the sale Councillor Lloyd Worrell asked if it was not possible to sell the pumps to the Dye works if they were going to install this water line from the Bay of Quinte at the same time as new sewer was put in by the town. The council decided this should be looked into and the Dye Works asked about it.

Councillor Bradshaw speaking on the sewer issue at the Dye Works said his committee would recommend that this council meet with the officials of the plant when the plans for the new sewer line are completed and discuss them and draw up the necessary agreement to be laid by committee felt the larger sewer line would eliminate the trouble at this plant in overflowing the present line.

At the former council meeting the town fathers had been told that the sewer was now getting too small to handle the waste water coming from the plant and that every water coming off the street at the same time. Councillor Bradshaw was to extra water the line could handle the plant water satisfactorily. Larger pipe would eliminate this suggestion and prevent the backup of sewer water when a rain storm was in progress.

The council adopted the report of the committee made by the Sewage and Wastes Removal committee.

The meeting also decided it would support a drive to approach other organizations in town about the forming of a Community Chest in Trenton. Most merchants say they were getting tired of making several donations during the year and would much rather make one big one and then not be bothered with any more during the year.

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX DROPS

The consumer price index declined again during March. This was the fifth month in a row in which the index had moved lower.

Some will find this fact hard to reconcile with talk about the danger of inflation.

But -

The total decline for the five months was less than a single point in the index.

Of the five sub-indices making up the main index, four rose in March. The cost of shelter, clothing, household operations and other commodities and services all increased. Only the cost of food declined.

When figures for the month of April are released, an increase in the index is almost certain to be reported. This will reflect price increases resulting from the Federal budget. In part, but only in part, these price increases will represent taxes. But, as Prime Minister Diefenbaker has complained, some prices have been increased by more than was necessary to offset the higher taxes.

The first effect of the budget will thus be inflationary, which will appear strange since taxes were increased in an effort to meet the threat of inflation. This initial rise, however, should not spark further increases in the months ahead; indeed, some of the tax increases may eventually exert deflationary pressure, since they will reduce buying power of the public. The chief value of the tax increases, though, will be in alleviating the danger that the government might be forced to increase the monetary supply in order to meet its bills. The consumer price index figures, it would appear, put the inflationary threat in its proper light, as something which was in danger of taking place if deficit financing continued at the level of the past year, rather than as a menace already moving to engulf us. A drop of nine-tenths of a point in the consumer index in five months may not offer much relief for the family budget, but it does not suggest that a runaway inflation is already rolling.

MERCY KILLINGS

Dr. Maurice Millard, a 58-year-old general practitioner of Burton-on-Trent, England, has admitted giving a lethal drug to "a devoted Christian lady" suffering from cancer, after she had requested him to do so.

Dr. Millard is a member of the Euthanasia Society, founded by his father.

Euthanasia, or "mercy-killing," is a highly controversial topic.

Actually opinions regarding it fall into not two, but three groups. There are those who favor permitting medical men to assist incurable patients to die, under proper safeguards. There are those who oppose mercy-killing as indistinguishable from murder. And there are those like Dr. Donald Soper, a leading British Methodist minister, who says that he favors "allowing people to die, rather than keeping them alive, but that is a different thing." This middle-ground viewpoint, that doctors are under no obligation to prolong life when this means no more than painful suffering, has received increased public support lately, amongst those endorsing it being some prominent authorities of the Catholic Church, which has taken an adamant stand against mercy-killings.

There is just one difficulty with the theory that it is permissible to permit people to die, while it is not permissible to cause them to do so. We presume, of course, that doctors would only allow a person to die after that person had expressed a wish to do so. If a person has the right of choosing whether to live as long as possible, or to die sooner than inevitable, is there any logical dividing line between what is permissible and what is not permissible? If the patient can decide not to take a life-prolonging drug, can he also decide not to take life-prolonging food? Is he to be permitted to hasten death by exertion, and what is the essential difference between such an action and the drinking of poison? All these moral questions may appear very simple to some persons, but we confess they do not seem at all simple to us.

PLAYMATES OF LONG AGO

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Playmates of the Long Ago,
When the shades of night fall low
Once again to you I come,
Barefoot boy with broken drum;
Once again I seem to stray
Blithely down the paths of May.
Playmates of the Long Ago,
Laughing, chatting with you there,
Playing baseball on the square,
Wandering with line and pole
To our favorite fishing hole;
Now, where are you, I would know,
Playmates of the Long Ago.

Back again they come in dreams,
Playmates by the running streams,
Boys I romped with, girls I kissed
Swarm about me from the mist
Of the years that quick have flown,
Still I claim them for my own;
Some are sleeping 'neath the hill,
But in day-dreams living still;
Some perhaps are trouble-worn—
Just as I am—but I scorn
Thoughts that wrong has laid one low,
Playmates of the Long Ago.

Track Curve Of Baseball

New York Herald Tribune

Every once in a while somebody writes an article "proving" that a baseball doesn't curve — that it's only an optical illusions. Well these optical illusions have broken many fingers in their time, as a catcher reached for a pitch and just suddenly left its straight and narrow path, and they have unleashed some mighty oaths as batters smote mere air instead of the veering ball.

Now we have it on the authority of the Department of Commerce that the curve is not only a scientific fact, but that a ball can curve as much as 17.2 inches. (Lapses into this pitch as the "roundhouse.") The author of the report is physicist Leyman J. Brigg, who was head of the National Bureau of Standards for twelve years, directed much of the initial research into the "Magnus" effect, and has been a baseball fan ever since he played outfield for Mechanic Arts High in the 1880s.

Dr. Briggs made his experiments in the Commerce Department to find "the relationship of spin to deflection," this being one of the chief factors in the ballistics at low speeds. By "deflection" he means "curve" as any scientist would know and any baseball fan wouldn't. He found that the widest curve is attained by a ball thrown at 100 feet a second, or about 68 miles per hour.

That's practically a lob, comparable to Satchel Paige's record pitch of 98.6 m.p.h. in 1947, and it is just about the speed that compensates her various creatures. For the pitcher who is not blessed with Feller's speed can confound the batter instead with "curl ball" or "stuff" or "junk." The ball that curves 17.5 inches is spinning at 1,800 revolutions per minute (as opposed to Feller's 1,200), and it approximates as if this kind of pitch will take the full minute and all 1,800 revolutions to be completed before it reaches it's a relief, now that the baseball curve has been put to rest, to have this scientist mystery confirmed by science once and for all. For the curve is not a curve what can a man — or boy — believe in.

Seeking End Of Hangovers

Cleveland Plain Dealer

At first glance, "hangover, less" whisky sounds like just what the doctor ordered. On second thought, however, the dangers inherent in such a recipe become strongly apparent.

Fear of a hangover — that miserable, headachey, upsetstomached feeling which follows overindulgence, is what keeps a good many people from drinking too much. Remove all fear of a hangover, and the obvious result is going to be more and more drunks.

However, research into the chemicals that give whiskies and other spirituous drinks flavors and aromas, announced recently in Boston by Dr. Robert Chenoweth, a research chemist involved in producing hangover-less whisky, a whisky which lifts the spirits slightly, but never makes a fellow drunk. Something like . . . coffee' — or tea!

Just as important than a whisky which does not produce a hangover, is a whisky which lifts the spirits slightly, but never makes a fellow drunk. Something like . . . coffee' — or tea!

DON'T THROW HAPPINESS AWAY

Some people throw happiness away with both hands. They have love, opportunity, fine heredity, good health — the makings of a happy life. But because they lack self-control, or have a jealous spirit, or nurse a grudge, or love pleasure too much, they cast all the chances of happiness away in exchange for some bauble, some tinseled toy not worth the having.

It very often happens that married couples, because they grossly dislike some little failing in each other, destroy the possibility of deep and abiding happiness. People who have been friends for years sometimes disagree over some petty matter and become bitter strangers to each other. Many a boy who has had everything under the sun given to him and who should be a great success in life, has cast all away in the pursuit of some low life of pleasure. Jealousy has ruined many persons' careers. Judas Iscariot, for thirty pieces of silver, cast out a man who loved him; and many are those who have soothed at love and trampled it under foot, that they might gain riches.

Why do we cast away our treasure so recklessly? Why are we so prone to empty our hearts of all that is worth while with dross? It is easy to throw happiness away, but happiness thrown away is as hard to pick up as spilled water.

"We're fishing for 'loud mouth bass'."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 8th, 1929

Building permits issued so far at the city hall during the present month of May have been to Jamse Fairley for an addition to residence; to J. W. Howard for alterations to apartments at St. Agnes Manor; and to Superior Cleaners for addition to plant on North Front Street.

Residence of the good old days when residents of this city were thrilling to the overseas exploits of the Belleville Kiltie Band, an old sign that bears the inscription in faded gold letters "Office of the Belleville Kilties Band," was unearthed the other day by workmen in an attic of a Front Street building that was formerly housed the Dominion Hotel.

Mrs. E. J. Schrieder and Mrs. H. R. Martin have returned to the city after spending a week in Toronto.

Donald A. McKinney of the Martin Funeral Home staff left yesterday for Toronto to conclete his course in Embalming held at the Bar Lake Institute, University of Toronto, for a period of one month.

Miss Athol Beatty and Miss Louise Cowan of Toronto were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Runnells, of Patterson Street.

Mrs. Roy Gibson and little daughter Diane, Albert Street, are visiting friends in Chatham.

May 8th, 1923

Our city fathers went out after industries in a big way three years ago. Here is an advertisement which appeared in 1893 in several leading newspapers: "Business To Manufacturer." The city of Belleville offers inducements to manufacturers seeking a location. Besides its situation on the bay, it is in the centre of the wealthiest agricultural district in Ontario, and possessing superior facilities for shipping by water, it is the principal terminus of the Midland Railway System, which gives quick despatch to several points on the Georgian Bay and through the Lake Ontario district and beyond the Muskoka district. It is also the most important station between Montreal and Toronto on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway. Besides the natural advantages for manufacturing operations the city offers inducements to parties seeking location, such as exemption from taxes, free site for building and money on easy terms and conditions. Communications received by the undersigned, D. R. Richardson, City Clerk.

May 8th, 1913

At a meeting of the city council last night considerable business was transacted. Mayor Platt and all the aldermen were present. The chief object of the meeting was to consider new tenders for the collection of garbage for a term of one year. A reconsideration that Thomas Hendrick be given the contract at a cost of $5.000 was unanimously adopted. A motion prevailed that, asphaltic concrete walks be constructed on Campbell Street between Front and Pinnacle Streets. The Board of Education was requested by motion to consent to the city the old school building and grounds in Pinnacle Street. C. I. White and F. G. Deake were appointed to act on the Housing Commission together with the mayor, and a by-law will be prepared for that purpose.

50 YEARS AGO

Recently the officers of the Canadian Society of Stationary Engineers was formed in this city and the following are the newly elected officers were installed by W. McGill, of Toronto, who is chairman of the Board of Examiners for the Province of Ontario. The officers are as follows: past president, H. Chesbire; president, S. H. Chesbire; vice-president, C. J. Peppin; financial secretary, W. Cook; treasurer, F. Davies; conducter, J. Davidson; doorkeeper, J. Ketcheson. At the close of the meeting the members adjourned to the Queen's Hotel where a banquet was served and a program of speeches and songs was enjoyed.

Languages Trade Words

Hamilton Spectator

It may be a credit to the Russian people that they have no word in their language that describes swindle as used in the English word "hoolizan" and the "bunco" of the States, but the lack of an aspirate the word in Russian becomes "gooligan" and as such has settled down comfortably in its new environment.

There is a commerce in words that jumps frontiers and trade routes. Sailors on the Lascar watchdogs who stand on guard to keep languages free from foreign contamination, have their forts are wasted. Foreign words insist on getting passage in unknown guests and stay on to enjoy unquestioned respectability. If we had not borrowed "bungalow" from Hindustani we might have been hard-pressed to find a briefer way of describing a one-floor house. If we had not borrowed "veranda" from the same source we might be using "stoop" (Dutch) more often than we do, but then we should be thanking the South African Dutch instead of the Indians.

There are few nations more language proud than the French. They have injected English with a host of words, would find it extremely difficult to get along without them. They might have a wardrobe, but would it be quite so satisfying as a trousseau, or a dressing room as the car if it were not for the "lavabo" which one finds where we dine, a restaurant, a cafe or a hotel, we have to thank the French for the name for a good deal of these places of gastronomic pleasure.

Now the word-traffic is travelling in the opposite direction and we find, according to the New York Herald Tribune, that such words as "garage" have become the fashion in Paris. The Office of French Linguistics has had to issue a decree against the use of the purity of the language in which it has been slyly admitting some of its deficiencies by borrowing from abroad. Even Chicago with its gangland slang has accustomed the Parisians to certain terms. They pace our way through life.

I am amused at the loyalty and friendliness of Fido, out for a walk. He is glad to be with his master and friend keep close, and when his master travels too fast, he will keep looking to see if he is in sight and know he loves him.

Has Society This Right?

Vancouver Sun

A girl coming into the selfconsciousness of teen age looks in the mirror one day and finds that what she sees there does not please her. After long hours of scrutiny, she decides that her hair is the offender. Blonde hair would be much better, would get off her features as her own mousey hair does not. So, Mother probably grudgingly, she resorts to the peroxide.

Now, as a blonde, the girl likes herself much better. She is happier. Unfortunately, she gets into trouble, the trouble that often brings her into court before a magistrate. As part of her punishment, the girl must allow that bleached hair to grow out, to return to its natural color.

Now, the magistrate may be quite right. He obviously believes that the girl has not the stamina of the kind of life which got her into trouble. But it opens up some interesting questions.

First, and most inconclusively, we must wonder: Did the bleached hair bring her into the fell companionship which led her into trouble, or did her return to natural color? And if she does not like herself, the way she looks naturally, is it fair to force her to come to terms with society? When is the aspiring artist forced that maker her no longer like the way she looks?

A lot of clever women, staying away from former companions, submitting now boy friends to society's approval, are slaves to restrictions which can be borne without suffering by the weak. But the hair business interferes with the girl's idea of herself. There is actually an element of magic involved, which room to room, that has been known to accept its parity to blame for her trouble.

What has society the right to tamper with one's opinions of oneself? Especially has society the right to make one dislike oneself?

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

HEART COMPARED TO A COMMON WATER PUMP

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please write an article on congenital heart. Is it serious, and can anything be done about it?

— Mrs. K. Z."

A "congenital heart" is one that has had something wrong with it from birth. It isn't a matter of something having happened to it later. It developed with a flaw from the beginning — just as having six fingers, or a cleft palate, or a "birthmark," or some other unusual characteristic is a "congenital" defect.

A heart is essentially a pump — and a marvelously efficient one, too. Let's compare it to an ordinary water pump.

Of course the heart is more complex and more delicate, since a mechanical pump needs new "leathers" or valves, and other repairs, and a heart can keep on pumping for a hundred years or more.

A mechanical pump usually has two chambers, the upper one which lifts the water, and the lower one which is filled by the suction of each stroke.

A heart has four chambers, connected to one another by valves.

If, in a mechanical pump, there is a leak so that water flows freely from one chamber into the other, you can do a lot of pumping yet not get much water. Likewise, if the valves won't close tight, or if the same valves won't open wide enough, the pump's efficiency will be lessened.

It may pump, but not very well. Or it may not pump at all. It depends on the degree to which the valve is impaired.

Or if, in the pipe running down into the ground, there is a place that is partly clogged, and will let the water leak through, you can pump pretty hard yet not get much in the way of results.

All of these things are quite comparable to a "congenital heart."

DEFECT IN CHAMBER

There may be a hole (large or small) in the wall which separates one chamber from another. This is an "interventricular defect" or an "inter-atrial defect," depending on which chambers are involved.

A valve may be too small, or for some other reason not work properly.

Or in some of the blood vessels which are part of the heart's efficient system, sometimes there is an extra connection which short-circuits the blood flow, so a given amount of blood has to be pumped several times instead of just once.

Is a congenital heart serious? It depends on whether it is a big one or a little one. Small flaws may not be detected at all, or not until later in life, and merely interfere with maximum efficiency. Others are critical and must be repaired soon or not at all.

I noted in the papers last winter an account of a young man — a boxer who found he had a congenital heart that needed repairing. He had an operation on it. He not only came through nicely, but he has since gone back to professional boxing!

A congenital heart sometimes should be left alone, sometimes must be treated surgically, sometimes is in the in-between region of "maybe," and sometimes — more often than not — often these days — is to be counted as one which probably will be very much improved by surgery. There are thousands of American children (some grown and married by now) who have been born with defective hearts. In any particular case, your own doctor will have to decide what to do. But don't lost hope at the words "congenital heart." Find out about the case. Moderate tests can give you a fairly sure answer.

Note to Mrs. G. J. S.: We don't know why some children have been born with cleft palate, any more than we know why some have six fingers or why some are epileptic.

Note to Mr. P. S.: Milk certainly never causes diabetes! Your eating habits, as you describe them, sound very good.

Why does one have sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in an article on "Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive this article in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 138, Dunellen, N.J., enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Bide old myself, within three jumps of the Biblical allotment. I can't break with disrespect or with elderly without prejudice. And I can't help wondering why we keep on appointing old men to the middle distance to die on earth at a time like this. When the President of France paused a day or two before he chose Christian Herter to succeed Dulles, I was tempted to write him a line to haul off and appoint somebody in his middle forties. Is he not? Must we forever reward men for growing old? Have old men got something at sixty that they did not have at forty?

I think not. Christian Herter probably got where he is by being good at sixty. Let him run down in our minds all the brilliant and successful men we have known, and remember that they were not as good, at sixty, better, at forty than they are or were at seventy. The chances are you will get the same result I get. And that is that few men add anything to their powers after the age of forty.

But by the time they are forty, they have proved their powers, they naturally want to hang on. Indeed, the prize between forty and seventy are the rewarding years for all the effort, the discipline, the self-denial, the individual and social sacrifice undoubtedly the responsibility of old men since old men have rules, advised and counselled us these tangled fifty years past.

Hitler hanged himself! Were they old when they got loose on us? No. But might not younger men have found a better solution than to encounter them.

Soft Drink Firm Safe Smashed; Dairy Entered

Safe-crackers last night forced their way into Seven-Up Ontario Ltd. at 118 Station St. and after breaking open the safe escaped with approximately $200 in cash, it was reported today by city police.

Police Chief Walter Probert said the safe was not blown but had been opened with sledge and chisels.

Police also reported a break-in at the Rokiln Dairy where intruders looked around and then were apparently frightened away. Nothing was reported missing.

A parked car was forced open on a Front St. hotel parking lot. It was not known immediately if anything was missing.

New Members Are Required

The Hastings County Historical Society is now launching a campaign for members.

Society president Gerald Boyce said today that notices are being sent out to prospective members, and present members are being asked to recircuit new members.

He explained that the Society needs more members if it is to continue and expand its work of encouraging the preservation and study of local history.

Last year, the newly organized society had about thirty members. It is hoped to triple that number before the annual meeting on May 19.

The Society is also asking for donations of historical articles, such as old local newspapers, posters, correspondence, account books, etc.

Persons interested in joining the Society ($1.00) should either attend the May 19 annual meeting at Shire Hall (which will be addressed by Queen's University professor A. R. M. Lower) or send their membership fee to the Society at 236 George Street.

Donations of historical materials can also be made in either of these ways.

Derailed Boxcar Hits Flyer At Cobourg, 3 Passengers Cut

Three passengers of the Toronto-Montreal Canadian National Railways flyer were treated at Belleville for minor cuts Thursday evening after the side of the speeding passenger train was brushed by a derailed boxcar just east of Cobourg.

The pool train was held up at Belleville for about 20 minutes while railway carmen inspected the train for any possible damage, and while a local doctor boarded the train to treat the injured passengers.

Divisional Superintendent A. R. Wilson of Belleville said the three passengers suffered only very minor cuts, presumably from broken glass.

He said only superficial damage resulted to the train and the complete train finished the trip to Montreal.

The accident occurred near the No. 2 highway crossing a mile east of Cobourg as the passenger train was speeding toward Belleville.

A boxcar on a passing freight on the other line of the double track became derailed, and brushed the last 11 passenger coaches on the diver-

The train continued on to Belleville without stopping. Here the train was inspected and the doctor went on board to treat the passengers with cuts.

The track on which the derailment occurred was cleared by track crews 6½ hours after the accident at 5:30 p.m. EDT, and traffic was moving normally shortly after midnight.

Injured were: Rev. W. P. Bretton of Toronto, back injuries; Rev. E. Blanchard of Montreal, bruised shoulder and arms; and Joseph Winstein of Los Angeles, back injuries.

CNR officials said the engine and first five cars of the passenger train missed the derailed car, which had turned sideways across an adjacent track, but the last 11 cars clipped it. One window was broken and paint was scraped from the sides of the cars.

The derailed car was part of freight No. 411, westbound about 50 miles east of Toronto when the accident happened. Cause of the derailment was not known.

Phone Company To Open School Next Monday

Next Monday The Bell Telephone Company of Canada will open a permanent school in Belleville to train young engineers from all parts of its territory in Ontario and Quebec.

Announcing the opening, Grant W. Proctor, Bell manager here, said a pilot class will run through May and June, with regular classes of eight weeks duration starting in September.

The engineering school is located in the company's former manual exchange building on Pinnacle Street, which has been completely renovated in preparation for its new role.

Designed to train young engineers in all facets of engineering department and company procedure, the school will be under the direction of Staff Engineer Eric C. Brake, of Montreal, who along with his top aides, will locate in Belleville.

Mr. Brake said the first class would consist of 25 young graduate engineers from Ontario and Quebec. Subsequent classes, while primarily for new engineering employees, will be open to anyone of the more than 2,700 engineering department employees who it is felt can benefit from the training.

Mr. Brake, went on to explain that Belleville had been selected as the site of the new school because of its central location in the company's territory, the availability of adequate accommodation locally and the fact that the city provides a suitable environment for an undertaking of this type.

Mr. Brake said the new school enables Bell Telephone to meet a long-felt need.

"This Engineering school will provide a more comprehensive effective and economical training ground for engineers new to the company. In addition, it will make possible technical courses for longer-service engineers as new technological developments are introduced," he said.

"The basic job of the school, is to improve the young engineer's knowledge of the company and the overall work of the department and also familiarize him in the fundamentals of telephone engineering," Mr. Brake concluded.

One engineer attached to the Belleville office will be among the 25 selected to take part in the pilot class. He is Jean Marc Gigueres.

Others will come from Montreal, Toronto, Oshawa, Hamilton, Quebec City and Sherbrooke.

PROMOTED IN EGYPT — Craftsman Robert Armstrong of Belleville was recently promoted to the rank of Corporal. He is a member of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers serving with the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East. — (National Defence Photo).

Treasurer John Henderson reported this total at the monthly meeting of the BUA board of directors, held last night at the Assembly Room of the Ontario Hydro Building, Dundas St. He added money from payroll deductions is coming in to Appeal headquarters at the rate of $2,000 a month.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of president, Mrs. Jane Forrester and routine business was carried out.

Reports from all officers were read. Campaign chairman E. G. Gurnett stated he was pleased with the progress of the organization of the 1959 Belleville United Appeal campaign. He said it was "well-advanced", but added much remains to be done, and urged division chairmen to complete their respective tasks as soon as possible so this year's campaign can be even more successful than last year's.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

MARRIAGE NOTICE

REID—BARTLETT — On Saturday May 2 1959 at Holloway Street United Church, Bellville by the Rev. C.W. Coleman Carol Thelma only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bartlett to John Harvie Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Reid, Bellerville. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reid, Scarborough Ontario.

Mrs. William J. Wilson of Toronto, has received word that her only sister Mrs. William McDiarmid, Dundas, Scotland, is sailing on the Empress of Britain, May 15th, for a four months' visit. They have not seen each other for 50 years.

Holloway WMS Hears Talk on Our Neighbors

Holloway St. United Church WMS held its May meeting in the church parlors with a fine attendance of 50 members and visitors. Mrs. Townsend, the president, extended a gracious welcome and gave a short meditation and prayer, "To Feel God's Presence."

Mrs. Townsend also conducted the business; that it was decided to have a tea early in June with a committee of the presidents and vice-president.

A nominating committee of Mrs. C. Holmes, Mrs. Elgy and Mrs. Burrows was appointed to bring in the slate of officers for next year.

The various secretaries gave reports. Mrs. Johns spoke on Building advance; Mrs. Scott on cards; Mrs. Johnson, literature and Mrs. Brown the bale.

Mrs. Phillips, treasurer, reported $270 sent to Presbyterial treasurer for the first quarter with 50 fees paid to date.

Mrs. Kilbank and her group took charge of the program with the subject "Neighbors." Mrs. Kilbank gave a fine meditation on "Discovering Your Neighbor" and call to worship. "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your mind and your neighbor as yourself." NO, Brother Man! Fold to Thy Heart Thy Brother" and the hymn used.

Mrs. Cook read the Scripture Lesson, Luke 10: 24-32, the parable of the good Samaritan.

Mrs. Kilbank said in part, "Only this text, "Who is thy neighbor?" comes a number of things to think about. It is nearing Mother's Day and it would do us all good to think long and seriously about the member what being a good neighbor meant before we had all modern conveniences with telephone, doctors, nurses and hospitals ready to help in time of sickness.

"Any case of illness meant all the neighbors were concerned. Mothers were often called to help in an emergency. Being a mother not only meant mothering her own family, but always ready to help a neighbor.

"As time went on our mothers grew interested in their less fortunate neighbors in the dark lands of India, Africa and the Far East. Thus the Women's Missionary Society came into being. Jesus did not say they must be our race, color or creed. He tells us we are to fulfill the 'Golden' needs. Men and nations will be judged simply, on the basis of their response to human needs, caring for the hungry, for strangers, the sick and imprisoned. Even enemies are to be forgiven because God loved them."

Mrs. Green and Mrs. Cavanah received the offering which was dedicated.

Mrs. Townsend favored with a lovely solo, "Little Bare Feet."

Mrs. Rolut and Mrs. Johnson each syncopized a chapter of the study book with Mrs. Rolut speaking on Hawaii and Mrs. Johnson on the Caribbean. Our concern is to share the concern of our neighbors.

The group in charge served a cup of tea and sandwiches and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Holmes announced a special meeting of the W.M.S. to meet in Holloway St. Church on Wednesday, May 13th. Guest speakers will be Miss Mary Thomas and Miss E. Harland, students of the United Church Training School. This meeting will centre around the work of younger groups.

Bay of Quinte United W.A.'s Meet in St. Andrew's, Brighton

By MRS. W. G. MACLEAN

With the theme "Faith for Today," the eighth annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference Women's Association of the United Church of Canada was held in Trinity-St. Andrew's Church, Brighton, this week, the president, Mrs. W. C. Ives presiding.

"Does the Church Challenge You?" was the subject of a morning address by Mrs. C. H. Searle, corresponding secretary of the Toronto Council of the W.A. Pointing out that the census showed 2,407,846 persons adhering to the United Church, while church records show 855,303 members on the rolls, she set forth a searching survey as to reasons given by individuals for the difference in figures of those not actively participating in the work of the church:

1. Are church organizations not doing sufficiently important work to capture the imagination of such people? Have we too much trivia?

2. Is the church really working where the people are?

3. Should we have another hard look at church organizations setup?

4. Are the church take the whole blame? Is the church entirely to blame?

Reasons for non-participation included such as: "No one asked me"; "I went to some meetings but they were too boring — now I just seek and worship"; "Members are older people and like to do things as they have been done"; The church does not spend enough to meet people's needs"; (the church spends all the money given it) "Most of the women do not talk about anything but social problems — they want to be confessors."

CHURCH CLIQUES

Finally, "There is so much pettiness and gossip and cliques in church groups that I don't want to be exposed," led the speaker to say, "and I think you, too, don't let this thing get into any local church—cliques are unchristian — and pettiness and meanness are unchristian — If we repeat a thing that is not true, that is gossip; there is so much that is worthwhile, why tear somebody down; get your loyalty to your church, leave your differences there and don't carry the bitterness in your soul fi shows in your face."

Mrs. Searle stated that the essential goal, the central role of the church, is to bring men to God and to fellow-men; the church is used by all for marriage and baptism.

We are failing to talk about the things the church does — we must know our church, and do a job of public relations for it. Enlist those people not found in the church's ranks — don't be apologetic about asking them — challenge them!

200 DELEGATES

A registration of 200 delegates showed attendance from all eight Presbyteries. Greetings to the eighth annual meeting of Bay of Quinte Conference W.A. were read from the first annual meeting of the newest Conference of Newfoundland W.A., and also from British Columbia Conference W.A., Manitoba, Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal-Ottawa and the Maritimes Conference W.A., the Communion service was presided over by the pastor, the Rev. R. B. Green.

Following the friendly fellowship of a luncheon served in the church hall by the Brighton W.A., greetings to the Conference W.A. were brought by the Rev. J. F. Lane, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference branch, in which he expressed his delight at seeing the Women's Associations functioning as they do. "In my phases a few years ago most of W.A.'s would get touch now learning something of mission work, growing, widening out.

PAST TASK OF W.A.

To see past the principal task was to look after the parsonage, but now a new vision; he however stated his great disappointment at finding so few women attending Presbytery official meetings. He also challenged women, mothers, to give encouragement rather than disparagement to young members of the family who showed interest in making a career of the church; interest in, and givings to missions is vital work.

An invitation was extended and accepted to hold the semi-annual meeting in the autumn at Trinity United Church, Peterborough. A motion was also passed to enable the conference program to be extended to an additional half day if desired, billeting in the hostess city being arranged for.

SECTOR PLAN

Mrs. Searle, who accompanies her husband in his work as associate secretary of Missionary and Maintenance Council, referred to give information on the Sector plan, now in its fifth year of organization. Beginning with 16 participating churches in the first year of the non-denominational plan, there were 51 churches last year. The encouraging feature is increase over not the only benefit, but for the full manpower of the church it was something to do together; men's clubs have been formed, bridge has been started and those of other areas closer together. The panoramic "Light Of" was displayed for further information.

Miss S. Bennett drew attention to literature shown in her display such as the new constitution and handbook, "Conduct of a Meeting"; "Visiting Senior Adults," The Church and Senior Adults; "You Can't Be Human Without Leadership"; Stewardship in the Life of Women; Keeping up with Teenagers.

PROGRAM PLANNING

Mrs. George Paul of Toronto was asked to speak on program planning in W.A. She stated that a chairman should be appointed and a committee formed of conference, Presbytery and local levels for program planning. The new study Packet for the W.A. year beginning in September is in the hands of the printer. It will contain material for eight meetings, including two on Africa, one that I don't want to be exposed," led the speaker to say, "and I think you, don't let this thing get into any local church—cliques are unchristian — and pettiness and meanness are unchristian — If we repeat a thing that is not true, that is gossip; there is so much that is worthwhile, why tear somebody down; get your loyalty to your church, leave your differences there and don't carry the bitterness in your soul fi shows in your face."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

William T. — Sometimes I think I don't love him anymore.

Ronald T. — I would do anything to make her happy.

Miriam T. — My husband and I were married a year ago after a courtership of six years. I was terribly in love with him and I couldn't give him up even though he told me time and time again that he liked me very much but was not in love with me.

During the years we went together, Ronny took up with a lot of different girls, but he always got bored with them after a while and came back to me.

At last he agreed that we must be destined for each other. The only thing is that after looking forward to marriage to him for so many years, I find it nowhere near as exciting as I had imagined. I have no complaints against him. He is as sweet and considerate as he can but sometimes I think I don't love him anymore.

Ronald T. — Our relationship was really been very strange. I never seriously expected to marry Miriam until the end — even though she always kept saying it was in the cards for us.

Now that we are married and I realize what a wonderful person Miriam is I only regret all the time I wasted running around with other girls. I feel now that I am really in love with her and would do anything to make her happy. But I know that she has not been very happy since we've been married.

It bothers me that Miriam does not have the same interest and enthusiasm she used to bring to everything before our marriage. She always used to think of interesting places to go and was constantly whipping up something special to do.

The Council: When someone who has had enthusiasm for life suddenly loses it, the possibility of a physical cause should always be looked into. Nutritional deficiency or glandular trouble can wreck marriages as effectively as psychological causes.

Barring the possibility of a physical cause, it sounds as though Miriam has been plumb tuckered out by her long race after Ronald. After so many years of it, the race became a thing in itself for her and she forgot all about the goal. With no running to do, she feels as though there is nothing for her any more.

It is also possible that Miriam is the kind of person who enjoys a challenge more than anything else. She should recognize, however, that there is still a big challenge before her — that of making her marriage a success. It calls for at least as much interest in mastering a mate. There is the same need to find new sources of interest and enjoyment. Miriam should be aware that she could emotionally lose the man she has fought so hard to win.

We could say that she may be the kind of person who can only care for someone who does not care for her, but the fact that her husband now finds her "wonderful" and enjoys married life is an indication that she must be giving warmth and affection. Unfortunately, she seems to place less value on this than she did on the excitement of the chase. Perhaps she merely needs to make some shift in the way she looks at things. If she fully believes that companionship and closeness with her husband are among the best things in life, she will feel happier knowing that she has them.

Question: . . . a Honey Cookie with a plain icing over it. I had it once and lost it. It is very good cookie and has a little spice in it. Mrs. E. O.

Answer: Under separate cover I am mailing to you the other requests.

HONEY COOKIE

One and one-half cups butter, 1 cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup honey, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 3 cups sifted flour. Cream butter and brown sugar very well. Add honey and mix thoroughly and add the eggs one at a time mixing well after each addition. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add to the butter-egg mixture. Shape the dough into two rolls and wrap each one in wax paper and chill overnight. Slice very thin and bake on a greased cookie sheet at 400 deg. Fahr. until just turning gold. Watch carefully as they will burn fast. Frost while warm with Icing: One cup sifted confectioners' sugar and 1 to 2 tablespoons milk or cream depending on the consistency you require. Mix well. A few drops lemon juice or vanilla may be added to the flavor.

Question: . . . recipe for a wonderful date squares cookie. Quick oatmeal had not appeared then . . . rolled mixture not crumbs and the usual date filling . . .

M. E. F.

Answer:

OLD FASHIONED DATE OATMEAL SANDWICH:

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 cups rolled oats, 1 cup best grade shortening (or part butter), 1 teaspoon salt dissolved in 1-3 cup milk, 1½ cups brown sugar. Sift all-purpose flour with salt, add the oatmeal and mix. Cut shortening into flour mixture finely, add brown sugar and then the dissolved soda. Mix until well blended. Chill dough (overnight if possible) then roll out to ¼-inch thick. Cut into desired shapes and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. on an ungreased cookie sheet for 12 to 13 minutes. When cookies are cool, put together with Date Filling: One and one-half cups finely chopped dates, ½ cup each sugar and water and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Stir over heat until smooth and thickened. Let cool and then spread between Oatmeal Cookies.

WHEN THEATRE SEATS ARE NOT ALL TOGETHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other evening my husband and I took another couple to the theatre. I had bought the tickets in advance, but didn't notice that they were not together. When we arrived, my husband gave two tickets to the other couple, and he and I sat together. I just happened to mention this to my sister the next day when I was telephoning her about the evening. And she reproves me! — Insisting in no uncertain terms that when the seats are not all together, the host and hostess should not sit together. Where we live, the host and the hostess should sit with the woman guest. She added that when there are two large groups, the hostess should sit with one group, and the host with the other group. Were we right in what we did, or is my sister right in her point of view?

Churches, Families Observe Mother's Day Next Sunday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's 4,000,000 mothers will receap praise and gifts as churches and families observe Mother's Day May 10, the second Sunday in May. The day is also marked in 40 other countries.

Dealers report candy and flowers will again top the wide variety of gifts. According to merchants they'll be purchased, for the most part, during the three days preceding Sunday.

Cards are an important facet of the day. Humor has been added to the varied greetings. Humor, however, is gentle and most cards are strictly sentimental.

Mom is not the only one to be remembered. Mother's Day has become so popular many use the occasion to remember grandmothers, godmothers, aunts and sisters. Mothers-in-law, often the brunt of sharp jokes, are among the recipients of fancy, endearing cards.

Ironically, Mother's Day was founded by a spinster, Anna M. Jarvis, who organized the day primarily to revere her dead mother. Miss Jarvis died in 1948 in a sanatorium outside Philadelphia, heartbroken that her idea had become commercialized.

The first Mother's Day was marked by a memorial service in Miss Jarvis' own home, May 9, 1907, the second anniversary of her mother's death.

In the more than half a century since, the idea has spread from services in a few Philadelphia churches to an international observance. In the United States it is ranked second only to Christmas as a powerful sales-producing event.

As the popularity of the day grew, Anna Jarvis became a bitter, eccentric recluse. She died penniless, blind and deaf.

The official floral emblem, the carnation, was chosen by Miss Jarvis because it was her mother's favorite flower.

Respect for motherhood is almost as old as history itself. The Chinese and ancient Romans were among the first to honor mothers.

The English custom of observing the fourth Sunday in Lent as Mothering Sunday is still widely observed. During the 17th century boys and girls who were away were allowed to go home for the day. In later years, people visited their parish church on the observance of Refreshment Sunday taking flowers and cakes. Many also used the occasion to visit their parents which led to the adoption of these customs, Mothering Sunday grew. Children usually took a small cake as a gift for mothers.

More than 1,000 years ago, the Natuan Indians in Mexico held flower festivals for Chicomehuatl, the Earth Mother Goddess.

As the modern conception of the day spread from city to city in the United States, Congress signed a resolution setting aside the second Sunday of every May as Mother's Day.

Canadians were immediately receptive to the idea and by 1920 observances of Mother's Day had become general.

Household Tasks Are Lightened

The trend toward automation, which is revolutionizing so many industri'l and business operations, is now making rapid headway into the' home, where it is proving equally effective in lightening the work load and conserving time and energy.

Cooking, for instance, becomes infinitely quicker and easier with the new ranges, featuring automatic surface control. This consists of a flat thermostat in the centre of a gas burner or electric unit that can be set by means of a dial to maintain the pan temperature wanted. It adjusts the heat automatically and prevents scorched food, boilovers and burned pans.

There are, indeed, new electric ranges that take over the entire cooking process for either delicate or hearty dishes. With both time and temperature controlled, the can bake, broil, barbecue, boil, stew, french fry, grill and cook foods, as well as permit the housewife to cook on the surface burners.

EASIER TO CLEAN

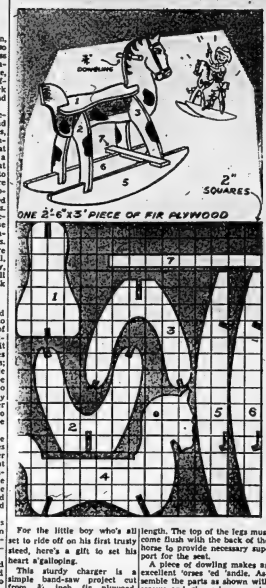
The new ranges, both gas and electric, are much easier to clean than their counterparts of yesteryear. Features contributing to this important benefit are removable knobs, handles and burners or electric units; lift-up range tops; replaceable foil oven liners; lift-up range tops; oven doors that swing to the side or come off completely for cleaning; and an oven liner that rolls out like a drawer to permit the entire oven to be cleaned from above.

Because the new ranges come in more sizes and better shapes than heretofore, the homemaker can readily choose a model that is ideally adapted to her kitchen plan and to the best possible utilization of the available space. Some ranges are squared off to fit flush against wall and cabinets.

The "squared off" look is also a feature of today's version of that other basic piece of kitchen equipment: the refrigerator.

In many models, rounded corners have been eliminated and doors squared off to do away with the old bulging look. Some have no coils in back and thus can fit flush at the rear and line-up at front with adjacent cabinets.

FOOD EASY TO REACH



Food is more accessible in the new refrigerators that are equipped with swing-out shelves, which bring all the food out front and within easy reach with just a flick of the finger; no more groping and fumbling; no more forgetting foods left on the back of the shelf!

The swing-put shelves are completely adjustable, up or down. When more or less space is needed between shelves, you just press a button and simply lift or lower the shelf. The shelves are also quickly removable to leave the entire interior free and clear for easier cleaning.

The new refrigerators are available in a wide range of decorator colors, pastels, charcoals, etc — as well as white.

Dishwashers also have come in for their share of improvements. Available now are models that feature 4-cycle washing and push-button controls. Each push button controls a different type of washing action. For example, there is a gentle wash with low heat for fine china and crystal. A special conditioner takes care of doing the pots and pans.

Sturdy Fir Plywood Rocker-Horse To Thrill Your Boy

For the little boy who's all set to ride off on his first trusty steed, here's a gift to set his heart a'galloping.

This sturdy charger is a simple band-saw project cut from 1 inch fir plywood. Square off a 30 x 36 inch piece of plywood as shown and draw the parts. Cut all interlocking slots with precision and care after you get the main outlines sawn.

Make sure the slots are exactly ¾ inch in width and cut the interlocking slots in the body and legs in identical length. The top of the legs must come flush with the back of the horse to provide necessary support for the seat.

A piece of dowling makes an excellent 'oxes 'ed 'andle. Assemble the parts as shown with screws and glue where required. Sand off the edges.

Left natural with a clear finish or painted in bright enamels, this fir plywood rocker-horse will stand up to plenty of abuse. Addition of bridle, a rope tail, painted-on pinto spots will fill a young cowhand's needs with delight when he spies his first horse.

In Age of Synthetics, Wood Still in Demand for Homes

In an age of plastics, miracle fibres and other synthetics, wood still is man's most "homelike" house building material, in the opinion of New York architect Norman. Cherner.

"Wood is warm, alive, exciting," Cherner says. "Nothing made by man can ever replace it."

Cherner, who designed the International Trade Fair House which attracted thousands of visitors in Vienna, Belgrade and other European cities, adds:

"I refer an element of naturalness in my homes. I agree with Frank Lloyd Wright in that resect, at least. I like things organic, natural. That's why I stress wood siding and millwork in almost all my houses."

The architect also stresses wood windows with wood sliding materials because "wood goes with wood. In fact, I like to go all out and use French doors in town and big banks of windows, with plenty of wood parts for their special eye appeal."

EXTENSION CORD TRICK

Here's a neat trick that keeps extension cords from pulling apart. Slip one end over and half a turn around the end of the other before plugging them together. This forms a loose knot that will hold them fast no matter how hard they are tugged.

How You Can Fix Broken Sash Cords

By ANDREW C. LANG

One of the most common ailments of an ordinary window is a broken sash cord. A handyman adept at many kinds of repair work often will steer clear of attempting to fix one.

There are thousands of homes in the country right now with one or more sash cords in need of repair, and in some cases they have been that way for many years. There must be a reason since the man of the house often will tackle far more difficult repair jobs at the drop of a hat. Perhaps it's because the broken sash cord isn't always in sight and doesn't impress itself upon the mind as something in need of repair.

Most of the time it's the sash cord on the lower window which is broken. The sash must be taken out of the window frame. To do that it is necessary to remove the sash bead, sometimes known as the window stop.

HOW TO REMOVE BAD BEAD

The sash bead is merely the flat wooden molding that runs up and down the side of the window frame. Remove the bead on the side that has the broken cord by prying it carefully with a chisel. A screwdriver can be used, but it is more likely to mar the wood. In removing the bead, work from the bottom upward. You'll find that once the first few inches have been pried loose, the rest will come off quite easily.

When the bead is off, the entire sash will lift out of its groove without trouble. Untie the knot of the unbroken cord and you will be able to remove the sash completely. Incidentally, when you untie the cord, notice what kind of knot it has, since you will want to use the same type knot when you put in a new cord.

THE WEIGHT POCKET

Look at the edge of the window frame on the side where the cord is broken. Near the bottom you will see an oblong piece of wood screwed into the frame. This is called the sash-weight pocket. Remove the screws and lift out the piece of wood. There, at the bottom in the frame, you will find the sash weight. It has dropped there because of the broken cord. Take out the sash weight, remove the old cord and begin the job of putting in a new cord.

Tie a knot at one end of the new cord. Run the other end of the cord over the pulley at the top of the window frame until it reaches the bottom. Attach it to the sash weight. Put the sash weight back in the pocket and screw the pocket cover back in place.

Next, get the window sash you removed from the frame. Rest it on the window sill. Pull the sash weight as high as it will go —until it touches the pulley. The extended cord should then be run down the side of the sash to a point about three inches below the hole into which the cord will fit. That tells you how long the cord should be. Cut it to fit and tie a knot at this end of it. This knot fits into the hole in the sash.

The rest of the job consists of putting everything back the way you found it.

Calm Down That Noisy Household

After the rigors of the work-a-day world, man turns homeward for relaxation. Unfortunately, too often the noise of the store, plant and office — depending on if they are on the mechanized advances of the industrial age — is evident around the home.

This is tyranny that man need not suffer. With some well directed effort, the home can be made a place of tranquility. This is true whether you live in a suburban home or a downtown apartment.

Modern homes tend to be brighter than most older homes, but also have generous surfaces of polished tile, glass picture windows, enamel and hard surfaced furniture, walls, ceilings and floors. Such surfaces reflect sound causing it to build up.

ZOOM BY ROOM

Lack of sound absorption can be overcome with the use of acoustical material in the ceiling. These material soak up as much as 85 per cent of the noise that strikes them.

DOORS SLAM! A mechanical door closer will remember when children forget.

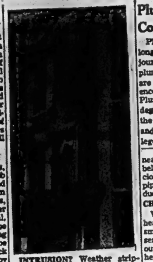
The most effective way to deal with home noise is by tacking the various problems room by room. Here are some suggestions, many of which can be undertaken by the home-owners or resident at little cost:

Kitchens: The kitchen is probably the noisiest area in the home. Not only is it one or the busiest rooms, but the noise generated here bounces off its hard enamel and plaster surfaced counters, cabinets, walls, ceilings and appliances. The kitchen harbors a number of gadgets that add to the noise, along with the clatter of pots and pans and dishes.

REFRIGERATOR GROWL? Try putting a resilient mat of rubber or plastic beneath it.

Usually, appliances are not noisy when they are new and in good condition, so keep them in good repair. Resilient mats of rubber, plastic or other material used to cover drain racks and in the drawers will reduce noise and dish breakage. Floors should be of Jamaican cork, rubber or asphalt which are relatively resilient and tend to reduce noise of footsteps. Rubber pads or casters under chair or table legs will stop scraping.

CHECK THE PLUMBING



Bathroom: Flushing toilets, gurgling pipes, shower and tub sounds can be disturbing and embarrassing. The bathroom should have snug fitting doors, the floors should be of rubber tiles or other resilient material and drain pipes should be wrapped in sound absorbing material. Noisy toilets may be cured by replacing ballcock with a noiseless type and by having the flushing mechanism in proper order. Water flow can be stopped by replacing worn rubber washers.

Bedrooms or recreation room: There is no reason why the sound generated in the home should disturb those in other parts of the house. Since concrete is a poor absorber of sound and the ceiling is usually low, it might be wise to line walls with absorbent wall material set away from the masonry by wood furring. The ceiling should be covered with acoustical tile. The area of doors to form a sound lock will keep the noise from spreading to the rest of the house.

QUIET THOSE DOORS

Bedrooms: The bedroom, even in the most modern house, can be restful if furnishings are chosen that trap sound. Rugs and drapery draperies that absorb sound will help. Insulated walls and heavy, snug doors will help noise out.

Doors: Nothing is more aggra- or other resilient material bevating, particularly in homes where there are small children than the continually slamming door. A mechanical door closer is the simplest way to solve this problem. Gutters of resilient material also will help. A good deal of sound passes through illfitly constructed panel doors. This can be remedied if one surface is covered with a sheet of insulating board which in turn is covered with plywood or hardboard to serve as a wearing surface. Weather stripping around the door will help bar sound.

Floors: Floor covering in the form of rugs or carpets with an under-pad will hold down walking noise. Insulating beween floor and the ceiling below will deaden sounds, too.

Noise: Equipment: Put it in good repair, place rubber pads

Plumbers Get College Degrees

Plumbers usually go through long training as apprentices, journeymen and finally master plumbers. But college degrees are now given in plumbing science.

The National Asso. of Plumbing Contractors, says such degrees are now awarded by the State University of Iowa and by Los Angeles City College.

neath it, all motors, tighten fan belts and rattling metal enclosures, strap down vibrating pipes, and secure loose heating ducts.

CHECK HEATING SYSTEM

Ventilators: Ventilating and heating systems may act as small broadcasting networks sending annoying noise throughout the home. To prevent this, heating ducts should not be connected directly from room to room, but each should be isolated by direct connection to the heating or ventilating unit. It may be necessary to line these ducts with sound absorbing materials such as glass or mineral fiber.

Outside noise: The impact of noise from the street poses a tough problem, particularly during summer when windows are open. Trees and shrubbery will shut off some street noise and a high, tight fence shielding the home from a busy street is a reasonably effective noise barrier. Air conditioning, of course, will mean the house will be sealed against all noise. Weather stripping and the use of sealed double glass on windows also help.

And remember this: If you are buying or building, put noise on the list of things to look for and guard against.

Handyman Keeps Pace With Builder

The do-it-yourself movement has grown out of the crass category and become an accepted aspect of American life.

And that all-American, the handyman, spent an estimated 3 billion dollars last year on do-it-yourself projects. This figure includes, paint, lumber, other materials and tools.

Making it even more impressive, the Do-It-Yourself Information Bureau of New York City, an organization of the trade, estimates that 14 million homes have power work shops, and that 75 per cent of all American home owners do work themselves.

Do-It-yourself is of course just one part of the home improvement picture.

America built about a million homes last year despite recession and gloomy froebodings. The cost of non-farm residential construction was estimated at 17 billion dollars. The median in industrial plants, cost for a single family house was over $13,000.

At the same time, the Home Improvement Council figured that the nation's remodelling bill ran to 10 billion dollars.

The council is sure that there will be still more remodelling this year. For that matter, there have been optimistic estimates on 1959 home construction. And the diet on the wool do-it-yourself fan always is optimistic, with or without expert help. His chief danger, in fact, is tackling jobs too big for him and not calling on professional help when it's needed.

A SAFETY PAINT

Non-skid paint, containing an abrasive such as pumice stone, can be used to prevent slips on steps and cellar stairs. It was developed to prevent overwork from slipping inside sailtary tanks and is now widely used in

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1959

Lt. Col. Angus B. Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Militia, is seen inspecting army cadets at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School cadet inspection held on the Collegiate campus Thursday afternoon. Cadets this year included only boys from the junior high school grades with senior boys acting as officers and NCO's.

Drum Major Glenn Cornell salutes the inspecting party as he heads his R.C.I. Drum and Trumpet Band past the saluting base at yesterday's cadet inspection.

Two Collegiate students on the distaff side, Frances Dickens and Prince Jaskett, get a demonstration on the use of the walkie-talkie from Sgt. David Smith. Demonstrations in signals, map reading, bren gun and gymnastics, were part of the cadet inspection program.

Lt. Col. Angus Duffy is seen taking the salute. Tails is the second year which the drum and trumpet band has taken part in cadet inspection.

Technical Assistance Aiding Ceylon in Capital Projects, Specialized Fields Under Plan

Russell Kinsa, former Canadian Press staff writer now touring the Commonwealth, in the story tells how Canadian knowledge and technical assistance are aiding Ceylon in capital projects and specialized fields under the Colombo plan.

By RUSSELL ELMAN

COLOMBO, Ceylon (CP) — Canadian Colombo plan technical assistance has a vital role in Ceylon's growing economy.

In the last eight years more than $1,300,000 has been spent to introduce Canadian knowledge and techniques to help the island cope with the economic challenge of independence.

Since 1951, 76 Canadian "experts" have been sent to Ceylon in connection with Colombo plan capital projects or to advise in specialized fields including health, education, fisheries and merchant shipping. By the end of 1958, 67 Ceylonese had visited Canada on Colombo plan training and study fellowships.

"Technical assistance is one of the vital needs of all underdeveloped areas," said Nik Cavell, Canadian high commissioner to Ceylon and former administrator of Canada's Colombo plan program.

TRAINED MEN VITAL

"It's useless to put in capital equipment unless there are trained technicians to look after it and the more complicated the equipment, the more necessary this becomes."

Finding qualified Canadians to serve abroad in uncongenial climates under the Colombo plan is not simple. Suitable candidates usually are in good jobs at home and often cannot be spared.

"These experts have to be chosen with great care," Cavell reported to the parliamentary standing committee on external affairs.

"Not only must they be competent in their many fields of work but also they must be men and women of great patience and understanding."

At present 20 Canadian experts are in this tropical country. Most of them express a degree of confidence their work will pay dividends, although at times it may seem an uphill struggle. Their work on the island generally is high.

CANADIANS POPULAR

"Canadians are the most popular of our foreign experts," said Rais Coomaraswamy, senior assistant secretary to the finance ministry. "They are a link in the stage in their development. The people don't suspect them of having any political leanings in our internal affairs."

In the three major Canadian-aided projects—arid zone, rice and fisheries program and construction of a power transmission system—Canadians either direct the work or serve in an advisory capacity. But from the start Ceylonese were trained in preparation for managing the projects. Canadian experts not connected with capital projects are: Dr. Harold Innis, economic adviser to the Ceylon government; Dr. Kenneth Bell, Montreal neurosurgeon, who has been working on brain surgery; Dr. Wilder Penfield, f mous Montreal neurosurgeon, who has been giving lectures in hospitals on surgery.

A Canadian consultant helped form a division of electro-medical engineering to handle purchase, installation and maintenance of electrical equipment in government hospitals. Canada also helped establish a sanitarium at Kandana, where Eleanor Martin of Moose Jaw now is principal and Frances Ferguson of Edmonton vice-principal.

Hubert Kemp, trade policy adviser to the trade department in Ottawa, has been seconded as an economic adviser to Ceylon's commerce and trade ministry. He helped organize an overseas trade commissioner service and now is a member of a five-man commission on merchant shipping.

Arthur Webster, 63, of Ottawa, is advising in reinforced structural concrete work; Derek Lever of Montreal is assisting telecommunications equipment installation at Katunaiaka airport and R. E. Byron of Edmonton was also an adviser on technical education.

Dr. G. P. McRostie, professor of field husbandry at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, helped organize the agricultural department at the University of Ceylon at Peradeniya near Kandy. Many of his Ceylonese students have since studied at Guelph themselves—in one year two were at the top of their class —and have returned to introduce Canadian farming methods at home.

It costs about $5,000 to send a student to Canada for a year and, as far as possible, trainees are selected who it is expected will fit into useful jobs on their return.

Some disapoint and occasionally a Canadian-trained man is shuffled into a different job because there is no immediate opening in his field, but most Colombo plan trainees qualify.

Immediate Threat of War Raised Over Supply Routes Of Allies to West Berlin

In this third of a series of four articles on the Berlin situation, an Associated Press correspondent in Germany assesses the possibility of war over the Soviet-Western dispute.

By HERBERT ALTSCHULL

BONN (AP)—President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev each say that if war starts over the Berlin issue the other will be involved. None that shoots first. In a way they're both right.

The immediate threat of war is raised over the supply routes to West Berlin, sometimes called the lifelines of that city isolated behind the Iron Curtain.

Perhaps no war will never come. If it did, it could lead to a third world war.

Few Western officials think the situation will end in war, since neither East or West is anxious to be smashed in a nuclear holocaust.

SOVET THREAT

There are many facets to the Berlin issue, but the one cold fact is the Soviet threat to end its part of the four-power occupation of Berlin and turn over control of the critical access routes to the East German puppet regime.

The 10,000 Allied soldiers in West Berlin are supplied by rail, barge, highway and air. Under international agreements the Russians check through the transit traffic.

The West has said it cannot accept the substitution of East German agents at those checkpoints. But if the Russians go through with their threat, the Allies will be faced with East German where their convoys arrive at the borders.

On such an X-Day the Allies will be confronted with the choice of allowing the East Germans to stamp their papers, of turning back or of pushing ahead without permission.

WHAT RETREATE

Premier Khrushchev has said that an attempt to push through would violate East Germany's sovereignty, and the Soviet Union has pledged itself to support and defend the borders.

The story of how the West got itself into this crisis is not one of the bright chapters in the history of Western diplomacy.

The lines were drawn at the 1945 Yalta conference when Roosevelt and Churchill agreed to major concessions to Stalin, as Russian troops swept forward while the Americans and British were withdrawing back from their breakback in the battle of the bulge.

In accord with the Yalta agreements, Allied troops pulled back at the end of the war from advance positions in Eastern Europe, leaving the whole of central and eastern Germany in Communist hands.

The West held out on one vital point, however. It did not surrender Berlin to exclusive Soviet control despite the fact that it is buried inside the Russian zone of occupation.

UNDER FOUR-POWER RULE

A special four-power occupation was organized. This is what the Russians now seek to tear up.

The Russians tried to squeeze the West in 1948, when they blockaded surface access routes to Berlin. The West thwarted that effort by a massive 10-month airlift into West Berlin.

In the early stages of the current Berlin crisis there was much talk of reorganizing an airlift,

'Mercy Killing' Not Favored by Toronto Doctors

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto doctors have strongly criticized two United Kingdom doctors who have admitted "mercy killing" — allowing incurable patients to die painless deaths.

Most doctors interviewed condemned the actions of Dr. Maurice Millard and Dr. Charles McDonald, members of Britain's Euthanasia Society.

However, two women doctors said they "couldn't criticize" the actions of the doctors in giving death-hastening drugs to two incurable cancer victims.

Said Dr. Anthony Pacevicius: "A man, whether he is a doctor or not, who admits publicly that he has killed, is a murderer."

Dr. S. K. Nzai replied to the question of "mercy killing" with a question of his own. He said: "Suppose I kill an incurable patient today—and tomorrow I learn that a cure has been found? Do you think I could sleep nights? I don't believe anyone's life should be snuffed out just because it looks hopeless."

However, Dr. Margaret Rae Bender, one of the women doctors, said "sometimes, when you see a patient's suffering, the idea ('mercy killing') almost seems like a good idea."

But she added: "I wouldn't criticize or condemn the doctors who did do it. I certainly couldn't do it myself."

Dr. Marjorie Cowan agreed.

but this has largely died out.

The West would be in an absurd military position in fighting over the access routes. No one considers it militarily feasible to send thin columns of troops along the narrow corridors where they would be surrounded and decimated by superior Soviet manpower.

Good, Better Than Expected, Tribute Paid BCIVS Cadets Following Annual Inspection

"You are good; much better than I expected. You have done a good job and shown fine examples of loyalty, discipline and perseverance," Lieut.-Col. Angus B. Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, told over 400 BCIVS cadets following their annual inspection yesterday.

Brilliant sunshine tempered by a cooling breeze favored the cadets as they swung past a campus reviewing stand in column of route and platoon formations, headed by the crack drum and trumpet band of the school.

Lieut.-Col. Duffy took the salute. To the rear of the stand were BCIVS principal A. E. Orr; Mr. James Durand, chairman, Bay of Quinte High School Board; Major Derek Reardon, Lieut. Bill Scrymgeour and Major (Chaplain) A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., of the Hasty Feo. Lieut.-Col. E. S. Hunter, assistant area cadet training officer; Leslie Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School; Roy Sills and Roy Dulmage, high school board members, and Mrs. Annie McLeskie, superintendent on reserve, St. John Ambulance Brigade.

The corps was inspected by Col. Duffy, Lieut. Hunter assisted by cadet commanding officer Lieut.-Col. R. Bateman, school cadet officer Captain John Snetsinger, Principal Orr, Lieut. Scrymgeour, Major McConnell, and others.

The best company on parade selected by Col. Duffy was No. 1 ("Alpha") company, commanded by cadet Major K. McLaren.

The best cadet in the corps selected by Col. Duff and Lieut. Hunter, after lengthy deliberation and inspection, was Cadet Murray Angus of No. 1 Platoon.

Best cadets in platoons were, besides Angus, No. 2, David Reynolds; No. 3, Colin Allenby; No. 4, Floyd Clapp; No. 5, Lloyd Spencer; No. 6, Gary Knight; No. 7, Ken Belch; No. 8, John Nash and No. 9, Gerry Pearson. Best bandsman cadet was John Pearson.

The trophy for the best platoon on parade went to No. 7 commanded by Cadet Lieut. Bill Haire. The selection was made by Lieut. Scrymgeour, who also made the presentation.

SPECIAL AWARDS

Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment shooting awards went to Cadet Captain Colin Box; Cadet Lieut. Don Wilson, Ron Dulmage, George Carr; Cadet CSM Dennis Huffman; Cadet Sergeants, Lorne Campbell, David Smith and Cadets, Ken Perkins, Bob Yoss, John Pearson and Gerald Lennips.

Special shooting awards were presented two cadet marksmen. The Strathcona Best Shot crest went to Cadet Lieut. Don Wilson for scores of 97, 98, 98, 98, 98, 100 while the DCRA highest possible in-the-corps was Cadet Lieut. Ron Dulmage who completed scores of 97, 98, 97, 97, 96.

First aid awards presented by Mrs. McLuskie and Mr. John Bradley went to Cadets Charles Calnan, Howie Nemtin, Cecil Hinton, Don Matheson, Doug Boyce, Bill Moffatt and Forrest Smith.

Insight into other phases of cadet training was given in various demonstrations by special squads. Spectators saw a fine exhibition of marching and playing by the school band under the baton of Glen Cornell.

The signals squad also gave a fine exhibition of various techniques using two members of the Belleville Aquamariners, a skin diving club in one of their efforts. The bren gun exhibition was highly interesting as was a detailed demonstration of "Do-It-Yourself" first aid. A special four-man squad put on a fine rifle exhibition while the map using show proved highly interesting.

A feature perhaps was the outstanding demonstration of eight school gymnasts who gave a finished display of acrobatics, tumbling and trampoline work.

TRIBUTES PAID

Noting the fact he had been interested in cadet work for years, Col. Duffy, in his post-inspection remarks, said the corps was much, much better than he expected it to be. He had difficulty, he said, in choosing between No's. 1 and 3 companies for the choice of the better.

"You fellows have shown an excellent form of patriotism by wearing the uniform of your country," he said. "You have also been loyal and have not let your officers, your instructors or your school down. You have also shown other good characteristics, among them persistence in sticking to a thing no matter how difficult it is.

"The school board and staff, too, have shown these traits and they, like I ask the entire community, are well satisfied with the work that goes into cadet training. All of you have done a fine job in demonstrating loyalty, discipline and perseverance," Col. Duffy concluded.

Chairman J. Durant of the Bay of Quinte High School Board said BCIVS had long had a reputation of having an outstanding cadet corps, "and from what I have seen today, you deserve that reputation and I believe you will continue to live up to it."

"To achieve a degree of efficiency requires hard work, desire to achieve, and to accept discipline. And in developing these you are attaining the qualities of good citizenship. You have displayed these fine characteristics here today."

Mr. Durant paid special tribute to the fine band of the school and the excellence of the various demonstrations.

The corps did not parade through city streets as was its usual custom following annual inspection. It was dismissed and retired to the school where cold drinks and Eskimo pies were served. Officials and others had light refreshments also in the school.

Last night the corps officers held their annual banquet and a theatre party afterwards, as did the band.

Officers of the cadet corps are Lieut. Col. R. Bateman, commanding officer; Major R. Tasc, second-in-command; Major R. Fuke, adjutant and regimental sergeant major T. Wright.

Alpha company officers are, Major K. McLaren, commanding; Captain G. Cook and Lieutenants, Gerald Wood, Don Wilson and George Carr.

Bravo Company has Major Charles Lundy, commanding; Captain Colin Cox and Lieutenants, David Davis, Gordon Parker and Ron Dulmage.

Commanding Charlies company is Major Ted Phillips. With him are Captain Martin Hughes and Lieutenants, Bill Haire, Gerald McAvoy and Doug Hallam.

LINER FINED

MONTREAL (CP)—The Polish liner Batory was fined $100 Thursday night after RCMP seized four bottles of contraband liquor in an early-morning search of the ship. The search was made shortly after a Montreal man was arrested leaving the liner Wednesday night with eight bottles of liquor.

Top cadet of the year, Murray Angus, receives award from Lt. Col. Angus Duffy at conclusion of yesterday's cadet inspection program. Cadet Angus is a member of Alpha Company.

Johore's Sultan Dies at London

LONDON (AP)—The Sultan of Johore, one of the last of the fabulously wealthy eastern potentates, who never changed his funfloving ways, died Thursday night. Moi-Gen, Sir Ibrahim, 62 Sultan of Johore of the small, rich rubber state at the tip of the Malayan Peninsula, succumbed in a luxurious hotel suite here.

A 6-foot-2 inch sultan was stricken with influenza two months ago and never made a full recovery. His advanced age was a major factor.

The sultan's 65-year Tunku Mahkota (crown prince), succeeds to the throne as Sultan Ismail, when his father died.

Sinatra and MGM Disagree Over Locale for His Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Frank Sinatra is sore at MGM because the studio won't send his new film to Hawaii on location.

The picture is Barred and Probate formerly Never So Few, and it was originally set for shooting in Burma. Then it was Hawaii. Now the jungle warfare will be waged on the MGM lot.

"I'm against it," the singer remarked. "The location in Hawaii would cost $400,000 more. But the production department says it will add $400,000 to the budget and they won't go it. I think it's worth paying that to get authentic flavor."

Many will agree. Bridge on the River Kwai also could have been filmed on the MGM back lot, but it wouldn't have been the same picture. There's a flavor to authentic locales that the best of Hollywood's craftsmen can't duplicate.

Sinatra is a real fan of Gina Lollobrigida, who co-stars with him in the film. She and her husband came to Las Vegas for 24 hours as Frank's guests.

Her next film will be Italian-made. It's Juvenka, in which she is supposed to appear with shaved head. Will she sacrifice her locks for realism? "Absolutely not," she replied.

Robert Montgomery and James Cagney have been buddies since the days when they helped pioneer the Screen Actors Guild 30 years ago. Yet they have never worked together until now. Montgomery is directing and producing The Gallant Hours with Jim as Admiral Halsey.

"This may be the end of a beautiful friendship," Montgomery grinned.

The town is amazed at the success of The Shaggy Dog, which may be Walt Disney's biggest grosser. The odd part is that television could have had the property. Walt wanted to do a series with his Mickey Mouse Club graduates, and one of the sequences had a boy turning into a dog. ABC turned down the idea, and the dog story turned into a feature.

Casey Can't Hit No More 'Don't Have Bat or Glove'

By CHARLES MAHER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Casey Stengel, one of the nation's foremost exponents of obscure rhetoric, was approached innocently by a man with a question.

"Casey," the man said, "you've seen the layout here at the Coliseum. What do you think of it?"

The questioner was wise enough to bring along a tape recorder. And here is what Casey said:

"Well, I seen the field. I think it's like every baseball club in the United States. Not saying they'd like to play here. Course, if I was going to be a ballplayer (or) I wanted to own a club I would like a nice new field where it would be more convenient for the players to play more uniform games.

"Therefore, I think that's what they're going to have in Los Angeles . . . Anything up to date in Los Angeles, or in, you might say, California, makes always pays off."

Casey, cornered in the dugout before his Yankees meet the Dodgers in an exhibition Thursday night, was asked specifically about the left-field screen. All newcomers are asked about it.

"I'm not concerned about the screen," Casey said. "I can't hit any more. I don't have my glove and I don't have my bat."

Would the Yankees enjoy themselves here?

"Well, I don't know—no, it would depend on your lineup. Sometime you've got to play here and you've got to have a lineup of men who can hit that left field, and that's the trouble when you come into a new ballpark—If you've got a ball team that can hit three fields why do you want to have to have men who can only hit one field."

"Now this is a great place for a pull hitter, if he's a right handed hitter, or if he's a left-handed hitter and he's a long-distance hitter to left field. That's the payoff for you to pick up those kind of men, but why would you fire a man who would be good in other parks just because he couldn't hit to left field?"

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

The highly-touted Swedish heavyweight Ingomar Johansen whose rights went to Eddie Machen's head for a first round knockout, may have allowed his surprise victory to go to his own noggin.

He apparently has a high regard for his own ability, something which the Patterson victory over Britain's Brian London recently did not change one iota. He said yesterday, Patterson's performance against London did not cause him any worry about taking the world crown back to Sweden.

He also issued a bold warning: "All I have to say to the champion, Floyd Patterson is one thing, watch out!"

Johansson, who will fight Patterson in New York on June 25, writes in the current issue of Life magazine that he is relying on several factors to win the title. His most important, he says, is that he's a "thinking boxer."

Johansson admitted that Patterson uses his head in the ring too but added that "there are times when he stops thinking, he gets overanxious and doesn't look close enough."

Johansson noted that during the London fight in Indianapolis Patterson was "very fast when he hits his combinations, but not so fast when he is making a left or a right alone. Then sometimes he looks at the floor instead and his punches are confused and wild."

Johansson said that Patterson is a different fighter now than he was when the Swedish slugger first saw him in the 1952 Olympics. "Then he was a stand-up fighter — just the kind people like to see — bang, bang, bang."

The challenger observed that there is something about Patterson's style now that "is not so good."

"Sometimes when he gets a little hit, he gets angry and then he pulls back and drops his hands as if to say I am going to kill that man. That is not so good."

Johansson said that he considers the capabilities of his right to be "almost mystic."

"There is something strange about my right hand, something very hard to explain. It is almost as if it were not part of me at all. I never know when it is coming. The arm almost works by itself. It is faster than the eye and I cannot even see it. Without my telling it to, the right goes and when it hits, there is this good feeling all down my arm and through my body. It is a wonderful feeling. Something just right has been done."

He said that the only thing he would be thinking of before going into the ring against Patterson is "how I will be hitting with my right hand: just right."

Johansson cited other reasons why he is confident of beating the champion. He said that he is faster than Patterson and that speed has always been his best tactic. He believes he can hit harder than Patterson and said his record of 13 knockouts in 21 fights shows "my hit is not weak."

He also considers himself to be in better shape than Patterson and said the reason for his never being hurt in the ring is because of his condition.

"When we are in the ring together," said Johansson, "if it happens that it happens in my mind, all I have to say to the Champion Floyd Patterson is one thing, watch out."

KINISKI-WHIP TONIGHT

And speaking of confidence, it is fairly oozing out of Gene Kiniski who meets Whipper Billy Watson for the Empah title in Memorial Arena tonight. The cocky Kiniski claims he will pretzel the popular Whip early in the brawl and put an end to this nonsense of him winning the the title back. The Whipper, never prone to boasting, just smiles. He has his own ideas. Scared of no man, let alone this wild flower from the prairies, the Whip can be depended on to put on a show that should put the faithful in the aisles. After all, he has everything to win.

And don't forget Hard-boiled Haggerty, the guy who chases saucy fans clear up to the rafters. Hard-boiled, as ornery as ever, will battle the good guy, Mike Valentino, in what should be another blood-and-thunder scrap.

Says 72 Nags Eligible for Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP)—The Jockey Club has announced that 72 three-year-olds still are eligible for the 100th annual running of the Queen's Plate at New Woodbine June 30. The centennial running of North America's oldest handicap thoroughbred stakes race will be attended by Queen Elizabeth.

Owners of the 72 thoroughbreds paid a fee of $100 per horse before the final deadline May 1.

Actually, only 71 horses can be listed as possible starters because Bull Vic, the winter book favorite was withdrawn after it was discovered he had a broken bone in his right foreleg.

If there are 16 starters June 30, the race will have a gross value of $75,300. The winner will receive a purse of $50,300, in addition to the Queen's guineas and a $2,500 gold trophy.

Overflow Crowd of 93,103 Sees Yanks Down Dodgers 6-2 In Benefit Tilt for Catcher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Campy's night" was a tremendous, record-breaking event.

A record crowd of 93,103 packed Memorial Coliseum to benefit 27-year-old Roy Campanella, Los Angeles Dodgers' paralysis-stricken star, and to watch the Dodgers play New York Yankees.

It was just an exhibition, won 6-2 by the Yankees. But it was a night of emotion, of sentiment, a good action for an exhibition and a near-riot by seat-seeking fans outside the Coliseum's high walls before the game.

Campy drew a standing ovation when he was wheeled by former Dodger captain Pee Wee Reese on to the bright green diamond.

Two hours before the game, 10,000 general admission seats went on sale but 25,000 people were waiting for tickets. Four persons fainted in the crush and were carried away in ambulances. Fifty extra officers were summoned for help.

In the afternoon the Dodgers had beaten the Giants 2-1 in San Francisco. Then manager Walt Alston's club flew south and took to Casey Stengel's world champions.

The Dodgers' celebrated "Chinese curtain," the left-field screen, yielded but one home run by lefthanded hitter Norm Siebern. He put the Yankees in front with a sliced homer in the third off losing pitcher Sandy Koufax.

Siebern added a triple and a single to pace the Yankee attack. The roof collapsed on Koufax in the sixth. Four hits, including a double by Gil McDougald, produced four runs. Starter Duke Maas was the winning pitcher.

Unofficially, it was the consensus that Campanella, hit by medical bills since his car smashup 18 months ago, will get around $90,000.

Bathgate Says The Rocket Should Retire

TRAIL, B. C. (CP) — Andy Bathgate, New York Rangers' all-star right winger, said Thursday night veteran scoring ace Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens should retire from the National Hockey League before he suffers more serious injuries.

The 28-year-old Rocket suffered leg injuries in the last two seasons which almost ended his career. Bathgate made his comment in a speech to a father-and-son banquet.

He also said NHL president Clarence Campbell should support to his officials at all times.

He said referee Red Storey, who quit during the recent Stanley Cup playoffs, did not get this support. Storey resigned when Campbell criticized his handling of a semi - final game between Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks.

STAMPS SIGN HALF

CALGARY (CP)—Ed Warren, a halfback from Yuba City College in California, has signed a contract with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, it was announced Thursday. Warren, also a fast-one and 220 pounds, does not graduate until 1955 but wants to play professional ball. He was recommended by coach Buddy Parker of the National League Pittsburgh Steelers.

NEARS RECORD

TORONTO (CP) — Nearctic, bidding become the greatest money-winning horse ever foaled in Canada, is only $21,643 short of his goal and has the opportunity to add about $5,000 to his bankroll in Saturday's $7,500 Ultimatus Handicap at Old Woodbine. Present record of $173,417 for a home-bred is held by the mare Canadiana which raced from 1952 through 1955. Canadiana, who carried the colors of E.P. Taylor, now is a brood mare on the Taylor farm.

Musial Hits Homer No. 400 And Gives Cards 4-3 Win; Tigers Turn Back Bosox 3-1

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx, Mel Ott, Lou Gehrig, Ted Williams—now Stan Musial.

Stan the man, one of baseball's lifetime great hitters, hammered his way into that select circle of sluggers Thursday night with his 400th home run—a 400-foot shot leading off the ninth inning at St. Louis that brought the Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Musial, at 37, has only two homers in this, his 18th season, but they've come on consecutive nights. And more than coincidentally, perhaps, they've triggered the Cards' first two-game winning "streak" of the year in the National League.

His hit into the right-centre field pavilion at Busch Stadium coupled with Willie Mays' 400th, the only 400 home-run sluggers now in business, Ruth, of course, is the all-time leader with 714, Foxx, the only right - handed hitter in the lot, finished with 534. Ott, the only other National League man in the group, hit 511. Gehrig had 493. And Williams, still sidelined by injury this season, has hit 345 for the Boston Red Sox.

TREMENDOUS CLIMAX

Musial's homer climaxed a tremendous day for first basemen in the league. Norm Larker hit a two-run homer that gave Los Angeles a 3-1 victory over San Francisco, and Ed Kluszewski powered his first home run of the year leading off the 10th inning for a 5-4 Pittsburgh victory over Philadelphia.

The homer was Musial's lone hit of the game. It came off reliever Don Elston (0-1), who hadn't given up a run in his last eight appearances. The Cards' other three runs also came on a homer, with pinchhitter George Crowe (another first baseman) delivering on a 3-2 pitch by starter Moe Drabowsky with two out in the sixth.

That tied the three-all, after Cubs' homers off Card starter Lindy McDaniel by the Cubs' Jim Marshall, who hit a pair, and Ernie Banks. Howie Nunn (2-2) was the win second straight for the last-place Cards, whose last seven decisions have been by one run.

Larker, subbing for Gil Hodges, who pulled a shoulder muscle in a second-inning triple ripped his winning homer in the fourth at San Francisco off Jack Sanford (4-2), who had won four straight.

Stan Williams (1-0) allowed the Giants but six hits—half of them by Mays, who also singled and doubled. While also swung on a 3-0 pitch that would have given him an intentional walk — and fouled out with two men on base in the eighth.

After the game the Dodgers flew home to Los Angeles where they lost—an exhibition night game for the New York Yankees, 6-2 before 93,103, baseball's largest crowd ever.

Kluszewski, who had driven in a run with a single as the Pirates came from behind with four in the fourth, got the job done with his 350th career homer. Jim Owens (1-2) went all the way for the Phillies, with only two of the Bucs runs earned.

Roy Face (4-0) was the winner with one inning of relief. Vern Law went nine, giving up two-run homers by Harry Anderson and Ed Bouchee, who had half of the Phils' 10 hits between them.

OPEN AT HOLLYWOOD

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Eleven sprinters were named to the Hollywood Park's opening day feature today, the $20,000-added Premiere Handicap. The entries included Terrang, Alhambra, and You might say Jerry Walker is making a major league career out of beating Washington. The 20-year-old right-hander has a 3-0 record in his three starts at the big-time with Baltimore Orioles —and each of those decisions was against the Senators.

He got the third, his second of the season, Thursday night as Baltimore blasted the Nats on three hits before Reno Bertoia's eighth-inning home run, as the second-place Orioles whipped Washington 10-3 and moved within two games of the idle Cleveland Indians.

Only one other American League game was scheduled, and Detroit took that, 3-1 from Boston.

Walker has only three complete games in seven starts for the Nats, in six starts since coming up in 1957.

PITCHERS FIVE-HITTER

The youngster has been touched for only two runs by the Senators' last 30 innings against him. He finished with a five - hitter Thursday night, walking two and striking out five.

The game was packed with excitement for Walker early in Bertoia's fourth homer. The Orioles, who have won four of their last five, snapped 17 hits off four Washington pitchers, chasing Pete Ramos (2-3) in a five-run second inning triggered by Gus Triandos' solo home run.

Bob Nieman and Al Pilarcik also homered. Nieman's shot was a two-run blast and his 100th home run in the majors.

Larry Doby drove home a pair of runs for the Tigers, getting the winner across while grounding out in a two-run sixth against Ike Delock, who had won three in a row. It was Frank Lary's Tigers' third success in four games under manager Jimmy Dykes. Righthander Frank Lary (3-2) put it away, allowing eight hits for his third in a row.

Boston's run was unearned in the fifth inning, giving Lary a string of 17 innings in which he has allowed just one earned run.

Rangers Trim Boston 6-3 Before 1,000

ANTWERP, Belgium (CP)—New York Rangers resumed their European tour Thursday night before 1,000 persons to square their 22-game European exhibition hockey series at four games apiece.

Yesterday, in praising the ability of the National Hockey League, I commented on the small crowd that turned out in the 11,000-seat Antwerp Sports Hall to see the game.

"It is a pity," said one sports writer, "because they are doing a hell of a job with a terrifically fine performance by the boys at their best."

However, the attendance was twice the number who saw the Bruins beat the Rangers 6-3 Wednesday night as clubs will play a third game here today and then proceed to Zurich, Switzerland.

The Rangers led 2-1 in the first period and 6-2 going into the third.

Goaltender Lorne Worsley was singled out for his fine performance in the New York net as the Bruins pressed to cut down his club's lead.

Eddie Litzenberger and Dean Prentice scored two goals each for the Rangers and Bob Hull and Bill Sweeney one apiece. Gerry Ehman, Larry Hillman and Earl Reibel counted for Boston.

Royals Blast Leaf Hurlers In Twin Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ari Kay, Bob Keegan and Lynn Lovenguth helped make it a perfect day in the International League Thursday despite a Montreal blitzkrieg against Toronto Maple Leafs.

Kay shut out Richmond Virginians over the last 4 2-3 innings as Miami Marlins completed a three-game series sweep 6-2. Keegan pitched six scoreless innings en route to a 6-4 Rochester decision over Buffalo Bisons and Lovenguth won his fifth in six decisions for Columbus as the Jets faced Havana Sugar Kings 9-2.

It was a different story at Montreal where the Royals swept a doubleheader from Toronto 10-5 and 18-1, pounding six Leaf hurlers for 31 hits during the afternoon.

Kay took over for starter Jim Archer in the fifth inning when the Vees scored four runs for a 5-4 lead. He scored the tie-breaker in the ninth after walking to open the inning, going to second on a sacrifice and scoring on Chuck Oertel's infield hit on which Archer threw wide. Bobby Deakin threw wildly to first.

Ron Piche (2-0) of Richmond pitcher, was the loser.

NEEDS AID

Keegan needed relief help from Ron Kline when Buffalo erupted with two doubles, a single and Ken Landrum's two-run homer to narrow Rochester's lead to 5-4. Gene Oliver led a seven-hit Bison attack. Jerry Fry's solo shot for the Red Wings. Dick Bunker lost.

Lovenguth gave Havana only two hits after the third inning as he struck out seven and walked only one. Homers by Tom Burgess and Danny Raich accounted for four Columbus runs. Whammy Douglas (0-2) lost.

Jackie Collum (1-0), in relief of starter Bunky Stewart, shut out Leafs over the last 2 1-3 innings as his mates jumped on loser Ed Blake for two successors in the first game. Ron Negray pitched his first victory in five decisions in the nightcap while Jack Crimian (1-2) was the loser.

The eight-run sixth inning sewed up the first game for Montreal and three-run homers by Clyde Parris and Bob Lennon featured Royals' final attack in the night cap. Lennon also had a solo homer in the second game, his fourth of the year, as he won four-for-five.

Bruins, Rangers Fail to Draw Big Crowds

LONDON (CP) — New York Rangers and Boston Bruins have been averaging 4,000 fans a game for the first third of their 22-game European exhibition hockey tour.

A check of attendance figures shows, however, that the two National Hockey League teams would be in serious trouble from an attendance point of view had ice not been pan-packed games in Switzerland.

The teams drew only 600 fans for their two games in England, 1,400 fans for two games in Belgium, 5,000 and 1,000 for games in Belgium. But 19,000 Swiss fans turned out to watch the two games there.

Although the attendance has been below the expected level, the tour promoters indicated that they still hope to make a good profit.

The Bruins, reinforced with some players from other NHL and American Hockey League clubs, are to receive expenses and $1,000 a player.

Jacobs Leads Oklahoma Golf

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Tommy Jacobs took the first round lead Thursday in the $25,000 Oklahoma City open golf tournament with a sizzling six-under-par 66.

The 24-year-old Whittier, Calif., pharmacist-golfer whittled his Twin Hills Country Club course down to size and managed to edge out Dallas lead over veteran Pete Mazur of Dallas.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver shot par 72-72 for a 24th-place tie with nine other golfers.

Jerry Magee of Toronto and 11 other golfers shot 76 for an 83rd-place tie. Magee shot 38-38.

Learned Lots In America Says London

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP)—Brian London returned to British Thursday and said that three weeks in the boxing world of the United States had been more valuable than six years at home.

The 24-year-old Britain knocked out Zora Folley in the 11th round by world heavyweight boxing ratings Wednesday night.

"But I learned a lot over there," London said.

"I've found a good friend in former world champion Jack Dempsey. Jack talks well and to the top. He told me I have got the basis — strength, stamina and the ability to take a punch.

"He taught me a good deal about weaving and punching and has promised to help me again. I would like to bring this American style of fighting over here."

Four Rochester Players Made All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Four members of Rochester Americans and two of the first-place Buffalo Bisons comprise the 1958 - 59 American Hockey League all-star team.

Rochester's forward line—left wing Gary Aldcorn, centre Rudy Migay and right wing Bill Hicke —earned places on the top squad along with playing-coach Steve Kraftcheck, at defence. Goalie Marcel Pelle and defenceman Ivan Irvin, both of the Bisons, round out the squad.

The AHL champion Hershey Bears placed two players—goaltender Bobby Perreault and defenceman Larry Zeidel—on the second team. Springfield Indians, who finished fifth, also had two members on the alternate team, centre Harry Pidhirny and right wing Ken Schinkel. The others were Frank Martin of Buffalo on defence and Eddie Masur of Cleveland at forward.

Each player chosen for the first team receives a league bonus of $300 and a gold miniature hockey puck. Second-team players receive $200 each and silver pucks.

The voting by AHL writers, television and radio broadcasters, was on a 5-3-1 basis for first, second and third-place choice. Migay was the only unanimous choice, getting the maximum 30 points.

Repeaters from last year's first team were Kraftcheck and Irwin. Kraftcheck made it for the third consecutive year.

Pelle was the only rookie to make the top squad. He led the league in scoring with 37 points and his 41 goals fell one short of equalling the league rookie record of 42 set by Wally Hergesheimer in 1950-51.

Ortega Favored Over Stitch

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Gaspar Ortega is favored to beat Rudy Stitch tonight but the odds don't mean much to the revengeminded Stitch who thought he won their first bout.

Ortega took a split decision by a single point after a bloody battle in New York Feb. 6 but suffered an eye cut that hampered him on the sidelines since.

Tonight's 10 - round bout between the scrappy welterweights will be telecast and broadcast nationally by NBC at 10 p.m. EDT.

Ortega, 27-year-old Indian from Mexico, has a 48-15 record. Stitch, a 26-year-old church elder from Louisville, Ky., has compiled a 17-5 record.

Others receiving points: Fern Flaman, Boston, 34; Pierre Pilote, Chicago, 18; Lou Pontinato, New York, 5; Al Arbour, Chicago, 2.

ELECTION

Besides, he said in his first campaign speech, "I come before you with a great platform backed up by the greatest series of accomplishments in the history of our province."

He said "the poor leader of the opposition seems to live in a never-never land, a land of fantasy and unrealism. His way is strewn with unfilled promises which come up to plague him."

Mr. Wintermeyer, in an address at Brantford, said the federal government's announcement of a federal-provincial conference on fiscal relations July 6 is "a political red herring and a phoney."

He said such a meeting could only be a conference of bureaucrats and would not be genuine unless the premiers of the provinces met with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Diefenbaker and Frost have no intention of play with your welfare and mine in this way and try to mislead the people of Ontario."

There are two choices he said. "Either there must be a proper conference . . . or a royal commission investigation."

He expressed confidence that "the tide is turning in our favor. It is turning against the do-nothing caretaker government that has grown old in office in Ontario."

Mr. MacDonald said he had warned the provincial government at the outset of the Avro layoff "that once most of the necessary powers lay with the federal government, there was little that a provincial government could do to restore an industry like Avro to production. Their most effective contribution would be to pressure the Diefenbaker government into action."

But he said the Frost government would do nothing "for the embarrassment it presents their own political buddies is too great."

A total of 193 candidates have now been nominated: 67 PCs, 61 CCF and 58 Liberals. Eight Labor - Progressive (Communist) candidates and one Independent PC also have been named.

Standing of the House at dissolution: PCs 82, Liberals 11, CCF 3, one vacant.

KNOWLES CALLED

said Mr. Macinnis's remarks are an insult to the 1,700 delegates to the CLC convention who elected Mr. Knowles.

Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) accused the two Conservative members of "using their position in the House to slander and malign individuals outside the House who have not the opportunity here of protesting or protecting themselves."

DISCUSS SPENDING

The labor debate arose during discussion of spending estimates of the labor department. Earlier, there were these developments:

1. Trade Minister Churchill said a five-nation "food for peace" conference in Washington earlier this week was a success from Canada's standpoint and protected this country's wheat export interests.

2. Revenue Minister Nowlan said the CBC proposes "appropriate disciplinary action" against those on the French TV network responsible for broadcast of a play Sunday about Marie-Marguerite d'Youville, beatified this week at Rome. He termed the play offensive to French-Canadians and Roman Catholics.

Meanwhile, in the Senate, Quebec Senator C. G. (Chubby) Power said he was "astounded" to hear that a royal assent ceremony was held Tuesday night apparently to facilitate Montreal resident's wedding plans.

He referred to reports quoting Robert-MacIeave (PC—Halifax), chairman of the Commons divorce committee, as saying the ceremony was arranged following representations by Eric Retsinger of Montreal who had appealed to Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Among divorce bills assented to was one on behalf of Reisinger's wife.

Senator Walter Aseltine, government leader in the upper chamber, said he is sure there is nothing to the reports.

26 Are Homeless As Flames Raze Lindsay Block

LINDSAY (CP) — A $1,000,000 fire destroyed a three-storey business block and apartment in downtown Lindsay early today, flaming out of control for six hours before it was extinguished. Twenty-six persons were left homeless.

Among the business wiped out in the Blackwell Building — at Cambridge and Kent Streets — was the law office of Frost, Richardson and McQuarrie. Premier Frost of Ontario is a partner in the law firm.

No one was injured.

About 75 firemen from five centres battled the outbreak and prevented the flames from spreading to adjacent buildings.

A mother and her infant were carried down an aerial ladder at the height of the fire after firemen made four attempts to rescue them. For a time it was feared they might have to jump.

The occupants were roused by the building's janitor, George McComb, when he discovered the blaze in the basement shortly after midnight. It was believed the fire started in a boiler room.

RIOTS INSIDE

"Keep your chin off the floor, darling," he wrote. "Things are never as bad as they seem."

She had collected almost alone more than 10,000 signatures to a petition asking clemency. Another plea came from 150 members of Parliament who opposed the death penalty for Marwood.

Home Secretary R. A. Butler turned them down and refused to recommend to the Queen that she extend clemency.

Two years ago the Conservative government adopted a compromise homicide law keeping the hanging penalty for only a few crimes—the main ones being killing a policeman and murder during a robbery. Marwood stabbed 23-year-old constable Raymond Summers as the policeman was trying to break up a dance hall brawl.

The last hanging was July 23, 1957 when a 22-year-old laborer was executed for killing a 72-year-old woman owner of a grocery store during a robbery.

struction of hydraulic lift locks at the Big Chute and Swift Rapids.

The Peterborough chamber said it approved most of the resolution but disagreed with the lift lock suggestion on the ground that the mooley might be better spent in other improvements.

The chamber approved a Leamington resolution which asks that the Ontario government allow advance sales of car licences from Oct. 1.

This would enable buyers of new cars to get licences for the following year without paying a half year's licence for the balance of the year of purchase.

A Stratford resolution adopted asks that compulsory features of the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act be replaced by a voluntary system of marketing.

FUTURE NOT CLEAR

C. Bruce Hill of St. Catharines, addressing the annual dinner, said Canada's political and economic future is not clearly defined.

Politically, he said, Canada is a partner in the Commonwealth but is steadily growing closer to the United States. It would be difficult to envisage Canada as 10 more states of the United States, but economic integration was more than a possibility in view of the economic blocks forming elsewhere in the world.

The United Kingdom was not yet part of the European Common Market, but it was difficult to see how she could remain out of some association with it, and she might have to sacrifice some of her trade contacts with the Commonwealth.

HOSPITAL CARE

In other business Thursday the Ontario chamber said extension of private insurance plans should be aggressively pursued and the field of coverage broadened.

The chamber, in adopting a policy statement on health and health services, said it is essential that the present Ontario hospital care program be operated with maximum economy and efficiency. Opposed was any move to institute socialized state medicine.

The chamber urged the government, if the report of a current royal commission is favorable, to enact legislation to permit municipalities to deal with fluoridation of water, subject to such controls as may be laid down by provincial authorities.

Fluoridation is not a scientific problem, Dr. Vaughan said, but an "emotional" one. Once a municipality has made up its mind, however, it should not be referred to the people for a private bill of the legislature.

A Stratford amendment containing suggestions in regard to provision of convalescent facilities, rehabilitation centres, and other matters, was described by Dr. Vaughan as "too long and too complicated" for a policy statement. It was referred to the health committee for further consideration.

PROBE SALES TAX

Another resolution provided for setting up by the chamber of a special committee to investigate reports that the Ontario government is considering adoption of a sales tax, and asked the committee to report its findings to the chamber's board of directors for action.

A delegate commented that the greatest "pitch" that can be made to tourists is that there is no sales tax in Ontario.

In a statement on agriculture, the chamber said:

"Farming is a business with invested capital in a democratic economy and therefore should be without government restriction to sell its products. The objectionable features of the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act are its powers or indirect taxation by licence fees, royalties on containers and the absolute power to determine selling price. There is room in some instances no recourse of appeal to the boards or through the courts. These objectionable features would be reviewed and removed."

The meeting approved a Port Arthur resolution urging the immediate construction of the Trans-Canada Highway between the Lakehead and the Manitoba border in areas coincide with the "tremendous influx of travel" expected to result from the St. Lawrence Seaway and completion in 1960 of the north shore highway between eastern Ontario and the Lakehead.

UNION OFFICIAL

been hired at $8,000 a year by a general membership meeting.

He produced what he said were minutes of the meeting at which the membership voted to employ Mr. Reid. Earlier, Mr. Gillis said no minutes of the meeting could be found.

CALLED ECONOMY MOVE

The president defended Mr. Reid's dismissal on economic grounds. A full-time recreation director was needed only during the summer.

Neis Thibeault, national president and former president of the local, also criticized Mr. Gillis for not acting immediately on a petition from union members requesting a general meeting to reconsider the dismissal. Mr. Gillis replied he had not had time to consider it.

The meeting went out of control for almost an hour at one point and Mr. Gillis left the chair until order was restored. He returned 10 minutes after vice-president Don McNabb quieted the members.

The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was expelled from the old Canadian Congress of Labor 10 years ago for alleged Communist leadership.

A move by Mr. Gillis' rivals to have a "special meeting" last Sunday considered legitimate apparently was stuttled by the action Thursday night in approving Mr. Reid's dismissal. That meeting, called by supporters of the ousted Solski regime, voted to rehire Mr. Reid.

Mr. Solski's group claimed a petition of 2,532 named made the Sunday gathering a bonafide membership meeting. Mr. Gillis Thursday night disputed this and said he asked Mr. Reid early Sunday to check the names on the petition.

"Anyone who thinks otherwise is crazy," he said.

In events leading up to Thursday night's meeting Mr. Thibeault had been identified as a leader in the agitation against the new executive.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, May 6, 1939

Aries (March 21 to April 19). Dashing about hither and yon is excellent now, since you are very apt to run right into the persons who will give you the boost you need at this time. Read your paper, wait, call your relatives and friends, etc., etc.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20). Ideal day to start action on those long-range plans which will soon bring back material gains. Also good day to set up a better budget. Be sure to make a written notation of all the inspirational thoughts that occur to you for later use.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21). A day for introspection as well as self-analysis. This will give a clear picture of your actual position in life today and inspire you how to improve it in many ways and quickly. Don't procrastinate. Act. P.M. be very sociable.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21). — It would be wise to sit back and analyze just how close you are to your goals and how much effort is still required to gain them. Have faith that you will reach them by travelling the slow, sure way and you avoid taking risky chances.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21). You are fortunate in having several intimates today who will listen eagerly to what you have to say with regard to your ambitions and are in a mood to lend support. See where you can be of assistance to them, too, and cement relations.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22).—Better take inventory of what our efforts have netted you in the business world. Then know what is best to do to get the good will of higher ups, and hit upon some really brilliant idea that will give you a real boost forward.

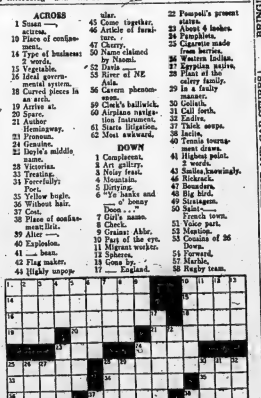
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22). — A day to get out of the usual rut and be out and about meeting interesting and influential persons who will give you a new vista on life, make possible a far greater abundance for you.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A day to fulfill your promises in connection with close friends or high up, which will take quite a bit of your time today. P.M. is fine for romance. Thoughtfulness will bring greater tenderness from mate.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21). — Talking at length with associates or other persons vital to your scheme of things right now may seem like wasted energy, but if you stick to salient points in your conversation, really big plans can be made for the future.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A.M. is fine for getting all small accumulated tasks out of the way quickly and easily. Then P.M. is free and you can get together with those influential persons with whom you wish to have greater rapport in the near future.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get an early start on all your most necessary work out of the way quickly in A.M. Then dress charmingly and be out and about the town having enjoyable time as best suits your mood and aims. P.M. attend some very lovely social function.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) You would be wisest in using your energies to make surroundings more charming and valuable. Be sure that all electrical gadgets are in good running order, add a bit of art brica-brac here, there, etc. P.M. invite guests and have fun. If your child is born today—The highly-evolved little child born today will be quite a handful since the nervous energy is considerable. Give your child the benefit of any education ferons that will bring greater ise and bring out any artistic talents early in life. A little genius here, for the ability to work with the mind and the hands at great efficiency is very pronounced .Drama is the forte.

One Man Killed As Building Tumbles Down

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Three separate investigations were pressed today into the collapse Thursday of a large industrial building under construction. One workman was killed and six others injured.

The rest of the 14 men at work in the one-storey building escaped.

The dead man was John Lake, 45, of New York City.

Some of the injured were trapped as long as 45 minutes before rescue workers were able to cut holes through the fallen roof and floor. The site is 30 miles east of New York City.

The 140-by-175-foot building began going just before the roof collapsed.

China Has Fences to Mend In Campaign to Make Friends

INTERPRETING THE NEWS
By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Reports from Hong Kong that the Chinese Communists have sparked armed revolt in three neighboring provinces of western China are a long way toward explaining the apparent insistence of the Chinese Communists on blaming the Indian government for instigating the trouble.

The supporting evidence Peiping has to offer is based on the indisputable fact that Tibet has sent an expeditionary force into Tibet half a century ago and that the Indian border town of Kalimpong includes a high percentage of spies in its population.

Therefore, the Chinese argue, it is evident that Independent India has taken over from imperialist Britain as a tormentor of free Tibet, and that Prime Minister Nehru is the instigator of the disturbances.

Even Nehru's Pakistani neighbors, who feel he is being unreasonable in his attitude to the disputed territory of Kashmir, would have difficulty recognizing the portrait of India's prime minister as an empire-builder. The specialists of Asia and Africa, which look to Nehru for leadership, the Chinese charge, must appear hopelessly implausible.

FOREIGN SCAPEGOAT

Obviously the Chinese leaders have temporarily shelved their efforts to woo their neighbors in favor of more pressing problems at home. They are resorting to the time - honored expedient of electing a foreign scapegoat to take responsibility for domestic troubles.

Their choice of Nehru in preference to the relatively remote whipping boys of Indonesia and London gives the new Communist campaign a certain logic. The fact that India's renunciation of any claims on Tibet was signed the first act of the new independent career is unlikely to be known by more than a handful of Chinese.

Like the Russians at the time of the German uprising, the Chinese are prepared to risk some deterioration of their relations with the outside world. They presumably are satisfied that they will be willing to forgive their insults in the interests of greater friendship.

CONFIRMS BELIEF

Nehru's restraint in dealing with the situation tends to confirm that the Chinese have no longer to overcome the effects of the wave of anti-Communism that has arisen, despite the prime minister's protests, in many parts of India.

There is no evidence that the Chinese revolt poses a serious threat to the Peiping regime, or that Communist China is likely to stir neutralist Asians into active hostility toward their neighbor. But there is little doubt some fences to mend in its campaign to make friends in the area.

Criticism Over Appointment Again Renewed

OTTAWA (CP) — Criticism of the government's method of appointing Alastair W. MacArthur as labor representative on the unemployment insurance commission has been renewed in the Commons by Opposition Leader Pearson and Hazen Argue, CCF House leader.

Mr. Pearson said that whatever side you take on the procedure followed by the government "it must surely be admitted that the whole result of this particular appointment is an unhappy and unfortunate one."

His fault was that now Mr. MacArthur hadn't the confidence of either the Congress of Labor or Catholic Confederation of Labor.

He said he does not think it could have a more effective" consultation when Labor Minister Starr told labor organizations he himself was going to recommend Mr. MacArthur for the job.

Neither Mr. Argue nor Mr. Pearson had any criticism of Mr. MacArthur personally. Both contended that the government had not lived up to requirements of the unemployment insurance act for full consultation with labor on the appointment.

SAYS ATTITUDE CHANGED

Mr. Argue said there seems to have been a change in the government's attitude toward labor since it was given its "crushing whipping" in the last election.

Before the election the government had used "public relations" with labor. But now that it had this "steamroller" majority it had apparently dropped its public relations people.

Donalda Martin (CCF — Timmins) said he doesn't deny that Mr. MacArthur, a former president of the Trades and Labor Congress, has the confidence of some of the ranks of labor. He did not have the support of the majority and that should be an important factor in representative on the unemployment insurance commission.

He said the appointment is going to cause disunity and confusion in the ranks of labor. He hoped this was not the government's purpose in selecting Mr. MacArthur.

Sunday School Lesson

Religion on Personal Basis

By ROY L. SMITH

Most of us are acquainted with the story of the man who shouted his "amens" when the preacher attacked the sins of other people, but who complained that he was "meddling" when he began to rebuke the shouter.

It is when the claims of religion become personal that we become sensitive. We are ready to applaud the idea that every man should be generous, until it becomes a question of us digging down into our own pockets. We are quite prepared to be brave when the problem is not ours; it is something else when we have to pay the price of our own bravery and foot the bill for our own convictions.

RECOGNIZED SINNER

There was a certain inner sense of honesty and justice in David, as there is in the most of us. He could see, quite readily, the contemptibility of the man who appropriated the lamb that belonged to another man. His difficulty lay in the fact that he never stopped to think of the hideous character of his own sin in appropriating the wife of another.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 10: "NATHAN AND DAVID," 2 Samuel 7; 11 and 12; I Kings 1:5-40.

Bobbie Burns, the intensely human Scot, once put a line into one of his poems, in which he prayed that all of us might be able to see ourselves as others see us, and the sentiment is a fine one. But it is just a little regretable that he did not write an equally haunting line about recognizing the faults in ourselves that are so evident when we look at other people. It was easy for David to recognize a sinner, but it was not always easy for him to recognize sin.

PLACE OF PROPHET

The Hebrew prophet — Nathan being one of the splendid examples — was a man quite unlike any other man to be found anywhere in the paganism of those times. He was a man of conviction who had the courage to speak truth to the great and the powerful. But perhaps it should be said that he was far safer in doing so among the Hebrews than among any other people of that ancient world.

The explanation is easy. There was a great principle embedded in the faith of the Hebrews which had come down to them from Moses. It was the doctrine of responsibility. According to the teachings of the great Hebrew founder every man, including every king, was responsible to the moral authority of God.

It meant that there was a power in this universe which was superior, even to that of a king or a government. This power, or authority, was Jehovah, the God of the Hebrews and even of all other men, for the Hebrews believed that God would eventually call even the pagans to account.

It was because the people, including the king, believed the prophets spoke for God that these godly men were treated with respect and, for the most part, were immune from any kingly wrath. This made it possible for the conscience of the people to be heard in high places. Inside paganism nothing of the kind could have happened, for among the pagans no power or authority above that of the king was ever recognized.

Upon this simple proposition rests the whole structure of democracy, and it is at this point that the totalitarian philosophy diverges most sharply from the democratic philosophy of life and government.

Inside of communism there is no place for a prophet; inside democracy the prophet is the one man free to express opinions and convictions. As long as there is one free voice in any society there is hope for the liberty of the people.

SINNED AGAINST GOD

David's sin was a very terrible thing, and under no circumstances can it be condoned. But he recognized his shameful deed for what it was, became truly penitent, and undertook to make amends.

There is something refreshing about the fact that David made no attempt to defend himself by laying the blame on someone or something other than himself. He did not plead for mercy because he had been born on the wrong side of the tracks, or that he was only a poor country boy who had never had much experience with the ways of the world. And certainly he did not try to take refuge in any psychological theory about inherited fartinets.

David did the one honorable thing he could have done under the circumstances, and in doing so he displayed a quality of splendor that many a modern sinner lacks. He said, "I am to blame; I am guilty; I have sinned against God, the highest and holiest thing in this universe."

Excursion Ship Upsets In Nile; Perhaps 200 Die

Victims Include Several Top Agricultural Men

CAIRO (AP)—Divers searched the brown waters of the Nile today for bodies trapped in a packed excursion boat which sank amid wild confusion with some of Egypt's leading agricultural engineers.

Police figures indicated perhaps 200 persons were missing—many of them women and children—in the holiday party of government engineers and their families.

The 200-ton double-decker Dandara rolled over just off shore Friday so fast that it was impossible to determine how many passengers got off. Many never had a chance.

Police estimated 100 were saved but the number lost may never be known for the outing tickets were sold in family groups. Whole families were drowned together.

NO CAUSE GIVEN

Agriculture Minister Sayed Marei described it as "a human disaster" and promised because those drowned include the best of our agricultural engineers."

One of the first to reach the scene was President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, who personally directed the rescue of some passengers struggling in the water.

The Dandara was headed for Garden Park, a picnic grounds at the Nile delta barrage (dam) eight miles downstream from Cairo.

One of the rescued was Ahmed Ismail, secretary of the Agricultural Engineers Syndicate which organized the excursion for the Moslem Friday Sabbath.

Upbound Ships Arriving Faster Than Cleared

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An armada is lying off the little shipping centre of Port Weller at the Lake Ontario end of the Welland Canal.

Early today 37 ships were waiting—in part through the 27½-mile canal to Lake Erie as upbound ships continued to arrive faster than they could be cleared.

Don Wilson, northern division canal superintendent, said Friday the canal's worst jam in 27 years would be relieved by the end of the rivals of upbound ships decreased.

More than 150 upbound ships have been cleared since the jam began earlier this week, officials estimate. They feared a pileup at the Port Colborne end when these vessels return but today there was no queue.

Canal men at Port Weller shuffled the vessels to keep the locks operating at capacity in every lift.

U. D. Leitch, president of Upper Lakes Shipping Company Limited, said in Toronto the traffic jam is being created for foreign crews unfamiliar with the canals.

The Welland lieups is the worst since the canal opened in 1932 when 31 ships were held in the Port Weller harbor.

Captain Harold Jacobsen, assistant marine supervisor of the Norwegian-American shipping line, said he told the same problem in Oslo to make preparations to expedite the flow of traffic "as it goes through the seaway".

He recommended that the ship carry her own loading booms for loading and unloading; a pulley for arrangement at the stern of the deck for mooring and winching purposes; and a crew to adapt quickly to new situations.

MERELY SHOWING FLAG

British ship owner John Mann says the real reason behind the waterway has resulted because "many ships are up here merely to show the flag" and that heavy traffic isn't a sign of prosperity.

In Toronto on a tour of Great Lakes ports, Mr. Mann said "when the seaway opens the situation will settle back and things will be more normal. The regular trade will develop."

German Tanker Aground on Shoal

KINGSTON (CP) — A German oil tanker ran aground early today in Lake Ontario entrance of the St. Lawrence River.

First reports said the Helmrich was caught at the bow on the Ducharme Shoal, a mile off the American ship channel, three miles east of Horse Point across the St. Lawrence from Kingston.

A tug and a barge were dispatched from the harbor here to free the German ship, believed to have gone aground at about 2.30 a.m.

The ship was downbound in Montreal and has just taken on a river pilot at Hornet's Point when the accident occurred.

PM SEES CANADA FORGING OUT OF DEPRESSION

Speaks to Party Backers at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada has pushed out of the recession faster than other countries, despite Liberal predictions that Progressive Conservative anti-slump measures would bring "blue ruin," Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday night.

To a crowd of more than 3,000 party backers from the Montreal area who gave him a testimonial dinner, Mr. Diefenbaker said "the gross national product and all the major economic indicators—personal income, savings, consumer spending, number of people with jobs—have reached all-time highs."

"It is with pride that we can say up, up, up" for these economic factors, he said.

TRADE FIGURES

Although foreign trade was still "a soft spot" in the economy—imports off three per cent in the first three months of the year compared with last year—"exports increased much faster" than imports, the trade figures showed.

"We're meeting the problem of unemployment," Mr. Diefenbaker said. "Between February and March, showed "a drop of 12 per cent in the category of persons without jobs in Canada."

"In the last three months available, as compared with the same three months a year earlier, industrial production is up four per cent, manufacturing production up five per cent, industrial production in durable goods, building production up 11 per cent, electricity and gas distribution up nine per cent, motor vehicle production up 13 per cent, steel production up 17 per cent and capital investment in housing up 25 per cent."

TAXES SURVEYED

Tax increases announced in last year's budget mean another $245,000,000 will come into the federal treasury, Mr. Diefenbaker said. Most "we are paying not twice as much this year"—$550,000,000 in health insurance, welfare and social security payments.

Despite this "our net debt per capita in 1959 of $676 is lower than it was in 1949 or even in 1957." The 1957 figure was $702.

The vision of an industrialized Northland was proving far from a dream, Mr. Diefenbaker said. Liberals termed it, Mr. Diefenbaker said, "pie in the sky."

The prime minister, who flew here with members of his cabinet, said the north's many problems to be solved. He appealed to all party members to put their problems before the government.

Crushed to Death

NEW GLASCOW, Ont. (CP) — Norman A. Peet, 27, was killed Monday in Aldborough Township, 27 miles east of Chatham, when a tractor he was using overturned under his overturned tractor in a laneway on his farm.

'Let Yourself Go', 5,000 Patrons Did Just That

OTTAWA (CP) — "Let yourselves go," was the order of the ceremonies, and 5,000 paying patrons did just that Friday night at the annual capital's annual springtime party.

They roared with laughter and applause as a group of prominent Ottawans clowned their way through a "Cinderella" production of the Robinson Crusoe story with Opposition Leader Lester Pearson as Crusoe.

The capacity crowd let them-selves go in the Mikado and the music of a seven-member Trinidad steel band and the rhythmical beat of seven Little Carib dancers from Port of Spain.

The party — best crowd was logged informally — some may wore knee - length shorts. They paid $2 admission and another 50 cents for a Crusoe footprint to identify them as the real Party of seniors were out to raise at least $18,000 for the Ottawa Philharmonic Orchestra.

Standard Traffic Signs Adopted for All Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's provinces and cities have taken the climactic step in a move to standardize traffic signs and signals and pavement markings across the country.

The final move at the two-day national meeting of the joint committee on uniform traffic control devices was to approve the traffic signs section of a 10-part manual which will be distributed to all governments responsible for traffic control, down to the smallest villages.

Sections on pavement markings and signals were approved earlier. All three kinds of traffic devices up to now have differed from province to province and city to city.

Provincial highways ministers are expected to announce Monday their acceptance and endorsation of the national plan has been produced in three years of work by 100 traffic engineers and other technical experts in major cities.

The signs section—containing illustrations of the 300 signs for all purposes that are to be used on Canada's highways across Canada — was considered the most important.

Ian Mackenzie of the Ontario highways department, committee chairman, said the standard signs may bring an appreciable drop in traffic accidents.

The signs will be as familiar with signs in a strange province as those at home, and there will be less chance of fatal highway mistakes. The standard signs also would save taxpayers millions of dollars, he said, and need for individual provincial research is eliminated.

The joint committee's research subcommittee will remain active with a view to producing a revised manual in about five years.

The manual is to be read for official presentation at a week-long meeting in Vancouver next September of the Canadian Good Roads Association, co-sponsor of the joint committee with the Canadian Institute of Traffic Engineers.

Among—the signs approved was one for the Trans-Canada Highway designating the country's first coast-to-coast route. The rectangular sign — centred by a white maple leaf on a green background — will be the same for all provinces, except the name of the province will be given in a scroll-type band under the maple leaf.

Also in the section of the manual recommends standardization of all traffic signs according to shape, color, dimensions, symbols, wording, lettering and reflectorization for nighttime use.

The signs are in three major classifications.

Regulatory — These inform motorists of highway regulations such as speed limits and stopping prohibitions. They are rectangular with the longer dimension vertical and have a white background. An exception is the stop sign which is octagonal KINGSTON (CP) — Nelles Edmondston of Arthabaska, Que., Friday to succeed a place on the board of directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce because of the manner in which the chamber dealt with Quebec separatism, a resolution on housing.

"The delegate from the home to which I belong," Mr. Edmondston said he felt the chamber's annual meeting had been influenced by a telegram from the Atikokan resolution. Instead it referred the problem to the board of directors for further study.

The resolution asked for measures by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation which would help home payments in low-cost housing in remote areas. Some delegates felt it was a matter concerned federal matters, coming within the field of the municipality. Other Ontarian delegates disagreed with this view.

Friday's closing meeting confirmed the statements and resolutions passed by two days of committee sessions.

Gordon E. Browning of Sudbury was elected president for the coming year, succeeding W. Irving Smith of Toronto.

Demerit System Proving Itself Says Premier

BRANTFORD (CP) — Premier Frost says that Ontario's driver demerit system is proving its self.

He said at the opening of a manufacturing plant here that since the system was introduced April 1 deaths on the province's highways alone have dropped from an average of about 175 a day to 5.

"This indicates a great reduction in the loss of life and the loss of pain and suffering and financial loss.

Mr. Frost said that the "present system is a trial run owing to the fact that speeds on various highways are being reassessed and changed" in accordance with traffic ability to handle traffic.

Provincial and municipal road programs this year would cost about $325,000,000.

The premier indicated that Ontario's population has risen to 10,000,000 from 5,500,000 in 10 years.

MILLION NEW WORKERS

We shall add another 1,000,000 workers to our 4½ million force" in that time, he said, adding that Ontario manufacturers employ about 1,100,000 to 1,000,000 worth of goods.

Since the second World War, 2,000 new industries had settled in the province that accounted for more than half of Canada's manufacturing production and for two-thirds of the country's population.

Ontario accounts for about 60 per cent of personal income received in Canada, said Mr. Frost, and contributes 50 per cent of all Canadian retail sales.

ANOTHER LABOR LEADER IN HOUSE ATTACK

Hal C. Banks Called 'Murderer, Gangster'

OTTAWA (CP) — Another Canadian labor leader has come under sharp attack in the Commons for the second straight day.

Burly Hal C. Banks, contentious United States citizen who heads the Canadian section of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC), was described Friday by W. G. Henderson (PC-Cariboo) as a "murderer and a gangster."

Arnold Peters' (CCF-Timiskaming) agreed Mr. Banks "comes into the category of a gangster" but added that, as a member of the United States labor movement (CLC) himself, he knows of no other union official in Canada who can be so described.

ROUGH TACTICS

The immediate attack on the Canadian SIU head, whose union has a reputation for rough labor tactics, came during continuing study of the labor department estimates, now in their 11th day.

It followed the description of Mr. Banks Thursday by Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) as "the most notorious labor leader to come to Canada was no credit to the former Liberal government and that the Conservative government has taken no action to get this "unwanted immigrant" out. The trade union movement should not be restricted for his presence.

The Socialist member said the publication CNR, with the assistance of the federal government had brought Mr. Banks to Canada.

CSU SMASHED

One result of that — credited to Mr. Banks — was the smashing of the Communist-led Canadian Seamen's Union, Mr. Fisher said.

Mr. Henderson interjected that the Conservative government "has tried to get him out." Mr. Banks, he said, is a "murderer and a gangster."

Mr. Banks, who came to Canada in 1949, has a U.S. criminal record and has been convicted on charges in connection with smuggled cigarets, although a 1956 application for Canadian citizenship was rejected.

Mr. Peters, on another subject, warned that management may have been "spurred on" by the political action though the proposed third party into the left field of Canadian politics. He suggested that this party will only come into being if the trade unions are forced to take the action the need is there," he said.

Hubert Balanal (L-Fort William) said the government has given no indication of any effective plan to meet winter unemployment next year.

The Liberal program was only a drop in the bucket. The government should "get on the people to "do it now" in order to create winter employment had been more effective.

Liberal Party In Best Shape For 20 Years

KINGSTON (CP) — The Liberal party in Ontario is in better shape than it has been for 20 years, Walter J. Henderson, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, told the party convention here.

He said a "careful and exhaustive survey shows the Liberal situation in Ontario "in first-class shape" with "an extremely strong base of support" for the future.

"There are half a million new voters in Ontario and the swing of many of these toward the Liberal party is going to be a strong swing away from the Conservatives can easily give us the necessary majority."

Khrushchev Says Sixteen H-Bombs Could Wipe Out All Western Europe

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio today said that Soviet Premier Khrushchev privately told West German editors eight hydrogen bombs would be enough to put West Germany out of action.

The broadcast quoted Khrushchev as saying "obviously not more" would be needed to take care of the rest of western Europe.

Moscow reported the talks between the Soviet premier and the German delegation took place Tuesday.

On the same talk, Khrushchev was quoted Friday as telling the West Germans that Russia "would have "losses and great ones" in event of war, but the Western powers would be literally wiped off the face of the earth."

He said NATO's bomber force and the bases in the United States also was lagging behind the Soviet Union in rocket technology.

Threat Of Snarl Over Procedure Already Looming

Argument May Develop On Others Taking Part

GENEVA (AP) — Big Four foreign ministers arrive here today with the Communists in a confident mood for the East-West talks opening Monday on Berlin, Germany and European security.

Western diplomatic sources cautioned against raising high hopes. There were prospects of a snarl at the outset on the agenda and procedure.

The Western powers have prepared a package plan. The Russians want to give priority to Berlin and a German peace treaty and object to bringing in Western plans for German unification and European security at the same time.

More argument may develop on whether outside powers may participate in the first Big Four foreign ministers parley since 1955.

IT RUSSIANS

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was expected to lead the ministers into the town today in the first of a three-day delegation.

U.S. State Secretary Christian A. Herter, after a stopover in Bonn for a conference with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, and French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville also were due today.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, the last of the Big Four, is not coming until Sunday morning.

MAY WANT ITALY IN

It is expected that if the Russians get their way, including the Communist states as Poland and Czechoslovakia in the talks, the West will counter by demanding a seat for Italy.

The Western package includes: Retention of Western rights in Berlin, a phased reunification of Germany in which free elections would be the last stage instead of the first, and some form of controlled limitation of armament in central Europe for European security.

Calls Parley 'Red Herring'

RICHMOND HILL (CP) — John Wintermeyer, Ontario Liberal candidate in the April 6 by-election here, said Friday the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference of finance ministers in Ottawa is a "mere red herring arranged by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Frost."

Mr. Wintermeyer told a nomination meeting that the proposed conference is "a piece of political strategy."

The Liberal leader also criticized the provincial debt, which he said is rising debt at the rate of $200,000,000 a year.

90 pc Motorists Now Insured Says Minister

TORONTO (CP) — More than 90 per cent of Ontario motorists now have liability insurance policies.

Deputy Transport Minister Don Collins said Friday an increase from 71 per cent has occurred since the province started imposing a $5 charge on those without liability insurance.

Mr. Collins, noting recent car insurance premiums increases in New York State, said Ontario premiums are still low by comparison.

In New York, rates had zoomed far above those of Ontario following the state's adoption of a compulsory insurance policy.

Mr. Collins said changes announced for this year show the following comparisons:

Private cars with no males under 25 drives occasionally or which are owned by married males under 25, Buffalo, $378, Toronto, $83.

Private cars where a male under 25 drives occasionally or which are owned by married males under 25, Buffalo, $168.60, Toronto, $54.

Private cars owned or mainly driven by unmarried males under 25 — Buffalo, $471, Toronto, $78.

These rates are for $10,000 liability for one person killed or injured, $20,000 for more than one person killed or injured and $5,000 property damage.

New York's compulsory insurance calls for very greater coverage than required by Ontario or provides from the state a non-unsatisfied judgment fund for protection against uninsured drivers, the deputy minister said.

EXPECT MOTHER'S DAY CALLS TO BE HEAVY

The local Bell Telephone exchange expects to complete some 3,800 long distance telephone calls tomorrow, Mother's Day, according to G. W. Proctor, local Bell manager. This is an anticipated six per cent increase over last year's calls at this time.

Improved technical facilities such as direct dialing to distant cities by local operators, and the fact that more people are giving the numbers of the telephones they wish to get through to are resulting in faster service.

J.L. Ashline Given Banquet On Retirement

Sixty-seven fellow employees attended a retirement banquet for William J. L. Ashline of the Bell Telephone Company last Thursday evening at the Bell, Quinte. Mr. Ashline joined the company at their Montreal office in 1921, later coming to Belleville in 1924 where he remained, with the exception of five years spent with the army in World War II.

Several presentations were made to the former outside representative of the Bell company. His fellow employees presented a movie camera and a seascape painting by one of their own members; his membership in the Canadian Telephone Employees' Association and in the Telephone Pioneers of America were also given; and a president's wallet was presented on behalf of the company by W. B. Northgrave of Kingston, the district manager.

There were a number of persons present from Picton, Trenton, and Kingston at the banquet, which was held on by Mr. Ashline's fellow Belleville employees. Master of ceremonies for the occasion was G. W. Proctor, local manager. Mr. Ashline, who was accompanied by his wife, very ably expressed his thanks to those present.

Annual Mother-Daughter Banquet Held at YMCA Here

Last night was "achievement night" for some 80 local girls when they were guests of their sponsors at the annual Y.M.C.A. mother-and-daughter banquet held in the Y's auditorium.

The girls were the Y's Merettes Club, and the event was sponsored by the almost capacity attendance attested to the success of this annual affair.

Chairman for the program was Y's Merettes' president, Mrs. J. Bertram Wood, who in brief address, welcomed those present.

Head table guests were introduced by Y.M.C.A. secretary, D. G. Diamantides.

A toast to the mothers was proposed by Miss Betty Brownson, and responded to by Mrs. G. Ost.

Brief addresses of greetings were given by "Y" president, Jack Ireland, on behalf of the board of directors; Mrs. H. House, on behalf of the youth committees; and Miss Ann Gilbert, on behalf of the physical education staff.

President Ireland congratulated the Y's Merettes on their fine work as evidenced by the excellent turnout. He then presented certificates to the first stage program decided upon by the Y's board of directors for the building of a new gymnasium building. A site will be chosen by the end of this year, a fund-raising campaign will be held in the following year, and the building will be erected three years hence, he said.

PLAN FOR CAMPS

Mrs. House, on behalf of the newly instituted youth committees, briefly explained the work of this committee, and announced Miss Kay Homan will be in charge of the girls' day camp at Oak Lake being held July 20 to 31st; and Miss Jack Bernhardt will be in charge of the boys' day camp, July 6 to 17th.

Mrs. Ireland, on behalf of physical education committee briefly described the work of this committee, and commended all who didn't win a crest or award for their effort and willingness to try, and urged them to always try to do their best.

A demonstration on the new balance beam was presented by Misses Ruth Bannon and Shirley Robinson and members of the Juniors and Intermediates; and Miss Michele McFadden of the preps. Instructor Miss Lynda Peoples introduced the girls.

STAFF CHANGES

A brief address on what the Belleville YMCA means to "togetherness" was given by "Y" vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Finkle. She then welcomed Miss Kay Homan as a permanent member of the "Y" staff, and announced the resignation of Miss Lynda Peoples, who is leaving this year to attend Peterborough Teachers' College. Both girls were presented with gifts on behalf of the Y's Merettes. Miss Peoples was also presented with a gift on behalf of the YMCA.

An interesting address on the work of the "Y" in other lands was given by Mrs. H. F. Swann, Mrs. Bruce Wood, vice-president, spoke several years in China, Trinidad and Barbados. Mrs. Swann has had experience to highlight her talk.

Mrs. Swann and the girls every time they link up with something new and big, they are interested in it, and will never be the same.

"We are linking up with something big here in the YMCA," she stated.

Those taking part in describing the organization of the "Y" in Trinidad, explained it was a "radio-active" Y in that country, because it enabled them to make contact with the people, and specials such as knitting and crocheting. These skills they passed on to the natives' girls, she said.

PASS ON SKILLS

"The big thing about learning skills overseas is that it is a privilege . . . and a responsibility to pass them on to someone else," she said, in warning the girls not to come to the YMCA just for something new.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Gillespie, and thanked by Mrs. F. R. Clarke. She was presented with a lovely floral centrepiece of red carnations and white 'mums by Mrs. Bernhardt.

The swimming and physical education awards were presented by Miss Peoples (both "Y" instructors); Mrs. C. Lowther and Mrs. J. Perrault.

A brief address of appreciation to the mothers on behalf of the girls was given by Miss Pat Szymcsous.

A sing-song was held following the dinner, led by song leader Mrs. H. Weir, with Mrs. D. Sim as pianist.

Prior to the dinner grace was said by Mrs. Brian Bird.

Home Builders Hear Story of Brick Industry

The Quinte Home Builders' Association held their monthly dinner meeting recently at the Sagars Club with Mr. A. MacDonald, manager of the Brick and Tile Institute, as guest speaker. He gave a very interesting talk on the various aspects of the manufacture, sale and use of brick in the building trade.

Different methods of manufacturing brick, such as dry-press extruded, molded or pressed bricks were outlined in the talk. This was followed by a movie showing the history and development of the brick industry through the ages. Following the film there was a lively question and answer period. The speaker was thanked by Doug Black of Wilson Concrete Products.

Some discussion concerning the activities of the local planning board re sub-division and zoning followed. Both were held and it was decided that the association's liaison committee meet with the local planning board to obtain pertinent information concerning these matters. Charles Lambert, president of the local association, gave a general outline of the activities of the group and indicated that there could be arranged for members of the National Research Council fa-cilities at Ottawa. Considerable interest in this was shown by those present and it was expected that arrangements will be made through Mr. Eric Carter, the local Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation inspector.

The Rose Birch Company was thanked for sponsoring the dinner's refreshments. It was announced that the June dinner meeting would be charter night for the Quinte Home Builders' Association, to be held on the third of that month.

Council Member Concerned Over Price of New School

TRENTON — A member of the Trenton town council, who wished to remain unnamed, said he felt that perhaps it would have been better if the Trenton Board of Education had followed through with board member, Mrs. E. Bedford's idea and build additions to the Dufferin school and the Macaulay school rather than the proposed new one.

Although the councillor did not say what the cost of the new school would be he said he felt it would be too much according to the estimated total price of about $300,000. He said he earnestly believed the town could not afford a new school at this price at the present time.

The tenders for the new school which will be built on Dufferin St. South, and near the Downs-Coulter plant, were opened at a special meeting of the Board of Education earlier this week. Mr. Bedford, chairman of the board's planning committee, said the amount of the successful tender will not be revealed until the plans and the price have been discussed between the architect and the contractor to see if it is brought down.

Unofficially it has been learned that the lowest bid for the new school was $284,000. The price is for the construction of the building and the site on which that will be: architect's fees of 8 per cent and based on the $284,000 cost of the new school, $10,500; cost of site, estimated at $5,000; cost of desks, chairs, etc., to furnish the school, $12,000, to make a total of $311,500 cost.

On the issue of the price for the site, the cost of the land have asked $37,500 for the property, but the Board of Education has offered $32,000 for this amount and have expropriated the land, and it is understood the matter will be settled in the courts. However, some of the members of the board feel that the present owners will be reasonable in the vicinity of $15,000 for the land, but say that remains to be seen.

INTEREST CHARGES

It is also understood that if the aforementioned amounts are correct the interest that the taxpayers of Trenton will be charged on the debentures which will be spread over a period of twenty years.

This interest, at a rate of 5½ per cent on an 87-day amount is $142,000, to bring the total net cost of the school to a grand total of $446,000 for eight rooms and an auditorium.

Also present with the Provincial Department of Education for the building of this school, and a member of the school board said it was 41 per cent and another said it was raised this year to 48 per cent. He said the latter did not include an additional grant of an unknown amount which has also been approved for the auditorium and the site. Both were put into effect this year by the provincial legislature.

The grants on the school will be in a bulk sum but are paid to the municipality each year. The board will receive the money they pay towards the debentures which fall due and in several other ways.

One school board member said it was most unfortunate the department would not issue the grant in a bulk sum and this could be paid on the capital and thus reduce the interest fees and municipalities a considerable amount of money. He said, however, they (the provincial department) also have a budget and would likely be impossible for them to do so.

It has also been reported that the plans for the new school still have to be approved by the Department of Education offices and it must still receive third and final readings by the Trenton town council.

One bright spot to the whole picture is the report that the lowest bidder of the seven tenders was by a local firm and that the job will without a doubt go to them.

Several Projects Now Under Way By Legion

TRENTON — The executive Council of Branch 110 of the Legion met recently in their hall.

Reports of committee chairmen revealed several projects had been under taken and had either been completed or were in the process of completion. House committee chairman, Orvell C. Smith, reported that a new flag pole and flag had been installed on top of the building, additional furniture had been received for the TV lounge, and that the building itself was in a good state of repair. Membership chairman, Norman Livingstone, informed the council, membership was well ahead of a corresponding period last year and that with the continued support of all members his target of 1,000 members by the end of 1959 would be reached.

Ways and Means chairman W. T. Lawson and Entertainment chairman, Jack Gilmour, were commended for their efforts in making arrangements for the Legionaires attending the district convention recently.

Horace Ketcheson, who is in charge of the 'Blitz' for the Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal, for the drive, reported on the arrangements had been finalized and that a number of canvassers was assured.

After much general discussion of general business and routine processing of other matters, the meeting adjourned.

New Executive Gets Support Sudbury Miners

SUDBURY (CP) — Subdued miners have awarded Don Gillis a vote of confidence in his fight to retain the leadership of Local 598, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

Mr. Gillis survived two general membership meetings to keep the presidency of the big local.

Friday's meeting was quiet, in contrast to the one on the night before which erupted in disorder and ended with the financial secretary knocked unconscious.

Mr. Gillis, who left the stormy meeting of four shift workers shortly before he went into the second meeting with night-shift crews, termed the assault on Ray Poirier "a cowardly attack."

REMEMBERS LITTLE

He said Thursday night said he remembered little of the affair, which occurred as he was leaving the union hall after criticizing "the tinge of communism in the local."

"I blacked out," he said. "I don't remember a thing about the incident."

The assault took place as about 1,000 miners Friday night milled around in the streets after listening to the speeches in the night tender will not be revealed until the plans and the price have been discussed between the architect and the contractor to see if it is brought down.

Pick Jr. Citizen of Year To Mark Citizenship Week

Confirmation of an earlier suggested program for the observance of Citizenship Week next week was made today by Mayor Gerald R. Boyle.

Highlighting the week will be the naming of a Junior Citizen of the Year, with the winner invited to receive awards at the noon Rotary luncheon and also at city hall Monday evening during the regular meeting of council.

The Junior Citizen of the Year on the invitation of Mayor Gerald Hyde will act as mayor for the day on Tuesday when he will assume the chief magistrate's responsibilities at city hall.

Special speaker for the noon Rotary luncheon will be Arthur Maloney, P.C., member of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Federal government. A noted criminal lawyer, Mr. Maloney will address Rotary on "Citizenship."

During the luncheon the Junior Citizen of the Year will be presented with a trophy which will be officially presented later at council. Mr. James Durfort, chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School District Board will also explain the method of making the junior citizen selection.

Citizenship Week will be continued on Wednesday at the Hastings County Courthouse, where citizenship courts will be held by County Judge J. C. Anderson. During the course of approximately 40 candidates will receive their Canadian Citizenship papers.

Following the Citizenship Court the Argyle Presbyterian C.G.I.T. and the St. Julien Chapter will entertain the New Canadians at a tea in the room at the Armouries.

Friday will be nationally observed as Citizenship Day throughout Canada.

Throughout the week a display of photography and art work, the work of New Canadians, will be on exhibition at the McCarthy Theatre.

High School PTA Holds Interesting Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD — The general meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Campbellford High School was held in the auditorium on Thursday with 120 teachers and pupils taking part. President Mrs. Hopping presided. The teaching staff was introduced. Principal Mr. R. Darling assured the meeting that the school's salary schedule was satisfactory and competitive. As a result, a number of the present staff are staying on and three teachers with outstanding qualifications have already made application for next term. Students are now receiving adequate instruction in all subjects and if they apply themselves can get their year.

Mrs. L. S. Raper and Mrs. Stevenson, of Peterborough, have very pressent duties in the role of the Home and School Association in the Secondary School and the addresses given on Association by the Federation.

Mrs. Roper stated the quality of high school education depended also on informed public opinion. Adolescents need the help and guidance of parents and teachers in solving their problems. Parents and teachers must try to discover the forces at work available to the student; the amount of study required and a student's ability in order to assist him in planning his life's work.

It was decided to postpone a decision to affiliate with the Federation at this time.

Dr. Hackett and Mr. Hopping thanked the speakers.

Three Bandits Get $30,000 at Montreal Tavern

MONTREAL (CP) — Three bandits grabbed $30,000 in cash from a busy north-end tavern Friday in what police estimate was the biggest tavern robbery in Montreal's history.

Police called to the Taverne du Nord shortly before noon gave chase to the getaway car but lost it in heavy traffic. The three men had grabbed the money and fled in an estimated 30 seconds.

Armed and wearing black nylon masks, the men entered through the door and, while one stood by the door the two approached bartender Gilles Barbeau and Jean Paul and said: "The money."

They broke into the office and took the money from an open safe. Police said the tavern did an unusually large amount of money on hand to cash pay cheques of men working at a nearby construction site.

Gerry Beaudry, the owner, estimated the holdup took 30 seconds. "They cut the wires from the four phones we have in the bar and the entire robbery seemed to have been well planned," he said.

There were 35 customers in the tavern at the time.

Appeal Board On Education Costs Requested

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A motion calling for establishment of a provincial board of appeals with power to limit expenditures by municipal boards of education, was unanimously approved Friday at the conclusion of the convention of Ontario mayors and reeves.

The association expressed dissatisfaction with the existing system of assessing education revenues. Boards of education now submit their budgets to municipal councils for collection only. The council cannot appeal against any capital items demanded by the board.

The recommendation suggested the Ontario department of municipal affairs and the department of education create a joint board to which local councils can appeal if they feel boards of education are going too far in their demands.

ASK FEDERAL FUNDS

Another resolution asked that some of the money for education be obtained through increased provincial grants from the federal government.

Mayor Lee Hill Villano of Timmins received thunderous applause when he suggested that reeves and mayors form a new political party.

He protested an ultimatum to the three major political parties, telling them to pay the cost of teachers' salaries or face a fourth party.

Despite the enthusiastic greeting, the idea was not put to a vote.

Delegates voted to ask the Ontario government to extend the retirement age of teachers to 65 from 62 and recommend a provincial government study of teachers' salaries.

The convention agreed to ask the department of education to consider the financial implications of building more junior high schools.

ASK UNIFORM CODE

They also decided to ask the government to consider creating a uniform code for school buses throughout the province.

The delegates endorsed an Ontario Police Association request for the establishment of a provincial police training college.

Charge Youth With Entering Seven Houses

A recent series of house breaking offenses was believed by city police to have been cleared with the arrest on Friday of Allister Leonard Plewis, 18, Sidney Street.

Police Detective Harold Reid said that they young man had been charged on seven different counts of house breaking and was expected to appear in the magistrate's court on Tuesday.

The house break-ins took place mostly over the past two months.

A Polaroid camera stolen from a West Hill residence was recovered, police said.

Vandals Enter Two Offices

Vandals are blamed by police for malicious damage found to have been done at two offices during the night at the offices of the Beaver Lumber Company and at the White Feed Mill on South John Street.

Police said the entry had been forced in both instances, with office equipment being overturned and desk and glass broken. Nothing was believed missing from either place of business.

Police also reported wheat appeared to have been an attempted safe-breaking job at the office of the Singer Sewing Machine on Front Street.

Night patrol officers discovered the forced entry and investigation revealed the office safe had been attacked. The intruders, however, were scared away before their mission was completed.

'Just Bystander' Says Astaire of Sullivan Blast

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fred Astaire says he's just an "innocent bystander" in Ed Sullivan's blast against the Emmy awards, which Astaire has won 10 times.

Sullivan said in New York Friday night that the ballots of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences should be investigated by the academy after that something similar does not occur in the future. To do this, we must know what happened and we are still investigating it.

"It could have resulted from circumstance, a failure in system or human error. We intend to correct whatever may have happened.

"Insofar as CBC staff is concerned, the correspondence record of support has been excellent over the years. CBC officials could not be extended where flagrant error is apparent to do.

"In the present instance, we still do not know the cause."

Thomas Frauenlob-Smith, "national committeeman of the academy, said he will telephone New York Monday to learn more about the Sullivan pique.

Sullivan said: "Astaire received seven major Emmys and he certainly deserved six of them.

"I would like to see the ballots which bypassed Paul Muni, Bob Steiger, Mickey Rooney and other genuine actors and fine ones."

Not Conducting 'Witch Hunt' Says Director

OTTAWA (CP) — A CBC official replied Friday night to allegations that the publicly-owned corporation is conducting a "witch hunt" among its own personnel following public criticism of a French network television play.

Ron Fraser, CBC director, of public relations, said the corporation has an excellent record for backing up its staff.

The expression "witch hunt" was attributed Friday to Roberson Davies, author and playwright. In commenting on it Mr. Fraser, said Mr Davies either was "speaking on the basis of misinformation or lack of information, because we ourselves do not know how this could have happened."

The TV play, presented Sunday night, concerned the early life of Marie Therese Marguerite D'Youville, founder of the Grey Nuns. While it was being shown, beatification ceremonies were taking place in Rome.

Mr. Davies said the CBC must share the responsibility for the program being presented in the manner it was, and should not make one of its staff the sole

ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Fraser said in a statement:

"The CBC has already accepted responsibility for the program, as demonstrated by its apology to the religious orders concerned.

"However, we have the right to expect responsibility of contributors that something similar does not occur in the future. To do this, we must know what happened and we are still investigating it.

"It could have resulted from circumstance, a failure in system or human error. We intend to correct whatever may have happened.

"Insofar as CBC staff is concerned, the correspondence record of support has been excellent over the years. CBC officials could not be extended where flagrant error is apparent to do.

"In the present instance, we still do not know the cause."

ACT NEEDS AMENDMENT

The dispute between Hon. Michael Starr, Federal Minister of Labor, and Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, over the appointment of Alastair MacArthur as labor representative on the Unemployment Insurance Commission is drawing considerable editorial comment.

Most newspapers we have seen are backing Mr. Starr. "It is the responsibility of the Government to decide who is to serve," says the Toronto Telegram. "The Government, and the Government alone, is responsible for appointments to the public service," says the Ottawa Journal.

Arthur Blakely, the Montreal Gazette's excellent Ottawa correspondent, devotes a lengthy column to the discussion of the controversy, and to the provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act regarding the appointment of commissioners. Mr. Blakely appears to share the Telegram and Journal view that the Government's position is correct, yet he declares that the Government and the CLC take quite different interpretations of the meaning of consultation and contends that the CLC "understandably" regards the word, in the context of the Act, as meaning consent, approval, endorsation, acceptance, concurrence or confirmation.

How does one reconcile a situation in which, if we are to accept Mr. Blakely's version, both the Government and the CLC are being reasonable? We suggest that the explanation is that the unreasonable ingredients in this brew is the ambiguous section of the Unemployment Insurance Act which provides that the chairman of the commission is to be regarded as a representative of the public at large and then states, with respect to the other two commissioners: "One commissioner, other than the chief commissioner, shall be appointed after consultation with organizations representative of workers and the other after consultation with organizations representative of employers."

If the Government is not bound to choose from those suggested for appointment by organizations representative of workers, (or organizations representative of employers), why should it be required to consult these organizations? Any government wishing to consult such organizations would be free to do so even if the act made no reference to consultation and if the advice sought were disregarded this would be accepted with much better grace if the original act or consultation had not been perfunctory. On the other hand, if the Government is bound to choose one of the persons suggested by these organizations, why pretend that the Government is making the appointment? Why not let the organizations make the selection and free the Government from the onus of responsibility for an appointment over which it has no complete control?

The present Government is not responsible for the wording of the Act; it should amend the wording to make it conform with its conviction, the nature of which is fairly evident from the procedure followed in Mr. McArthur's appointment.

WHAT, NO TURKEY?

We see that the Bakelite Bowling League recently held a banquet to wind up its 10th successful season. What makes this worthy of mention in the editorial columns is the fare enjoyed -- it was roast beef. What happened to the chickens and the turkeys we don't know, but we congratulate whoever was responsible for the Bakelite bowlers getting out of a gastronomic rut which is leading to massive consumptions of the Grand Canyon. There was a time when poultry was a luxury -- wasn't it Calvin Coolidge who referred to a chicken in the pot for Sunday dinner as a proof of prosperity worthy to be mentioned in the same breath with two cars in every garage? But that day has passed. Chicken and even turkey are today no more expensive than beef -- indeed with beef prices what they are perhaps the Bakelite banquet fare was the result of a particularly fat league bankroll, with lobster thermidor being considered as an alternative but discarded as too obviously "putting on the dog."

GOOD MANAGEMENT

Father Legare warned the danger is "that we may induce all kinds of men who will 'fit in' harmoniously with what we used to men who will 'lead' effectively. Group management is too often described as the ideal, and individualism is frowned upon. But conformity can be overdone and originality undervalued."—Ottawa Citizen.

MOTHER-LOVE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Somehow, I never understood,
Before our little baby came,
That mother-love is sweeter far
Than other loves that bear the name.

I never understood just why
A mother's eyes would sparkle so
Then she a little baby spied—
But now I know.

We seen a mother drudge and toil
Till quite forget her weariness
If her little tot would smile.

And I marveled, wondering how
Such a love as this could grow;
That was before our baby came,
But now I know.

And father-love is quite akin
To mother-love, it seems to me.
I've heard a father boast and brag
About the child upon his knee.
And I have wondered how a man so;
That was before our baby came,
But now I know.

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer

by HARRY M. MOORE

ARTICLE 17

Among the many citizens we were soon to get acquainted with during those early days in Deseronto was one G. H. Harrold, who prior to the war, after coming to Canada to operate the Metallic Roofing Co. at Belleville, had made his home there. His brother, a brilliant writer, was at that time on the editorial staff of The Ottawa Citizen. He died some years ago.

The (Deseronto) Harrold was to be connected with the RAF at Camp Borden from the very beginning. He was with the force when it went into winter training in Texas. He had been a personal friend of Capt. Vernon Castle, a training officer in the RAF, but before the war internationally famous as a dancer.

The Castle story bears repeating. It was featured by the local American magazines of the era and it was from them we gleaned the facts, never dreaming that some day we would have occasion to recall them. To begin with, Vernon Castle served his living by dancing at little known places in and around London, England, his native land. And one evening came and he became infatuated with one of the women guests. In short, this daughter of Erin, Irene by name, and much against parental wishes, marrying the little-known dancer, left London to follow up residence in Paris. It was touch and go for the Castles with Irene's mother but husband's coaching, became as expert a dancer as Vernon. They went on it was one big success after another, with a fortune in the offing.

With new fields to conquer the Castles moved to the United States where they were soon to be lauded as "top." Money began to flow and they put their money into a dancing school in Fifth avenue, New York city. There they would advance the cause of dancing, there they had visions of more interested in the art. They were doing well when the World War broke. Vernon at once took a ship for England to join the Royal Flying Corps. Irene in time arrived in Deseronto to act Instructress of Physical Culture. Later on Irene was to visit him, to join with her husband in leading performances for the benefit of the Quinte district.

KILLED IN AIR CRASH

Capt. Vernon Castle had several close calls from serious injury or death at Camp Mohawk, the planes of that era being what they were. There was one occasion when he crash landed his plane on the top of a building and was thrown out, he, the building caught fire, but he managed to escape unhurt. A picture of the event appeared in Time magazine shortly afterwards.

However, Castle's phenomenal luck was to forsake him, for he was killed in a crash at Camp Taliaferro, Texas. As Mr. Harrold, who witnessed the accident, described it, he was on a routine flight with a trainee, the plane was in the air with which sudden- ly it nose-dived to earth. Both Castle and the youngster who was piloting the craft were removed from the wreckage, dead.

The war over, G. H. Harrold entered the electrical business from his home in Deseronto, but was still to be air-minded. He came to us with a proposition to sell us a refuse pulley plane which, for any reason, must land at Camp Mohawk, by the Bay of Quinte bathing resort not in public use any more. He was interested in this way, the fact that oil and gasoline would be available in any field was a big factor. All the flier would have to do would be to taxi down the town and his machine would be on its way. We might explain that our duty was to see that the pulley sailed away from the whirling prop, which was as soon as he acquainted with such terms as "switch off," "switch on," or "gas on."

Compared to what they are today, the flying crates of days were both fragile and tricky, and with but limited power. We recall failing to relish a test plane which took off into the teeth of a heavy gale, between Marysville and Shannonville, were travelling much faster than he was. We helped to secure the plane for the night, and then were anons to help Harrold next morning to crank it up again.

"He offered me the moon and the stars but when I mentioned something practical like diamonds, he went home."

We were to see a number of different types of planes in the years to follow. The finest of the lot in our estimation was a Bristol Fighter, a type of plane which had won a great reputation over the fields of France and Flanders during the late months of the First World War. It was of a brilliant color, we believe, with a large Indian head painted on the fuselage. However most of the planes coming into Mohawk were DeHavilands, possibly the first to be used at both Mohawk and Camp Rathbun during the early years. We recall "Dinty" Moore, a Toronto flyer, dropping in with the late Lou Marsh, Toronto Star sports columnist, who was heading for the Rathbun resort at Deseronto. What we remember most was that we were standing in the door of the hangar when this plane came down to land and it was headed straight for the new building but at the last moment it side-slipped to a perfect landing. Moore evidently had got his way of doing it. Fliers dropping in to Mohawk from time to time, en route for Camp Petawawa, to refuel, to check the maps.

SUPPER AT DUSK

And Capt. Janney was to become one of our customers. Here I looked on as a mere boy. He was sold of him that he could have flown a mile with the power to drive it. We had heard of him early in the war years as a southerner who had, without ever dreaming that some day we would make his acquaintance, Janney had been barnstorming out of Picton. Taking off with a passenger from the fair grounds, his plane hit a tree, and hackly, the occupant was not injured. However he did break a propeller, although he was not to be grounded for more than a spare that would do for the time being. However he placed himself to get his new one and we were at Mohawk when he arrived to pick it up.

By present standards the Janney plane would not have been considered much of a ship but then of today would have written it off as an "old crate." We then, of course, few fliers of that day, possibly even today, were flying for the fun of it. Many of his experiences, there was one memorable occasion when a forced landing on the high shore between Glenora and Picton, Prince Edward county, necessitated plane around, tied it by a long rope to a tree, "borrowed" a motor and when it had attained high speed he slashed the rope and made a perfect take-off.

Janney was to be in and out of Camp Mohawk during the years then he was to come no more. Years passed and then it was learned that he was in the real building business at Kingston. And he had made good.

Meanwhile G. H. Harrold had moved to Toronto and that was the last we were to hear of him. There was much effort put into having the government take over Camp Mohawk as a training centre, but that was not to be. The government chose the flat land just east of Trenton instead. GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

May 9th, 1919

Belleville has been signally honored in the selection by acclamation at Buffalo, on Monday, of J. Owen Heath, manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and Past President of Rotary, as Governor of the 168th Rotary District, all Canadian. The nomination of Rotarian Heath was moved by Past President Ed Sherrow of Trenton Rotary Club and seconded by W. H. Hastie, president-elect of Deseronto Rotary Club, and Bill Horton, president of Greenvalley Rotary Club.

Mrs. J. Arbuckle and Miss Bernice Arbuckle have returned home from a visit with Mr. H. J. Arbuckle, Windsor.

Arthur Clinton Turney of Belleville was successful in obtaining the degree of Bachelor of Electrical Engineering, according to announcement made yesterday by the Registrar of Queen's University.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mullin and family of Welland, spent the weekend in the city.

Mrs. P. J. Coleman, Moira Street East, was in Toronto over the weekend to say bon-voyage to Miss Hodgins, Grace Lindstrom, who sails on the S.S. Prostonspolen from New York on the 12th of May. Miss Lindstrom will visit Sweden and England.

In an effort to beautify the entrance to Victoria Park, in the vicinity of No. 1 Fire Hall, the present wading pool is to be filled in with earth in the near future and a mammoth flower bed made, Belleville Parks Board decided at their regular meeting last night.

May 8th, 1909

Frank Street residents are again asking that a subway be constructed under the double railway tracks crossing that street, in order to relieve the traffic through from Moira Street West to Bridge Street.

Mayor Harry Greenleaf, Ald. George Reid, Ald. Clinton Wills, Ald. Wm. J. H. Rollins are in Toronto today to interview the Railway Commission with regards to the purchase by the buildings at Mohawk and at present the RCAF out of Trenton uses the set-up for certain training.

However it one could see into the future, it might be possible that some day, particularly after Deseronto becomes the base seaport, that from the same Camp Mohawk passengers and baggage and air mail covered mail may be carried to and from all parts of the continent.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Two beagler friends of mine, Skipper Shanley Howard and Dr. Reg Paul, went out with their little hounds running a fox. But the fox was behaving oddly. Instead of running a wide course half way out the township it circled briefly. So the doctor and the skipper walked over a couple of hills and, hearing the hounds coming, sat down on a stump to watch. And right by the fox was apparently returning to, time after time.

A minute or two ahead of the hounds came the fox, streaming by. Right below the watchers there was a hollow log lying in the bush. And into it the fox darted.

It waited only a moment, until the hounds were tonguing a hundred yards away, then it slipped out at the other end of the hollow log, and away. The hounds, still on the trail, had not yet found the hot trail, they followed on.

"Now, why would he do that?" the sportsmen wondered.

So they sat, and in twenty minutes sound came the fox again. And again it darted into the log for a moment, the hounds nearing, out it popped from the far end.

Third time around, Dr. Paul exclaimed:

"There's two foxes!"

For they noted the difference in size and color. One was a little smaller fox, nicely rested, would pop out and carry on. Then the other, going to run the hounds ragged, by relay.

Which goes to show that sportsmen who have an almost affectionate feeling for a fox.

The gasoline used by a big airliner in an hour would power four sports cars on a trip from Vancouver to Toronto. Of course, the drivers would have to provide their own berets.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner M.D.

ASPIRIN RECOMMENDED TO REDUCE PAIN OF ARTHRITIS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please advise. I am taking a concoction of lemon juice, orange and grapefruit juice, cream of tartar and epsom salts mixed in one quart of water. This is supposed to help arthritis. Would the cream of tartar (3) tablespoons hurt me? — N.G."s

This sounds like a wasteful use of several fine products! First of all, I don't think it will help the arthritis pains. I'd far prefer aspirin. As to hurting you, well, the epsom salts, being a rather harsh laxative, could cause intestinal irritation. If you cut the cream of tartar to a teaspoonful, I'd be happier about it. (But I still don't think it would help you.)

"Dear Dr. Molner: My mother refuses to cook food in aluminum kettles, claiming baking powder with sodium sulphate has aluminum particles in it, and that chlorinated water is harmful to drink. I tell her the doctor who wrote the book is crackpot. I would like your opinion. — Mrs. G. C."

You and I agree perfectly. While these goofy notions may be relatively harmless, I think we should deny them wherever we can. Aluminum in the diet is no truth in any of the three notions that your mother has. Chlorinated water is not likely to be danger from impurities if we were to stop chlorinating water.)

"Dear Dr. Molner: I read your books on constipation and followed your advice. After years of using salts I now take my laxative regularly, I have not had any for a week. After the first day have had two satisfactory evacuations. I didn't think it possible especially as I am 75. Thank you so much. — C.M."

And thank you. I do not "guarantee" that my suggestions will help in all cases, but from my experience I know that they help most people most of the time. If they are foolowed, that is. (For a copy of "How to Stop Constipation" send 20 cents in coin and a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. J. G. Molner, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 4565, Chicago, Illinois.)

Children vary. For many, 12 hours of sleep is enough at that age. As an alternative, I'd suggest that the mother should not allow her child to rest — not take a nap — for from 30 to 60 minutes in the afternoon. The relaxation helps, and Nature will take care of things then. If the little girl needs sleep, she'll sleep. Otherwise she'll stay awake but will still benefit from the rest period.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is a 'carrier' and is there anything that can be done to rectify the situation? — Mrs. M. G."

A "carrier" is a person whose germs are harmless to him, yet he or she doesn't become ill from the disease. For example, it is estimated that there are 20 carriers for every person who actually gets polio. With such diseases as typhoid or diphtheria, health departments keep track when a carrier is discovered and make periodic tests to see whether the "carrier" finally sheds the germ. Naturally such people are warned of what they should not do — like working in a restaurant.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our son-in-law has a slipped disc and sleeps with the head of the bed raised as this makes it easier for him to get out of bed, because of the pain. Our daughter, sleeping with her head raised, consequently lies with her head raised, too. She is anemic and the doctor suspects a thyroid condition. Could sleeping in this position cause nervousness in her? Second, is there a limit as to how high the head should be raised? — A. H."

I see no danger associated with sleeping in bed with the head elevated. The worst thing, I would say offhand, would be the discomfort. If there is any, the "limit" to which it should be raised would depend essentially on comfort.

Still Bigger Than U.S.A.

By Jas. S. Pooler in the Detroit Free Press

Ever since Alaska and Hawaii have been added to the 48 other states we keep getting the question:

"Which is now the bigger, the United States or Canada?"

It's a good question, because it proves that Americans are aware that Canada and the United States are getting closer together, Newfoundland excepted. We had the population but Canada had the bigger size. Now are we biggest in size, too?

An old book some years ago gave us an answer that still holds:

"The Dominion of Canada has greater area than the continental United States. And British North America, including Canada, Newfoundland and Labrador has a greater area than the United States proper and all its noncontiguous territory, including Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Philippines, etc."

THE WAITING ROOM

How many hours a day do you spend in the waiting room? For some of us the answer is a straight path. We are constantly shifting from train to train, changing stations and taking journeys into strange countries. How do your spend your time? I stand the picture of a railroad waiting room — people sitting with their luggage and holding their hands in their laps, idly glancing about the room. At this very minute this scene is being enacted in every one of the waiting rooms all over the world.

Think of the waste of possible improvement entirely lost. Think of the chances for plans pushed aside. Think of the books and things that might be accomplished while in the waiting room.

Twits as it may sound, it is not what a man the amount of time you use that counts as the amount of time you don't use at all.

As you go your way, grow your little stock of wisdom, your little pile of knowledge, your little sum of power. Waiting rooms are wonderful places for the man who wants to increase his circle of friends. Waiting rooms are wonderful places for the man who wants to increase his circle of friends. GOD'S SIFTING

"Simon, Simon," said Jesus could be by this figure or the figure of crossroads, or the figure of obeying or disobeying a military command — but it is all the same. God has constructed life along very serious lines. We cannot escape them. We are tested daily. We cannot have our cake and eat it.

Satan would sift us; Christ would save us. The choice is that of Christ, but think that simple or that serious. If we think we can avoid such pronouncements we are mistaken. The sifting process goes on endlessly in our life.

Like Simon, our lives are being sifted, but Christ says to him, "I made supplication for thee, that thy faith fail not."

Sifting! sifting! sifting! Whether it be the sifting of the plane for the night, and then were sroons to help Harrold next morning to crank it up again.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

A Lift for Living

'Have You Enough to Live For?'

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

A person may have enough to live on and not enough to live for. If I were to put the question, "Have you enough to live for?" perhaps few if any readers could honestly say no. Maybe some are a bit worried as to whether they will have enough to live on when they become too old to work. No doubt many are anxious about their scale of living in the years to come.

If, however, I were to ask, "Have you enough to live for?" that would be a more searching question.

Let us ask the question, "What is enough to live for?" For one thing, it involves a sufficient purpose. No sane person can long put his heart and mind into an activity unless he sees an adequate meaning and purpose in it. If a person suffers a nervous breakdown and goes to pieces mentally, the doctors in the sanitarium may set him to making baskets or carrying stones from one part of the yard to another—anything to keep his body busy. But ere long the patient must find some purpose in doing it or he does if he is to continue improving.

A person, without thinking deeply, can find short-term purposes to keep him going. A boy may go through a semester thinking that each day brings him nearer to a desired vacation. Or he may apply himself to his job for the purpose of getting a job. He may throw himself into his job for the purpose of making a living for himself and the girl he marries and the children he rears. A man may like his job so much that he never looks at the clock, but sooner or later he does look at the calendar and asks, "What is the use of it all? What does it all add up to?"

Carl Jung, the psychologist, stated that most of his patients were men who had been successful in business but who were disillusioned about their lives, bored stiff with the treasures which they'd won.

If a person has nothing to live for but these short-term purposes set by the goals of his money-making job, when the age of retirement comes—what then?

Pascal, the philosopher whose words are personally fresh and true said "Nothing is so insufferable to man as to be completely at rest, without passions, without business, without diversion, without study. He then feels his nothingness, his forlornness, his insufficiency, his dependence, his weakness, his emptiness."

If we are to have enough to live for, we must have a purpose in life large enough to gather up these short-term goals into something which gives meaning and zest to the whole of life. We must enlist in causes larger and longer than our own lives so that when age forces us to retire we can rejoice in the progress of that for which we have given ourselves.

And no purpose is adequate to give us enough to live for unless it is sufficiently useful to others. One's own welfare is not enough to live for unless it is sufficiently useful to others. One's own welfare is not enough to live for. When a person's dreams of success all empty into himself, he often gets fed up or he dies up in loneliness.

Consider the egoist. He may be the little fellow who wants to be the centre of attraction and becomes bitter because he is not noticed. I think of a star actor who once was popular but was depressed in later years because the spotlight no longer played on him. Or he may be a great egoist like Napoleon eating out his heart in the gloom of exile on St. Helena. One writer said that great principles stood by him at the end.

In contrast I think of a business friend, an insurance executive, who kept his nest past the end. For some years because he was interested in the welfare of the "boys" he had trained. A few years ago I had the funeral service of 5 college presidents, who found his faith into his faculty and students and died with his mind full of dreams and his heart full of friendships.

Have we enough to live for? Only if we have purposes and interests which are useful to others and last through to the end.

One of the noblest spirits of modern times was the late Dr. Edward Wilson. He was England's finest painter of birds and a scientist as well. Captain Scott asked him to join his expedition to the South Pole. They reached the Pole only to discover that Amundsen had been there first. On the return the party got lost in a blizzard. Day dying in the tent he penned a note to his wife: "Don't be unhappy — all is well for the best. We are playing a good part in a great game arranged by God himself, and all is well."

Such a man had found enough to live for and die for.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

by WINIFRED WILSON

LEAF SIZE

Some day soon go out into the fields and woods at dawn. You will never regret it. Few experiences can be more exhilarating than welcoming the returning songbirds — the mixed thrushes, brown thrashers, redwings, robins, meadowlarks, song and fox sparrows, and white-throats.

Flocks of ruby-crowned kinglets have now landed in settled Canada and switch lies on their path to their nesting grounds that stretch from southern Nova Scotia and west central Quebec to north west Mackenzie and north west Alaska. These tiny songsters, just back from their winter holiday resorts (some of which are as far south as Guatemala) may have picked up a few of their even tinier first cousins, the golden-crowned kinglets. These four inch long birds may have wintered no farther than southern Ontario, though some have come all the way from Central America.

Kinglets are not easy to distinguish once the trees are in leaf, because they themselves are both leaf colour and leaf size, and perpetually on the go. The female golden-crowned is rightly named: the male has a little red cap bordered by yellow (or gold). Mrs. Ruby-crowned has no crown! Her husband's bright red cap is visible only when he is excited, and then it is raised in a little lump. Another distinction is the light stripe over the eye of the golden-crowned, or the white spectacled appearance of a ruby-crowned.

HIGH-PITCHED VOICE

Once a kinglet sings for us there is no danger of confusion. The voice of a golden-crowned, seldom heard in migration, is high-pitched, the song starting with four clear, musical notes, then changing to a loud, chattery style. Unless we see the ruby-crowned at his performance, we can hardly believe that so loud and rich a song can come from the throat of so small a bird. Beginning softly, it gathers strength until the final "titlatest", which is sung with rising inflexion and either three or four times over. The entire song is fairly long, and is sometimes repeated once or twice without interruption.

Bird songs are at their best from the first peep of dawn until an hour after sunrise. Many hours of bird listening later in the day can never equal that short period. And remember, there is no surer way of locating the birds than by hearing them sing. So set your alarm clock for 5 A.M., put on twice as many clothes as you would for an ordinary field trip, and get out to hunt for those leaf sized kinglets with binoculars, aided by a pair of ears.

Glory That Once Was Rome Makes It 'Museum of World'

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

At 23,500 feet the Swiss Alps shimmered in the spring light below us. From 10 miles of white and green valleys with their twisting, hidden rivers, the plane climbed straight up to saw-edged ridges and still up upwards to the white, mist-shrouded climaxes of the Matterhorn and Mt. Blanc. From our jet liner and through the pressed mist enough to reach out and touch.

Abruptly the towering mountains gave way to the coastal plains of northern Italy and in the distance the Adige River, which frame Rome told us that the eternity of empire of dying from New York to Rome in 11 hours was about to be completed.

Rome, we thought, was the weirdest of day for starting a holiday in a tropical resort and our first impression of Rome was more than a little reminiscent of many Hollywood sets and settings made by Havana.

The heavy air and uncommonly green landscape with its semi-tropical foliage, the looks and colors of the buildings, the old stone buildings with their iron balconies and the courtyards that Latins love so well were all unmistakably of the Mediterranean. Even the color of the little indoor-outdoor grocery storekeepers, black and white shade inside and white with hot sunlight on their chipped exteriors.

INCREDIBLE SIGHTS

But as we rode in from the airport along the new Appian Way, the ultimate in highways, our first glimpse of Rome's ingenious aqueducts, those huge brick arches extended to within a few feet of the highway. Here were the Roman engineers' remnants of the aqueducts, built for pagan Romans but to everywhere be marks of a distant era, that to most of us exists only in textbooks.

Most of the world's history has passed through Rome at one time or another. What makes it truly the Eternal City is the fact that it still is. Not only as a museum piece, in one way or another, still stand side by side the centuries that left where they fell. A Roman doesn't dare dig up his backyard without government permission lest he come across a priceless antiquity and be accused of not turning it over to the state's trust.

From the 2,200-year-old Egyptian obelisk in Piazza di Popolo to the balcony on the Palazzo Venezia where a rock-jawed little bulldog of a man hypnotized a generation of Italians, reminders of all the tumultuous events in mankind's life make Rome a museum of the world.

The Borghese Gardens, a stately-filled park, is separated from the teeming modern city by a Roman wall in which artists have carved a rock-lined little pagan temples stand intact within skidding distance of today's Fiats and Lambretas. Traffic drives right under the Arch of Constantine and detours around the Colosseum, where it is difficult to get over the feeling that you expect to enter without buying a ticket first.

ROMAN SENATE STANDS

Even the Roman Senate where the Caesars declaimed still stands (it was used as a church until a few years ago) and they formed one temple in the Roman Forum where Brutus came to bury Caesar, not to praise him.

If you listen carefully in the Circus Maximus today, may still hear echoes of rattling chariots and cursing legionnaires as they race around the track in their hippodrome, and along the narrow Old Via Appia with its olive trees and pre-Christian tombs you'd hardly be surprised to meet a triumphant Julius Caesar and his legions returning.

Everywhere you look, crumbling relics that were once luxurious baths and emperors' palaces, some now half concealed by freight terminals and office buildings built against them, recall the glory that was Rome. Once the centers of the civilized world, now they are all ruins.

Sic transit gloria mundi. Or as they might put it on Madison Avenue, that's the way the empire crumbles. And perhaps it's just as well, for the Rome of Michelangelo, da Vinci and Raphael with its carefully tree pictures of statuary, architecture and painting holds even greater wonders for the tourist and scarcely deserve to be overshadowed by anything.

More about Rome next week.

Canada's first team to the military rifle-shooting meet at Bisley, England, was organized in 1871 by Lt.-Col. J. A. Skinner.

Quintena Lodge Celebrates Its 46th Birthday

The Temple was a gala night at Quintena Rebekah Lodge, the occasion being the 46th birthday of "Quintena Rebekah." The escorts, Emily Beal and Laura Downey, carrying baskets of lovely corsages, also the guard of honor, each carrying a dainty nosegay bouquet, were all gowned in floor-length pastel colored gowns. Noble Grand, Sister Alice Adams, opened Lodge in regular form after which Sister Myrtle Hicks of the ages were welcomed.

Sister Agnes Mickle, the only charter member present, was introduced by Sister Emily Beal and given a corsage in honor of her 46th birthday. Sister Mickle was then presented with a corsage by the N.G., Sister Alice Adams, and a gift by the officers and members of the lodge.

Sister Dorothy Byrne was escorted to the centre of the floor by Sister Laura Downey and presented with a corsage by the N.G. after which Sister Mable Bray, P.N.G., presented her with her veteran's jewel.

Sisters June Carruthers, Pearl Bell, Ethel Baird, Phyllis Pope, Jean Fitzgibbon and Dorothy Bowerman took the centre of the floor. Each sister received a corsage from the N.G. and was then presented with their veterans' jewels by Sister Mable Bray, P.N.G., who was Noble Grand the year these Sisters entered the lodge. Sister Bray, in memory of presentation, the guard of honor formed an arch, another evening and a beautiful ceremony took place. The officers in white, each carrying an unlighted taper, formed a circle around the Altar. The Bible was beautifully portrayed by Sister Florence Bell, P.N.G., who entered with a lighted taper representing "Truth."

The conductor, Sister Stella Ducette, and Sister Gladys Bonafer, vice-grand, their tapers from "Truth taper", then went around the circle and lit all the unlighted tapers, the lighted tapers representing a part of the obligation. Sisters then knelt at the altar, to for the letters "IOOF."

RE-OBLIGATION CEREMONY

While the tapers were being placed, Sister Dorothy Webber sang "Lead Kindly-Light." All members, as well as the officers, took part in a re-obligation ceremony after which Sister Dorothy sang, "Prayer is the Door to Heaven," as the angel slowly walked out with the tray of lighted tapers. At this time all those receiving jewels thanked the Lodge and Bro. Charlton was asked to speak a few words, something that both he and Sister Charlton were interested into the Rebekah Lodge in June, 1910.

The lovely corsages were the gifts of the Noble Grand and made by Sisters Ila Addy and Laura Downey.

Supper was served in regular form and all retired to the upper hall where the tables were in a "U" shape and decorated with spring colors of yellow and green. The head table, back of which was a large potted "mum," in bright yellow, was centred with the two-tier birthday cake and flanked by candelabra holding green and yellow tapers. The cake was decorated with pale yellow and green and stood on pale yellow tulle over which was scattered pansies and sweet pea blossoms. The cake was made and decorated by Sister M. Large, P.N.G.

The side tables had several small vases filled with daffodils and narcissi and the candle sticks alternate green and yellow candles. The place cards were little umbrellas filled with flowers and on a pale rose colored background.

Grace was sung and all enjoyed the delicious lunch after which Sister Annie, the guest of honor, cut the birthday cake, the Sisters joining in singing "Happy Birthday To You."

The convener, Sister Gil Empey, and co-conveners, Sisters Emily Beal and Orees Adams, P.N.G. and their committees were thanked for the grand job they had done, both on the lunch and the table decorations. The social another evening, starting on the 49th year of Rebekahood and Odd Fellowship in this district.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

We read the other day where spring was likened to a renaissance. It could be a sensation possible to disagree with it and it doesn't think that its description is quite right. The Renaissance normally means or was first applied to a revival of classical traditionalism and talent of man. Spring as a season is the work of nature. In connection with the fourth century Geoffrey Chaucer wrote "Hard is his heete that lyveth nought in May" and "May, with all thy flowres and thy grene, welcome be thy sote fresshe May" and still, again "May, with all thy showres soote the droughte of March hath perced to the roote and bathed every veyne in swich licour of which vertu engendred is the flour."

There undoubtedly is something very special about the month of May. It symbolizes so much that is lovely, yet so deeply profound. Poets have weaved lyrical odes to the passages and unlike the prosaic and ofttimes boring resort to weather forecasting, the May month is ever new, challenging and a promise. No wonder a lover as Chaucer would describe May today. No doubt with his appreciation of nature and his talent for expression, he would put pen to parchment in the fifteenth-to-earth meaning of man bringing out his power lawn-mower, and the rest of the neighborhood way and our mighty Great Spirit below building and the painter.

It is difficult for twentieth century man to live as he essentially the May Chaucey loved in all its bud-bursting splendor the same May of God and nature as it is in this year of our Lord 1959, with earth and star asparagus, the grass and the trees, the birds and the bees. It seems reminds us that spring is in the beginning birth and rebirth, mysterious and wonderful, and the new-born child, it is one of the miracles that we all must wonder at unless we do accept and, from our acceptance, to find faith and hope and inspiration for the autumns of all that are born and lives and disappears.

The seasons and time are eternal as far as the vision of man is capable of ascertaining. Each season has its particular characteristics and so long as man is able to express himself there will be love and the same ecstasy which remain forever fresh and enduring in man in the same velocity and substance.

Welcome to this month of May.

Gaudhi wrote for posterity and T. & T copies for its weekend thought: "Women are special custodians of all that is pure and religious in life. Conservative by nature, they are slow to shed superstitious habits, they also slow to give up all that is pure and noble in life."

With the recent Oscar and Emmy awards still fresh on our minds, T. & T. has come to believes may be some surprised news to pass along to movie fans in the North America. The rather startling facts to with the true attributes of motherhood, what a paradise this world would swiftly become.

We find families of small children frequently deserted and left to starve by an uncaring mother. New born babies are constantly abandoned. While some mothers indulge in pleasures apart from the home — children are left poorly clad and improperly fed. What is more, thrown on their own resources, they often seek diversion in alleys and slum areas of our larger cities.

We must not confuse true motherhood with base motherhood. The fille "mother" can be worn as a shield to hide wrong doing and as a banner covering the wiles of a greedy opportunist.

With motherhood can become a malignant obsession. Some of us wish to possess children utterly. Often the father in the home leads a lonely life as the mother shuts him out. Communities all her pent up affection on her children.

There are some women, magificent of soul, who are impregnated with all the glorious traits of perfect motherhood, yet have never been blessed with children. One is the elderly aunt who has never married but who has cared for and educated nieces and nephews. Often her gallant motherhood goes unheralded and unsung.

Often there are married childless women who bother every living creature they come in contact with. They look with longing eyes at the woman blessed with a brood of children, the woman perhaps who is not a true mother.

Pearl Buck, Art Linkletter, Roy Rogers and many others have added foster children to their homes. Countless people have educated and provided for promising young lives.

What a marvellous example some widows, left deprived of a husband and forced to assume the bread winning job of a father coupled with the exhausting task of motherhood, they frequently carry on alone without human support and encouragement. In variably the children of a courageous and Godly widow develop into worthwhile men and women.

While we place motherhood on a pedestal, Mother's Day, let us ponder on the requisites of perfect motherhood, unselfishness without over indulgence; patience without weakness; an example set in Christian character without pious rigidity; compassion and understanding without cloying sweetness; direction without undue interference; a demand for respect without the iron hands of possessiveness.

Like the mother of our Lord, good mothers live in the shadow of a cross. The years that intervene between the cry in the cradle and developing adulthood are fraught with the knowledge that one day the beckoning world will step in and claim the fruition of a mother's and father's work. However, true parenthood reaches a plane of understanding where the knowledge is supreme that only one divine peak of duty is prevalent in God's plan for mothers — the establishment in the heart of the parent to children a staunch Christian character.

The greatest opportunity ever afforded mankind to better the world is placed in the frail hands of motherhood. Pray God we may accept this privilege as a holy, sacred trust. May we say deep in our hearts like Mary, the mother of our gracious Lord — "I am not worthy" — "He that is mighty has done to me great things."

Because your hand was placed in mine;
Because I have this trust divine;
With courage and with wisdom true
I must bless life's rough path for you.

If I would give you strength and pride,
I must love myself and hide
I must know valiant thought and deed;
I must impart a steadfast creed.

"I am not worthy," Mary said
And bowed a humble, contrite head;
Let us like Mother Mary be
A noble instrument for Thee.

Students Not Given Same Challenge Says Federation

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian students are not given the same challenge of education as students are in other countries, says a research report submitted to the Edmonton Branch of the Canadian Federation of University Women.

The report was the work of the group's six - member education committee, prepared after months of research.

The committee boiled the report down to seven "fundamental issues" in the Canadian education system which "merit further study."

The issues:

1. The need for clarification of the role of the school. "The school has taken upon itself or had thrust upon it such a variety of duties that confusion reigns."

2. The role of the home must be clarified because uncertainty in parental attitudes must inevitably lead to insecurity in the children.

2. Provision must be made for individual differences in students. This issue concerns social better, pace of learning and differences of temperaments and talents.

4. The lack of challenge in learning is "one of the most fundamental problems," perhaps "the most serious aspect of devaluation in education," because incentive for learning is as important for education as for life in general.

5. Discipline, on the mental, moral and physical level, as well as punitive, is essential. Discipline as punishment may be unhealthily suppressive, whereas discipline in the fuller sense is essentially bound up with incentive and motivation.

6. Canadian teachers do not receive the same challenge as teachers in other countries, and the quality of education cannot be higher than the quality of available teachers.

7. Physical fitness is a "serious facet" of education and should be carefully considered.

Committee convener Mrs. K.A. Yonge said the report was critical only where it could lead to improvement in any system must naturally focus upon the deficits of that system.

"While we are suggesting certain areas in need of attention, we are well aware from the results of our study of the many advantages in Canadian education."

The committee recommended that the seven issues outlined should become the basis of a study by the Home and School Association's June 6 meeting.

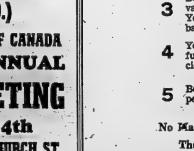
God's Plan for Mothers

By Alma Mason

Some women have their loving and selfless instincts of true motherhood. Others seem to be strangely bereft of them.

History records many types of motherwell, scheming mothers, doting and indulgent mothers, sensible practical mothers, kind, forgiving mothers.



Because women are capable of bearing children does not indicate that all women possess what is commonly known as "the mother heart." If all women were blessed with the true attributes of motherhood, what a paradise this world would swiftly become.

Back in 1901 a Japanese film Reelbroom walked out with the first prize at the international film festival, Venice. Since that time Japanese films have received more and more acclaim. The latest figures released for 1957 show that Japan has become the first nation to go out ahead of the U.S.A. or Hollywood. Even more amazing is the fact that for 1957 three out of the first five nations in number of films released were Asian countries. The list shows these countries: India with 446 films released, then U.S.A. with 354, Japan with 269, Hong Kong with 217; France with 142. It is only recently that the film industry in Asia has documented and a few facts from an editorial in Time Magazine recently. "When it is realized that the number of commercial films produced in Hollywood in the world is greater than 100,000, that the film industry is in the order of 10,000,000,000 per year, that some 2,000 long films are produced every year, and that the annual turnover of the world's film industry is said to be close to 4,000,000,000 dollars, it is surprising, to say the least, that so little attention is given to such amounts of capital, labor and talent, which can be unusually poorly documented."

The documentary before us is entitled "Rice Is Life," which is interesting to us who have been submerged by Hollywood. Iran, the Shah of Middle East nation whose Shah is at the moment the guest of Queen Elizabeth, produced nearly six times as many films in the past eight years as it did in the previous fifty.

Probably from time to time we will pass along more news about the film industry in other nations but the United States are better informed than T. & T has been. We had never heard of Hong Kong's film industry and lo, and behold, in 1957 it stood fourth in the world.

"The sweetest face in all the world to me,
Set in a frame of shining golden hair,
With eyes whose language is fidelity:
This is my mother. Is she not most fair?"

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a social case history, The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and consultors.

Mark L. — I'm not as broadminded as I thought I was.

Edith M. — He should appreciate my honesty.

Mark L. — A few weeks ago I was in love, happy, planning to be married. Now I feel as though I've been hit by an atom bomb.

My fiance told me that the man she said was her brother, the man she has lived with for the past year, was really her lover all the time. She says that the intimate part of their relationship ended some time ago and that now she is just staying with him until she can make other arrangements.

Edith feels that if I loved her as much as I said I did, I would be understanding and make allowances for her, I don't know, maybe I'm not as broad-minded as I thought I was, but I find this hard to take. I have always been idealistic about marriage and the relationship between men and women and I wanted to marry a girl who felt the same.

Edith M. — Mark should recognize the realities of life and should appreciate the fact that I at least, am honest. I know plenty of girls who married without ever telling a word about their pasts — and they were very far from being angels.

The fact is that I really am idealistic about marriage — maybe even more so than Mark — and had looked to him to help me out of the terrible life I have been living. It is something that happened because I was lonely and desperate and for no home. I have hated myself for it.

To tell the truth, I never expected Mark to act the way he did. I expected him to be somewhat pathetic and to want to help me. It he feels as though he's been hit by an A-bomb, I've been hit by an H-bomb. I hardly know what to do now. Mark was my whole hope for starting life over.

The Council: Two people who feel as though they have been separately hit by an A-bomb and an H-bomb are in no shape for marriage. Of that we are sure.

It is sometimes possible for a man or a woman with a very idealistic viewpoint to forgive and forget, but it certainly is not easy to forgive an unsavory past.

Edith is now living with a man not her husband and seeks redress from a knight in white armor. We assume she is not physically incapacitated, for she has no business being where she is for one moment — so she must have either her desire to build her life anew.

The man of good sense and high character will want to involve himself in Edith's present illness. If she pulls herself out of it by her own bootstraps a d deliberately a decent life, she can probably find a man willing to let bygones be bygones. She should certainly try to get over a childish dependence on men if she wants to have a successful marriage. Mature men like to marry women, not mixed-up little girls.

Mark should not allow himself to be intimidated by Edith's helplessness or her accusations about his lack of "understanding." Broad-mindedness doesn't call for an end to all standards.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: GIVE A SMILE WITH YOUR TIP

When you give a tip to anyone who has served you in any capacity, a pleasant trip should accompany the tip. (1) Look directly at him or her. (2) Smile a little. (3) Say a gracious "Thank you" or "Thank you very much" or "Thank you so much. You have been very kind (or very helpful)."

HE'S A WELL-TRAINED WAITER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I've been promoted by my company to a position where it is my responsibility to entertain men customers of ours from out-of-town. I'm trying to be a good and "knowing" host. You answered three questions I sent about this several weeks ago and I am very grateful. May I, please, ask you another one I'm puzzled about? In an excellent restaurant here, very popular with men, the waiter always presents the platter of meat ordered for the main course (steak, for example) to me before serving the guests. What exactly am I supposed to do or say? Frankly this doesn't men that I'm to be served first, does it!!) Reader: The duties of the well-trained waiter is strictly for the purpose of your inspection. You have, for example, carefully ordered the steak cooked in a certain way, and the waiter presents it for your approval before he serves it to your guests. If it is as you ordered, you may say, "Thank you — that looks just right," or "Thank you . . . very good." This professional gesture never means that you, the host, are to be served first.) You may, at least sometimes, test your host's impartial guest on your right, piece of bonor, and then you might point to the waiter that you wish to have this guest served first, as he should be.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

JUST WHEN I NEED HIM MOST

"Just when I need Him, Jesus is near,
Just when I falter, just when I fear;
Ready to help me, ready to cheer,
Just when I need Him most.

Just when I need Him, Jesus is true,
Never forsaking all the way through;
Giving for burdens pleasures anew,
Just when I need Him most.

Just when I need Him, Jesus is strong,
Bearing my burdens all the day long;
For all my sorrow giving a song,
Just when I need Him most.

Just when I need Him, He is my all,
Answering when upon Him I call;
Tenderly watching lest I should fall,
Just when I need Him most.

Chorus:
Just when I need Him most,
Just when I need Him most;
Jesus is near to comfort and cheer,
Just when I need Him most.

This was a favorite gospel hymn in the early years of the present century.

It was in most religious song collections and was almost as much called for at young people's Christian Endeavor society devotions and at other informal worship services. Today, it is still sung in many places, particularly in mission meetings.

Its words were written by the Rev. William Clement Poole, who wrote other equally popular devotional songs including "Sunrise", "What Is Your Life Today?", and "I Shall See The King". The latter hymn was used frequently by the Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday in his evangelistic meetings about half a century ago.

Mr. Poole was born in 1825 on a Maryland farm. He attended and was graduated from Washington College and entered the Methodist ministry in Delaware. Besides preaching and writing hymns, he was active for years in the cause of temperance.

His "Sunrise" hymn was inspired by the testimony of a minister at a Methodist Conference by a fellow minister who was about to retire and who said he was not looking forward to the sunset of his earthly life as much as to the "sunrise" of the life eternal which was to follow.

In creating his hymn, "Just When I Need Him Most", Mr. Poole had the help of a famous reporter and composer, Charles H. Gabriel. The hymn owes much to its stirring chorus:

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

"It's tulip time in Holland." An old popular song.

Solid . For $4,000 one tulip bulb. This really happened back in 1634, when only the very wealthy could afford tulips in Holland. Soon everyone was trying to raise them for a bit of extra money. A tremendous boom was created and ended quickly in a tremendous crash. But Holland's tulip panels proved to be very beautiful advertising, and soon the whole of Europe became tulip conscious.

"A fac' cry to the time of the German occupation during the World War II," recalls a young Hollander who is now living in Belleville. "Do you realize there were months when it was imperative we have tulip bulbs in our diet, in order to stay alive! Have you ever tried them? They are miserable fare. No matter how they were prepared — baked, boiled, mashed or dried they were most unpalatable, regardless of how hungry one was. And without a doubt, of which we had none, they are practically unedible. Yet, when over the barges, piled high with tulip bulbs, pulled up along the canals of city or village, every one ran to get in the line up, for a half dozen or so allotted to each person.

"Now, however, that is well in the past. Yet that is very extensive. Eggs 22 cents each; butter a dollar; potatoes are as high as $1.25 a pound. For Holland is very dependent on imports. For example, before we came to Canada we put on "ad" in the paper for a maid. Who should apply but a lady of culture and refined manners. She was fully educated. Not only could she speak a half dozen languages but she had been used to untold wealth, servants, numerous motor cars, and a country push-button service. This lady reared in a wealthy home, suddenly was now completely destitute, and her story is the story of thousands upon thousands of Dutch people expelled from Indonesia, who now are flooding Holland.

"Holland has changed in many ways since World War II. The new generation who were children during the occupation, subjected to experiences and conditions difficult to imagine, have little concern for our former standards and way of life. The old generation, however, strives to maintain what they can of it. For instance, my 85-year-old mother never lets Friday morning pass without washing all the windows, inside and out. But the majority of the new generation can ill afford the luxury of extreme cleanliness, for which Holland has long been famous. The time spent in polishing and cleaning demands must be devoted to the mere necessity of earning a living. Many, many young couples must hold down two jobs, since one occupation is no longer enough to make ends meet. As in the case in most of Europe."

By way of contrast, to quote from Sonia Keppel, daughter of the famed English Edwardian beauty, gives an intimate insight to the leisurely way of life back in the turn of the century and some later, in her recent volume entitled: "Edwardian Daughter." Her father, being Dutch, rented an unusual house one summer which was near The Hague, "it was built," she says, "like a miniature Red to a bank of the Mississippi." It spanned a canal, so that one could glide into the structure in a punt. Some of the rooms had wooden balconies, outside which grew and accented the illusion of the rails, bounding promenade-deck ship. And Edwardian guests had breakfast served from a long table covered with embroidered linen and laden with oriental china filled with fresh rolls and fruit, as well as bacon and eggs, served on silver dishes, and drank delicious coffee, served from antique Dutch and English silver.

Entertainment was abundant as guests were offered bathing expeditions to Scheveningen, or little barge trips to cheese making villages, and bicycling to the races or the golf course. Sonia Keppel, recalls, also, how the house itself, was flanked with stables, a wing bridge of the canal, a carnation house, and a Japanese garden complete with stepping stones and little wooden bridges. And there would be tulips.

We are told it takes from five to seven years to grow a tulip from seed. This was often done in the past, by men known as florists. One florist covered his precious bulbs with blankets from his own bed, in order to save them from an unexpected frost, and he was finally rewarded with its flaming bloom.

The tulip, closely associated with Holland, has an exciting history often taken for granted as thousands of these beautiful flowers burst into splendid color to grace our spring gardens.

QUESTION:

Would you be so kind as to give me the recipe for the old fashioned cookie? Can the water in which a pickled tongue is cooked be used for soup, etc.?

. . . Muriel A.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

Boston Baked Beans; Boston Brown Bread; Shredded Cole Slaw; Mustard Pickles; Baked Soy Apples with Cream or Lemon Snow with Custard Sauce; Old Cheddar Cheese; Coffee.

ANSWER:

Yes, the water in which a pickled tongue has been cooked may be used for split pea or bean soup or for Scotch broth or beef noodle, but be sure you do not add any salt and that the quantity is sufficient to absorb the salt from the soup should it be one with a high carbohydrate content.

The "cookie" enclosed in your envelope is called.

MARZIPAN LEMONS:

(Makes 100). One can (1 lb.) sweetened condensed milk, 3 packages lemon jello (reserve one box of this), 1 lb. unsweetened packaged cocoanut. Combine the sweetened condensed milk, 2 packages of lemon jello and cocoanut in large bowl, adding a few drops of yellow coloring. Mix well. Form into small 1" balls and roll between palms to shape as little lemons. Pour the third package lemon jello onto a plate and roll "lemons" in it to give them a pebbled coating. Allow to dry overnight on paper. Use as fancy "cookie" on a plate of mixed cookies.

QUESTION:

I would like to know how to make good pork and beans . . . and a good molasses cookie . . . Mrs. Simon P.S.

ANSWER:

BOSTON BAKED BEANS:

Two pounds dried navy beans, 2 quarts cold water, 1 medium onion, sliced, 1 tablespoon salt, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-4 cup tomato catsup, 1-16 teaspoon black pepper, hot water as needed, 1-2 pound salt pork, sliced. Pick over and wash beans thoroughly. Add cold water and soak overnight, add water to cover, heat to a boil and simmer for 30 minutes. Drain but do not discard the liquid. Place onion slices in bottom of a bean pot or a 10-cup casserole or large pail with cover. Add salt, vinegar, mustard, brown sugar, molasses, catsup, black pepper and turn into the bean pot with enough hot drained liquid or water to cover (about 2 1-2 cups). Arrange salt pork slices on top, cover and bake in slow oven of 250 deg. Fahr. 7 to 8 hours. Add more hot liquid or water as needed. Remove cover one hour before end of cooking time to allow salt pork to brown. 10-12 servings.

QUICK MOLASSES COOKIES:

Sift and blend all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons (three) baking soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, ginger, cloves and nutmeg, 3-4 cup each shortening or cold chicken fat and sugar, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup thick sour cream, 3-4 cup dark molasses, 2 cups seedless raisins, 1 cup broken nuts (optional). Sift sifted flour 3 times with soda, salt and spices. Beat in remaining ingredients until smooth. Drop from teaspoon onto greased cookie sheet about 3-4 inch apart. Bake about 12 minutes. Six or seven dozen. tongue.

De Gaulle Predicts Peace Soon In Algeria, Still No Signs

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

CONSTINE, Algeria (AP) —There is no sign in this tense, heavily patrolled city of the Algerian peace that French President de Gaulle says is in sight. Mobs of French and Algerian youths clashed in Constantine's streets on two days this week, and tension double is fanned. Young French rioters have demanded the firing squad for de Gaulle, their hero a year ago.

The hope for peace seems squarely dim since one talks with Algerian rebel leaders in neighboring Tunisia, the rebels' chief training and supply base.

REBELS GAIN STRENGTH

The Algerian war is costing their 4½-year war for independence from France. Their organization appears to be getting stronger. Highly placed rebel officers estimate that 6,000 member of pilots trained in the Middle East and may be fighting planes to put into the fight soon.

Recent talks with leaders of nationalist indicate they have abandoned hope that Western governments will press for the integration of Algeria with France, and is being accused of a sell-out.

The Algerians demand that France recognize their government and negotiate a political settlement. So far, the rebels have offered only to negotiate —in France — for a cease-fire, with political pull of the dictations.

The war has gone on. The French command in Algeria has announced that 911 Algerians and 24 Frenchmen were killed in operations last week.

De Gaulle in a speech at Bourges, France, Thursday declared:

"Without setting a date, without making say promises and without presumptuousness I say here with full knowledge of the facts, that the cease-fire for which Algeria will be pacified." He did not amplify this.

Peace looks a long way off in Constantine. Rolls of barbed wire have erected at corners, ready to close off streets for a manhunt at a moment's notice. Jeeps with machine-guns patrol.

Paratroops with tommy - guns perch everywhere. Traffic policemen carry sub-machine-guns.

The OLD PHILOSOPHER'S COLUMN
FOR FINE CARTAGE AND STORAGE LTD.

Let's talk about that simple little thing called "home." Most folks have a well-placed box hedge around your lawn. The box is one of the oldest of all the trees and becomes it was quite workable, containers made from its wood were called "boxes". Soon the word "box" came to mean any kind of container. We have "box seats" at a show, the body of a wagon is a box, a box of candy, a box of soap, box and sentry boxes and the jury box, boxes, box-cloths, box-wrenches, box kites and box cars — all, in some way, resemble a box in form. Interesting, isn't it!

In time the box grew into the chest, which was used for storing blankets and other household goods—and, of course, for holding clothes as well. Many special boxes are still used for storage, particularly for professional furs. Ask For Cartage and Storage, who can use them to keep your household goods in better protected against fire, dampness, moth and dust, although then as if they were in your home.

For instance, your chesterfield and chairs are sealed in a special box called an "Extreme" vault — no dust can sail there, or light and no moths. And if rugs are rolled, wrapped and put in big tubes, safe against all harm. Furniture has every edge, corner and surface protected so that it's then sealed in a box-like container.

Ever heard the phrase "in a box", meaning "in a difficult spot"? You'd never be "in a box" if you let For Cartage and Storage Ltd. store your household goods — but your furniture and other effects carefully and safe.

For Cartage and Storage Ltd. have over 50 years experience and reputation. You'll find them in Trenton at 98 Dundas Street East — and the telephone number is Elgin 2-3300. Bell Telephone Makes Extensive Changes in Wooler-Frankford Line

FRANKFORD — Continuing its program to improve service in this region, the Bell Telephone Company of Canada has announced plans to reduce the number of persons sharing each of rural multi-party line in the Frankford and Wooler areas.

According to J. E. Parker, Bell manager for this region, the company plans to have a maximum of only eight subscribers on each line, a substantial reduction from the present number.

To attain this goal, some 200 Frankford and Wooler area telephones will be transferred to new lines, now being created. About 60 will be switched this month, with the balance transferring over the summer.

All telephones involved in the changeover will be given new numbers. Mr. Parker advised, customers affected by the change will be notified in turn prior to the transfer.

BETTER SERVICE

Mr. Parker said this latest move is part of "Bell's" extensive program to provide more and better service in the areas around Trenton and which will culminate, as previously announced, around the end of the year with the introduction of dial telephone service in the Frankford and Wooler areas.

Coincident with the changeover to dial service, telephone calls between Trenton, Frankford and Wooler will become free of long distance charges.

Construction work on the local point of this extensive program, a new dial exchange building on King St. in Frankford is progressing well, the manager disclosed.

FOOTINGS IN

The footings are in and the construction people have started on the walls," he said.

The one-storey 56 × 28-foot building is scheduled for completion by the end of July. After that, skilled telephone craftsmen will equip the fire and storm proof, reinforced concrete structure to start the complex task of installing the intricate dial switching equipment.

1200 TELEPHONES SERVED

At the outset, there will be sufficient equipment to serve approximately 1,200 telephones in the Frankford and Wooler areas, but the exchange will have an ultimate capacity of 1,900.

The changeover will mean completely new telephone numbers for all customers in the two areas. These new numbers will be similar to those in Trenton and other centres with Frankford telephones having the exchange designation Exeter 6, followed by four figures, and Wooler numbers prefixed by Exeter 7, followed by four figures.

Mr. Parker pointed out that the communities of Batawa, Glen Ross and Stockdale will be connected to the new Frankford exchange.

Worthy Grand Matron, Patron Officially Visit OES Chapter

PICTON — A delicious buffet dinner was served at the Parish Hall Saturday by members of Picton Chapter No. 273 in honor of the Worthy Grand Matron, Ethel Spears of Dunnville, Ontario. This important occasion marks the first time the Worthy Grand Matron has visited Picton. Also in attendance was the Worthy Grand Patron, Robert Cooper, of Bowmanville, Ontario.

The committee arranged the tables in the form of a cross and decorated them with yellow daffodils and primulas. Dinner was served by members of Picton chapter.

A short chapter meeting was held in the Parish Hall with the W.M., Iris Allison and the W.P., Clarence Brummell, presiding. The East was very beautifully decorated with arborvitae and a small white border fence. A five-pointed star on the left and, the Worthy Matron's motto, "Faith" on the right. Also Worthy Grand Patron also expressed his pleasure as finding it convenient to attend this very important evening for Picton Chapter. The Grand Trustee, Fred Goodhouse, was not a stranger in Picton for he and his wife attended Picton Chapter's institution seven years ago. Roll call was brought to the West in a short chapter meeting to a close.

Mrs. Cook, P.M., was in charge of the very interesting program which followed, and Mr. Edmund Bolston, P.M., acted as Master of Ceremonies. Mr. Ralph Dickering, accompanied by A. A. Beavis at the piano, sang Sylvia. Bonnie Hayden was terrific in her two tap dance numbers. Three ladies from Belleville, dressed in old fashioned costume, sang, "If You'll But Find A Man." This was very much enjoyed.

Mrs. Ila McGee, of Picton Chapter, gave a humorous reading entitled "My Operation." Ila's readings are always very much enjoyed.

Next on the program was a quartet composed of Messrs. Glynn Reynolds, Sydney Brogden, Gordon Dean and Ralph Pickering, who sang "Can't You Hear Me Calling Caroline." Everyone enjoyed this number so much that they graciously consented to sing as a second number "Bless This House," which all enjoyed to the utmost. Their pianist was A. A. Beavis.

Mrs. Stevens from Belleville was next on the program, dressed in an old fashioned dress with pantaloons, she sang "The Belle of Hopkin's Corners."

Next came Margaret and Jane Ann Thompson, two new members of Picton Chapter, who sang very sweetly a spiritual "Bells Over Jordan."

Bonnie Hayden brought the program to an end with the Charleston, which was very much enjoyed. A vote of thanks of credit goes out to this young lady who certainly was the "belle" of the entertainment.

The Worthy Grand Matron and Worthy Grand Patron were escorted to the platform for the presentation of gifts took place, the setting being a garden. Each officer placed a gift suitable to her office in a beautiful vase, which was presented to the Worthy Grand Matron. Mrs. Marjorie Thompson sang at the conclusion "An Old Fashioned Garden."

His Worship Mayor H. J. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland were escorted to the platform and Mr. McFarland extended greetings from Picton to the distinguished guests, and also stated how happy they were to be able to attend this meeting. Pat Hodgson extended greetings on behalf of Prince Edward Chapter, No. 18, A.F. and A.M. Del Huff on behalf of Quinte Chapter, No. 90, and Edward Chapter, No. 31. Thurston on behalf of the Province and Mayor McFarland for the Shriners.

Rev. Wright was escorted to the platform for a few words of welcome.

The Worthy Grand Matron and Worthy Grand Patron made a few remarks of thanks for the gifts from Picton Chapter and for the wonderful way in attending. The singing of the "Queen" brought a very successful evening to a close.

A great deal of credit goes to Mrs. Marguerite Young for her novel idea for the presentation to the Worthy Grand Matron. The refreshment committee in charge were: Mrs. Henrietta Hurl, Mrs. Irene Shefield, Mrs. Doris Morgan, Mrs. Marguerite Young, Mrs. Kay Brummell, Mrs. Mary Stone and Mrs. Edythe Hubbard.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — "Who can fathom the depths of a mother's love? No friendship so pure, so sacred. The wild storm of adversity and the bright sunshine of prosperity are all alike to her; however unworthy we may be of that affection, a mother never ceases to love her every child. Often when alone, as we gaze up to the starry heaven we can see angelic watch fires, glimpse of the angels around the great white throne, and among the brightest and fairest of them all is our sweet mother, her face beaming in love and turned upward to her celestial home." Garden Notes

Visiting Your Local Nurseryman

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Some weeks ago a popular magazine cover depicted a block of houses whose gardens were practically identical. It was a satire on modern conformity. This won't happen to you if you have your local nurseryman draw up a planting plan for you. You will have a custom planned garden tailored to suit the architectural features of your home. On the other hand, the size of the lot and the gardens all ready planted in your block will be considered. Such a plan will be made for you without extra charge if you buy your stock from the same nurseryman. It is a free service to their customers.

Your plans will include the proper preparation of the soil for the shrubs and when the holes are dug you can go and select your material. It will advise you on the use of mulches, fertilizers and pest control.

LOCAL BUYING

There are other advantages to local buying; the material has been grown under soil and weather conditions like your own. You can see what you are getting before you buy it, and should trouble develop later a phone call to your nurseryman will bring prompt advice. You will find on hand a selection of proven hardy for your district. The so-called tender stock will be found to be much smaller than you expect and will take years to grow to the size new. Our hybridists are always you want to plant now, or it will be inferior quality, or both. On a recent visit to a nursery I was surprised at the wide choice of evergreens including several types of dwarf coniferous and broadleaf evergreen shrubs, ornamental trees and acres of field grown roses.

People were carrying their plans and watching while their selections were being dug and wrapped. The time between digging and planting again would be a matter of minutes, no chance of the roots being damaged by drying out.

Visit your nurseryman soon, even if you do not intend to buy this year. You will be inspired by the fine array of budding and blooming shrubs, the potential shade trees, the crisp foliage of the evergreens for foundation plantings.

You will find vines to drape on your porch or fence, specimen trees or shrubs to grace your lawn and accent plants to border the driveway, or the house corners. There are ground covers for those shady places where grass won't grow, hedge material and dwarf shrubs for the back garden, or the dry wall and tall shrubs to screen out an unwanted view, to create more privacy for your outdoor living room or to make boundaries.

Your nurseryman extends an invitation to you to visit and inspect the stock at all times a year. Plants change with the season, see what is colorful and which hybridists are always

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A tip to the male golfers of the Bay of Quinte Country Club. If you notice new chesterfields and chairs adorning the clubhouse towards the end of the season, don't bother asking questions, just tip your brassies at the nineteenth hole to the distaff side of the club's shotmakers.

You may hear something about this matter when you're playing with the gals in the club's opening day mixed two-ball foursome tomorrow — and again you may not. They may be keeping it a secret. In any event that is what they are up to—and another thing they are going all out to show you fellows what can be done around a golf club besides shooting the breeze and scouting that little ball over the fairways and greens.

There must have been some mental skullduggery afoot this week for four ladies, in fact the top brass of the gals' division, plus a special guest, were doing the rounds over the nine holes, and getting in a lot of conversation between shots, (golf, that is)—and afterwards.

The new president of the distaff squad, Jey Bowerman, does not intend allowing the gram to grow under her official nibblok. Neither does Dolly Diamond, her first vice-presidential lieutenant; secretary treasurer Muriel Joss and corresponding secretary Dorothy Wilson. Ingram will be around to keep the fourth estate well informed.

Aiding and abetting will be games captain Anne Acton, her co-captain Rea Clarke, social convener Lillian Matthews and handy committee convener Dorothy Wilson.

There has been whispering, planning and certain conniving going on and the ladies plan mixing a little business with a lot of golfing pleasure. In fact there will be certain little items aimed at painless extraction and you fellows are going to help—and like it.

They have their sights set on the above-mentioned new furniture for the clubhouse and by devious ways and means, and there is no way to say the least, the chaps are going to help pay for it.

There are some functions of course, that masculine noses will not be permitted to poke into, such as dessert bridges, and other get-togethers where the ladies prefer to be alone. I don't worry, there will be lots of invitations coming your way. Frinstance, you will be invited to take part in mixed cards affairs and such things, not forgetting the annual "Mr.-and-Mrs." event ah the course.

And if you could have sat in on those this-week fourscomes which had along Mary Saure of Montreal as a guest, you would have learned a lot, not only about the ladies' club functions but about their golf too.

And in passing, you might mention that while the gals were laying the foundation for these painless-extraction affairs, they were canny enough not to mention dates. That eliminates any pre-planning on your part to make clean getaways or allibi services with excuses, inventions, father-and-son banquets, poker nights, or whatever other devices you use to get an evening off.

The word has got around that ladies' golf is on the upsurge in other clubs of the district—and President Bowerman and her staff do not intend being caught with their chins in the lockers.

The membership of the ladies' division of the Quinte club is some 120, with about seventy playing members. This is a slight increase over that of last season, and this positive, cogniscant of the success of last year, feels that all-out efforts must be made if this season is to rate as tops in the ladies' division of the club.

A lot of planning has gone into the annual Ladies' Field Day, set for August 11. In previous years the Quinte ladies have drawn much favorable comment on the arrangement and handling of their field day, and the current committee intends making the 1959 function the best yet.

Efforts, too, will be made to have good representation at the field days of other clubs of the district. Incidentally the Trenton golf ladies are holding their field day June 25.

Junk Burdette's Win Streak Gain Virtual Top-Spot Tie; Colavito Wields Potent Bat

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It begins to look as if the Cincinnati Reds are at last catching up with the Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves have been beaten a path to a pair of National League pennants by trampling the Reds the past two years. In 1957, Milwaukee won 18 of its 22 games with Cincinnati. Last season it was 17 of 22.

Now Reds have taken three of five decisions this season, winning three in a row from the Braves for the first time since 1956. And they've done it the hard way — beating Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette.

STREAK OVER

They junked Burdette's winning streak at nine—five this season—with a 3-2 victory at Milwaukee Friday night that gained a virtual first place tie with the Braves. Going into today's game—another double-header—the Reds are second by a mere .009 percentage point margin.

San Francisco also closed in replacing Los Angeles in third, just a half-game behind the leaders, by whipping the Dodgers 8-2. The Chicago Cubs are the Giants' back after a 10-inning, 3-2 victory at St. Louis. Philadelphia regained a share of last with Pittsburgh by beating the Pirates 5-1.

Burdette, who had won 10 straight in Milwaukee's County Stadium since last July, gave up four of the Reds' seven hits and all of their runs in the first inning. A two-run double by Frank Robinson and a triple by Frank Thomas did the damage.

The Braves had 11 hits, but didn't break through for that 3-2 Brooks Lawrence (3-2) until the eighth inning, when Ed Mathews and Frank Torre homered. Lawrence finally put it away by fanning Mathews, the major league leader with his 10 home runs, with two men on base in the ninth.

ANTONELLI WINS

Southpaw Johnny Antonelli, who had lost two in a row, won his fourth for the' Giants after giving up the Dodger runs on five hits in the second inning. He blanked them on five hits the rest of the way. Daryl Spencer was 4-for-4 and drove in three runs for the Giants, who chased Danny McDevitt (1-1) in a three - run sixth for a 6-2 lead. Willie Mays and Jackie Brandt added solo homers in the eighth.

Randy Jackson, just returned to the Cubs by way of a trade with Cleveland, pitched in the 10th after a two-out single by winning reliever Billy Henry (3-1). Jackson got into the jam when he got a bases-loaded walk as a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Jim Brosnan (0-3) was the loser in relief for the Cards, who were last-place after the third. Henry, who replaced Bob Anderson in the eighth, allowed but two hits and struck out five. It was the Cardinals' eighth consecutive one-run decision. They've lost five of them.

Gene Conley, the ex - Brave, gained his first victory since 1957 in his first start for the Phils. He had to leave in the ninth, however, when a line drive by Smoky Burgess nicked a pitching-hand finger. George Witt (0-4) lost it, giving wry in a three-run fourth.

Those Cleveland Indians are socko with Rocco.

Take Friday night. They managed just three hits at Chicago, but Rocky Colavito had three and drove in three runs, ripping a tie-breaking, two-run homer in the sixth that put away a 3-1 victory.

It was the seventh home run of the year for Rocky—who was only three shy of a Cleveland record when he walloped 41 last season — and he's made them good for 11 runs. He didn't hit his seventh last year, incidentally, until June 8, in his 61st game. Now he's matched that output in half the time (31 games).

Friday night's success, the fourth in a row for unbeaten Richhandsay Cal McLish, applied Cleveland's American League lead to three games once more as Boston and Frank Sullivan whipped second-place Baltimore 5-0. Detroit scored three in the ninth for a 5-4 victory over Kansas City in the only other AL game scheduled.

TOUGH LOSS

Righthander Dick Donovan (1-1) of the White Sox gave up all three of Cleveland's hits in his six innings, getting past everybody but Minnie Minoso and Colavito. Minoso singled with one out in the fourth inning, stole second and scored on Rocky's single.

In the sixth, Minoso walked with two out and came across on Colavito's smash into the upper left field deck at Comiskey Park.

The White Sox had just five hits off McLish, scoring in the fourth on Jim Landis's second home run.

Sullivan gave up only five singles along with two walks while squaring his record at 3-3 for Boston. The Red Sox had just three hits for seven innings, but held a 3-0 lead over southpaw Billy O'Dell (1-4). They scored in the first on a walk, passed ball, error and Frank Malzone's sacrifice fly, an unusual sequence in the fourth in a walk and Don Buddin's double.

HOMERS HELP

Sullivan finally got some breathing room in the seventh, when Buddin scored three with Pete Runnels and Jackie Jensen hitting solo home runs. It was Jensen's seventh.

Singles by Harvey Kuenn and Leo Berberet on the Tigers' rolling in the ninth against Ray Herbert (1-3), who then was tagged for a tying single by Frank Bolling—who kept right on running with the throw. Ed Lopez toobbled the relay from the outfield. It was the first victory for Lopez, a decision for the Tigers and it went to Ray Narleski, a four-time loser who won his first with two innings of perfect relief.

Bob Grave drove in three Kansas City runs off Don Mossi with a triple and a sacrifice fly. The Tigers had two runs but five hits — one Berberet's second homer—for eight innings.

Wings Thump Royals 13-4; Leafs Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Journ'yman outfielder Jim Frey of Rochester is finding International League pitching a rather delectable dish.

Currently a refugee from the American Association, the left-handed hitting Frey smacked two home runs Friday night as the Red Wings moved into a second-place tie with a 13-4 thumping of Montreal.

Frey, who hit only four homers with Omaha last season, now has six off International League pitching, has knocked in 13 runs and moved his batting average up to .393, which ties him for the league lead in that department.

League - leading Miami moved 3½ games in front of the pack with a 4-0 victory over Havana. Buffalo edged Toronto 9-8 and Columbus 5-4 to take a tie for the runner-up spot, and Richmond clipped Columbus 3-1 Friday night.

DRIVE IN SEVEN

Frey drove in seven runs in support of Al Browning, who hurled a six-hitter and brought his record to 3-2. Babe Birrer (2-4) lost it.

An eighth inning free - for - all in which 6 of 9 men batting pitcher John Gray hit Gene Oliver with a pitch shortly after Frey's windup homer, marred the game. Gray's Coach on Red Wing manager Cot Deal in the melee.

Miami's John Anderson, who two-hit the Sugar Kings, struck out 10 and had a perfect game going until Leroy Lee Blanco with one out in the eighth inning. Five consecutive hits off Miguel Cuellar accounted for all Marlins runs in the fourth.

Mickey Harrington's second clutch blow, a single in the ninth, gave Bobby Del Greco with the winning run for the Bisons. In the sixth, Harrington's double drove in two runs as Buffalo exploded for six runs and overcame a 4-1 deficit.

The shot to centre field was Harrington's second of the night in a crucial situation.

In the sixth, his double chased two men home after the Bisons overcame a 6-1 deficit with six runs.

Toronto regained the lead in the top of the ninth on a pair of runs.

Pitcher Ken Lehman went to bat for Jerry Hoskins in the bottom half of the last inning and smashed a single to centre. Don Hoak then crossed the plate with the Bisons' eight run and set the stage for Harrington's clincher.

Lan Bronstad's three-hit pitching and pinch hitter Jerry Thomas' timely sacrifice fly, which brought in Gordon Fay with the winning run Wednesday with the Yankees.

accounted for the Virginians' triumph. Art Swanson took the loss.

FURILLO OUT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles outfielder Carl Furillo will be out of action at least a few weeks because of a rib fracture suffered in the Dodgers' exhibition game with New York Thursday night. Furillo was hit by one of fastballer Ryne Duren's pitches in the seventh inning.

Whip Regained Empire Title But Only for Three Seconds

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Whipper Billy Watson regained the British Empire heavyweight wrestling championship here last night. But only for a few seconds.

He lofted it off the arena-cut noggin of the Edmonton bulldozer, Gene Kiniski, only to have Sky Hart Maxwell toss it back again.

Maxwell was the third man in the ring — but purely for decorative purposes. He voted the Kiniski ticket all through, in fact made several speeches in his behalf.

What was sauce for the Kiniski goose was plain poison for the Watson gander !" far as Jim Nihs was concerned.

In fact at the end of the second fall when Whip had Kiniski's pitching arm resembling a ball-point pretzel, Maxwell insisted he make it look like an arm again.

The Whip flipped one of the Maxwell flippers out of joint, and nearly lost the decision — and then.

Watson who took a severe mauling in the first fall won the second in three minutes flat, Maxwell or no Maxwell.

He had the third chuckish and the crown in the bag early in the third period, Maxwell finally "uncle" when Maxwell sounded three, bided up and decided one of the Kiniski legs was wrapped around the ropes.

The disgusted Whipper picked up the Edmonton pride and started dashing him around the ring like a basketball. He wanted to play catch with Maxwell but Bert goofed the first pitch and took it on the midriff.

He brought up in the air, over the ropes, and onto the canvas before he got his wits together lowered, and made a safe if painful two-point landing.

In the meantime the Whip was having a field day in the ring with Kiniski and had shown the Alberta thatch that a steam-rollered flapjack whips Maxwell heaved himself back into action.

The Whip figured he had the crown back and held up his right hand in anticipation of the victory symbol. But Honest Bert brought otherwise. The south side of his lap had been insulted and bruised, and no upstart from Red Deer was going to get away with it.

So he curled a pained lip at the Whip, reached down and grabbed a Kiniski arm that wasn't doing anything at the moment and waggled it like a kid would a flag at a royal parade.

That was it.

Hard-Boiled Haggerty hasn't changed his roughle-toughle spots since his last appearance here before toppling handsome Mike Valentino in hard-punishment semi-final.

Wally Sieber was given the decision following a thirty-minute preliminary brawl with bald-noggined goater'd Karl Kulbacki.

The midgets will be here next week, it was announced.

Action Bouts Feature Next Boxing Card

Ring stars of the Toronto and Oshawa Athletic Clubs will provide the opposition for the second card of the young Belleville Boxing Club scheduled for Memorial Arena next Wednesday.

Jack "Rocky" Lucas and budding young Barry Parsons, who made a hit with the fans on the club's inaugural show recently, occupy the top spots in a card that promises another evening of outstanding entertainment for fight fans.

The special feature brings back popular Grant O'Reilly of Oshawa, who decisioned the Ontario lightweight champion, Paul Daniels, at their last meeting here, who will encounter stiff opposition in Charlie McIntyre of Toronto, said to be one of the toughest lightweights in the business. Recently O'Reilly scored a convincing knockout in a bout at Toronto's Palace Pier.

Locsa goes against colored Richard Oliver of the Toronto A.C., said to be one of the best fighters to appear at the Pier lights. The Belleville boxer, who won the "best fighter of the night" award in the opening card, will have his hands full with the Queen City scrapper.

Parsons, one of the local club's most promising youngsters, who scored a third-round TKO in his first appearance here, may not have it as easy this time. He come up against Yvon Daigle of Toronto, a hard-hitting clever youngster with ten bouts and a fine record of victories to his credit.

Five other bouts round out the card which will see the Belleville clubbers Terry Bennett, Bruce Polmenter, Tommy Cross, Bob Cole and Ben Hobbs in action.

Pool, Hayman Glance Over Argonaut Crop They Liked What They Saw

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Hampton Pool and managing director Lew Hayman arrived there Monday long job since the end of the 1958 Big Four football season Friday and proclaimed Toronto Argonauts will be the most improved team in the league this year.

Pool and Hayman reviewed their plans and hopes for the 1959 season after discussing Argos that obtained fullback Cookie Gilchrist from Saskatchewan Roughriders in a trade they think will help make the Toronto club a strong contender.

The argo coach said that after looking over the players signed by Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes he is convinced they haven't strengthened as much as Argos.

GIVES OUT COMMENT

Pool, who hasn't been able to get his team into the playoffs in two seasons as coach, said he is impressed with Hamilton's new prospects except for tackle Ted Gerela and Angelo Mosca. Ottawa has a lot stronger, Pool said, but they will be hurt along the line by losing either Larry Hayes or Ken Vargo.

As for Montreal, Pool figures that their line will be much better this season. However, he feels that their new halfbacks aren't much of an improvement over what the Alouettes had in 1958.

SIXTEEN UNVEILED

Argos have disclosed the signing of 16 new imports and more are yet to be unveiled. They have invited 15 of last year's Americans to return and are hoping to come up with at least four good prospects out of the 30 Canadian rookies from their rookie training camp early in June.

"We have the talent to win the Big Four title, but whether we do it depends entirely on the players' desire," said Hayman.

Pool named guard Chuck Hortis from Baylor University, Detroit Lions' No. 2 draft choice, and Russ Coyle from Oklahoma Sooners and guard Cleve Wester from Auburn University as the prize rookies among his new imports.

Coyle, who ran 79 yards for a touchdown against Syracuse in the Orange Bowl last New Year's Day, is a breakaway runner Pool praised highly.

Orrega in that first meeting in New York Feb. 6.

Stitch had Ortega—his left eye bleeding badly, banging on in both the third and eighth rounds. It was the 20th victory in 25 tries for Stitch, who has scored 10 knockouts. Ortega, fifth-ranked among the welterweight, now has a 48-18 record.

Bulldozers Rip Away Houses Amid Cries, Screams, Curses

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) —There was no joy in Chavez Ravine today, just the sound of bulldozers clearing the site for Los Angeles Dodgers new ballpark.

Fifteen residents were evicted from three condemned homes Friday amid screaming, crying and cursing.

"Why don't they play ball in (Mayor) Poulson's backyard—not in ours!" cried Mrs. Aurelia Arechiga, 63, shouted in Spanish at 14 sheriff's deputies. Twelve arrested on the stadium deal.

The deputies were greeted by these posters on the home of 71-year-old Manuel Arechiga:

"Welcome, Dodgers, but don't take our home."

"We don't care if Mr. (Dodger President Walter) O'Malley gets this land. All we ask is a fair price."

Arechiga told newspaper men his home was condemned for $20,500, but claimed it was worth $17,000.

The mayor's office said the home was condemned years before the Dodgers came to town. The land was taken under imminent domain powers as a site for a housing development which never came about. The sale to the Dodgers came after the housing plan had been scrapped.

Fifty reporters, photographers and television cameramen waited with Arechiga, his wife and their two daughters Friday for sheriff's deputies to arrive. A TV station's helicopter hovered overhead.

Amid shouting and cursing, the deputies moved into the residence — the Arechiga's home for 36 years—and carried one of the women bodily out the door.

The others went, but not quietly. One threw a stone.

Ten minutes later, the roar of two giant bulldozers drowned out Mrs. Arechiga's sobs as she sat on a curb and watched the machines reduce the frail dwelling to rubble. Residents in the other two houses left quietly.

Jacobs Leads Second Round Oklahoma Golf

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Tommy Jacobs' blistering pace in the $25,000 Oklahoma City open golf tournament Friday gave him a second-round 67 and 36-hole total of 133, an 8-under par stroke lead over Arnold Palmer and Bob Goalby.

Jacobs, wielding an accurate putter, posted a first round 66 and had to maintain a birdie barrage to keep his advantage.

Pamler, former Masters champion and top money winner of 1958, caught fire after a mediocre 73 in the first round and sped past the other early leaders with an eight-under-par 64.

This sensational exhibition came over the par 36-36—72 Twin Hills course.

Goalby softened by an overnight rain. More rain was in prospect today.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver moved up to a 13th-place tie with three other entrants. Leonard was two under par for a 70 Friday. With his first-round 72, this gave him a 36-hole total of 142.

Toronto's Jerry Magee repeated his first-round score of 76 for a halfway total of 152. Magee just squeezed in among the 54 qualifiers for the last two rounds.

Yankees May Swing Deal With Senators

NEW YORK (AP) — The faltering New York Yankees may be ready to deal with Washington Senators during the latter team's visit here during the weekend.

The Yanks must cut three players Saturday night to meet the 25 - player limit and they would like to use the excess for a trade.

General Manager George Weiss and Manager Ralph Houk confer with the Senators' president, Cal Griffith, during the series. He added he would first check with manager Casey Stengel.

The Yankees are believed interested in Washington pitcher Camilo Pascual, a lot depends on what Casey says about him," said Weiss.

Washington is reported eager to land infielder Bobby Richardson, a possible deal would be Richardson and pitcher Tom Sturdivant for Pascual.

Players who might be cut by the Yanks include catcher Darrell Johnson, lefty Murry Dickson, infielder Cletus Boyer and pitchers Zach Monroe, Johnny Kucks and Jim Coates.

Schoendienst Placed on Disabled List

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick has certified Milwaukee Braves that second baseman Red Schoendienst has been placed on the disabled list.

Frick permitted the Braves to go over the normal limit of two players on the disabled list on the grounds that Schoendienst's case is unusual. The commissioner has authority to take such action if a player benefits.

Schoendienst, recuperating from tuberculosis, was placed on the disabled list May 2.

With infielders Mel Roach and Eddie Haas also disabled, the Braves now are down to the 25-man player limit.

Schoendienst told the Braves this week he expects to start throwing a baseball again in a month.

Popular Mickey Mouse Club Going Off TV Temporarily

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — So it's goodbye Mickey Mouse Club, for a time, at least.

Walt Disney indicated this week that the TV kid show will not return to the ABC network next fall. Thus will mark a temporary end to an amazing success story.

Mouse ears blossomed out on small fry all over when the afternoon show began four years ago. The MM Club quickly became the daytime show with the highest rating, and even the toughest critics declared it was a step forward in the quality of kid shows.

RE-RUNS ONLY

Then TV economics stepped in. Sponsors began dropping. It was argued that there was a limited market in advertising to the younger crop. This year the show was cut to half an hour, all reruns.

"I've had complaints from parents who ask me why we don't make new shows," Disney remarked. "Nobody wants to put up the money. I'd like to take them off the air and bring them back in three or four years. There would be a whole new audience then."

There is also a chance that Mickey will not be back for his third season. Sponsors are reported balking at the upped price for the series.

"I'd just as soon quit it," Disney said, "I'd like to use Guy Williams in some features, anyway."

STRICTLY ADVERTISING

"I think we could get along well with just the one series ('Walt Disney Presents') on the air. You see, we were never in TV to make money. We use it to advertise our other activities —theatrical features and the Disneyland Park."

He feels that one series is enough to promote his other activities. But he added that that will fight for a new time slot—5:30 instead of 5:0.

"I've had lots of kids say to me they can only see half of the show because they have to go to bed at 5:30," he said. "If we can get the 7:30 starting time, we will be able to reach the whole family."

NEW SCOUT HQ

MONTREAL (CP) — A new $750,000 national headquarters in Ottawa for the Boy Scout Association of Canada will be erected this year, association president, Rhys M. Sale said Friday. The existing headquarters, bought in 1931 when boy scouts in Canada numbered 58,000, now is "hopelessly inadequate" for a movement which has 256,000 members. The figure was expected to reach 300,000 by 1967, said Mr. Sale.

Warning — These point out hazardous traffic conditions and are diamond in shape with black lettering and symbols on yellow background.

Guide — These inform motorists on directions, route destinations, distance and general points of interest. They are rectangular with the longer dimension horizontal and have green backgrounds. Some of these already are in use in Ontario.

Civil defence — A relatively new sign, the Civil Defence route marker, is to be a guide in the case of rapid evacuation of heavily populated areas. This sign is triangular with gold lettering on blue background. Letters instead of numbers will designate routes.

No turn — Among new signs are those prohibiting turns. Black arrows enclosed in green circles point out the directions in which traffic may proceed. Written messages are included until drivers have become familiar with them.

Turn-prohibition signs — Eliminate a weakness in current sign programs. Larger than the signs now used, and more striking, they are expected to have a greater effect on driving habits.

Schools — A new five-sided sign will be schoolhouse-shaped and encloses the figures of a boy and girl, silhouetted in white against a blue background.

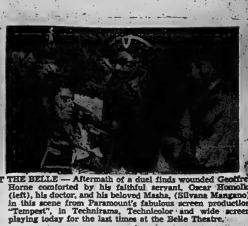
T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Strangely enough, some TV viewers do not completely understand the contrast control on their sets. They usually leave it turned up to maximum contrast and consequently do not always enjoy the most pleasing picture.

We'd like to explain that this control governs the picture much the same as the volume control governs the sound. Since TV stations vary in signal strength, it is not reasonable that any one setting of the control will give the best picture contrast on all channels. The control should always be adjusted so that the black and white areas of the picture are not exaggerated and the grey middle tones are apparent.

When knob twiddling won't bring in a good picture, it's time to call CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St. for fast repairs. Phone WO 8-6791 (in Trenton EX 2-7669).



AT THE PARK — Gary Cooper fights his way out of an ambush in the dramatic colorful adventure film, "Man of the West", a United Artists release in Technicolor and CinemaScope and color, opens Monday at the Park Theatre. On the same program Academy Award winner Best Actress of the Year Susan Hayward in "I Want to Live". One complete show starting at 7.15 p.m.

CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, May 10, 1959

Your Car

Proper Care For Automatic Transmission

By EUGENE MILMOE

Good driving plus occasional service attention will ease wear and tear on the automatic transmission as well as your engine.

Never get careless with it, such as by jamming hard on the gas-pedal for speed up-shifting for a quick pickup and getaway. Yet, don't become too deliberate. It's wasteful to poke along so slowly as to delay traffic.

Avoid strains on the transmission. Shift to the correct gear when climbing steep grades — and descending, too. Maybe you will never need to use the information, but you should know how and when to shift if your car must be pull-started.

Have the transmission fluid level checked at least every 1,000 miles. And when transmission noise, roughness or power loss develops, have an investigation made immediately.

H. E. asks: "Do brake fluids come in summer and winter grades, like gasoline, engine oil and other lubricants do?"

(A) No. Approved brake fluids are geared for all-weather use.

From E. J.: "The car I intend buying features air suspension. Does this mean no springs. . . Also, what are the advantages?"

(A) An air spring system takes the place of standard steel springs. It provides a somewhat smoother and softer ride, adjusting itself to load and road conditions.

F.F C. writes: "On the '52 sedan I bought last March the headlights were acting up — so I replaced them. The new lights aren't much better. I've checked sockets and their connections and can't find anything wrong. Any suggestions?"

(A) Inspect the battery connections. If they are loose or corroded they can cause headlight troubles.

M. T. asks: "An article we read recommended use of engine cleaner before changing the oil but gave no further details. Can you tell us more?"

(A) There is a flushing and cleaning agent for the engine which, if used before oil changes, is designed to loosen up accumulations of sludge, dirt and gum, allowing them to be drained off with the oil. Most service stations and automotive stores sell this product.

MARMORA

Music Pupils Hold Recital, Get Certificates

MARMORA — On Sunday afternoon a musical recital and presentation of certificates took place to the pupils of Mrs. T. Pick.

Mr. J. McChesney chaired the meeting for Marmora-Deloro Kiwanis Club, in the absence of the president, Mr. Ed. McNamara.

Mr. Doug McGregor, chairman of the Peterborough Music Festival Committee, was present with Mrs. McGregor and family.

Mr. McGregor who was introduced by Mr. McChesney gave a short speech and proceeded to present the awards: Miss Joanna Nichol received the bronze medal; and certificates were given to Sandra Gray, Theresa Clairmont, Dawn Mower, Darlene Youmans, Sally Pick, Barbara Bell, Joanne Nichol. Mrs. T. R. Pearce and Peter Pearce, and to Diane Neal, representative of Marmora Public School untruined children's class.

The Kiwanis Club have presented two awards one each to the girl and boy having top marks of those attending Peterborough Festival from Marmora. These will be suitably engraved and presented to Dawn Mower and Bruce Pearce.

Miss Betsy McGregor gave a dramatic recitation of Shakespeare during the program.

Mr. McGregor and Miss Betsy were given a vote of thanks for their assistance, which was moved by Mrs. Thos. Pearce.

Following the proceedings, Mr. and Mrs. Pick entertained at afternoon tea.

SIGN FUEL PACT

WASHINGTON (AP) The United States Thursday signed an agreement for transfer to Britain of non-nuclear parts of atomic weapons and for British purchase of fuel for its atomic submarine. A more limited military atomic agreement was reached with France. Under it, the United States agrees to supply enriched uranium for a development reactor the French are working on.

High School Activities

ASSEMBLIES — MOCK WEDDINGS AND REAL LIVES

The Wednesday morning assembly, put on by G13C, brought the school down in laughter with its theme of a typical hill-billy wedding. As the curtains opened, we saw many male members of that form dressed in potato sacks and ridiculous looking bonnets, waiting for the arrival of the brilliant bride and gorgeous groom. Corinne Fargey, the charming vocalist, sang an entertaining number while two bewitching bridesmaids, Duffy Follwell and Bill Dafoe led the couple down the aisle. Then Ricky Locke, acting as the minister, pronounced the bride, (Bill Green), and the groom, (Arla Woodcock) "beg tied".

While the scenery was being changed, Mr. Cochrane, G13C's home room teacher, recited a very amusing poem entitled "Foolish Questions". This was enjoyed by all.

Following this, there was a beauty contest in which only the boys could participate. Each wore a girl's bathing suit and high-heels. They sported paper bags on their heads so not to reveal their true identity. Four popular teachers, Miss Stuart, Mr. Robert Laughlin, Mr. Woolley, and Mr. Boyce were chosen from the audience and asked to guess who the "Beauties" really were. The student body voted for each contestant by applause and Miss Stuart crowned Ed Pratt or rather "Edweena" Prete the Queen.

GBD PUTS ON SPECIAL ASSEMBLY

"Mr. Matthews, this is your life!"

These were the words spoken by Valerie White on Wednesday morning, May 6th, as she selected the startled Mr. Matthews from the audience and led him to the stage. Wayne Noble, chosen to act as Ralph Edwards, began unfolding the past life of Mr. Matthews beginning with his early school days in India. Members of G8D took part in portraying a couple incidents of his early life. Mr. Matthews, not quite fully recovered from the shock of his appearance, greeted for his next surprise. His mother was ushered into the stage. His sister, Mrs. Jurianz was also present. She spoke to us briefly about the time in India when she did not want to play at school. Her brother, being very kind and considerate, decided to take her home. Soon after, Mr. Matthews was moved to another school where he was not quite so conveniently located. His wife and three children made the family circle complete.

Mr. Matthews spoke about his two most memorable occasions in Canada — his first day at Quinte and his first trip to a supermarket. He gave a short talk on his favorite sport, tennis.

A beautiful bouquet of long-stemmed red roses was presented to his mother while the students thundered their approval. Lovely corsages were given to his wife and sister and Mr. Matthews received a white carnation for his lapel.

Special mention should be given to G9D, who worked so hard to make the assembly a success. It must have been very hard to keep this surprise a secret for one and one-half months!

VARIETY PREVIEW

A coming event that none of you will want to miss is the Spring Variety Show, which will be held at Quinte on the evening of May 22.

The girls will be interested in seeing the industrial arts display in the cafeteria, while the boys will "enjoy" the fashion show on stage. There will also be a gymnastic display and commercial- and agriculture demonstrations. The show is open, admission free to the general public and a special invitation is extended to parents and friends. Some of the bonus attractions will be door prizes, and free doughnuts and coffee in the cafeteria. Music will be provided by the band and dancing by the Keyettes in their famous can-can. With these enticements and the varied program you can't afford to miss this spectacular event.

6th Sidney

6th SIDNEY — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Phillips and Brenda and Mrs. Lewis Phillips, Marmora, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edison Sine.

Mr. and Mrs W. McInroy and boys of Marmora called on Mr. and Mrs. Edison Sine Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery Martyn and Ross spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Martyn, Bancroft.

7 Mortar Bombs Found At Deep River

Issue Warning After Boy Dies Dismantling One

Bombs Taken by Youths From Petawawa Range

DEEP RIVER (CP) — Police and the army today issued warnings to all youths following the death of an 11-year-old schoolboy who tried to dismantle 3-inch anti-tank mortar he had picked up on the Camp Petawawa firing ranges.

Donald Gilmore was found in the debris of his burned, devastated home, part of a rocket still clutched in one hand. The explosion occurred in the basement of the house Sunday night while his mother and 14-year-old sister were out.

Soon after the blast Ron Atkins, 16, and Rene Strelesky, 17, called police to say they had five more of the rockets. A seventh was found in the shed at the Gilmore house and all were taken by army personnel to an Ottawa River beach and exploded.

RAW "HUNDREDS"

Atkins and Strelesky said they found them where they were filling near Camp Petawawa, near Pembroke 20 miles southeast of here, when they walked into a forested area and saw "hundreds of rockets lying around."

Police said the two boys told them "there were no signs around so we shouldn't pick up some of them."

Lt.-Col. H. T. Foobery, commander of Camp Petawawa, said: "A search should be made of rocket-impact areas after firing practice at the camp.

He said the camp never is posted as out of bounds to civilians except during firing practice. However, he said there are signposts on all practice areas and persons who enter these areas do so at their own risk.

Police issued a warning that anyone who touches an unexploded rocket may be killed. Any persons are asked to report unexploded rocket impact shells to police immediately.

Today, the search continued for other rockets.

Police would not comment on the possibility of other bombs being found.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McKinnon were at home in their adjoining part of the double when the blast knocked down the outer wall on the Gilmore side of the building and set the place afire.

Firemen controlled the fire on the Gilmore side, but the building was ruled unsafe. Donald Gilmore's body was found among the wreckage two hours after the blast.

Alberta Socreds Seek 7th Term On June 18th

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's Social Credit party will seek its unprecedented seventh consecutive term in a provincial general election June 18.

The balloting, third provincial general election in four years, was announced Saturday night by Premier E. C. Manning. Nominations vote May 14, Ontario time 11.

Alberta's nomination day is June 4.

The Social Credit party, swept into power in a 1935 landslide, has won all six provincial general elections since then.

The party, formed in 1934, overwhelmed the United Farmers of Alberta who had dominated the government since 1921 but failed in 1935 to elect a single member. The province had Liberal government from its formation in 1905 until 1921.

DEVELOPMENT ISSUE

The Social-cred Mr. Manning devoted most of a radio address Saturday night to the Social Credit party's five-year development program, likely to be one of the chief issue's in the election campaign.

Standing in the 61-seat 13th legislature, dissolved Saturday, was: Social Credit 37; Liberal 15; Progressive Conservative 3; Labor 2; Liberal-Conservative 1; Coalition 1; Independent 1; Independent Social Credit 1.

Sixty five-seats will be at stake in the June 18 balloting. Edmonton representation will be increased to nine from seven; Calgary's to seven from six; and a new constituency, Dunvegan, has been carved out of the Peace River region in the northwest.

SIMPLE BALLOT

For the first time in a general election, Albertans will use the simple a system of marking ballots, replacing the proportional representation system used in Edmonton and Calgary and the single transferable ballot used in other constituencies.

Both the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives have named new party leaders since the 1955 election.

The Liberals picked Grant MacEwan of Calgary to succeed J. Harper Prowse, who never who retired. The Progressive Conservatives, who lacked a party leader for almost 30 years, selected W. J. C. Kirby of Red Deer.

44 FATALITIES, 20 ON HIGHWAYS, DURING WEEKEND

Fourteen Drowned Across Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Drownings and highway mishaps accounted for most of Canada's accidental death toll of 44 during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Sunday showed 20 highway deaths and 14 drownings, 11 of them in Ontario.

Only Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland were fatality free.

The Ontario drownings boosted the provincial count to 25, most of any province. There were also five traffic deaths, five fire deaths and four classified as miscellaneous.

Quebec was next with 11 fatalities—nine on the road and two drownings.

The Ontario dead:

Mrs. Mary Lynn Hendon, 33; Patricia Lynn, 5; Leslie Jane, 7, and Roger, eight months, asphyxiated in the Toronto suburb of East York early Sunday as result of a fire blamed on smoking.

Hope Age, 60, and Michael Sochicon, 33, who drowned near Terrace Bay Saturday while trying to break up a log jam on the Aguasabon River.

Misty-Eyed 'Winnie' Bids Goodbye After Visit to 'My Other Country'

NEW YORK (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill was misty - eyed Sunday night as he said goodbye to the United States.

Leaning heavily on his gold-tipped cane, the former prime minister smiled a farewell at his tidewild airport bound for England.

Not far away, in Brooklyn, is a remodelled brownstone house where his mother was born.

This was Churchill's ninth visit to the United States since the days of the Second World War, before the United States entered the fighting.

Churchill, 84, paused at the ramp as he boarded the plane, and delivered a message of hope to the free world. Then he waved and was airborne at the crowd of several hundred gathered to see him.

Opposition Parties Predict Upswing in Political Fortunes

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Leaders of Ontario's two opposition political parties, with the provincial election just a month away, are predicting an upsurge in their political fortunes.

John Wintermeyer, whose Liberals had 11 seats at dissolution, said Saturday his party is in a fight to the finish and will not be content to be a caretaker government after the election.

Donald MacDonald, whose CCF party had three seats in the last House, told a nominating convention Saturday there are "deep undercurrents" in the provincial election campaign.

Mr. Wintermeyer, at the annual dinner of the Southern Ontario Liberal Association, said Premier Frost is not consistent in his federal-provincial fiscal policies.

The Liberal chief said the Premier had counted on $100,000,000 from Ottawa in 1957, but in the current year, less than $15,000,000 was received. Next year, probably only $20,000,000 would be received.

He called the proposed July 6 meeting on fiscal matters a "political expedient" to divert the shortcomings of Mr. Frost for his failure to secure more than tax payments from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Frost's Progressive Conservatives held 83 seats in the 98-seat house. One was vacant.

Mr. MacDonald said the "undercurrents" are similar to those that saw the CCF party move into the official opposition in 1943. He said he knows that 12 Toronto newspaper men took a "straw vote" and that all 12 voted for the CCF. He did not name the men.

At a Sunday meeting Mr. MacDonald enlarged on his theme. He said that in recent tours of Industry-Wide Steel Contract Talks Commence

NEW YORK (AP)—Industry-wide steel negotiations open today with the steelworkers union expected to demand shorter hours and more pay.

Four-man industry and union teams will attempt to agree on a new contract in time to prevent a strike by 500,000 steelworkers July 1.

The industry-wide talks replace the dozen company sessions held with the union last week.

Steelworkers union President David J. McDonald said Sunday that unemployment is one of the most important issues in the talks. He said he wants employment assured so he the first item on the agenda.

"Our view is that the way to achieve this desirable goal," he said, "is a planned program of reducing hours, increasing purchasing power by improved wages and collateral benefits, and appropriate revisions in our pension."

FIRST INDICATION

This was the first official indication that labor would be out to get the bought. Previously the union had indicated only that it would ask for substantial wage increases.

It was published report that the steelworkers had already demanded an immediate average work week of 36 hours at the present 40-hour wage level was denied by R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for management. Cooper, a vice-president of U.S. Steel, said he knew nothing of such a demand.

The old contract expires June 30.

Dragging River For Bodies of Four Teen-agers

OTTAWA (CP) — Police resumed dragging operations on the Ottawa River this morning for the bodies of four teen-agers believed drowned when their rowboat overturned in the swift-flowing Ottawa River just above the Chaudiere Falls.

They disappeared Saturday after renting the boat at a boathouse on the Hull side of the river apparently in an attempt to cross to the Quebec side.

Dulles Now Ill With Pneumonia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody expected good news about the condition of John Foster Dulles, weakened by pneumonia in his fight against cancer.

The former state secretary's sister, Mrs. Eleanor Dulles, flew to Washington Sunday night because she felt "we should be nearer home at this time." Mrs. Dulles had been in Berlin representing the state department at the 10th anniversary of the lifting of the Berlin blockade.

The state department said Saturday that Dulles had developed a mild case of pneumonia, but his temperature had returned to normal after treatment.

TITANS RETIRED, GENEVA PARLEY CAST IS ALL NEW

None of Ministers Filled Role Before

GENEVA (AP)— The titans of the post-war diplomatic duels — Molotov, Dulles, Eden and Bidault—are in political obscurity or retirement.

The world is waiting to see how their successors will measure up in dealing with some of the crucial problems now facing them.

Christian Herter of the United States, Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union, Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and Maurice Couve de Murville of France are experienced diplomats but none has led his country's delegation at a Big Four parley before.

Herter, 64, is the dean of the group in age but the least experienced in international negotiations. Gromyko at 49 is the youngest but also the veteran of the most conference tables. Lloyd is 54 and Couve de Murville 52.

KREMLIN VETERAN

Russia's iron-visaged Gromyko once was called the boy wonder of the diplomatic world. Darkhaired, with a square-shouldered build, he is a veteran of Kremlin politics under Stalin, Malenkov and Khrushchev.

Much of his career has been spent in the United States. As the Soviet Embassy in Washington and at the United Nations headquarters. He has been foreign minister since 1957.

A man of impressive Slavic calm, Gromyko has big shoes to fill at this Geneva conference. Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov was considered by many Western statesmen to be the most skillful diplomat of this century.

Gromyko has had only a few weeks to move out from under

Parley Starts As Compromise Formula Reached

East and West Germans Will Be Able to Speak

GENEVA (CP)—The Big Four foreign ministers opened their conference on cold war problems tonight, 3½ hours late, after running aground for a time on the question of how the East and West German governments should participate.

The Soviet Union fought valiantly through the day to gain acceptance of the German delegations as full conference participants for the talks on the future of Berlin and Germany.

The Russians gained at least one point—the Big Four foreign ministers will sit at a round table instead of a square one.

The first session of the conference was scheduled for 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EDT) on Tuesday. Instead, the foreign ministers got together informally at a British villa.

From this meeting Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko emerged with the announcement the formal session was set for 5 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT).

Under the agreed formula the Germans are advisers and not full participants as demanded by the Russians.

WILL ASK BIG FOUR

If either the East or West German representative desires to speak, the conference chairman will ask whether any of the Big Four ministers has any objections. If there are none, the floor will be given to the Germans.

The Soviet foreign minister told reporters:

"There has been complete agreement on all procedural and administrative matters."

Gromyko added: "We included agreement on the German participation issue, he said: "Yes, but with some reservations."

Gromyko said the session was scheduled for 5 p.m. (1 p.m. EDT).

SEPARATE TABLES

An American spokesman said the East and West German delegations would be present at separate tables as advisers at the Big Four conference.

An American spokesman described this afternoon's agreement as "satisfactory."

"The German delegations, who are to be considered as advisers throughout the conference, will be placed at separate tables. The German table beside the Russian delegates and the West German table beside the United States.

"The French will sit on the left of the Americans and the British between the French and the Russians.

If either of the German delegations wishes to speak, the conference chairman will ask if there are any objections. If not, they will be allowed to speak."

Eskimo Boy First Wanted Food Although He May Lose Both Feet

OTTAWA (CP) — What Allee the Eskimo boy needs most now in Civic Hospital here was food.

His hunger—and gangrene in both feet—had developed after an 11-day ordeal on a drifting ice floe in Hudson Bay with his father.

The 15-year-old Eskimo boy, who speaks no English, arrived Saturday night aboard an RCAF plane. He was treated for ailments acquired after he and his father were picked up by a search plane in an open water white seal hunting on the Arctic ice April 28.

The last word of his ordeal will not be decided for several weeks, but doctors believe, on the basis of preliminary examinations, that both his feet will have to be amputated.

Meanwhile, Allee has been exhibiting an air-raid and shyly making his way into the affections of all who care for him in the white man's hospital, far from his native village on the bleak eastern shores of Hudson Bay.

Because Allee and his father,

Monty Reports On Moscow Visit In London Times

LONDON (Reuters)—The Sunday Times devoted almost a full page Sunday to the first of two copyright articles by Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery reporting on his Moscow visit.

Summarizing what he was told by Nikita Khrushchev during their Moscow meetings, Montgomery said the Russian premier agreed to discuss Western proposals involving a change in Russian policy as previously interpreted in the West.

They were to bring in the United Nations on the Russian question and to separate Berlin from the problem of a German peace treaty.

Khrushchev also agreed to a limited inspection plan, initially perhaps in a small area, which could be expanded as mutual confidence was gained.

Montgomery said that in their two meetings Khrushchev told him he would like the Atlantic and Warsaw pacts to be dissolved, and national forces withdrawn to their own countries.

Khrushchev had said nuclear weapons were creating a nervous attitude throughout the world. Either side now could devastate the other and steps must be taken to end distrust and fear.

The simplest formula was for a state of amity with the two Germanies, but if the West refused then then Russia would negotiate with East Germany. Khrushchev said that if this led to war, Russia could not escape her destiny.

Montgomery said Khrushchev then agreed to separate the two questions involved. He also showed a flexible approach and had confidence, Montgomery said, he did not want to achieve Russia's aims by a hot war.

Because of this, Montgomery thought that something had been achieved by his visit to Moscow.

His second article, Montgomery concluded, will be devoted to impressions of Moscow and its people and an assessment of whether the Russians want to live together.

In an editorial, the Sunday Times described Montgomery's article as "a vital historical document."

"Most important of all," it said, "Mr. Khrushchev declared himself willing to eliminate all but war possibilities as a first priority.

"To rule out the hot-war contingency is a momentous start on the long road to confidence and peace."

SIGNS ON 401

TRENTON — Town Engineer Eric Aldersey said it is the Department of Highways' duty to put traffic along the highways in the best way possible and in the case of the 401 they do not think traffic should be hindered with too many signs. That is perhaps why the highway men have kept all signs on this main route down to the point to enable motorists to read them at a glance and not have to slow down. On approaching roads on which lead to Trenton on the 401 and travelling west from Belleville a sign has been erected reading, "Trenton. Take highway 33 South and a little further on another sign announces "Highway 33, North and South". Local merchants on the other hand feel a sign or signs should be erected on the 401 directing traffic down Sidney Street as well as on Highway 33 to bring men to the main business section of town and they have sent a letter to the Department of Highways asking if this could be done.

HOBBY SHOW

Trenton Boy Scouts held a successful model airplane meet Saturday in the parking lot next to the Odeon Theatre building. Here they had entered a display of model Scouts and leaders on the scene all ready to explain the different exhibits to the visitors. In previous years the hobby show was held in the basement of the old Y.M.C.A. building but this year it moved down to the railway crossing and the bill for this will be sent to Sidney township.

DANCE PARTY

Four hundred and forty young people turned out for Ted Curl's teen-age dance party held in the Community Centre Saturday night. Although the dance was not as successful as had been hoped, financially wise, the management announced they will be carried on and the date of the next one will be announced in the near future.

PARADE TO CHURCH

With the pipes of the Frankford L.O.L. Pipe Band skirling, members of the Trenton Loyal Independent Order of Odd Fellows marched from their lodge hall on Dundas St. to Bethel Temple, Dundas St. East, for their annual church parade yesterday. Also present were lodge members from Belleville and Brighton, while the ladies were represented by members of the Rebekah order. On arrival at the Bethel Temple, lodge members listened to a sermon by the minister, Rev. David Mc-Clean, who spoke on the Good Samaritan, illustrating Love, Friendship and Truth, the three basic principles of the Odd Fellow organization.

Task of Laying Sewer Pipe Will Start Soon

TRENTON — The difficult task of laying the sewer pipe under the river will soon be begin, it was revealed over the weekend.

The large cement pipe will carry the sewage from the west side to the pump house now being built on the east side of the river and near the approach of the town bridge and from there it will be pumped to the sewage disposal plant.

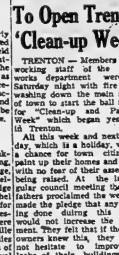
During the winter months while thick ice covered the water, the crews had been bust-drilling holes in the floor of the river and blasting out a trench to hold the pipe. After the ice had left, a "heavy" dipper had been used to clean out the trench in preparing it to receive the cement pipe.

At present the pipe can be seen piled up on the west side of the river on the approach to docks near the manhole which was built there this spring. A pulley will go through the cement well facing the storage plant and then will swing in a sharp turn to angle across the river to the pump house.

The pump house, which will be 30 feet into the ground, will be a modern, two storey and brick-looking building of brick veneer above the ground with face with the "Cream Puff" under it.

The hole has now been completed and it is expected the crews working there will begin to pour the cement in this week.

A sewer line from Ontario Street will also be run into this pump house and carry most of the sewage from this side to it for pumping to the sewage disposal plant.



Streets Washed To Open Trenton 'Clean-up Week'

TRENTON — Members of the working staff of the public works department were out Saturday night and the fire hoses washing down the main streets of town to get the ball rolling for "Clean-up and Paint-up Week" which began yesterday in Trenton.

All this week and next Monday, which is a holiday, will be a chance for town citizens to paint up their homes and fences and with no by-law infractions being raised. At the last regular council meeting the mayor Fisher proclaimed the week and made the pledge that any paint ing done during this period would not increase the assessment. They (the council) don't know this, they would not hesitate to improve the looks of their buildings with paint and brushes. (Assessments are not usually raised on the result of normal maintenance work).

The Mayor and councillors urge all citizens in Trenton to co-operate during this week and clean up their buildings and

City Manager Drury Denyes Resigns as Allegation Made Money Misspent for Hockey

Alleged misspending of city money in connection with the operation of the Belleville McFarland's Senior Hockey Club has resulted in the resignation of City Manager Drury S. Denyes and a request for a fully detailed inquiry into the finances of the city.

The announcement of Mr. Denyes' resignation as city manager was made this morning in an official statement by Mayor Gerald B. Hyde who said he was led to believe the amount of money misspent might be approximately $15,000. Mr. Denyes acted as manager of the hockey club.

The detailed inquiry into the city's financial position will be made by the Department of Municipal Affairs at the request of Mayor Hyde and council.

Mayor Hyde's statement reads as follows:

The financial affairs of the City have been the cause for great concern to myself and the members of Council and to all of the City Officials during the past four days. The auditor of the City of Belleville presented to me his statement for the year ending December 31st, 1958, towards the latter part of last week. He obtained to me some of the serious implications contained in his report and these implications and findings were a tremendous shock to me.

At the same time that a copy of this report was delivered to me, a second copy was delivered to the office of City Manager-Treasurer and two other copies were delivered to the office of the City Clerk as required by Statute. At this point I made immediate arrangements with the auditor for him to appear at a meeting of the City Council and to outline to the members of Council the information which he had given to me.

RESPONSIBLE STANDING

About this time the City Manager was reported missing and many wild rumors are circulating about this, disappearance. I wish at this time to say that the Manager was located a short time after he was reported missing and that he was on his way to Belleville at the time of being located. I wish to further say that he had no City funds or records in his possession at the time of being located.

The Council of the City of Belleville were called to an emergency caucus meeting by myself last Friday afternoon. At that time it appraised them of the situation as I understood it and a further emergency meeting was held on Saturday evening at which time the City Auditor made a special trip to be present and outlined his findings to the Council. In the meantime the City Manager was placed under medical care and I arranged with his physician to speak to him on Sunday.

TENDERS RESIGNATION

He tendered his resignation on Sunday afternoon and I accompanied him to his office and watched him remove his personal effects from that office and accepted his keys from him at that time. This morning I have contacted the Minister of Municipal Affairs, the Honorable William K. Warrender, in his office in Toronto and I have outlined the entire picture to him and have requested that an official of his department be sent to this city today to make an official inquiry into this most unhappy situation.

After listening to the true facts of the story he has advised me that an official will be sent immediately and has requested that I apply under Section 332 of the Ontario Municipal Act for a fully detailed inquiry into the financial affairs of the City of Belleville. I am proceeding with this action at this moment.

The rumors which were circulating throughout the city during the past four days have been fabulous, however, I feel very great regret in having to advise the citizens of this city that some of the information that I and other members of the City Council have given you with respect to the financial affairs of this city as they relate specifically to the position of the hockey club have been horribly incorrect. The information which has been given to the general public has been furnished by an official in whom all of us have had absolute confidence and we now find that we have grievously erred in our trust.

At this time I am unable to give you any definite indication as to just how much money has actually been misspent. I can say, however, that the sum is unbelievable and there will probably be a period of some considerable time elapse before a true and correct accounting can be given to the citizens. I am led to believe that the sum of money involved, which has been grossly misspent might approximate seventy-five thousand dollars. This situation has been extremely trying to myself and every member of the council and to every official of the City of Belleville.

MONEY NOT STOLEN

I wish to report again that we have no reason to believe that the money has been stolen or embezzled by the responsible official, but we know that it has been terribly misspent without any authority.

The inquiry which is being asked of the Department of Municipal Affairs is I believe an absolutely essential step, which must be proceeded with if we are to assure the members of Belleville council and other elective and appointed officials can be made aware of the true and correct circumstances which have brought this misfortune upon us.

In these very difficult and trying times for all of us connected with the affairs of the City of Belleville I would request the maximum co-operation of the people of this city in bearing with us until the true facts are known.

G. B. HYDE, Mayor,
City of Belleville.

Britain to Send Planes to Iraq

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain has agreed to issue the necessary export licenses for the supply of a limited number of airplanes to Iraq, the House of Commons was told today.

John Profumo, minister of state for foreign affairs, added that the government also has told Iraq it is ready to authorize negotiations for delivery of a "reasonable" quantity of arms, including tanks.

Profumo said Iraq traditionally looked upon Britain to supply it with arms.

Earlier this year, Iraqi Premier Abdul Karim Kassem had asked whether the British government would be willing to authorize further sales, including planes and tanks.

Jail Canadian For 10 Months As Jap Killed

TOKYO (CP)—Peter E. Longfitt, a Canadian serving with the United States Air Force, today was sentenced to 10 months imprisonment for accidentally shooting and killing a Japanese music student aboard a passing train last September.

The defence lawyer said American military authorities had stated their willingness to pay compensation of 1,500,000 yen (4,200) to the murdered mother.

Longfitt was charged with "professional negligence resulting in death." He had pleaded guilty to accidentally firing his carbine while on guard duty.

Board of Censors Had to Snip Away at 83 Films

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario board of censors had to snip away at 83 films because of undesirable scenes, it reported Sunday in a review of the last five years's operations.

The board said that during the 12-month period ended March 31 there had been increases in films classified as suitable only for a particular audience and those that had to be treated to make them acceptable for all.

The board had 567 full - length films submitted for its attention, 15 fewer than the year before and the lowest total in 20 years.

Of these, 421 were released uncut, 63 had to be classified as adult, 23 were classified as adult and treated, 43 were released unclassified after treatment and seven were labelled restricted and had to be retouched.

NO FAMILY FILMS

The board's report, submitted to Travel Minister Cathcart, deplored a lack of family entertainment in current movie offerings. "Formerly, comparatively few films with unwarranted emphasis on nudity, violence, sex and horror were released," the board said. "Of late, more and more such films are dealt with the impact of such scenes was limited."

The members and advisor advertising now accompanying films involving sex and immorality, horror, nudity and juvenile behavior was described by the board as showing "an unhealthy degree of license."

The board said the theatre inspection branch had a busy year due to above - average snowfalls that necessitated frequent checks of roof overloads, heating and emergency exit facilities.

Thirteen theatre fires were reported during the period under review. Only one was a major fire.

Five Are Killed As Tornadoes Hit Six States

CHICAGO (CP) — Rains swept wide areas of the mid-continent today on the heels of tornadoes which slashed through six states during the weekend, killing five persons, injuring at least 72 and causing heavy property damage.

Scores of homes were demolished, huge semi-trailer trucks were tossed about and the four-building Iowa community of Fairfax was wiped out in tornadoes which lashed Texas, Iowa, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin Sunday.

Tornadoes whipped through Oklahoma Saturday and Sunday. It was in the Oklahoma town of Frisco that a twister killed five persons and injured nine.

Heavy hail storms followed the tornadoes in a number of communities. And then came the rains. Half the size of baseballs fell in the vicinity of Corpus Christi, Tex., and egg-size hail covered the ground near Austin.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

In Chris Church parish hall, ideal for affairs of this kind, 180 boys and fathers last week enjoyed a good dinner prepared and served by the auxiliary. Green and yellow, the group colors, were emphasized in the table decorations. Daffodils and green and yellow napkins completed the beautiful table settings. Hot baked potatoes were a welcome change in the menu. Place cards were wolves—lean hungry wolves, and the amount of food put on the table proved the description wasn't too far out.

O.S.D. CUBS

The 16th Cub Pack were special guests of the 2nd Pack, and behaved themselves like any other Cubs. Rowdy and full of fun and as lovable as our own 2nd Cubs. Their leaders have brought these boys to a standard of efficiency where they do not have to take second place to any pack. One little chap told us in clear, precise tones, that his name was John Wilder. We admire these inspired leaders and of course we must not forget that the boys have worked hard to fulfill their obligations as Cubs.

Clean, properly uniformed and intelligent, you can tell them by their tartan neckerchiefs and that was the only obvious difference between the two packs. Mr. D. E. Kennedy, chairman of the O.S.D. group, is justly proud of his leaders and the boys.

Scouts Glenn Rainbird and Bill Elliott performed the flag-break ceremony and the Rev. Everett Smith said grace. After dinner Scoutmaster, Lionel Blaker, introduced the head-table: Akela Shirley Bolce, O.S.D.; Rev. E. F. Smith; A.C.M. Maynard Parking, O.S.D.; D.C. Phil Allcorn; Cub Joe McDonell, O.S.D.; Cub Bobby Scott, 2nd Group chairman Harvey Scott; Mrs. C. F. Leggat; L.A. president, Irene Lancaster; A.C.M. Barbara Mallory, O.S.D.; Chris Leggat and A.C.M. Jack Bolce, O.S.D.

Secretary, Ron Lee, introduced Cub Master Sam Cook, who spoke on highway safety and showed an educational film strip on this subject. Sgt. Cook is obviously popular with Boy Scouts and Cubs were most attentive. We hope the Sergeant will visit all our Troops and Packs in the near future.

TALENTED BOYS

ENTERTAIN

Cub Steven Ling was quite good on the piano and Cub David Roper did some clever step dances. David looked very sharp in his red silk suit and top hat. Then the Charlie Chaplins of magic, (John Hall, O.S.D.), captured the attention of the Cubs and fathers, with feats of magic. John is an accomplished performer and his clever tricks spiced with rare humor was the highlight of the evening.

AKELA OF 2nd HONORED

Akela Kemp has completed 5 years of Scouting. We are all proud of our Cubmaster. She still believes that a boy of eight is not any older than a boy of eight was some years ago. Her system of training is to let the boy do it, too much is done for boys in some instances. Passive citizenship is not in her book of rules. Cubbing in the 2nd teaches active citizenship. Let the boy decide and act for himself with no excess efficiency and little red tape.

SCOUTING IS FUN

Akela Kemp is against military training and follows the motto of B.P. "Scouting is Fun". Abe Lincoln asked the worth of a certain man said, "He has a wife and baby both worth a million dollars."

Mrs. Kemp has been custodian of "hundreds of millions of dollars" and has proved she is worthy of the confidence placed in her. Akela loves all her cubs and all her cubs love her, which is the satisfying reward she has for the outstanding work she has done for scouting. Our sincere congratulations to Cubmaster Margaret Kemp, may she assist Scouting for many more years.

Cub Asko Martiinen of the O.S.D. thanked Mrs. Rainbird, in a good clear voice, who with Mrs. Elizabeth Blaker and Akela ladies auxiliary, provided the excellent banquet. We are doubtful who received the biggest ovation, but we do know that the wholehearted appreciation displayed was richly deserved.

NUNS FLEE FIRE

EAST RIVERDALE, Md. (AP)— Eleven nuns fled St. Bernard's Convent early Sunday as fire struck church buildings for the second time in five days. Officials expressed belief both fires were the work of teen - age arsonists. The first, last Tuesday, caused an estimated $100,000 damage to St. Bernard's Roman Catholic Church. Damage to the convent was light.

TODAY'S UNIVERSITIES

Today's universities and their curricula differ from those of earlier days. Dr. W. P. Thompson, retiring president of the University of Saskatchewan, not only maintains that these differences are unavoidable but also appears to regard them as desirable.

"When universities recruited only a small fraction of youths, privileged in wealth or intellect," said Dr. Thompson in a Convocation Day address, "they could restrict their efforts to liberal cultural education or pure learning. But the great increase in numbers and in proportion to the total population make that a quite unrealistic ideal, even if other factors weren't sufficient to do so. And there is no point in arguing that the others could be kept out. Don't forget that modern complex society's great demands for highly educated (or at least trained) people now force many youths into universities. An education which may be quite suitable for one special youth out of hundreds simply won't do for one out of ten as now or one out of four as in the near future. We should frankly recognize that the traditional liberal education is in fact 'school, arship' and that 'scholars' are a special group and require a special curriculum. If universities were to confine themselves to this type of education, it would be immediately necessary to start a second type of institution for the great majority. That second type could, of course, be given some other name but would deserve the name 'university' more than the first.".

Most of what Dr. Thompson says has been said before, although not always with such clarity. That final sentence, though, is new. But there was criticism of the tendency in some circles to lower the standards of those where they could be as readily visible over a raise in the high-way.

The bureau found no evidence that "fashion" has influenced tire appearance spending. It also noted that in nine out of 10 accidents, the driver was in the line directly to the driver, not to the car or the road.

Urges Women Smoke Cigars

Hamilton Spectator

The other day we read a fascinating article by Mr. Hal Boyle, American newspaper writer, who said that women will never attain real equality with men until they smoke cigars.

"Stick a cigar in the average woman's mouth," he says, "and she gains a touching show of elegance, "and she doesn't know what to do with it. She looks a bit like an amateur trying to blow up a toy balloon.

Very few women have known the delights of a direct inhalation of fragrant blue smoke, but Mr. Boyle says they include "Peter Minuit, the lady gambler of the western frontier; Amy Lowell, once the flower of New England poetry, and in our time the Italian actress, Anna Magnani."

His thesis is that the cigar-smoking male is the one women find most appealing. Among the best examples of cigar-smoking women is Mrs. Winston Churchill.

While Mr. Boyle's opinions come to us under a New York dateline, we are sensitive to the Canadian application if we are to be at all constructive in any patriotic sense. For instance, would the Hon. Ellen Fairclough already a minister of citizenship and immigration take up the people to be Prime Minister some day?

And locally, there are Controller Ada Pritchard and Alderman Margaret Standen. Must they clamp cigars between their teeth as a prelude to candidacies for city hall?

They have friends galore. Their object it seems to be not to make anybody do anything, but just to live happy and like everybody. In them is demonstrated the oft-repeated statement that moderation is more effective than vinegar.

You know the driver type, do you not? You have seen him or her. The driver type in business is a person to steer clear of. There are lots of men who drive and politics leaders who try to do the same.

Everywhere we go you find the driver and the persuading type of person standing out in stark contrast to the placid actor.

We all know which type we like best. We have the satisfaction feeling that God prefers that type al-

Modern Cars And Safety

By Richard Salem in the Washington Post and Times-Herald

The U.S. bureau of public roads has some rough words for the design of modern automobiles.

In a report on highway safety, sent to congress recently, the bureau found that "changing automobile design sometimes has resulted in almost only to find a new one in its place," and concluded: "It appears that engineering advances for safety are not always as great as they are billed."

The bureau noted: "The large rear windows and rear cars provide the drivers with a potentially much greater field of vision to the rear, but the sweeping tail fins tend to obscure rear vision by lacking."

Wrap around windshields probably have an over-all positive effect, the bureau said, but it observed: "In bad weather the glare falls to the front and central area of such windshields," causing blind spots which must be wiped or needed.

The "projectilelike components of bumpers, projecting hoods and fender ornaments," the bureau described as "largely nonfunctional and needless hazards to pedestrians."

It said some improved stability and riding quality on "Detroit's finest" has been lost. It added, they also mean power of vision, because the driver in sitting farther back is not less effective, because the smaller wheels reduce the power of coasting ale around the brake drums.

The manufacturers were commended for the efficient, dual headlamps and brighter lighting. But there was criticism of the tendency in some models to lower the tailpipe to where they could as readily visible over a raise in the high-way.

Mr. P. Hays and the Misses Hays have returned to their home, Catherine Street after spending the winter in Florida.

Mr. Alan Lily has undergone an operation for appendicitis at the Belleville General Hospital.

May 11th, 1929

This is the anniversary of the Battle of Batoche, which was fought May 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th, 1885. Tomorrow will be the 44th anniversary of the capture of Batoche. After this long lapse of time there are still remain veterans who were members of the 15th Regiment Company No. 2 and 90th Company.

Unsightly signs and even bill boards are to disappear in the city if a recommendation passed by the board of the City council in committee goes through before council.

One of the most notable events in the history of the Bay of Quinte was the Grand Trunk Assembly which was held in the Belleville Armouries under the auspices of the Executive Committee of the County of Hastings Development Association. The object of the assembly was to celebrate the cessation of hostilities and the dawning of world peace, and also to offer an opportunity for the citizens from all parts of the district to meet and fraternize and thus promote a spirit of cooperation which will be helpful in the upbuilding of a prosperous and contented district working for the best interests of all in an association seeking to develop the great resources of the district. The affair was a great and enjoyable success; its attendance being large. The Hon. Chairman of the function was Mr. Thomas T. Naylor, Reeve of Deseronto. Hon. Secretary — Mr. William H. Nugent, County Clerk; assisted by Messrs. J. A Kerr and W. C. Mikel of Belleville, C. S. Rollins, Reeve of Wellington; and the members of the Publicity Committee, Mr. Alan Lily, Major R. Such blows around the head may cause a brain injury although the skull, of course, affords considerable protection. The sudden jarring can do damage inside. There is far greater risk, however, of impairment of hearing. The eyes or nose also may suffer injury, especially since a youngster quite naturally may cringe or try to dodge the blow. Any injury from such falls becomes a matter of concern. Or of terrible misfortune.

NOT ALWAYS SERIOUS RESULTS

Now I don't mean that such punishment always is going to result in serious injury. Some people drive their cars too fast, sometimes even on the open road, or even continue to drive while intoxicated, and come through unscathed.

Recently I saw a photograph of a man sitting in half an automobile. The other half had been sheared away, inches from his shoulder blade to the brain. Yet he suffered nothing worse than some bruises and a shaking up.

But I am not prepared to risk my son's head — any more than it is safe to cuff a child around the head.

Can't Afford Poor Schools

Industry

We confess to a growing irritation with those people who are forever complaining about the high taxes they call "the high cost of education."

Haven't we yet learned that investment in education is the most worthwhile investment of all? Why should it be thought that education could will not increase owing with the growth of knowledge.

If there are frills that can be cut when education estimates are being considered, let's do them by all means be cut. But let us, in our various communities, beware of doing anything likely to result at no distant date in a shortage of school facilities and lower standards. There are things we can't afford.

Scholarship is not something that can be bought on the cheap.

DOES THIS APPLY TO YOU?

There are some people who go through life just to be down on everybody. Some of them have the good grace, and the good sense, to keep their trying to drive themselves. These are not as harmful and disgusting as persons who specialize in driving others. But the driver type of person is not only unpleasant but not pleasant to endure. Generally he is a nuisance. Frequently he is a menace (and the equally so).

But there are other types of people who apparently without trying at all seem to drive people to their best. With a pendulum action everyone turns to them for advice. In sorrow the afflicted turn to them for comfort. Socially

The greatest loss to contemporary society may prove to be the policeman on the beat, the constable on foot.

Experts on civic government, of course, point out how impossible it would be now even to employ enough policemen to walk standard size beats in huge modern cities. Also, they say, everybody else, have taken advantage of the improvements in communications, such as the motor car, so as to be able to patrol more wider than old-fashioned beats with teams of two or three men, all heavily equipped with radio. It is quicker, cheaper, and therefore, obviously, more efficient.

But what is efficiency?

DON'T EVER CUFF A CHILD AROUND THE HEAD

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am quite concerned about the severe punishment given in some of the grade and high schools in this particular locality. What injury could be done by striking a child on the head with a large book or ruler?

"Also what injury could be done by kicking a teen-age boy in the seat while he is in a stooping or bending position? — Mrs. R.T."

Readers in any part of the country may well be concerned at this sort of thing is occurring in the schools in their communities.

I'm not a strong proponent of corporal punishment anyway, as parents of two children, Mrs. Molner and I have found occasionally, to apply a suitable application of it.

But I would raise cain if I ever found that one of my children had been hit on the head with a book or ruler, or even severely slapped across the face.

This is quite apart from any disputes over whether corporal punishment is right with this or that educational theory.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LEAVE TROUBLE ALONE

Anyone will welcome our cheer and good will but no one wants our troubles. We are not the people with troubles have enough to do in handling things. They have none of others' troubles. We ought to tear this in mind when we overybody's troubles alone. They are better suited to handle their own.

It is even better to leave the troubles of others alone when we have plenty of our own, and we understand them better than we do those of others. For the rest, it is, want all nations and peoples to be happy and we want them to handle their own troubles. We know our own and why we have them, but we want to solve them in our own way.

It's the way with all individual. It is difficult for even a friend to understand our own personal troubles. All can be solved happily if we have the desire to do so. For good will, and peace in the world!

Plan to leave all trouble alone.

NO CRITIC

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I've never painted pictures, but Were I an artist, I should be content if I could paint as well
As those whose works today I see.
It's not for me to criticize,
To look for flaws that I may tell;
I'm satisfied to view the work
And wish that I could do as well.

I've never written novels, but
I simply wonder, had it been
My lot to serve where some have fell,
If I could write, I should be content to write
As well as some whose works things.

This book does not deserve to sell;
For had it been my lot to write
it,
I could not have done as well.

Nor do I sneer at public men
Who strive to do their best, because
I know how hard they fall at times and in their work
Appear innumerable flaws.
I simply wonder, had it been
My lot to serve where some
have fell,
Could I have done the work
Considering with the self-same things.

600 P. E. District Masons Hear Past Grand Master

Ideal weather greeted the 600 district members who gathered in this city on Sunday to attend the Prince Edward District Church Parade under the direction of Rt. Wor. Bro. Frank Creegan, District Deputy Grand Master, Wor. Bro. Morley Davidson, District Secretary and Wor. Bro. James Mastine, District Chaplain. Also present were Rt. Wor. Bro. Leonard Gordon DDGM of Ontario District, Rt. Wor. Bro. Russell Woodley, Grand Registrar and Rt. Wor. Bro. W. E. Cane, Grand Steward. Wor. Bro. Harold Mott was the marshal of the parade and the sword bearers were Jerald Anderson and William Adams. Most Rev. W. L. Wright, D.D. Archbishop of Ontario and Past Grand Master of Ontario was the special speaker for the occasion. Mr. Wright received his start in the masonry in this district and was a welcome guest.

The parade was marshaled at the Queen Mary school grounds and paraded four abreast down Catherine Street to the church. The senior officers of the lodges were placed at the rear and in the counter march on the church entered the edifice first. The auditorium of the church was completely filled with masons and many were forced to sit in the gallery. There was a large number of civilians. in attendance to hear the sermon and these were assembled in the Parish Hall and then taken to the church, when the masons were seated. Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, rector of the church was in charge and was assisted by Canon A. S. McConnell and Rev. Everett P. Smith. Wor. Bro. James Mastine read one of the lessons for the day. The hymns, led by the excellent men's choir of the church were suited to the occasion and the choir also rendered a splendid anthem.

WELCOMED BY CHURCH

The Past Grand Master, after receiving a welcome from the rector stated it was a great privilege to worship with the Masons of Prince Edward District for it was in this district that he received his first instruction in the craft. He took his text from the 96th Psalm and 9th verse, which said: "The strength and beauty are in His sanctuary." He stated Solomon had a keen insight of human nature, was a wise man and had considerable affluence, but he will always be remembered as the one who erected the first temple for the worship of God. The pilgrims went to Jerusalem three times a year, first to meet old friends and talk over the events, and second to worship God. "This has a two-fold significance," said the speaker, "for it symbolizes the sovereignty of God." In these days, he continued, there is fear of the scientist and invention and principally because we have not developed the same spirit in God. He stated that the moral fibre would become soft if we do not believe in God with all our hearts and souls. The second symbolism of the temple was that it represented consecrated work by consecrated workers and the women also assisted. Speaking directly to the Masons assembled, Mr. Wright said that Masons have a reverence for human personality, that all are brothers and that they have but one obligation.

Finally he said that free masonry must never usurp the work of the church and that morality was not the same as religion. "Religion," he said, "is the upward look, but morality is the outward look, but to be the best Mason one must be a good churchman." In closing he said that the Masonic light were on and duty to God and one's duty to his fellow man. At the close of the service the parade was again formed and marched to a side street where it was dismissed by the marshal.

Iron Horses on Second-Last Journey Carry 'Steam' Fans To Bancroft on Sunday Trip

"Rising early in the morning, first we dress, then light the fire." This line from a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta would have been most applicable to some 180 steam locomotive enthusiasts who were on hand at the CNR station around seven o'clock Sunday morning. The occasion, and a very special one, was that of the second to last run of a steam-powered passenger train over a CNR route in Ontario. The run was sponsored by the Canadian Railroad Historical Association, in co-operation with the Upper Canada Railway Society, in order to give their members and guests the chance to ride, photograph, examine, explain and comment on a part of railroading which will no longer be seen in these parts — after Sunday.

Two steam locomotives were secured in Belleville for the trip for the occasion. The lead engine was No. 90, built in 1906 by Kingston Locomotive for the Grand Trunk Railway, as engine No. 1012, which was changed into the CNR service in 1923 as a Class E-10s (No. 90) and later rebuilt as a Consolidated 2-8-0. The latter numbers 180 tons, has driving wheels on the engine; the first number being the leading wheels being behind. It has a number of driving wheels, and the last number the number of trailing wheels. The first and the latter might be termed the pilot wheels they do no actual driving. The other engine was a Class 2-10-4 Texas type or "cross-compound" or mixed nature.

FILM BOARD ON HAND

With a fine head of steam and a few blasts on the whistle, the two engines left behind the Belleville station at 8.45 EST on the journey to Bancroft. Members of the film board be sides the steam-power enthusiasts, were also accompanied by members from the National Film Board and a large amount of equipment were on board to film the occasion for a future movie release. Several cameramen were on hand from CBC-TV and other television stations.

PORTALS ON HAND

Len Gilchrist, local CNR agent, and Mr. Lindsay, district superintendent for the Lindsay division of the CNR, were also hand to lend to the needs and answer the questions of the passengers.

The trip might have seemed a bit long to a person, who was trying to get from Belleville to Bancroft in a hurry, but for those on board the numerous "whistle stops" and "impromptu" were sheer delight. The latter events took place at various photogenic locations along the route. The photo stops consisted of a halt where some chore, such as taking on water or throwing a switch, or registering, was fulfilled and photographed. The runners followed the practice of stopping to let off the passengers and National Film Board people, all of whom then promptly scattered to the various vantage points on either side of the tracks; the train then reversed for a mile or so and then came whistling by with a full head of steam and was greeted by hilloweens from forth from the stacks of the engines; after stopping a short distance past the enthusiasts the train reversed, picked them up and was on to the next stop.

During each of these occasions thousands of feet of movie film and hundreds of color slide exposures were used up. It was quite a sight to see the vast multitude of cameras and quantities of film displayed. Most persons could be seen with two or three cameras slung about their necks or shoulders.

The passengers, or enthusiasts, were mainly from Toronto and Montreal, but there were several from various points in the United States as well. The occupations varied from students and clerks to tradesmen and professional men. There were even a few retired railwaymen. Passing through the coaches one might see a Montreal businessman, a Belleville motel owner, a Toronto doctor, a Chicago NBC producer, an electrical maintenance engineer from Philadelphia, or a student from Indianapolis.

The ages of those on board, also varied greatly — from nine to near ninety. It was to be noted that there seemed to be no particular concentration in any one age group amongst the enthusiasts.

Between photo stops everyone would sit chatting with their neighbors about forthcoming excursions, past engines and railroads, or a current project to build a small club-owned inter-urban line. A large number might be seen with their heads properly goggled, stuck out of a window enjoying the alternating periods of fresh air, coal dust, steam, smoke and cinders. Others might be noticed in the luggage car leaning out of the door openings, holding the microphones for their tape recorders close to the wheels the better to record the sounds. All in all, everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves immensely.

CAME FROM PHILADELPHIA

One of those persons was Warren Loney, an ex-Pennsylvania railroad man — now an electrical maintenance engineers, who, together with another avid steam enthusiast, — a seven year old son, Jimmy, had driven up from Philadelphia to be on the excursion. Comparing railroads in the United States and Canada Mr. Loney stated that the Canadian railways kept their equipment in much better shape and the CNR personnel seemed to be "on the ball." Canada, he went on to state is interested in trains as compared to the average American. Comparing the number of spectators who would watch the "name" trains operating in his home town, the model railroading enthusiast stated that when he saw more people watching the evening trains coming into Belleville for a night layover that he could ever expect to see at any of the main stations in Philadelphia.

Comparing the Bancroft excursion with others which he had attended in the United States, Canada, (Mr. Loney visits three to four of these a year and this was his first trip to Canada in 1933), the Pennsylvania enthusiast stated this was the best organized trip he had ever been on.

This run was more appealing because to the enthusiast because those on board were enthusiasts, not just casual spectators along for a ride. He also commented on the fine roadbed which the Bancroft line had and surprised on being informed that it was a secondary line, stated, "Why this is better than the B and O mainline." His only regret was that he found out that steam was no longer in use in Ontario.

ROUTE TAKEN

The route of the trip went north to Bancroft through Madoc Junction, Boscarlaw, Bannockburn, Bancroft; then south to Marmora, Boralaw, Anson, Glen Ross, Preston; thence home to Belleville along the CNR mainline. With the exception of the latter line there were no other trains running along the route; thus allowing the frequent photo stops to be carried on at leisure. Good weather, with the exception of a brief rainfall during the lunch stop at Bancroft, was enjoyed throughout the trip. The excursion ended in Belleville at 6:00 p.m. EST yesterday evening with enthusiasts, television men, National Film Board crew, and interested persons wending their various ways homeward — probably to wash the coal dust and cinders from their hair.

It was a most memorable experience.

At the Paris conference with Lloyd and Couve de Murville last month—his first diplomatic mission abroad after succeeding Dulles—Herter displayed calm and competence in helping to bridge Allied differences.

NEW TO HEADLINES

Lanky Couve de Murville has served France in diplomatic posts since Second World War but has just begun to make international headlines. He has learned to a top-flight job on assignments ranging from secretary of the Free French "war commission" to trouble-shooter for then foreign minister Georges Bidault and ambassador to Washington and Bonn.

Selwyn Lloyd moved into his foreign office in 1955 in the wake of one of the outstanding foreign secretaries Britain has produced this century—Sir Anthony Eden.

Lloyd thinks and dresses like Eden. He was appointed minister of state at the foreign office when Sir Winston Churchill's Conservatives swept into power in 1951. Sent to Paris as a delegate to the UN assembly, he quickly tangled with Andrei Vishinsky.

Vishinsky once told a colleague: "That young Englishman —he's tough."

Wedding

COONEY—SCHICK

FRANKFORD—A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Alphonsus' Church, Wooler, on Saturday, May 2nd, at 10.30 a.m. when the Rev. Joseph Walsh united in marriage Helen Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schick, Codrington, Ontario, and Allan Wayne, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cooney, Frankford.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length white gown of lace and net over taffeta, with fingertip skirt of lace, lace jacket with long, fitted sleeves, elbow length veil with pillbox cap accented with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Viola Schick, Codrington, sister of the bride, wore a ballerina-length gown fashioned of nylon chiffon over a powder blue over taffeta with matching headdress of net and seed pearls, elbow length gloves, and carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

The groomsman was Mr. Raymond Schick, brother of the bride, of Codrington, and the ushers were Mr. Thomas McCleery, Frankford, and Mr. Arthur Schick, brother of the bride, of Codrington.

The wedding music was played by Miss Kathleen Cowan. A solo was sung by the bride's father.

The church was beautifully decorated with colorful tulips and daffodils.

The reception was held at the Dutch Oven Restaurant, where the bride's mother received in a street-length dress of pink and blue chiffon with navy duster and white accessories, and corsage of American Beauty roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in a street-length printed silk, flowered royal blue dress with navy duster, white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's home was decorated with daffodils and colorful tulips.

For the wedding trip to the U.S.A., the bride chose a powder blue striped sheath with matching duster, white accessories, and corsage of American Beauty roses. They will reside in Trenton.

Out-of-town guests were present from Ottawa, Codrington, Toronto, Peterborough, Trenton and Frankford.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Carl Vincent Schaubel are shown during the register in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, following their recent marriage. SCHAUBEL — FOX

White chrysanthemums and pink snapdragons, interspersed with eucalyptus leaves and fern formed the setting for the rite in United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, May 2nd, at 3:00 p.m. for a lovely springtime wedding when Shirley Marie Fox, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Fox, of Belleville, was united in marriage to Lieutenant Carl Vincent Schaubel, R. C. E., of Chilliwack, B.C., son of Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Carl V. Schaubel, of Ottawa, Ontario. The Reverend Harry M. Davis, B.A., officiated at the ceremony.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, presented the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Loretta McDougall, who sang, "The Wedding Prayer," before the ceremony, and "The Nuptial Benediction" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of imported Swiss eyelet designed with princess style fitted bodice adorned with a scalp - pleated "V" neckline of organza. The cap sleeves were emphasized with elbow - length gauntlets, and the bouffant, bell-shaped skirt fell in graceful folds from the nipped-in pointed waistline. Her tiny plateau - shaped headdress of embroidered Chantilly lace, edged with seed pearls, held her fingertip veil of silk illusion, and she carried a cascade of white, feathered carnations and pink sweetpeas set in a fluff of tulle entwined with ivy.

Miss Beverley Fox, of Belleville, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor, while Miss Sandra Ernest, registered nurse, of Perth, Ontario, and Miss Anne McQuary, registered nurse, of Montreal, Quebec, were bridesmaids. All were identically gowned in white, waist - length, embossed flower - sprigged organza over taffeta, featuring rounded necklines accented by a hint of sleeves. The bouffant skirts were enhanced by camelia pink cummerbunds ending in back bustles. They wore headdresses of white, petalled tulle entwined with iridescent pearls, and fanciful crescent bouquets of pink, snowdrift 'mums and fern.

Mr. Ronald Newman, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, with Mr. Ken Fox, of Belleville, brother of the bride and Lieutenant Peter Kirkham, of Petawawa, acting as ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parlors where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who chose for her daughter's marriage a floor length blue Bi Sheath complemented by a matching silk organza cummerbund caught at the back by a soft butterfly bow. She wore matching accessories and corsage of coral Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in delphenium blue Alencon lace with grape shade matching accessories, and corsage of white Pinocchio roses.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred with the traditional all - white wedding cake, nested in misty tulle with tiny pink rosebuds entwined about the base. Tall pink candles in tri-branched silver candelabra completed the nuptial accent.

For travelling to the west coast, the bride chose a sapphire-blue suit with white accessories and corsage of orchids. Lieutenant and Mrs. Schaubel will reside at Chilliwack, B.C.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and of Civil Engineering at McGill University, Montreal. The bride is a graduate nurse of Kingston General Hospital School-of-Nursing.

Out-of-town guests attended from London, Ottawa, Toronto, Oakville, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Petawawa, Galt, Perth, Kingston and Montreal.

Following her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. John Dickens, of Belleville, and at a trousseau tea, given by her mother, Mrs. Wilbur Fox, at the bride's home on Dufferin Avenue.

The Experts Say

Assoc. Conducts Continual Service on All Questions

By CAROLYN WILLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Association of Consumers conducts a continual answering service on questions about nearly all types of consumer goods on the market.

Such queries come into the association's headquarters at a rate of about 30 a month, and added to these are questions handled regularly by its 11 local branches and 86 local branches across Canada.

"Sometimes it's pretty heavy going," says Mrs. Ethel Winkler, the association's director.

"We don't ignore any letters. We can't always answer the question, but we do our best," she said in an interview.

She had on hand a letter from a woman wanting to know why there sometimes is discoloration around the top of a toothpaste tube.

The question goes to a national committee convenor, Mrs. Betty Wilbert of Toronto, who tries to trace answers to queries in the library and questionnaire files.

Mrs. Withers is one convenor who gets plenty of questions and complaints. She has learned to type so she can answer a growing correspondence.

The CAC, a voluntary housewives' helper group, has a hand getting value for shopping dollars, has an army of answerers on committees ready to tackle inquiries ranging from thread to mufflers.

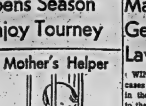
MAIN FIELDS

The two main areas from questions—food and textiles — have national chairmen and helpers around the country. Experts in consumer problems and universities as well as interested housewives take on jobs in specialized fields.

Mrs. H. W. Morrison of Toronto, who heads the foods committee, said there were as many queries in one field—fruits and vegetables—that she got two helpers to track down inquiries.

Mrs. Michael Humphries of Toronto heads the textiles committee which, like the foods committee, is divided into several sections with general garment manufacturing evoking the most criticism.

Complaints and questions about wrong sizes, seams that won't hold and poor belt materials flow in to Mrs. J. A. Stehr, a Montreal housewife.



HOUSE EQUIPMENT

Questions about electrical and other household equipment have become so numerous that another convenor has been added to the answering list to handle them, Mrs. Winkler said.

Routine questions or complaints are sent to the Ottawa office and are referred back to provincial or local committee heads for study. Other questions, such as how a summer fride can be sure she will get good dollar value for money, are lodged in national interest and rate an answer in the CAC Bulletin published 10 times a year.

This way, what may seem to be a single housewife's gripe today may be a CAC national resolution tomorrow.

Many Cases Getting Into Law Courts

WINNIPEG (CP) — Too many cases which should be dealt with in the family bureaus are going to the law courts, says Master C. Kobut, law graduate and trained marriage counsellor.

"The striving struggle for supremacy of legal rights results in a 'solution' which is pragmatically bad, therapeutically terrible and essentially a bodge - podge step in a backward direction," he writes in the Manitoba Bar News.

Greater effort must be made to divert some of the cases which ultimately finish in divorce either to the family court or the family bureau, a family welfare agency, he says.

The average lawyer, he contends, listens to a story offered by a distraught husband or wife and, if it is all right legally, sends the case to the court.

AGGRAVATE DISPUTE

"What happens in court? In order to obtain a balance of probabilities the parties exhibit every available piece of dirty linen. Relatives and friends partake in, add a valuable contribution to, side - issues. Lawyers, or too often their less experienced assistance in deeper by castigating, belittling, confusing and tearing apart the other party. Thus whatever feeling and love remained become changed to one of equal quantity."

The judge is often powerless to do other than grant a separation order. Many lawyers have come to the conclusion that living in a domestic cass to court serves no useful purpose because "seldom does a true winner" emerge from it, he says.

Mr. Kobut declares that in trying to revive a dying marriage the lawyer is faced not with a legal case but a social problem.

"At least half the people who start divorce suits are really hoping that somebody will step in and straighten things out before it is too late.

"The legal profession is in a key position in society. In the field of domestic relations it has an almost dictatorial hand to persons whose stakes, and that of society's, are high. The interests and welfare of the children in this regard is a story in itself."

Artist Uses Aluminum for Oil Painting

CALGARY (CP) — Mrs. Kay Ralledge is pioneering a new form of oil painting by using aluminum sheets instead of canvas.

It started when her husband, Harry, read that pure aluminum sheet hardened by cold-rolling is suitable for oil painting. It can be cleaned and reused again.

Mrs. Ralledge, who enrolled at the provincial institute of technology and art for her first formal art education last year, was anxious to try it.

The aluminum sheet is first gone over with emery paper and then rubbed with pumice. A metal primer then is applied to give a base for the paint.

FAST WORKER

Two weeks after the first sheet was prepared Mrs. Ralledge had three paintings completed. She put two of them up for sale; her first venture into the commercial field. Now she is a confirmed user of aluminum.

"It makes your colors brighter, more luminous," she said. "On canvas after a while the colors seem to get faded. On aluminum, since it's not porous, I think they will stay fresher and brighter longer."

Calgary art experts however are not yet making any final decision on the new practice.

"The will be the best test," said George Pain, manager of the Gainsborough Galleries. "I'd be a little dubious of how long it would last. No matter how well you prepare the aluminum surface the paint will not be able to grip into it as well as it can into canvas."

55 Years in Belleville

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Kenneth S. — We'd like to take the boy.

Helene S. — I'm capable of bringing up my own son.

Edward S. — I want to live with Uncle Ken.

Kenneth S. — My brother died four years ago, leaving behind a young widow and two children. The boy, Ed, is now 15 and a great problem to his mother and I would like to help both of them.

Ed came to my home several weeks ago after a serious bout with his mother. He said he can't stand her nagging any more and he wants to live with my wife and me. Our children are married and we wouldn't mind having Ed with us. Perhaps we could help the boy.

My sister-in-law seems to think that we are trying to steal him away from her. She has always been a very nervous woman and was inclined to be jealous of others in the family. I think it is about time she realized we don't mean her any harm. We only want to help.

Helene S. — My brother-in-law has always made little snide remarks about the fact that I am not as good a manager or homemaker as his wife. When my husband died he came over and asked me to let him and his wife go over my finances so they could help with the budgeting. I was so furious I really lost my temper that time.

Whenever Kenneth sees Ed he makes a point of telling him to be sure to come to him if he needs help and that's what made Ed run away to him. I am quite capable of bringing up my own son.

Edward S. — My mother complains and nags all the time about this, that and the other thing and my big sister is also a pain in the neck. I know I would grow up much better if I could live with my uncle and aunt.

The Council: Kenneth appears to have definitely overstepped the limits in his efforts to be helpful to his sister-in-law and orphaned nephew. He appears to have scant respect for the area of privacy that surrounds every family. He is, perhaps, flattered that the boy turned to him in his hour of crisis.

A boy like Ed can well use an uncle as a kind of substitute father. The relationship could and should be a fine one, but it can't be if the uncle intrudes himself too far into the family life.

It is not unusual for a boy to run away to a favorite relative when he believes he is being mistreated at home. In such a case it is the relative's responsibility to be sympathetic without in the slightest degree implying that the parent's authority is to be challenged or even questioned. Kenneth must in some way have given Ed the idea that he could live with him if he found his mother's home unsatisfactory.

Once Kenneth accepts the fact that it is not his business to interfere with or judge his sister-in-law in her management of her home and family, he can set up a far better relationship with his nephew. It is not necessary for him to make statements about his desire to help the boy. If he is normally friendly and man-to-man with Ed, the boy will get the idea that there is an older man in the family he can turn to for a special kind of understanding and guidance.

Ed should realize that his place is with his mother — even if things are sometimes tough at home.

GOOD MANNERS

— By Mrs. Beeckman —

WHO LEAVES FIRST?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a cuple, man and wife, give a dinner in a restaurant, say for four or six guests, who gets up first to indicate it's time to leave? — T. L.

The hostess gets up first to indicate it's time to leave the table — just as she would do in her own home. The women guests walk out first with the hostess, the men guests follow, and the host brings up the rear.

NO NEED TO APOLOGIZE FOR COUGHING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I've just had to cough or sneeze or blow my nose at table, I've always taken it for granted that I should say "Excuse me, please," or something similar. The other day my cousin corrected me about this, saying that in this circumstance it is not correct or necessary to make any apology. Is she correct, or am I? — Sue

Your cousin is entirely right about this. Excusing yourself for these things simply calls attention to them, and this certainly is unnecessary. The thing to do is to make the coughing or sneezing or nose-blowing as inconspicuous as possible, by judicious use of your handkerchief.

SHOULD BRIDE TAKE HER FATHER'S RIGHT OR LEFT ARM?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Which is correct — for the bride to take her father's right arm or his left arm as they walk up the aisle together?

— Bride-to-be

It's the clergyman who makes the decision about this, and he will give the direction at the wedding rehearsal. It is usually considered easier if the bride takes her father's right arm, because then, as they reach the head of the aisle, he won't have to step over her train to get to his place at her left, and he can left the bride's mother in the front pew without crossing in hind the bride.

Ideas of The Week--- Old and New

by Mary Moore

Old-fashioned equipment, such as a fireless cooker is unknown to some of our teen-aged student cooks.

Dorothy Batchelier, Home Economist, Poultry Products Institute, reminded me of a trick I knew 30 years ago but had forgotten. This is for those of you who know that "long-cooking" hot cereals are best for their families' breakfasts.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Braised Liver with Tomato Sauce; Buttered Noodles; Spinach; Carrot and Cucumber Sticks; Cheese-Crust Apple Pie; Coffee.

Your thermos is a perfect example of a fireless cooker. You need a thermos with a wide mouth for this operation. Make the porridge — using old-fashioned long-cooking oats, cracked wheat, mixed whole grain cereals, cornmeal — all are adaptable to this idea. Over direct heat, stirring until porridge boils, cooking cereals as you usually do. Immediately pour into a wide-mouthed thermos (you have rinsed it out with boiling water to warm). Put in cork and let stand over night. Presto! In the morning you have thick, hot porridge ready to serve at once.

NOTE:

Rinse thermos out at once and put to soak, so it will be no trouble to keep clean and sweet-smelling.

IDEA NUMBER 2:

Some of the Old Faithfuls will remember that "instant potato" was served, mashed, at the Hamilton Home Economists' New Products Dinner that I attended in April. Intrigued by the potential of this product I made Duchess potatoes last night. I do not want to recommend them as a steady potato diet because their vitamin content is definitely impaired. But for career girls, hard-pressed hostesses, large crowds and emergency purposes they should be on your shelf or pigeon-holed in your mind.

QUICK DUCHESS POTATOES:

To serve 4 or 5 heat together in a large saucepan 1 1-3 cups boiling water, 1-3 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter and 1-3 teaspoon salt. When it comes to boiling point remove from heat and stir in vigorously with fork 1 package (1-3 cup) instant potato until thick. Add 2 eggs while stirring, then beat with rotary or electric beater until smooth. Turn into buttered casserole, sprinkle with paprika and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. until puffed high and tinged with gold — about 15 to 20 minutes.

NOTE:

Just before putting in oven top may be dotted with 1 tablespoon butter or sprinkled with grated cheese.

CAMPBELLFORD

Community Recreation Committee Elects Officers, Discusses Business

CAMPBELLFORD — A meeting of the Campbellford and District Community Recreation Committee was held on Tuesday night in the Council Chambers with all members present.

Mr. Donald W. Maddocks of Belleville, recreation director of the community, program branch of the department of Education for this area, which extends from Kingston to Port Hope, was present, and acted as chairman for the elections which resulted as follows: chairman, Bruce Connor, Lions Club appointee; vice-chairman, Bruce Fairley, council appointee; treasurer, Mrs. Fran Napper, Home and School appointee; secretary, Mrs. Helena Smith, Catholic Women's League appointee.

Other members of the committee include, Donald Bennett, Rotary Club appointee; Preston Hall, council appointee; Albert Greenhalgh Kinsmen Club appointee and Jeff Mills, Legion Branch 103 appointee.

Following the elections, Mr. Maddocks was thanked for conducting them and Bruce Connor took over the chair again as his second term as chairman.

FULL BUSINESS AGENDA

There was a full agenda of business to attend to. The first was that applications be called for playground supervisors, which term will be for a period of seven weeks. Supervisors must be at least 16 years of age. Those selected by the committee will be sent to a supervisors' training camp at Quin-Mo-Lac for a period of one week, in order to become familiar with duties in connection with the supervising of playgrounds.

It was also an accepted motion of the committee, that the secretary call for applications for swimming instructor for the summer season, which also covers a period of seven weeks.

Applicants must be 16 years of age, be Bronze medal holders, and have qualified under Blue Cross Safety Swimming regulations. It was decided that this year the recreation committee would appoint assistants to help the swimming instructors, so that positive safety of the children would be maintained at all times. The secretary was instructed to call for the above supervisors with May 20th being the closing date for accepting applications in both cases.

Mr. Maddocks carefully explained to the committee, the aims, grants, services and personnel of the Community Recreation Branch of the Department of Education, which branch of the Ontario Government sponsors such activities as playgrounds, swimming, senior citizens' groups, drama groups arts and crafts and many other forms of sports and activities. Hockey and baseball clubs, dancing classes, tennis and skating clubs, may all be sponsored under the recreation department of community recreations departments.

TWO GRANT CATEGORIES

Mr. Maddocks explained one of the most important features, the matter of grants which are received from the Department. There are two categories of grants for the administration of municipal recreation programs; 33 1-3 per cent grants covering salaries for instructors in various recreation activities of supervisors and swimming instructors, and 25 per cent for approved maintenance and operating costs, covering replacement of materials, caretaking, salaries. Capital investment is not included in this category.

Several new members were appointed to the Recreation Committee, and it was felt that they should have a correct knowledge of the manner in which the Department enters into Community recreation projects.

A motion was made and carried that Campbellford and Community Recreation Committee pay their municipal membership in the Ontario Recreation Association for the year 1959, which entitles them to take part in voting and nominating officers for the Provincial Slate of Officers and to receive the O.R.A. and Community Centers which are published monthly and quarterly respectively.

DELEGATE NAMED

Mrs. Helena Smith was named delegate to attend the Provincial Convention of the Ontario Recreation Association, to be held at the Walper Hotel in Kitchener.

Mr. Bruce Fairley was named liaison member of Teen-Town. A motion was made and carried that the fourth Tuesday night of each month be the establishing meeting night and that meeting be held at 8 p.m. in the council chambers.

Mr. Bruce Connor, chairman, felt that this year would see great strides in the municipal recreation, and stated that any ratepayer or other individual is cordially asked to come to the meetings and acquaint himself with the operation of Campbellford and Community Recreation Committee.

CONTRIBUTE TO SWIM PROJECT

The Rotary Club, as for many years past, is contributing to the swimming project. All clubs or organizations or individuals who are so disposed, may at any time make donation in the way of financial assistance, or donation of equipment, namely balls, bats, games and other sports equipment.

It is hoped that this year the dancing ballet class and several minor baseball and hockey clubs will affiliate themselves with the recreation committee.

The next meeting will be held on May 26th at 8 p.m. in the council chambers, at which time the committee will scrutinize all applications in connection with swimming instruction and playground supervision.

SEAWAY BOTTLENECK — The Welland Canal provided the first big bottleneck of the St. Lawrence Seaway, less than two weeks after opening of the waterway to traffic.

Great Lakes shipping piled up at the canal on the upbound voyage, waiting to enter the canal linking Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

At one time more than 40 ships were backed up waiting to enter the first lock at Port Weller, at the Lake Ontario end of the canal.

The lock at Port Weller is a single one, with upbound and downbound traffic taking turns moving through it. The remainder of the 27½-mile canal which enters Lake Erie at Port Colborne provides two-way traffic. (CP Newsmap.)

Despite Smooth Operation Welland Canal Overloaded

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Upbound ships passed through the Welland canal at the rate of one an hour Sunday but 20 ships still were waiting to make the trip early today.

In all the canal handled 38 vessels from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday—24 upbound and 14 down. Congestion at the Port Weller entrance to the canal on Lake Ontario was eased only slightly.

Besides tying the canal's facilities, large numbers of upbound ships are causing tie-ups at inland ports.

The Grace Lines' steamship Santa Regina arrived in Detroit Wednesday to pick up a cargo but was unable to dock and left for Cleveland and Toledo.

She returned to Detroit Saturday but was still unable to dock and spent all day in midstream.

DECIDES TO PROCEED

The captain became tired of waiting his turn to berth at Detroit's only dock capable of handling ocean vessels, and "set out for Toronto to pick up a cargo.

The Santa Alica, a sister ship, will pick up the cargo spurned by the Santa Regina.

Chicago, Cleveland, Milwaukee have also reported heavy vessel inflows. The first indication of a decrease in upbound traffic came Saturday when the St. Lambert locks at Montreal handled only 13 ships headed inland.

In Toronto shipping agents said the number of vessels waiting to go through the 27½-mile Welland Canal might dwindle to 12 within a week but there was no immediate hope of relieving the congestion.

A rush of ships returning from lake ports could cause a bottleneck at the Port Colborne entrance to the canal and add to clearance difficulties. Of all the ships which have sailed into the lakes since the seaway's opening, about 190 haven't yet returned.

Despite its heavy traffic, the Welland Canal has operated smoothly.

TANKER REFLOATED

The German tanker Hinrich which ran aground Saturday near Kingston, was floated clear Sunday afternoon after part of her cargo of soybean oil was lightered into another ship. No damage was apparent but the ship was to be inspected by a diver at Kingston.

Transport department officials in Ottawa replied Sunday to complaints from grain shipping firms that they aren't allowed to operate passenger service between Canadian ports.

The department said the forecast grain movement, overstimating the potential volumes of passenger business. According to officials there is no current interest in the seaway will soon die out and demand for passenger service will decrease accordingly.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

FICTON — Addo to the Ganghouse Gang — that never-to-be-forgotten bevy of heterogeneous Prince Edward toughies who played hockey during the roaring late twenties and the no-unemployment-insurance early thirties:

They've found the Chinaman's Cup!

This was, as you will recall, the Stanley Cup of the county hockey league of the Bert Biddle-Ab Hare-Jack Yeaver dynasty, that era of amateurs who paid their managers for the privilege of playing.

To you, in case you've forgotten and to your sons and daughters who probably never heard of it, that's the piece of Oriental pewterware which, oddly enough, was last won by the Orientals, an Odd Fellows-sponsored organization.

During the first three of the seven-years' jock wars between this thriving "Spanish lawn" and its satellite communities (this was before Milford, Cherry Valley, Demorestville, Wellington, Bloomfield and other "settlements" signed a joint declaration of hockey independence) the Mug of Mr. Solo was a shining incentive to teams participating in the league.

If memory is correct it was annexed by the late Roly Rorke's Demorestville Blackshirts; Norm MacDonald's Milford rugged-quartet and the zebra-stripes of Jack Yanover's urban Belgers Batteryless sparkplugs.

Then it disappeared — and mystery shrouded its disappearance.

The years passed—and the mug remained in hibernation.

But the hockey fervor was not undiminished. The bloodand-thunder league carried on. Outside teams travelled in their horse-drawn "Grey-hounds". Players drank heavily of the small-potter-cashelpers for shinpads. Sticks were half-dollar each and if you broke one, who cared? You paid for your own anyway.

But there were some who were mightily worried over the disappearance of the league silverware.

Self-styled private eyes decided to investigate. It was reported Phil Dodds and Peg LaValle enacted the first episode of "The Thin Man" without benefit of Asta. The possibility the pewterware had been purloined by a mysterious oriental personage who showed up in town was ruled out. He was a Kingston Mr. Chan on a visit to Number One Son.

Cracker-barrel panels of the hinterlands teams came up with some strange conjectures. One rather foolish suggestion was the Wellington exhibit be pinched and mug for use as a conveyor of well-aged apple juice from barrel to gullet. The Wellington crew never came closer to the cup than a quarter mile. As for the suggested use, it wasn't big enough anyway.

Another said Ron Church had acquired the cup for use as a bowsprit on his sea-going hack the "Black Maria," as top-heavy a nautical wench as ever backed the Napanee river. Yet another had it that Bloomfield's "Cherry" Thompson had cribbed it and was using it as a dinnergong in Herb Cooper's sawmill. Milford was accused of snatching it to dip suckers out of the waterholes below the bridge.

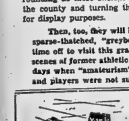
In town it was reported that Dr. Carman Slack had melted the mug down and was using it for tooth-fillings for color-blind patients. A native son on leave from Petawawa swore it was being used in a sergeant mess as a tot measure for the Saturday night SRD issue. Another report had it "Merle" was utilizing it as a hairdrier for pallet-size eggheads.

We personally investigated the rumor that Pete Cole was "putting the trophy to use as a putting cup in the Gazette composing room. The rumor was false. Pete was using a half-bunkel basket.

Now the mystery has been cleared up.

And the teams and personalities from the hinterlands merge with honor unscathed and escutcheons unblemished.

For "nigh on" thirty years the "Chinaman's Cup" has been reposing peacefully in the home of a well-known Picton resident.



This was brought to light recently when another member of the famous Gashouse Gang renewed the investigation and search for the mug.

At his own request we are not divulging the name of the local Richard Diamond but a tip of the columnar chapeau goes to Bert McGinnis for nearly three decades of safekeeping of the venerable "Kinmer and Brownie" trophy.

It will join, we understand, another hoary hockey mug, the Ed Boulter trophy in a showcase in the new Arena and Agricultural Centre here.

The Picton police department is doing yeoman service in rounding up these ancient reminders of former sports era of the county and turning them over to the arena commission for display purposes.

Then, too, they will bring nostalgic memories to those spare-thinked, "greybeards" who now and then take time off to visit this grand old "Garden County" and the scenes of former athletic triumphs and disappointments in days when "amateurism" meant buying your own gear—and players were not subject to income tax.

This rocket ship isn't the only thing that's new!

'Chances are you've bought a new TV, Hi-Fi set, or furniture since you last insured your home. Your old policy probably doesn't cover the present value of your possessions. Don't be caught without the protection you need. Call us for an up-to-date insurance checkup.

Pierce, Wynn Go the Route To Hand Indians Twin Licks Cincy Drops 2 to Milwaukee

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Billy Pierce and Early Wynn, a pair of route-going pitchers in an era of relief-happy managers, have moved Chicago White Sox within striking distance of the American League lead.

Although Pierce gave up 13 hits, he went all the way to beat Cleveland 5-4 in 11 innings Sunday, winning on a single by Bubba Phillips, who had tied the score with an eighth - inning homer.

Wynn, 39, completed the job on the league-leading Indians with a four - hit 5-0 shutout. The Sox knocked him up with a 13-hit attack including Del Ennis' first American League homer.

Detroit's Tigers continued to thrive under new manager Jimmy Dykes, whipping Kansas City 7-6 for their seventh victory in eight starts under the new boss.

YANKS WIN A PAIR

New York Yankees proved they are not quite ready for burial by taking a pair from Washington 6-3 and 3-2, the second in 10 innings.

Boston Red Sox grabbed two from high-flying Baltimore, 3-2 in 10 innings and 5-4. Don Buddin's first - home run was the winner for Leo Kelly, Frank Baumann's three-run homer was a bit pitching aid the heavy work in the second.

The White Sox continued to torment the Indians whom they have beaten six times in eight starts. As a result, Chicago is only 1½ games out of first place.

Pinch hitter Billy Goodman drove in the tying run in the White Sox 11th after Cleveland had scored once. Phillips then singled home the winner to give Pierce the edge over Dick Brodowski.

Wynn had only one troublesome inning, the third, when Minnie Minoso singled and Rocky Colavito doubled. Loser Mike Garcia ever had another chance.

HOME RUN BATTLE

Dykes' Tigers won a battle of home runs from Kansas City. Charlie Maxwell, Lou Berberet and Rocky Bridges did the honors for the Tigers although Roger Maris hit two for the A's.

Ryne Duren was called down a ninth inning upcoming at Yankee Stadium by Manager Whitey Ford in the first game. The Senators had scored twice and had two on with nobody out when Duren took over. He blew down the next three.

Norm Siebern's double, a sinking liner on which Jim Lemon misjured a pitcher's hand, broke the second for the Yanks in the ninth inning, scoring Mickey Mantle who had singled off loser Camilo Pascual. Duke Maas was the winner in relief.

Buddin's 10th inning homer sealed the first victory for relief man Kiely of Boston. Baumann's triple led the second game attack. Both plus included a homer by Frank Malzone, Jack Harshman and Hec Brown were the hexers.

On Saturday, Chicago White Sox beat Cleveland 9-3 while Baltimore was taking a 4-3, decision from Boston Red Sox.

New York was shut out 7-0 by Washington's Hal Griggs on a two-hitter. Detroit topped Kansas City 7-4.

SPAIN WINS DOUBLES

MADRID (AP) — Spain defeated Switzerland in doubles Sunday and moved into the third round of European zone Davis Cup play. Spain next will play the winner of the Poland-Brazil contest.

Milwaukee Braves are riding high again with Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews putting a wide path through the National League.

Aaron's .438 average is the best in the majors and his 40 hits are high for both leagues. Mathews was the big show with 11 home runs and 27 runs scored.

The explosive punch of this pair is the main reason for Milwaukee's first - place status. The Braves resumed the lead Sunday by taking a pair from Cincinnati, which had moved out front late Saturday.

The Braves scored seven runs in the eighth, after Don Newcombe left, in the 12-4 opener in which Mathews hit No. 11 and a pair of singles.

Lew Burdette up the 2-1 second game with a six-snapping single in the ninth. It was his fifth hit of the day. It was his 18 straight games.

DODGERS MOVE UP

Los Angeles climbed into second place on a 3-2 victory over San Francisco, made possible by Don Drysdale's game-saving relief for Johnny Podres.

The Phillies and Pirates ran afoul of that Sunday curfew rule in Pittsburgh. Curfew is 1 a.m. Eastern Friend his sixth straight defeat 6-3 in the opener. The Pirates had opened up a big lead on Smoky Burgess' hitting when curfew descended. They went into the at the eighth, so the game must be completed July 22 as part of a double-header that day.

Downtrodden St. Louis finally won a series, grabbing two with Chicago for a 3-2 edge in a five-game series. Although Bobby Thomson hit two homers to drive in six runs, it took an 11th inning homer by Gene Freese to give the Cubs a 10-9 edge in the opener. Giso Cimoli, who had a big hitting day, connected with Curt Flood in some ninth-inning heroics to give St. Louis the second 8-7.

Milwaukee had lost the first two games of the series to the Reds but dropped the visitors into third place by taking the doubleheader. Bob Rush won the first from Newk with help from Ed McMahon, Carl Willey outpitched Joe Nuxhall in a fine duel.

Elp Repulski and Charlie Neal homered for the Dodgers and Felipe Alou for the Giants.

In the suspended game at Pittsburgh, Dave Hoskins drove in four runs with a three-run pinch homer and a double when curfew intervened.

There was an oddity in the St. Louis - Chicago doubleheader. Lindy McDaniel of the Cards lost the first and won the second. Sam Jones pitched all three same story for Chicago's Elmer Singleton who came on in relief both times with the first and then lost the second.

Saturday, Cincinnati whipped Milwaukee's Warren Spahn 5-3. Bob Purkey scored a shutout blitz for the shutout which rebbed Spahn of his 250th pitching victory.

Los Angeles won an 11-inning 6-5 game from San Francisco on a single by Wally Moon scored Junior Gilliam with the decisive run.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh used home runs in clusters to win their games. The Cardinals dumped Chicago Cubs 13-6 with catcher Hal Smith contributing two homers and Ken Boyer adding another with the bases full. The Pirates beat Philadelphia Phillies 9-1 with Dick Stuart hitting his 11th and 12th and two singles for a perfect day at bat.

Leafs Drop Two to Bisons; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chris Short took only two days to make his mark as an International League pitcher.

Short was sent to Buffalo on 24 hours recall by the Philadelphia Phillies Friday. He hurled a three-hit, 1-0 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday after the Bisons had taken the opener of the doubleheader, 12-10.

Short, who played with Williamsport in the class A Eastern League in 1958, was in three games with the Phils. The 21-year-old gave up 13 runs in 14 1-3 innings but was hailed as a pitching prospect by Phillies. He comer despite his wildness. He walked 10 and gave up 19 hits.

BUFFALO NEW SECOND

Against Toronto he walked only two and struck out three in the seven-inning game. The double Buffalo scored in the first inning on possession of second place in the IL, three games behind Miami Beach.

The Marlins split with the tailored Havana Sugar Kings, who have the highest 5-1 after dropping the opener 4-1. Richmond and Columbus are tied for fourth with Richmond winning the opener 3-2 and Columbus taking the nightcap 4-1.

Montreal swept a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs 3-1 and 4-0.

Bobby Morgan's single in the eighth drove in Bill Harrington, who had tripled, with the only run Montreal needed in the opener (1-3) was the loser. Frank Herrera hit two home runs, drove in four and got four hits in helping Buffalo to its first-game victory. Dave Hill a Kings, 17th homer for Toronto while Joe Altobelli and Archie Wilson also chipped in with Toronto home runs.

FOURTH FOR FISHER

Jack Fisher scored his fourth straight victory for Miami, scattering eight Havana hits. Winner Amor lost his first in five decisions. Harry Byrd (4-2) was the victim of 1-1 in the seventh inning of the opener with an RBI single.

Lefty Bill Short's muff of a throw at first base led to Columbus' only run in the nightcap. Short (2-1) allowed only three hits, one to Al Jackson (2-1).

Tom Lasorda and Ed Rakow pitched Montreal to its double victory. Lasorda (3-1) won the first over Bob Miller and Rakow (2-1) took the nightcap. Dusty Amoros and Curt Roberts homered for Montreal in the first game and Jim McManus and Clyde Parris hit second-game homers off loser Dick Ricketts (1-2).

Saturday, Luke Easter and Joe Caffie hit home runs and Ken Lehman provided 11-no relief pitching to give Buffalo a 6-3 win over Toronto. Montreal downed Rochester 5-3 with Billy Harris pitching a seven-hitter and Harry Schwegman driving in four runs. Richmond downed Columbus 8-4 and Miami defeated Havana 5-1.

Vertex Winner Of Third Rich Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Vertex, carrying a record load of 130 pounds, took off the determined filly, Big Effort, an eighth of a mile from home Saturday and went on to score a three-quarter-length victory in the $50,700 Grey Leg handicap at Jamaica.

In his last two starts, both in March, Vertex won the $121,900 Gulfstream Park handicap in Florida and the $98,300 John B. Campbell Memorial at Bowie, Md., on successive weekends.

The chestnut son of Hyrmerkanzo was ridden by Sam Boulmetis and went off as the heavy favorite in the field of 11. He covered the mile and one-eighth in 1 minute, 50 seconds. Day Court finished third, 1¼ lengths behind Big Effort. The winner returned $5.90, $3 and $2.60. Big Effort paid $8.40 and $5.70. Day Court returned $6.30.

Saturday was the final day of the Jamaica season.

At other U.S. tracks:

Ole Fols ($4.70)* whipped a field of 10 other three-year-olds to take the $29,600 Debonair stakes at Hollywood Park.

Blake won the Louisville handicap at Churchill Downs.

At Pimlico, Gun Bred King ($5.60) carried top weight of 120 pounds to win the Dixie handicap by a length over Oilgarchy.

Intentionally, the favorite at $2.20 to win, reported Delaware Valley stakes at Garden State Park.

Tight Nit ($7.60) won the five-furlong San Bruno stakes at Tanforan in 59 1-5 seconds.

Deals Fail to Materialize As Majors Whittle Roster

NEW YORK (AP) — The big deals failed to materialize and most of the major league baseball teams had to do some last-minute cutting to reach the 25-player limit by Saturday's midnight deadline.

Spider baseball law, clubs must settle their playing rosters to men, plus any military personnel, a week after the start of the season.

If ex-New York Yankees, who had hoped to swing a trade for Washington's Camilo Pascual, instead add pitcher Murry Dickson back to Kansas City and sent catcher Darrell Johnson and pitcher Zach Monroe to Richmond of the International League.

CUT BY THREE

Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers also had to reduce their squads by three. The Senators put catcher Clint Courtney on the disabled list because of trouble with infielder Bobby Malkmus to Denver of the American Association and pitcher Jack Kralick to Chattanooga of the Southern Association.

The Tigers optioned pitcher George Susce, catcher Frank Lau and pitcher Hank Aguirre to Charleston of the American Association.

Optioned players may be recalled on 24-hour basis. Players put on the disabled list must stay out 30 days.

The two Chicago Clubs were the last to get under the wire. The Cubs, one over, were waiving the results of a possible trade involving Dick Drott, now on the disabled list or optioning outfielder Chet King.

Here were other moves:

American League

Chicago: Released outfielder Don Mueller outright and sent pitcher Claude Raymond to Wichita in the American Association. First baseman Norm Cash is the 36th man on military status.

Boston: Optioned pitcher Herb Moford to Minneapolis of the American Association.

Kansas City: Optioned outfielder Tasho Bolin to Shreveport of the Southern Association. John Tsitouris is a military returnee, giving the A's 36.

Baltimore: Optioned pitcher Wes Stock to Miami of the International League.

Cleveland: Optioned catcher Dick Brown to Buffalo of the International League.

Detroit: Reached 25 - player limit earlier.

National League

Pittsburgh: Placed pitcher George Witt on the disabled list (has R. C. Stevens from military, making 26 men).

Philadelphia: Optioned pitcher Chris Short to Buffalo of the International League.

Cincinnati: Optioned outfielder Bob Thurman to Omaha of the American Association.

St. Louis: Sent pitcher Phil Paine outright to Omaha of the American Association. Pitchers Van Cheney and Bill White are returnees).

Milwaukee: Reached limit Friday when Red Schoendienst was placed on disabled list.

Los Angeles: Sent Jim Baxes to Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

San Francisco: Down to limit, plus one ex-serviceman, Jackie Brandt.

Cimoli's Bat Proving Help To Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Handsome Gino Cimoli thinks his soaring .400 batting average is a ready proof he "can help the Cardinals as much as Wally Moon can help the Dodgers."

The big outfielder from San Francisco made it clear he doesn't want to start a war of words with the Los Angeles outfielder Wally Moon, who predicted bitterly the St. Louis club would be sorry they traded him for Cimoli.

"Maybe the trade was just what we both needed," Gino said Sunday night after blasting seven hits in 19 trips, including three doubles and a homer and four runs batted in against Chicago Cubs.

"It's great to play every day," Gino said. "I'm off to a good start and I feel I have a better future with the Cardinals than with the Dodgers."

Cimoli broke the Red Birds with 11 doubles and has three homers and 15 runs batted in—impressive for his No. 2 spot in the batting order.

Gino is known as a right field hitter, but he crossed up the experts with a game-tying double to the left field corner in the ninth inning of the second game Sunday. Curt Flood then scored him with a double, the first hit off reliever Bill Henry, and clinched their first series victory of the season, 3-2.

Cimoli has been under pressure from opening day because Cuban dispatched Moon was more of a power hitter than Gino—and if the large-face Cards need anything, it's power.

He has hit well from the first game, but now rants and raves in the league. Moon has no apologies, either, as he is eighth with .329.

CZECHS BEST IRISH

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia defeated Ireland 4-0 before 60,000 spectators at Bratislava Sunday, eliminating the Irish team from the European Cup soccer competition.

Win Intermediate Cage Crown

OSHAWA (CP) — The Oshawa Shopping Centre All - Stars swamped Falls Hughes Motors 96-41 Saturday night to win the all-Ontario Intermediate B basketball championship.

Oshawa opened the game with a 22 - point lead accounted for by Smiths Falls last week when they won the first of the two-game total-points series.

Gerry Verquist spaced Oshawa with 32 points. Glen Eadie was the outstanding player for Smiths Falls, scoring 27 points.

Oshawa will be advanced into Intermediate A competition next season.

SHORTSTOP INJURED

BALTIMORE (AP) — Shortstop Chico Carrasquel of Baltimore Orioles was hit on the head with a baseball Sunday while being sacrificed to third base in the first inning of the second game of a Boston - Baltimore American League doubleheader. The shortstop had a mild concussion and 11 stitches were required to close a gash. Doctors said Carrasquel would be kept in hospital two days and probably would be out of the lineup for a week.

Don Drysdale Fined $50 for Hitting Willie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pitcher Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers was mighty unhappy about a $50 fine for hitting Willie Mays.

"What are we supposed to do, throw everything down the pike and let the hitters dig in?" asked the big righthander.

He was fined by league president Warren Giles for hitting Mays on the shoulder in the third inning of a Dodger-Giant game Saturday.

Plate umpire Frank Secory reported to the league office that Drysdale threw deliberately at Mays.

"They're taking everything away from the pitcher and giving it to the batters," Drysdale complained. "I've got one way to pitch and that tight to right-hander batters. I'm going to pitch that way if it costs me $5,000 in fines."

Drysdale said Ted Sann Jones of the Cards should have been fined, too, for hitting Norm Larker in the same game. Dodger manager Walt Alston agreed.

Cards Grasping At Straws in Player Case

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A lawyer promised Sunday to answer before May 30 a petition by the Chicago Cardinals National Football League team for an injunction to bar Jerry Wilson from playing for a Western Canada team.

The lawyer, Rush Lester, also took a verbal poke at the Chicago team, saying "the Cardinals are grasping at straws in this case."

The case arose from a contract Wilson has to play with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. No date has been set for hearing the petition pending receipt of Wilson's answer.

Wilson is a star Auburn College athlete.

The Cardinals claim Wilson is their property on the strength of a verbal agreement at the fact that they advanced him $1,000.

Wilson said there is no written contract, and that he doesn't consider an oral agreement binding. He said he returned the $1,000.

"Jerry Wilson has signed a contract with Edmonton and he'll be there", said Lester. "We're prepared to fight all the way."

Want Pros To Wait Year for Reinstatement

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—A resolution proposing a one-year waiting period before professional hockey players can be reinstated as amateurs will be put before this week's Canadian Amateur Hockey Association meeting by the British Columbia Association.

The resolution, one of several drawn up at a weekend meeting of the BCAHA, says the move would discourage amateur clubs from attempting to make deals with professionals and going beyond their financial means in doing so. The CAHA meeting will be held in Detroit.

Another resolution asks that no professional club be allowed to operate in a city where a junior amateur club is operating without first giving notice of intent.

Last season Spokane Flyers left the Western International League to play pro hockey in the Western League without giving advance notice.

London Promised Second Crack At World Title

LONDON (AP)—Brian London, Britain's best heavyweight hope, disclosed Sunday that he had been promised a second crack at Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight title within 18 months.

In a signed newspaper article, London said the offer had been made to him by Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, after London had been knocked out by Patterson in the 11th round at Indianapolis.

London said one of the conditions of getting the second bout would be signing a contract that would give D'Amato a share in managing him should he win the title. Patterson is due to risk his title against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in New York June 22.

'Pay-N-Save' Wins Hydroplane Apple Cup Race

CHELAN, Wash. (AP) — Miss Pay 'N' Save, a two-ton Seattle hydroplane which won two heats, was declared the winner of the Apple Cup speedboat race Sunday after high winds washed out the third and final heat.

The race was scheduled for three 15-mile heats with each of the first two split into two sections. The seven boats with the highest point score were to have run in the final heat.

Chuck Hickling drove Pay 'N' Save at an average 107.227 miles per hour to win the second section of heat No. 1, then averaged 98.52 in winning heat 2-A. The victories gave him a leading 800 points.

The Apple Cup race is the first of four races to decide the host to represent the United States in the 23rd International Harmsworth Trophy powerboat race in Detroit Aug. 28-29.

The U.S. has successfully defended the international trophy since 1920 when Gar Wood won it from Britain in Miss America I.

The Harmsworth was last held on the Detroit River in 1956 when Shanty beat the Canadian challenger, Miss Supertest, over a 35-mile course.

This year's challenger will be a new boat owned by J. Gordon Thompson of Sarnia and London, Ont., who also owned Miss Supertest.

The American defender will be selected from three boats piling up the most points in the four unlimited races which, besides the Apple Cup, are the Diamond Cup race at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, July 12; the Detroit Memorial at Detroit July 4 and the Gold Cup at Seattle July 26.

The three boats will enter trials here Aug. 26 to decide the Harmsworth defender.

The Quinte Reports

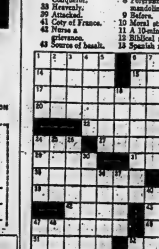
News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

The sudden death of Able Cadet Donald Cross a week ago deeply grieved officers and men of the "Quinte". Don was one of the best liked cadets within the corps. Always cheerful and willing to pitch in and take a hand with any matters pertaining to the corps' activities, he will be missed and long remembered by his fellow cadets. Thirty-two of the thirty-four cadets of the corps were present for the funeral and graveside ceremonies with members of the guard acting as bearers. The Quinte's officers and several previous officers were also present.

Sunday sailing has now commenced for the duration of the season with the training of the dinghy and cutter crews for the annual inspection being the most important aspect of this activity right now. Following the inspection a schedule will be drawn up for competition for the Herold Belden Sailing Trophy, which is awarded annually.

Sailing procedure has been set up as usual for safety measures: there are two cadets to each dinghy, the coxswain of which is familiar with the rules of the road; each man wears a life jacket. The sailing is confined to a certain area and procedure is supervised by an instructor with a power craft standing by in case of an emergency.

Last week's activities included more training by the precision squad and the erecting of the first phase of the inspection on Tuesday. This consists of the formal inspection and marchpart will be held in the armouries. Thursday's parade also included precision squad drill with the guard. The rest of the crew were busy at the barracks with boat repairs, and training in communications.



There are still a few openings for new cadets if any lads between the ages of 14 and 17, with good health, and with parents' consent are interested. Those who might wish to join the corps should do so before the summer season is underway so that advantage may be taken of the sailing privileges following the training in seamanship which is being held now. Those interested should appear at either the Tuesday or Thursday evening parade at 7.15 p.m. at the armories (Tuesday) or the barracks (Thursday), on South Front Street.

Teams will be chosen soon for the first annual rifle competition for the Guthrie Shield. It is intended that this trophy should be awarded at the annual inspection. Some 11 cadets have now earned their marksman ratings and these will be presenting to them at the inspection.

OPPOSITION

the province he observed "deep-running undercurrents and dissatisfactions" which his party has been able to exploit in the past.

"I haven't heard such talk of progress from our people since the 1930s," he said.

MORE NOMINATIONS

Two Progressive Conservatives (a Liberal and a CCF candidate) were nominated during the weekend. They bring to 203 the total so far nominated for the 98 seats. Of these, 70 are PCs, 61 Liberals, 63 CCF, eight Labor-Progressive (Communist) and one Independent.

James A. Maloney, Ontario mines minister, was renominated to contest the Renfrew South seat.

At Arnprior, Leonard Quilty, 40-year-old farmer of Shumock was nominated by the Liberals. Fred Beavers was picked as CCF candidate in the Niagara Falls riding.

C. E. Janes, incumbent at East Lambton, was chosen again to represent the PCs in the riding.

CANDIDATE QUITS

Other developments ocurred on the political scene during the weekend:

John White, 35-year-old Hamilton lawyer nominated Friday night as Liberal candidate in Hamilton-Wentworth. Sunday announced his withdrawal. Reason given was pressure of business. As president of the riding's Liberal Association, he said, he would call a new nominating meeting in the immediate future.

In Windsor, at least two prominent residents will contest the PC nomination for Windsor-Walkerville.

Ald. Mrs. Cameron Montrose, on city council for eight years, and Roy R. Hicks, unsuccessful PC candidate for the federal riding of Essex East in 1958, both said Saturday they would stand. The riding has been represented by Ven. M. C. Davies, Archdeacon of Essex, retiring in ill health.

William H. Temple, CCF candidate in Toronto High Park, escaped jury duty when he wrote his absentee ballot asking to be excused on the grounds it would interfere with his campaigning.

FLIES TO LAKEHEAD

Mr. Frost does not have a meeting arrangement tonight. He was to fly today to the Lakehead, where he will speak Tuesday at Atikokan and Kenora.

Mr. Wintermeyer will address a rally in Kitchener tonight. He is expected to deliver his keynote address.

Mr. MacDonald will be chairman of a parent-teachers association gathering in Toronto tonight.

DIED IN FIGHT

TORONTO (CP)—Francis Malone, 32, of Charlottetown, died in hospital here Monday of injuries he suffered in a fight 36 hours earlier on a downtown street. Police said a fight started after Mr. Malone and his brother, Maurice, left a hotel where they had been drinking. The men involved fled when Mr. Malone was knocked to the ground unconscious.

Churchill Pays Visit to Cousin, Former Duchess

NEW YORK (AP)—On Sunday, Sir Winston Churchill called on an elderly cousin by marriage, Mme. Jacques Balsan, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, later Duchess of Marlborough and mother of the present duke.

In her autobiography, she said her first instruction from the grandmother of the then duke after her marriage to him was to have a son so "that little upstart Winston" next in line for the title, would not inherit the dukedom.

Sir Winston was fortunate that she did have a son, for had Churchill become duke he would have cut short his brilliant career in the House of Commons, where pens cannot serve.

Mme. Balsan's granddaughter, Sarah, and her husband, Edwin F. Russell, publisher of the Harrisburg (Pa.) Evening News, were present at the hour-long meeting between Churchill and his cousin.

The two cousins talked of old times, and Sir Winston had a cup of tea. He was offered a cigar, but declined. He had left a fresh cigar in the ashtray of his waiting limousine.

Stakes in Berlin Dispute Big, Neither Side Can Back Off But War Said Unlikely

This is the last of a four-part Associated Press series analysing the Berlin crisis and its impact on the East-West struggle.

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

BERLIN (AP) — War over Berlin is unlikely.

The stakes in the Berlin dispute are big. Premier Khrushchev may take risks. President Eisenhower cannot afford to back off. But both sides dread an armed conflict.

There is room for compromise. Only a disastrous diplomatic fumble or miscalculation could spark a third world war.

This is the consensus of Western and Communist experts in this divided city as diplomats get set for a foreign ministers' conference next week and a parley at the summit.

Khrushchev's drive to oust American, French and British troops from West Berlin is something more than another of the periodic Red probing actions on the global perimeter.

What spurred the Russian leader was West Berlin's disrupting impact on East Germany, his most prized satellite.

He said something would have to be started on the Berlin question in six months, and that brought May 27 to the fore as a crisis date. But the Soviet premier later said that hadn't been in his mind at all, he was just using six months as a suggestion.

His plan called for East Berlin to be confirmed as the capital of East Germany. The Reds would be free to close the East Berlin sector border, sealing off the East German people from West Berlin.

To pressure the West into compliance, Khrushchev announced his intention to transfer to the East Germans Soviet controls over Allied supply lifelines. This also aimed at securing de facto Western recognition of the East German regime.

Because of its location 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain, West Berlin drains East Germany of vital manpower by annually drawing in about 150,000 refugees.

An elaborate Allied intelligence network based in the city keeps touch with East German political developments.

TWO MAN STANDS

In meeting Khrushchev's Berlin bid at the conference table, Western powers have laid down two positions of no retreat.

First, they will protect the freedom of the 2,200,000 West Berliners.

Secondly they will not yield any of their essential rights in West Berlin under Soviet pressure.

What, therefore, are the prospects for an acceptable compromise with the Russians?

Most probable is a patchwork compromise that will avert the danger of war or another Berlin blockade — but would leave the seeds of a future crisis.

Such a compromise might shape up this way:

The Russians technically would end their occupation of East Berprevent in any case.

From this, the East Germans would gain prestige. They would also get the power to close the East Berlin border, thus sealing off West Berlin from contacts with the East German population.

On the lifelines to West Berlin, something the Allies cannot do, the Allies probably would look the other way as East Germans took over the checkpoints from the Red Army and began stamping convoy documents.

This would be acceptable to the Allies only if the East Germans were acting as Soviet agents.

But a compromise of this kind would be a stopgap. Inevitably, as the East Germans gained in strength and influence, a new Communist squeeze on Allied lifelines could be expected.

WILL TEST LIFEBOAT AT NIAGARA FALLS — Inventor H. A. Gaskin of Hove, England, works on a model of a lifeboat he claims will be unsinkable and which he plans to test at Niagara Falls, Ont., in July. He says the boat, built of laminated balsa timbers covered with fibreglass, is indestructible, unsinkable, self-bailing and won't capsize. Failing to interest British authorities after 30 years, he obtained permission to run the boat through the Niagara rapids, over the Horseshoe Falls and into whirlpool below. He is certain that after its ordeal it will still be seaworthy and capable of carrying passengers. (CP Photo).

Unsinkable Lifeboat Inventor Gets Permission From OPP To Test Craft in Niagara Falls

By DAVE GANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HOVE, England (CP) — For 30 years, without much success, inventor H. A. Gaskin of this Sussex seaside resort has been trying to sell British authorities on his ideas for an unsinkable lifeboat.

Now he is looking to Canada. He has obtained permission from the Ontario Provincial Police and the Ontario Niagara Parks Commission to test his craft in Niagara Falls in July.

He claims a boat built to his specifications is indestructible, unsinkable, won't capsize and will empty itself.

You can drop it into the water from as much as 100 feet up and it will always land right side up. And, he adds, if it does land upside down the 5½ tons of water it is expected to ship will drain in 60 seconds through valves he invented and patented.

NOT IMPRESSED

But British authorities weren't impressed with his ideas. They said the boat he proposed didn't meet government specifications for lifeboats. But they didn't irrevocably slam the door on him.

In his flat here—headquarters of Gaskin Lifeboats Limited—the intense, thick-spectacled inventor said he had given the British government its last chance.

"They want more plans," he says. "I've given them plans repeatedly during the last 21 years. I have built eight full-sized lifeboats, all have been successful and turned down one after the other.

"So do you wonder or blame me if I say for once—Piss!!"

The British authorities refused to pass his boat because it is in "a class of its own," he adds.

Candia, he says, is giving him a chance.

He took a two-foot balsa wood model of his lifeboat to the office of the Canadian Joint Staff in London. Specifications and his performance claims were forwarded to naval headquarters in Ottawa for further consideration.

"This is the climax of 30 years of pioneer work—the results are perfection," he says.

The 56-year-old inventor said he had invested about £40,000 to carry out his experiments and to register his patents in about 40 different countries.

Gaskin Lifeboats Limited has no factory and no regular employees. Much of the experimental work was carried out in the bathtub of his flat or in the nearby English Channel.

NIAGARA TEST

He hopes to start work soon on another prototype that will be put into the rocky rapids above Niagara Falls. Then he plans to drop it into the Horseshoe Falls and into the whirlpool.

Mr. Gaskin is quite certain that after these ordeals the boat will still be seaworthy and capable of carrying passengers.

His boat will be built of balsa timbers and covered with fibreglass. He and the two other members of his company plan to accompany it across the Atlantic to Canada in June.

"This is no stunt," he said. "Canada has opened her doors to me and in July I hope to convince the world that my craft, though revolutionary in principle and design, is the answer to those who seek safer lifeboats."

Winds, Rains Cause Heavy Damage in Eastern Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The elements erupted in sudden violence across Canada Monday as hurricane - force winds struck in widely-separated Ontario points, a snow storm hit Newfoundland and a dust storm blackened Saskatchewan skies.

Winds gusting up to 100 miles an hour caused extensive damage in Ottawa in a 25-minute period as coal air pushed rapidly across Eastern Ontario into Quebec, dumping torrents of rain.

Violent wind storms which first ripped through southeastern Michigan jumped into southwestern Ontario and left a trail of wrecked buildings, broken power lines and uprooted trees.

At least seven Michigan centres were raked by tornados. A Detroit woman was electrocuted by a fallen power line at Ann Arbor and $100,000 damage was done to the University of Michigan.

A small tornado skipped across the St. Clair River and struck a farming area near Port Lambton south of Sarnia, smashing six barns, a garage and damaging four others. Damage was about $50,000.

Farther west in the Huron county village of Hensall a tornado-like storm tore off the roof and top storey of a brick dairy building. No one was injured in either area.

In Ottawa, almost 400 miles to the northeast, the winds blew six freight cars of a siding onto the main CNR line southeast of the city. One was derailed and the whirlwind super Continental was held up for 1½ hours.

Most of the seven inches of snow which blanketed Newfoundland's Avalon peninsula Sunday night and early Monday had disappeared today.

In contrast, Saskatchewan residents walked with their arms in front of their eyes as black clouds of topsoil swirled over parts of the province. Soil drifting was serious in Weyburn, 75 miles southeast of Regina.

The squall which hit Ottawa brought consternation to Governor General Vincent Massey. Scheduled to receive guests in a half-hour, he was caught by the storm. He stoically braved the coast and was drenched to the skin.

The winds blew in plate glass windows, lifted the roof off a two-storey building and uprooted trees. Power was disrupted in several areas.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ACT SAID VIOLATED

Martin Challenges Fleming and Starr

OTTAWA (CP) — The opposition has charged Labor Minister Starr and Finance Minister Fleming with serious violations of the Unemployment Insurance Act in preparing amendments to the act and in handling the millions of dollars in securities in the unemployment insurance fund.

Liberal Paul Martin charged in the Commons Monday that Mr. Starr suppressed an Aug. 18 report by the Unemployment Insurance Advisory Committee which had recommended a course opposite to that adopted by the government.

He also said Mr. Starr allowed the committee membership to lapse to the point where the minimum required by the act which calls for not less than six labor members, was violated.

His lengthy indictment of the minister included a charge that Mr. Fleming obtained for himself sole authority to dispose of the million in securities held by the fund's investment committee.

He challenged Mr. Fleming to produce legal authority for this step which, he said, was taken this spring to prevent the investment committee from embarrassing the government by unloading large numbers of securities on a bond market overcrowded by last fall's $6,400,000,000 government conversion loan.

Mr. Martin wound up his attack with a demand that the Commons "declines to proceed" with the unemployment insurance amendments which, among other things, calls for an increase in employer and employee contributions to the fund without changing the government contributions.

The advisory committee had urged last August that management, employer and employee each pay one-third of total contributions to the fund from which unemployment insurance payments are made. The present division of payments is two-fifths by employers, two-fifths by employees and one-fifth by the government.

Mr. Starr denied during the course of a procedural argument that he is under any obligation to table the Aug. 28 report in Parliament but Mr. Martin replied that he has a right to see the minister had withheld it.

"This is a secret, hidden report," Mr. Martin said.

Other than to challenge Mr. Martin's allegations about the tabling of the report, Mr. Starr made no immediate reply to the Liberal's other charges.

Heavier - than - usual unemployment in the fall and winter also began with a prediction of difficulties and experts and was followed by a meeting of the ministers affected, Labor Minister Maurice Cuyler de Murville of Quebec.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Premier Khrushchev had a lunch date, Gromyko also had a visit from de Murville that morning. Gromyko was to serve as chairman of today's meeting. Mr. Khrushchev would be host.

However, the Russian won the right for the Polish and East German delegations to address the conference directly instead of speaking only through the Big Four ministers.

Western Powers Balk at Seating Poles, Czechs

Today's Session Ends Without Settling Issue

GENEVA (CP)—The Big Four foreign ministers met today for 3½ hours but were unable to agree on Russia's demand for "full and equal" participation of Poland and Czechoslovakia in the talks.

An informal said the session, second of the conference, ended "without agreement" on the issue.

The Western foreign ministers suggested that if Poland and Czechoslovakia joined in some of the conference discussions, likely it was decided to take up the issue again at Wednesday's session.

GROMYKO INSISTANT

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who presided today, insisted that the question of enlarging the conference should be discussed before the six parties of Berlin, Germany and European security.

Gromyko failed at the opening session Monday to obtain a seat for East Germany as a full and equal participant. The East and West German delegations were given chairs in the hallway, sitting at separate tables.

U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter flashed the two hours as the guest of Gromyko today. They had private talks Monday at the two and Soviet move in 24 hours to enlarge the conference.

Herter is flying, a leading member of the American delegation said, to Bonn to discuss the conference should "not spend too much time" on the Big Four talks and Czech representation.

WESTERN MINISTERS MEET

The British, U.S. and French foreign ministers, together with the West German foreign ministers, met for 45 minutes to discuss the latest Soviet tactic. They agreed Poland and Czechoslovakia should be called in to the conference as full participants only when discussing directly concerning the are discussed.

A Soviet spokesman announced he had a few hours before the conference went into its second session.

Russia, he said, wants Poland and Czechoslovakia to be "full and equal participants" in the doughnut-shaped conference table.

WEST WANTS ITALY

Authoritative sources said that if the two front-line countries are admitted as full participants then the West would want Italy to participate in the Western talks.

Today's Western tactical session began with a reading of reports of officials and experts and was followed by a meeting of the ministers affected, Labor Minister Maurice Cuyler de Murville of Quebec.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Premier Khrushchev had a lunch date, Gromyko also had a visit from de Murville that morning. Gromyko was to serve as chairman of today's meeting. Mr. Khrushchev would be host.

HEES TAKES STEPS ON IMPROPERLY EQUIPPED SHIPS

Minister Moves to Relieve Tie-up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Transport Minister Hees moved Monday to relieve the shipping tie-up at the Welland Canal by ordering all ships from abroad not properly equipped to keep out of the canal.

Hees flew to St. Catharines from Ottawa, made a brief survey of the canal's northern division, and announced the prohibition order at 11 a.m. Conditions returned to normal on his way back to Ottawa.

He said the average delay to upbound ships arriving at the Welland Canal's northern entrance on the Lake Ontario now is 36 hours.

Immediately after the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway ship traffic in the Welland locks and ice at the Lake Erie end of the canal at Port Colborne caused an average 24-hour delay, said Mr. Hees.

LACK PROPER GEAR

"Delays caused by foreign ships which were not equipped with the proper gear, plus normal slowness in operating ships during the early days of navigation each year, would amount to about another 12 hours," he said.

By improper gear it was understood the minister was referring to the Lake Carling winches Port Colborne fair leads and other gear on many foreign vessels. These are necessary to ease canal navigation.

Non-observance of ships without this equipment would be stopped at Montreal, Lake Ontario ports or anywhere else they were found, he said.

TIE-UP LIKELY

Lake shipping experts said many foreign vessels have the wrong type of mooring lines for the canals.

The Port Colborne fair lead is a revolving pulley in the ship's side through which a line is put ashore. The pulley turns as the ship moves through it.

Macmillan told Parliament he'd send satellites into orbit either with the United States or Common wealth partners, or with the United States.

Judge Agrees Some Laxity In Taverns

TORONTO (CP) — A grand jury report has expressed concern with teen-aged drinking in Toronto taverns and hotels and has won support from a judge who said drinking laws should be more strictly enforced.

The report said Monday that some outlets appeared to have little regard for the age of their patrons and juvenile gangs appeared to be using these places as meeting points.

County Judge Robert Forsyth agreed there was laxity in some taverns.

The grand jury said its conclusions were drawn from evidence it heard in the 22 cases coming before the May general sessions of the York County Court.

W. Elmer Sandercock Unanimous Choice Of West Hastings PC Nomination Meet

Some 350 Progressive Conservatives attended their nomination meeting to acclaim W. Elmer Sandercock, veteran of twelve years as Hastings West's representative in Queen's Park, their candidate for the coming provincial election. There were no others nominated.

In his speech of acceptance Mr. Sandercock mentioned a number of the accomplishments which had been achieved for the riding during his tenure as member of the Provincial Legislature. His desire to see that Hastings West received its full share of provincial grants and subsidies has resulted in 25 new schools being erected through the co-operation of the Department of Education, since assuming the MPP. Numerous roads and highways have either been built, rebuilt or paved with 401 being the greatest expenditure in this activity. The development of mining in this area, which initiated with the Bethlehem Steel operation, was due to the efforts of the Provincial government.

Mr. Sandercock dedicated himself to the best of his ability to the people of West Hastings. He also thanked those present for their confidence and expressed his appreciation of the splendid co-operation, which he had received from people in the party, the various local groups and councils about the constituency who had co-operated for the progress and the ladies' organizations.

Special guest speaker for the occasion was the Honorable Kelso Roberts, Attorney General for the Province of Ontario. Introduced by his colleague, Member Prince, city solicitor, in a very humorous and witty manner, the guest speaker at this time spoke to some extent on the fond memories of his area and the splendid line of Conservative representatives this riding had given to Toronto and Ottawa. Mentioning such persons as E. Guss Porter, W. H. Hubbs, Leslie M. Frost, Wilson the speaker complimented Mr. Sandercock for carrying on their fine traditions of representation.

Those present were complimented on their fine attendance, being indicative of the vigorous life-blood of the local Conservative party. Numerous figures were put into the speaker as he outlined the progress made by the Frost government in this riding during the fiscal year ending in 1958. Municipal aid, which amounts to be a fifth of the present government amounted to $3,841,251 for the County of Hastings and $739,230 more allotted to the city of Belleville. Touching on a few local matters, the chief legal officer for the province, expressed his hope that a "pit-grimage" might be made to relieve the "pit" in Madoc, the mascot of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who had been left in France during the early days of the last war.

In commenting on the progress of the Progressive Conservative governments since Mr. Drew's sweeping victory in 1944 Mr. Roberts stated that for every day the government has been in power there has been one new school, substantial addition or more. Mention was made also on the success of the province-wide highway safety drive and emphasis was placed on taking care at the wheel to keep down the "killer unaware."

"WOOLLY THINKING" CLAIM

A harsh refutal of the opposition parties' condemnation and criticism of was made. The opposition were accused of "woolly thinking" and be asked for the CCF to explain on what basis they accused the Frost government of being arrogant, when the highest degree of co-operation existed between it and the municipalities, the press, and the people of Ontario at all times. "We have a record to maintain as the premier province of Canada and as long as the people continue to put their faith in the Frost government we will continue to do so," concluded the Attorney General.

Mr. Roberts was thanked by Reeve Whitney, chairman of Prince Edward-Lennox, for a "speech which spoke for itself."

Clark Rollins, officiate for the meeting.

Liberal Leader Pledges Fight To Finish in Keynote Address

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liberal Leader John Winter-meyer opened his Ontario election campaign Monday night with a fist-shaking speech which denounced the Progressive Conservative government as "shopworn."

"This will be no tea-party campaign."

The 52-year-old lawyer outlined a 15 - point election platform which promises support from a judge who said drinking laws should be more strictly enforced.

He delivered his keynote address in a meeting-packed hall in his home town of Kitchener at which he was acclaimed Liberal candidate for Waterloo North, this riding he has held since 1955.

Mr. Wintermeyer began his campaign in a Fort William stop and will make a whirlwind campaign of speeches he plans today at Atikokan and Kenora. He deals chiefly with the province's rural development of that northwestern region.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald was the only party leader not in action politically in the province. The 1959 provincial election entered its first full week.

Mr. Wintermeyer heard Mr. Wintermeyer describe the Liberal "blueprint for the province" which he said would require no new tax revenues, with the exception of succession duties.

"It's a sensible program," he said. "It's a program for people."

The Liberal leader said his party would appoint a committee to hold hearings and make recommendations for a revision of Ontario's municipal act to give more a conference to develop a voluntary retirement scheme for municipal and residents of the province.

Overall businessmen would be assisted through creation of a development bank. Mr. Wintermeyer's motion "to provide credit, information and advice to assist small businesses."

Mr. Wintermeyer accused the Conservatives of "cynically" stealing Liberal proposals and said it had "abdicated responsibility to govern" to provide for the future.

His platform was headed by a promise for education cost reform. The matter, he said could be brought about by a progressive overhaul of municipal financing. The province would gradually assume the basic cost of education to ease the burden on municipal taxpayers.

Other points in the Liberal program:

Loans to farmers of up to 80 per cent of the value of their land and up to $5,000 for machinery and equipment;

MESSAGE TO TOUTH

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen Sunday urged the young people of the Commonwealth to "think, speak and act as true brothers and sisters of one another" in a world threatened by fear and prejudice. Her message marked the annual celebration of Commonwealth Youth Sunday.

Sudanese Reds Are Supporting Foe of Nasser

Willem Wynn, chief of the CP bureau in Cairo, has returned from a visit to Sudan, Egypt's neighbor, which censorship prevented his filing from Khartoum, he says, but a Communist threat to the vast Nile country.

CAIRO (AP)—Communists in Sudan are trying to line up support for a coup to put in power the anti-Egyptian premier, Abdel Ibrahim.

But Sudan is so wobbly politically and economically that Communist activities are not taken lightly..

COMES STRONG MAN

The man the Reds are grooming to be their Sudanese Kassem is Abdel Rahman Sidqui, Ibrahim's apparently the strongest man in the military junta now governing the country.

Shanan is no Communist. Like Ibrahim and Sidqui himself, he got his military training under the British. Basically he is pro-Western and dictating to the elderly Ibrahim.

The compromise junta that replaced Ibrahim's predecessor, a powerful clique of junior officers who had ousted Premier Azhari, but is pushing pressure on their seniors.

Civic Workers At Kingston Vote to Strike

KINGSTON (CP)—About 150 municipal employees voted Monday night to take strike action to back up wage and other demands.

Employees of the park and sewage departments, the Naden-ut Union of Public Service Employees (CLC), threatened to equal work at midnight tonight if requests are not met.

They want an eight-percent wage increase and other benefits. The city has offered a six-per-cent raise.

The city finance committee planned an emergency meeting on the situation today.

Psychiatrist Says 'Girlie' Books Not Cause of Sexual Offences

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto psychiatrist came to the defence of girlie magazines Monday night and said sex offenders do not begin with reading them.

"I have examined hundreds of sex offenders and I am not convinced that the cause of their trouble is the reading or seeing of a publication," Dr. John Rich told a panel at the annual meeting of the Parents Action League.

Dr. Rich, director of suburban Thistletown hospital for Emotionally Disturbed Children, said it is better for adolescents to satisfy their curiosity by looking at "girlie magazines" than by peeping in bedroom windows.

While Dr. Rich was speaking outside the meeting, a man with a magazine with pictures of a nude girl in two provocative poses.

He was in the middle of a discussion with a reporter and landed in front of him.

"Is this obscene?" he said. "this lady needs treatment." He then added: "This is strictly a clinical reaction on my part."

"I don't think a normal child would be affected by this picture," he continued. "An abnormal one might.

"I think my children would be bored with it. Admittedly they are young. But I wouldn't stop them from seeing it."

FULL HOUSE AT DOG POUND

It's full house at the city dog pound with not less than 14 strays currently being in custody. It was noted today by City Clerk Charles Owers. Owners of the pets are reminded if the dogs are not claimed in two days they will be disposed of.

All the dogs were picked up while running at large in the city. It was pointed out that the dog by-law calls for all dogs to be kept tied or on a leash.

Dog licenses are going very slowly at city hall, according to Mr. Owers. So far this year only 1,175 tags have been sold with the total dog population estimated at about 2,700.

Women Going On Bear Hunt With Husbands

TIMMINS (CP) — The hardy men of this Northern Ontario town are going on a bear hunt Saturday, and some of the ladies —forsaking white broom for rifle —are going along too.

Whether their aim is as sharp as their spirit they'll know soon as they encounter the prospective fur hats for Britain's Brigade of Guards.

"Personally," says Mayor Leo Del Villano, who organized the hunt, "I hope we're about one-tenth as lucky in finding the bears as the people who think I seem to feel we will be."

About 75 hunters in teams of five — including two teams of women—will set out in search of bears at 5 a.m. Saturday.

TO SPRUCE UP GUARDS

Mayor Del Villano got the idea for the hunt after reading that the prestige of the guardsmen was being damaged by the shabby condition of their bearskins.

"The hunters will continue their self-chosen task each weekend until June 15 when hunting licences expire.

Mayor Del Villano is still getting dozens of letters most of them criticizing the "slaughter."

But a man in Braemar, Scotland, has asked the mayor to lend him the claws and fangs of the bears.

He wants to mount them on brooches and offer to sell them to members of the guards before putting them on the open market.

Council Members Vote to 'Tighten Belt' Holding Up Supply Contracts Pending Details of Unapproved Hockey Payments

As result of alleged unexpected mispending of city money in connection with the operation of the Belleville McFarland's Hockey Team, the city will adopt a belt-tightening program that will see no further capital expenditures without full approval from council.

This was the decision of city fathers last night as they held their first regular council session following developments of last weekend with saw city manager Drury S. Denyes resign after city auditors had turned up unapproved expenditures of at least $15,000 on behalf of the World Champion McFarlands Hockey team.

City Manager Denyes, who also acted as manager of the hockey team which was operated by the Belleville Arena Commission, resigned his position on Sunday and then, following yesterday's statement by Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, withdrew his resignation.

SUSPEND DENYES

Last night after a lengthy discussion, council voted to suspend Mr. Denyes pending a detailed investigation by city finance which is to be made by the Department of Municipal Affairs. An amendment calling for the matter to be laid on the table until the auditor's report is received, was defeated.

Two officials from the Department of Municipal Affairs, J. G. Blake and N.V. Salomaa, were in the city yesterday and attended last night's meeting where Mayor Hyde said that a caucus meeting of council would be held this afternoon during which the visiting department officials would be briefed on the situation.

Mayor Hyde said in his statement that he was calling a caucus for a full and detailed investigation into the city's financial situation.

HOLD UP CONTRACTS

In the meantime council moved to curb general city expenditures as much as possible and at last night's meeting up to the award of supply contracts.

This was moved "in view of the events of the past weekend, it being urged that it would be necessary to cut expenditures as much as possible."

A long list of supply contracts was up for ratification by council but Ald. Frank Grandame moved that they be received in an effort to cut expenditures wherever possible.

Mayor Hyde took the same attitude and asked that all items on the agenda involving the spending of money be referred to the next committee meeting "in view of the events of the past weekend."

MUST TIGHTEN BELTS

Then, Alderman Ralph Graham moved "as a matter of policy that there be no further capital expenditures without specific approval for the individual items by the entire council. Alderman W. T. Elliot seconded the motion, noting that in the view of what had transpired "We've got to tighten our belts."

The motion was carried and city engineer Malcolm Thornhill was instructed to contact suppliers of trucks and equipment previously ordered for to see if delivery could be held up.

Council turned down a motion calling for deletion of a resolution from the city of London asking for further control by council over boards of education, commissions and other departments within the municipality.

Alderman George Wishart noted that several of the departments named in the resolutions were elected bodies and thus themselves were responsible to the electorate.

"The events of the past week prove that council should have more control, said Ald. Safe as the motion to delete the resolution was turned down on a recorded vote.

HYDE OUTLINES SITUATION

Then with routine council business out of the way Mayor Gerald Hyde outlined what steps had been taken in calling for a full enquiry into the city's financial situation as result of gross mispending of city money on behalf of the hockey team.

He said that City Manager Drury Denyes Monday had withdrawn his resignation and expected a motion for suspension at Monday's meeting. He said Mr. Denyes when permitted to do so by his physician, would be ready to appear before council to explain unauthorized expenditures.

The mayor said however that there was a difference between "explaining" and "justifying" although he did not believe that Mr. Denyes had appropriated "one red cent" to his own use.

Alderman Leo Daley introduced the motion calling for Mr. Denyes' suspension "until such time as a proper accounting" of the city finances had been made. The motion was seconded by Alderman Jack Ellis.

The motion touched off a full scale debate which was entered into by practically every member of council.

Alderman Argue moved an amendment calling for the matter to be laid on the table for two weeks.

VOTE SUSPENSION

The amendment was lost on a 10-3 recorded vote, and the original motion for suspension was carried by the same majority.

In calling for tabling of the matter for two weeks, Ald. Argue reviewed events leading up to Mr. Denyes' appointment as manager of the arena commission operated hockey team. He said Mr. Denyes was expected to put a team together which would be a credit to the city.

He noted there had been no criticism of Mr. Denyes when a year ago the McFarlands returned home from Kelowna with the Memorial Cup and the city was "gone wild" in welcoming the team home.

Then the auditor's report of last weekend there had been nothing to help in the attendance of council or the public that all was not well with the hockey team financially.

He suggested that what had been done had been done in the good of the city" and in making wrong entries Mr. Denyes had evidently had his job obviously looking for bigger hockey pastures.

Ald. Argue criticized the city auditor for not advising council last year of the team's financial finances. He said the amount owing had been shown as an account receivable and had not been fully understood by council.

"Council should have known and I take a share of the responsibility," he said.

Noting that there was such a thing as a collective responsibility, Ald. Argue said the citizens of Belleville should also also take a share of the responsibility.

He suggested that Mr. Denyes had been "carried away with hockey."

"Mr. Denyes was in error but to the extent that we should not look for his dismissal," he said.

He said Mr. Denyes was under severe nervous strain and had not profited personally rather than be suspended.

Noting that the city manager had been a loser to the tune of $15,000, he said that in the view of what had transpired "We've got to tighten our belts."

NOT CENT STOLEN

Ald. Safe said he did not steal one red cent for his own use and I believe him," he said.

Alderman Grier in support of his motion calling for suspension said that this one was accumulation of tardies and errors. He said gross irregularities had been found and a detailed investigation was required. He said Mr. Denyes should remain suspended pending the investigation.

Alderman Ben Safe declared he had always been against the operation of a hockey team by the corporation. He said the hockey was not the corporation's business.

"We have been taught a lesson — an expensive lesson — that we should not be in sporting field," he said.

He said it had been his understanding hockey revenues and contributions from the team sponsor were taking care of team expenses and that the team was not costing the city money. He favored tabling the matter until more facts were known.

Alderman Claude D. Tice, as chairman of the Arena Commission, said he had deep respect for Mr. Denyes, who he felt was an honorable man. Nevertheless, financial reports had been submitted to the commission and to council "which we had believed . . ."

DEFENDS CITY OPERATION

He discounted a previous statement that hockey was not corporation business, noting that as chairman of the arena commission he knew of many, many Ontario Centres which were in the hockey business.

He said the manager of the city-operated team here had since the 1953-54 season been given full control of the team without interference by council. Since that time, Mr. Denyes had produced an Allan Cup winner and a World Championship.

"Mr. Denyes was completely in control and can come to this council and tell us all," Ald. Tice declared. "If is ridiculous to judge a man before a hearing. I am for Mr. Denyes 100 percent."

Alderman Mrs. Effie McCabe said in the interest of the taxpayer she was in favor of suspension for suspension.

"I respect Mr. Denyes of theit, but I feel he should be suspended until he is cleared."

Ald. Ellis said that there had been no claim of misappropriation of city funds. Ald. Robertson Collins could see no reason for Ald. Daley's motion calling for suspension.

"You can't try a man on rumor," he said. "There must be big enough to hear both sides of the story before we condemn a man. There is nothing here to warrant suspension."

Alderman Ellis declared that in the light of what the auditor had said council "no one is to blame for this mess."

SYSTEM DETERIORATES

Alderman Jack Ireland also supported the move for suspension noting that the auditor had said council that the city's accounting system had been deteriorating for the past 10 years and had also stated there were discrepancies in the finances of other civic departments and bureaus as in the hockey account.

"To start all hockey, but the whole administration," he said.

Alderman Temple favored granting leave of absence to Mr. Denyes until the enquiry. "Leave of absence does not mean that a man is judged before a hearing; we do not do such things in Canada."

Alderman Grandame said he was in favor of suspension for suspension, pointing out that the office of city manager was an honorable position and if he said he could not get over $15,000 he never went to court and said he had been shocked when several weeks ago he had been told by the Commission chairman, Ald. Tice, that the team was $15,000 in the red.

He put little value on the story of winning a world hockey title. "I would win if I would title if they have the money to spend," he said.

Mayor Hyde said he would the team, Mayor Hyde said.

Training of Ballet Dancer Outlined at Joint Meeting

Members of the Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild joined with the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary last week to hear a fascinating account of how a young ballet dancer's training is kept by Miss Lucille McLeod, who is a well-known Toronto ballet teacher and dance notator for the National Ballet Company. Illustrations of the talk were given by 13-year-old Bronwyn Precious, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mary Dowson.

Miss McLeod began by describing the "type-ballet" steps and movements which might be done by four to six-year-old children, developing a sense of rhythm and movement, yet placing no undue strain on their growing minds and bodies. Even these simple movements can be performed by dancers which give a child the child's fancy and maintain his or her interest.

Then, at seven or eight, real ballet training begins, and the child begins to learn the basic language, the one used to describe the various steps and positions of classical ballet, the wordless language of mime. At this stage, daily perfection seldom if ever reached.

The interest which Miss McLure's talk aroused was heightened by the graceful and meticulous illustrations provided by Miss Precious, who delighted her audience by her accurate leaps and dedicated expression of the art.

Miss McLure, who was introduced by Miss Leona Riggs, president of the Belleville Ballet Guild, was thanked by Mrs. H. T. Floyd on behalf of both organizations.

Miss Kay Homan Named Secretary For 'Y' Work

Miss Kay Homan of Carbyville, a paediatric gym and swimming instructor at the Y.M.C.A. this past year, has been appointed to the Women's and Girls' Secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., effective May 18th. It was announced yesterday by Mr. Jack Ireland, president of the board.

MISS KAY HOMAN

Over the past few years the interest in girls' and women's activities in the "Y" have increased to the point where a Women's and Girl's Secretary is essential to meet the needs of the community.

In assuming her new duties on May 18th, Miss Homan brings to the "Y" a wealth of experience.

After active work in Junior Farmers Association work in the Quinte area and in the County of Hastings for ten years as a member, editor, and past president, Miss Homan was elected president of the Junior Farmers Association of Ontario in 1953.

In May, 1958, she was awarded a two-months' educational travel scholarship travelling in the United Kingdom to study British agricultural conditions there.

LEADING FIGURE

Miss Homan is a leading figure in community work among youth and young people. She was assistant to the Recreational Director of Belleville for two and a half years; a staff member at the Junior Farmers Provincial Leadership Camp at Geneva Park for two years; gave leadership to innumerable young people's activities in this area; is a member of the choir of the Carbyville United Church; teaches Sunday school, and is an expert in crafts such as shellcraft, leathercraft and basket weaving.

In addition to teaching and supervising girls' and women's physical education activities in the Y.M.C.A., Miss Homan will also assume responsibilities in organizing and supervising girls' and women's club activities and interest groups, and will direct the Girls' Parliament at Oak Lake, sponsored by the Men's Y's Club.

To supplement her knowledge of work with Youth on Y.M.C.A. Boards, Miss Homan is attending a long orientation conference in St. Catharines, Ontario, the last week of this month.

"During this past year, Miss Homan has made an impact with the girl members and the young people at the Y.M.C.A., and the Y.M.C.A. Board is aware that her appointment on a full time basis will be an asset in the expanding Y.M.C.A. work", concluded Mr. Ireland.

TRENTON — There will be space in the classes of the Trenton High School in the coming term to accommodate students from Sidney Township it was anywhere else as long as the fees are paid the Trenton Board of Education was informed last night at the regular meeting of the board.

The board was informed that there is some confusion on this matter in Sidney Township due to a letter sent out two years ago giving notice that the Trenton High School would be closed school. Stan Ketcheson, chairman of the board, said this had been done in the event that there was ever a shortage of room in the classes outside students would be turned away in favor of children from Trenton. And unless there is a shortage of space this will not take effect.

A delegation for the Quinte Association for Retarded Children headed by the president of the group Mr. Stovell and including Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Scott told the board of the work of their group and asked that the board give consideration to finding a room in one of the town schools to enable them to start a class in Trenton. Mr. Stovell said there are four children from Trenton attending their classes in Belleville and that there are several more who could attend. However, he told the board that registration fees are high and it would be easier and less costly if a class were opened in Trenton for these children. He said there would be no cost to burden to the Trenton school board.

It was later decided by the board that a letter be sent to Mr. Stovell informing him that at present there were no extra rooms in the local schools but when the new one is constructed and in operation the board will be reconsidered at that time.

Dennis Atkins, probation officer for the town of Trenton also appeared before the board last night to ask them for authority to bring any student under the age of 16 up before the courts if he or she has been expelled from school. He also reminded the board that all children must attend school or stay in school until they are 16. The board granted the permission but with the proviso to do so he requested.

Four teachers handed in their resignations to the board by letter during the past week and are: Lloyd Hunt, Mrs. Mary Eden, E. W. Chase and Mrs. Audrey Cavers. All were accepted by the board.

WILL ATTEND COURSE

The school board granted permission for one teacher from each school in Trenton to attend a summer course in religious education for teachers. The courses will be held during the first week of August and the teachers attended the same course last year. They said they had gained a considerable amount of helpful information from the course.

The board also approved the purchase of 120 metal desks costing at a total cost of $1,143 from a local firm. The buying of these desks was approved by Mr. Ketcheson as man of supply and by Mr. Carswell.

A report from the school nurse, Miss C. M. Haslam, for the month of April was informed the board there had been 200 cases of this, 30 of which were 12 children had their tonsils removed and three had undergone surgery for appendicitis.

Mrs. E. Bedford was named as the delegate from the school board to attend the inspection of Air Cadets at the High School on Tuesday, May 14 at 3 p.m.

The board instructed the secretary Mr. W. V. Carswell, to write a letter to the people concerned that they shall not be allowed to drive their cars onto the school property. A complaint concerning this had been received by the board from a teacher and Mrs. Bedford of the Carbyville School and it was felt that this action by parents picking up their children was dangerous to the rest of the students on the school grounds.

The board also approved a plan that in the future all press reports would be handled through the secretary, V. P. Carswell, and after they had been approved by the chairman of the board. Publication of the meetings and committee meetings will be mailed to the local newspapers serving Trenton.

Tatham Company Given Contract For New School

TRENTON — The Tatham Construction Company was awarded the contract for building the new school on Dufferin Street South at the regular meeting of the Trenton Board of Education held in the board room at the North Trenton school last night.

The Tatham tender of the Tatham company was reported to be $170,750 plus an additional $5,700 for paving and fencing around the school. However the board members felt there were several "frills" which could be cut and after taking these out brought the cost of building the school down to a total of $169,-050 or a total saving of $7,400 on the school building.

To this amount will be added the architects' fees, equipment and furniture for the school which will bring the total cost to $200,000.

Speaking on the latter, Colin Crews, chairman of the plumbing committee, said that the heating and plumbing contract for the Acme Heating and Plumbing Company in Belleville. It was stated that this company's bid was $1,000 lower than that of Trenton firms.

The "frills" that the school board shaved off the original tender of the Tatham firm included such things as a garden box in front of the school, a fence around the premises, and extras in the playroom. The board also saved $2,000 in obtaining the heating system and in addition $1,000 in not asphalting for the paving.

The board decided, however, that the heating and ventilating system should be installed when the school is built as there was a considerable grant from the Department of Education so help pay for it. If they left it until the following year there would be no grant for it.

CHAMPION VOTE-GETTER

If you have never heard of William V. S. Tubman, don't feel badly. The fact that he is the world's most successful politician seems to have been remarkably well concealed and it was only by accident that we came across a little item proving his right to be considered the all-time, all-country champion vote-getter. Compared with Tubman, Hitler and Stalin were pikers when it came to winning approval at the polls - - and Tubman apparently does his stint without any resort to strong-arm tactics.

Tubman is president of Liberia, the rubber republic in Africa which initiated self-rule for Africans. He is now serving his 16th year and has just been reelected for another term. So far, we have not seen reports on the voting this year. But his opponent, William Oliver Davies Bright, is the same man who ran against him in 1955. He describes his candidature as "purely nominal" and adds that he is "not particularly opposed to the continuation in office of President Tubman."

It is a good thing he isn't too concerned about the outcome, because last time he was gathered only 16 votes out of 245,000 cast.

President Tubman seems to be quite popular.

A FOOLISH PROCEDURE

It seems almost incredible that insurance companies would buy back stolen securities covered by their policies. Yet Chief Inspector W. J. Franks of the criminal investigation bureau of the Ontario Provincial Police declares that "there's no doubt they are doing it" in connection with securities stolen from trust companies in Ontario and Quebec, including the Brockville trust company robbery.

Attorney-General Roberts has warned the insurance companies may face prosecution if they make deals with criminals. It is easy to argue that the insurance companies are more sinned against than sinning, that it is understandable that they would like to cut their heavy losses to a minimum. Still, common sense should prevent them from buying back their own property. What title saving they may make in connection with the robberies which have already occurred will likely be made at an eventual cost many times the amount saved, for it will encourage thieves to plan future robberies, knowing that they will find a market for the stolen securities.

FUTILE METHOD

Provincial Police have clamped down on pinball machines in Eastern Ontario. So says a Canadian Press despatch from Perth. Police say that three machines were destroyed during a weekend. Since March 5 police have picked up 20 machines and nine payouts from Lanark, Almonte, Westport, Gananoque and Perth districts and charged them with keeping common gaming houses.

Every so often one will read items similar to this, from different parts of the province. But we cannot recall ever reading that the firms which distribute these machines to the operators have been hailed into court. Charging the proprietors seems something like trying to kill a dandelion by plucking its leaves.

LEAPING LENA!

Dr. W. A. Tillmann, instructor in psychiatry at the University of Western Ontario, has told the Canadian Highway Safety Conference that the man who gives his car a feminine name may be heading for an accident. Cars with women's names suggest they have aggressive drivers, he declared.

This is an intriguing theory. What about cars named by women - - is the formula reversed and does the choice of a male name mean the owner of the car is aggressive? Is there some Freudian explanation for the whole situation? There are so many questions we would like to ask. Nobody puzzles us, though, so much as how anybody survived the period when nearly all cars drivers were men and half the cars on the road were lizzies.

WRONG EQUIPMENT

An Ottawa doctor has discovered the hula-hoop syndrome.

Writing in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. Z. H. Zaidi reports that acute pains and aches have been traced to hula-hooping.

This just shows how important the proper equipment is if you insist on taking exercise. Wriggle with the hoop and you get pains in the knees, elbows, neck and right side. Wriggle with a guitar and you are still on the way to a million dollars.

JUST FOLKS

AGE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I must grow old in years they say
But cannot stay
My hand of Time. He paints
Upon my hair some grey,
And gradually grow
Less keen my eyes
To show
The lasting hope
That lies
Within my heart
In terms of Age
Or mere judgment.

They are Time's feelings;
Youth wins the heart.

Time cannot 'gainst our will
Subdue a cheery laugh.
Though old in years we still
May inwardly be young.

'Tis not in snow white hair
Man's history is told.
Say not that Age is there,
Unless the heart is old.

How to Stay at the Top

Sault Daily Star

There are many books on the subject of success and how it can be achieved.

Dale Carnegie instituted a series of lectures to teach people how to make the most of themselves and rise in their professions. There is not much written, however, to help the man at the top to stay on that dizzy summit.

The remedy this, a well-known management consultant, Thomas A. Tyson, has drawn up a series of rules, of which the following is an extract:

Develop a breadth of knowledge. Keep a wide range of interest in the family, the community and other industries.

Use information from other related fields.

Break up your force into committees of action — but do not let people lose their individuality.

Be fair.

Help in the community.

Do not go overboard on the philosophy of "keeping the help happy." Remember, the small children, feel more secure if there is a firm hand. Also, people do not like to be regimented in a not too militant way. Too much human relations training makes people sorry for themselves and they shirk their duties.

Do not build your staff of super-stars. We need some of the ordinary folk to provide the effort and steadiness of sober living, plodding people.

Get in the habit of thanking people.

Remember that you cannot change people. You did not create them, change you so what right have you to change them. You can help to train in the rough edges, but that's all.

Do not squeeze out the last ounce of material out of the organization. It is not pleasant under those conditions where there is no cushion.

Keep your morale and loyalty high.

Lose the occasional battle to win the war. Know when to retreat, so you can advance. Be a good loser as well as a good winner. Remember that 90 per cent of your problems will be people.

As someone said before, have the power to change the things you can, the courage to accept the things you cannot and the wisdom to know the difference.

Do not crusade.

Do not let today's work — you'll feel better.

You do not have to apologize for making a profit. You will not be measured by your popularity although although at times. You will only be measured by your pleasantness, your appearance, nor the hand you extend on the job. You will be measured by the results of your actions.

Maintain emotional stability. Your emotions are what make you go. Remember that emotional stability is more often a matter of reacting evenly to stress and frustration than it is of rigidly suppressing feelings. There are good and bad ways to explode.

Don't communicate anxiety. If business is bad, keep the knowledge of the well confided. If you are having personal problems, don't broadcast them.

Don't be an irascible perfectionist.

Be a promoter — not always a self-promoter.

Know the difference between rules and principle. A principle is a guide to action. A rule is a restriction. To obey a principle you have to use your reasoning and brainpower; to obey a rule you have only to do what the rule says.

Your success will be in direct proportion to your ability and appetite to do the things you want to do. If you like to work working with people you are selling commodities, ideas, and services, don't kid yourself; make it your best sell.

Even if one has not as yet attained to the summit, in his home and among his family, he may be growing man in the highest authority. It would, therefore, be good training for the individual to start practicing these rules, even before the summit is in sight. It will, at least, make them more pleasant parents and husbands.

Resistance Is Not Wise

Peterborough Examiner

When two masked armed men walked into a branch of the Imperial Bank in Cobourg on Burlington on Wednesday, an accountant heard them talking to the gunmen. He snatch-ed the revolver he kept in a drawer or his desk. The bandits are caught and are now accused in which 17 shots were fired. Two men were arrested later after a chase by police.

Perhaps the accountant achieve by putting the robbers to flight. His heroic action probably saved the bank a considerable sum of money, and cost him a bullet in his left shoulder. Was it worth it? On the face of it, yes, but it must be considered lucky that the bandits and customers in the bank at the time.

Whether the accountant realized this in the split-second he was reaching for his gun, we don't know; but if there had been customers in the bank, his action might have resulted in tragedy. As it was the two bandits had to lie flat on the floor to avoid flying bullets.

Perhaps bank employees are instructed not to resist when they are held up by armed men, and we consider this a wise policy. In many cases the criminals are caught anyway, and in all the lives of bank customers to save a small portion of their own or other depositor's cavity could be foolhardy.

Siesta Hope Seems Lost

Minneapolis Tribune

From this distance, the Roman siesta has always sounded quite luxurious. We liked the idea of a leisurely lunch in a fascinating little restaurant, perhaps a cop-ful least a chance for a good ful break — instead of rushing back to work or eating a sandwich at a crowded lunch counter. But it seems we had the wrong picture. The siesta in modern Rome has meant, for most Romans, eating the bus home for lunch. This has caused tw extra rush hours, midday traffic jams, work and the Orrill accidents between 1 and 2 p.m., and jangled nerves that have given rise to the treatment.

So women Labor leaders are now campaigning for elimination of the two-to-four-hour lunch period and the siesta which goes with the working day about 3 p.m. By the time the commuters get home and eat lunch, there's hardly time for a nap anyhow, they say — so they might as well stay closer to town and work.

That Al-time — we have dreamed of a more siesta-like approach to life in Minneapolis — Mooger Valley and other suburban cafes, maybe a way to get a better snooze in, too. But if the Romans are losing the reform and act so efficient, what hope is there for us?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We have news items from time to time from our royal visitors calling upon Pope John, or the president of this republic or that calling upon President Eisenhower; and it tells of them having a twenty minute conversation.

Twenty minutes! What in the world kind of a conversation can you have in twenty minutes Even at our level, twenty minutes is hardly time to hang up your hat, shake hands, sit down and begin on one another in happy anticipation of the conversation about to follow.

I would say that a conversation should last an hour; and that it isn't much of a conversation if it has been going two hours. It takes time to get warmed up. What kind of subjects can you select for discussion in twenty minutes? And how can you converse in that time? The word conversation means taking one person says something, then pauses, politely allowing the other person to say something. It comes from the Latin, meaning to turn about.

Maybe at the high level of royal and presidential visits and chancellors, they have got out of the habit of chewing the fat. Maybe what they do is speak to one another with all the formality of those engraved invitations you get to distinguished gatherings! "His Excellency requests the honor of your company at dinner, etc."

Let us drop the word conversation. Let us say that the president of Saskatchewan had twenty minute chat with President Eisenhower.

Minuet is the word.

Oshawa Times

Strange as it may seem, the temperature high above the chill Arctic is twice that discovered in equal altitudes over the warmer areas of the earth.

This phenomenon, disclosed by physicists only two days ago has helped observers to visualize one of the world's newest discoveries, the Van Allen radiation belts that hover miles above the earth.

United States space probes first proved the existence of these belts.

Dr. Robert Jastrow, chief of the theoretical division of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has described the experiments concerning temperatures and the radiation belts. Instruments in the rockets measured the temperatures.

Here from 100 miles above Churchill, in Canada's northern Manitoba, readings of 4,000 degrees Fahrenheit above zero were measured. This is more than 20 times the heat of boiling water.

But, at similar heights above rocket launching sites at White Sands Proving Ground, New Mexico, the highest temperature recorded has been about 2,000 degrees.

Dr. Jastrow explained that the difference depends on the shape of the Van Allen radiation belts. Instead of circling the earth uniformly, they tend to bend toward the earth at the poles. In fact, they almost touch cover the poles at all, he said.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

TENDENCY TO HEART DISEASE MAY BE INHERITED

"Dear Dr. Molner: How often should one have a check-up to make sure the heart is all right? Are there any questions that belong only to heart trouble? Is one by many nervous and the heart occasionally beats too fast, and the muscles around the eyes twitch, causing a small amount of discomfort, can you tell for sure that nerves are at fault or if something more serious is involved? Can a bad heart be inherited?—C.S."

Lots of letters ask one questions of these questions. Strictly speaking, there are no symptoms — not the kind you can detect yourself — that always belong to heart trouble. Some, however, are highly suggestive of it, but various heart tests, (cardiograms and others) can give you a positive answer.

The crushing pain under the breast bone, which the doctor gets with coronary heart disease, is one that is almost peculiarly only to those who have experienced it — is usually a clue to heart trouble. Certain numerous other chest pains have nothing to do with it; they may be muscle pain, neuralgia, pleurisy or others.

The shortness of breath is a common symptom, too, but it can be present with asthma, anemia, overweight and various other conditions.

Swelling of the ankles is often seen in the same kind of heart disease, but it may also be from kidney trouble, kidney trouble, or liver trouble.

The "fast heart and the palpitated discomfort that you mention may originate in some thyroid disturbance, excessive use of coffee or tea, or just from a state of anxiety.

So how are you to know? As I said, the way to find out is to have a check-up at the more complicated tests.

HOW OFTEN CHECKED?

This leads to another question you asked:— How often should the heart be checked? It depends. One person, the one with high blood pressure, or the one who has had rheumatic fever should be checked rather frequently. Or, naturally, if some heart condition has been noted, and your doctor wants to keep tabs on it. On the other hand, the person in sound health who feels good will be well served by a thorough check-up every year or two. It's a good feeling to have that report in office with reassurance that everything is well.

Some are naturally apprehensive individuals, however, should be examined more often. And, consequently, I should say, as is necessary to reassure themselves.

As to "inheriting a bad heart," no. There is a thing as congenital heart disease, running through some quirk of nature that your are born with a flaw of some sort, just as you can be born with six toes or a cleft palate, but this is not what I said it was a quirk, not something you inherited.

Other than that, heart disease is acquired. Infections (as rheumatic fever, syphilitic infection, nutritional disorders such as beri-beri, and some other diseases, common or uncommon, can indeed impair the heart. So can high blood pressure or hardening of the arteries, and a tendency to both things as these latter ones may be inherited. The tendency, I repeat, may be inherited, but not the heart disease itself. No, you do not "inherit a bad heart."

"Dear Dr. Molner: I read an article about restoring the memory of elderly people with injections of DNA and RNA. I would like your opinion, Mrs. T.L."

Nobody's opinion yet means anything. This is an experimental stuff. We'll all do best to ignore it until — or if — progresses to any practical point.

Lipstick Sig Of Maturity

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Those skeptics who persist in their doubts about IQ's and other psychological indicators may be glad to hear that the tenth graders of today are as mature as the eleventh and twelfth graders of 20 years ago as measured by lipstick.

This finding was reported by Dr. Mary Cover Jones of the University of California after comparative tests of contemporary junior high school girls, young-sters and their predecessors "Lipstick comes as well as any one specific item I could," says Dr. Jones, "the sensitization in early adolescence toward a new sex role and toward growing up." Today many more girls use lipstick and many more boys approve its use than did two decades ago.

But let there be no alarms about a new "scarlet generation." Today's youngsters also take a greater interest in reading, do more homework, are more tidy and self-sufficient, care more about politics and are much more tolerant. In short, the young are the hope of the future, even measured by lipstick.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WORK THROUGH

There is a saying power in the words: "Work through." It allows us, that picks us up when we stumble, and that lifts our heads when they get too much in the habit of looking downward.

This power is work! And its application is to work through.

Many never get through; find through, complain through. But the real rulers, the leaders, create through. Here are those who sow and reap and accumulate the outstanding knowledge and substance behind — work through.

It's not the easiest way. Sometimes you have to go through stone walls — walls that look absolutely impossible and impassable. But there is a way to get through it. That is the way of work through them.

Work is a healer. Work is a bolsterer. Work is the sun and the substance of what it pays. Work is the soil of. What you are in doubt as to the best next move, the right step to some useful job — and by the time you have worked through it, the chances are that your path will have cleared. Work through!

While the year is young, while newer things are bedding, while so many are doing their best to get started, it is the best behavior and to even up what has been worn down through years of war and sorrow, you do your part — take the cue — work through.

The local and visiting Kinsmen will honor the world champion Belleville McFarlands at a "Meet-the-Mac" luncheon on Saturday at the Hotel Quinte, where Arthur V. Piggott, Toronto, will be the guest speaker.

Chief speaker of the convention will be Col. Charles O. Dalton, DSO, president, the Canadian Bronzeries, Toronto. Col. Dalton, will address the convention on Friday evening.

Col. Dalton was long associated with the Canadian Bronzeries Ltd. before he was appointed to his present position in 1951. He served overseas with the Queen's Own Rifles, was wounded and won the DSO. He was appointed Lieut.-Colonel in 1944, returned to Canada the next year and commanded the Canadian Small Arms School at Long Branch.

The Kinsmen will feature the convention with one of their famous parades, and they have spared no effort to make this one the best yet.

Some 83 "items" will form the cavalcade which will leave the Bridge Street armories at 2.30 p.m. Saturday.

Kinsmen Harry (Senator Claghorne) Rollins, has been named the grand marshal with Harry Abbot the standard bearer. Four bands, the RCAF, Preston, Lang's Pipe Band, Jack's Clown Band and the Tweed Pipe Band, will supply the marching rhythms.

Four motorcycle groups, those of Dorothy Dix, Gail Hendricks, Brenda Archer and Freddie Smith, will add their exciting color, while clowns, floats and other parade items will complete the show.

One of the features of the parade will be the Belleville Kinsmen float which will feature the club's many projects, particularly its new auto driving school.

Dr. Whitton Says Elementary School Teachers' Skills, Pay Should Equal H.S. Standard

Elementary school teachers' training and remuneration should be at least as high as for secondary school teachers, Ottawa's colorful, witty and out-spoken ex-mayor, Charlotte Whitton, stated last night.

Dr. Whitton, well-known lecturer, social worker, newspaper columnist and radio broadcaster, made the statement in a lengthy address to some 200 members of the Women's Teachers' Association of Hastings Group 2, (which includes Trenton, Sidney and Thurlow township), at their annual spring dinner held at the Club Canara, last night.

"I've argued this point for 20 years as a social worker and a teacher." Miss Whitton stated in emphasizing that public school teachers' training and salaries should be commensurate with their great responsibility in building good character in Canada's future citizens.

A country and government built on "good, strong character," are "indestructible," she said, and added that education is the basis of good character.

"Teachers should realize they can't form character in an individual or in a community which is in ignorance. Serfdom of the mind is a prelude to all serfdom," she stated.

Since elementary school teachers are in charge of the country's future citizens in their early formative years, Dr. Whitton stated, they have a greater task and responsibility in moulding good character than do secondary school teachers. She added high school teachers receive only a fraction of the total elementary school enrolment anyway.

The speaker noted in Russia teachers receive a salary comparable in their importance to doctors, and are therefore among the highest paid in the country's labor force. As an example, she stated Russian elementary school teachers receive a salary 16 times that of a semi-skilled or unskilled worker.

On the subject of what to teach, the speaker, who graduated from Queen's University A. with an M.A. in English and history, stated children should be taught self-discipline, good reading habits, the ability to think and reason for themselves, and to express themselves correctly verbally and in writing. They should also be taught responsibility, to have an "open mind" on any subject, and to realize the "history of the past is the basis of the future."

The former executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council also issued a challenge to today's women to take a more active part in the country's affairs, particularly in the political field.

"Women today are not rising to their responsibilities," she stated in noting there are only five women in the Senate, three in the House of Commons, and none in provincial legislatures east of Saskatchewan. She emphasized women, throughout Europe, in Africa and Asia, and especially in Russia, are working in partnership with their men, in full equality.

She returned from a special U.S. report on Russia there is a heavy female representation in the Soviet parliament. She said that one-third of the collective farms are run by women, that half the university instructors in the USSR, and 70 per cent of the medical students are women.

Dr. Whitton, who spent six weeks in Japan last winter as a government observer at an international conference, said there is a large percentage of female representatives in the Japanese parliament, although Japanese women have had the vote only 10 years.

In tracing the emancipation of women in North America and the important changes in the social and economic life which resulted, Dr. Whitton urged women to take on an even greater responsibility in the moral and educational fields today.

"Today women are the greatest force a country can boast," the speaker stated, saying that one-half the civilized women throughout the world (one-quarter of the labor force) are employed in the professional occupations.

She noted the high percentage of married women either returning or continuing to work after marriage, and from the larger percentage of women in the older age group presently employed.

Also the speaker, a native of Renfrew, Ont., was introduced by the association president, Mrs. Ines Sunderland, who chaired the meeting, and thanked by Miss B. McKibbon.

Head table guests were introduced by Mrs. Sunderland, and included association executive members and committee chairmen and special guests, Hugh O'Neil, president of the English-speaking Catholic Teachers' Federation, and Mrs. O'Neil; Roy Marshall, of Madoc, president of the Men Teachers' Association, and Mrs. Marshall; and Mr. C. Ireland, principal of the school of Breadner (Air Force) School.

Mrs. Sunderland, in charge of the meeting, past president Mrs. Betty Beate was presented with a gift on behalf of the association by Thurlow president, Mrs. M. Wannamaker.

Director, Miss Mary Huff, gave a brief address of greeting to the guests, of the board of directors, and also presented information on the local teachers' courses, conferences, and university seminars.

A short humorous skit satirizing the status of teachers, entitled, "Mamma Listens In," was presented.

Mrs. Kenneth Crews sang two solos, "Prayer of Love" and "The Little Brown Owl," accompanied by Mr. W. Leonard, music supervisor of Breadner School.

Prior to the lovely turkey dinner, prepared and served by the C.N.R.A. Auxiliary, grace was said by Mr. C. E. McMullen, inspector of Hastings No. 5 and Northumberland.

Citizenship Week Proclaimed at Rotary Meet

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde officially proclaimed the commencement of Citizenship Week at yesterday's dinner meeting of the Belleville Rotary Club. A very interesting program planned by Harold Parker, was experienced by those in attendance.

Robert Tulley Chambers, a 17-year-old Grade thirteen student at Albert College was selected as the representative of the young high school students of this area and received a Junior Citizen of the Year Award from the local Rotary Club. In introducing Mr. Chambers, the Rev. Andrew MacKenzie mentioned that the selection was made by representatives from all public, private and separate secondary schools in the area and that the recipient had shown initiative and thoughtfulness in his activities at Albert College. A project undertaken by this student was an experiment to show other students what it was like to be blind. A large number of Albert College pupils went through their normal daily routine blindfolded in partaking of this experiment. Judge J. C. Anderson presented a trophy for the occasion and mentioned that the youth being an honor boy was but representative of other young people in the community who show the qualities of good citizenship.

Mr. Chambers accepted the award with the remark that he felt it should go to a person whose name rather than whose home away from home was in Belleville. He thanked those who were associated with him at his school and the selection committee who had awarded him the honor.

Lee Grills, M.P., introduced the guest speaker for the occasion, Mr. Arthur Maloney, Q.C., M.P.

Commenting on the occasion of Citizenship Week, Mr. Maloney felt that it serve to conjure up a sense of national pride in being a Canadian. Then delving into the main theme of his address, the constitution of new immigrants to Canada's development, the University of Toronto graduate, gave his reason as to why the peoples of Central and Eastern Europe were choosing Canada as their new home.

It is that Canada's history has been the development of a great country through the mutual efforts of two diverse races, the French and the Anglo-Saxon, in a state of harmony and goodwill. This background provides a natural setting for those of other countries to adjust to a new life and culture with harmony.

The benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada mentioned that he could not help but be impressed with the immigrants, who had come to Canada, with their fierce sense of pride and courage, which had not been diminished by the impressions which Canada and its way of life suffered. This country must rely upon "a vigorous planned policy of immigration" to keep the population which it requires to develop as a nation, stated the speaker.

Commenting on those who deprecate immigrants who fail to quickly adopt Canadian ways of life, the member of the Senate of the University of Toronto stated that new immigrants need the morale of their individual spirit of nationalism and retain some of their customs and habits in order to feel at home. Time will allow their integration into Canadian customs and manner of doing things to succeed. Their sense of independence is a valuable asset to Canada in giving a perpetual example of the vigilance necessary to oppose the advent o fsuch conditions as originally caused these immigrants to come to Canada.

Prejudice and racial bigotry stems from "ignorance through unawareness, commented Mr. Maloney. Once the tremendous wealth of talent which immigrants are bringing to Canada is recognized intolerance will disappear. Twenty-five per cent of our "population is foreign-born or the immediate descendants of immigrant, combined with the other two segments (French and Anglo-Saxon) of our national character will make for a strong nation, concluded the speaker.

Mr. Maloney was thanked by Mayor Hyde and Lt. E. MacKenzie. Others participating in the meeting were John McFarlane, who introduced Mayor Hyde; Harold Mott, who pinned a flower on the four birthday celebrants Art Young, Ab Wonnscott, Claire Morgan and Enos David. Jack Vanover was in charge of recording and Bill Morrison gave grace.

Baseball Kids Are Rounding Into Shape

Permission has been granted the newly formed Belleville Junior Baseball team to use the old Belleville Bats uniforms and coach "Cuffer" Noakes has asked that anyone who has one of these uniforms please turn it in.

The junior club was formed recently by Noakes and Vic Morris and after a month's practice has rounded into a strong outfit. Noakes and Morris are working at the present time to get the team admitted into the South Hastings Baseball league.

Plans are to have the team play in that grouping during the schedule then drop out at playoff time to enter the Ontario Baseball Association playdowns.

"We are doing our best to keep baseball alive here for the youngsters but it is not easy from a financial viewpoint" Noakes said this morning.

"Jack Carson has given us permission to use the Bata uniforms so we will not have to buy new ones. We are asking now that anyone who has one of these uniforms please bring it to one of our practices or to Vic Morris or myself", Noakes concluded.

One exhibition game has been arranged for the juniors this Sunday when they will do battle with Latta of the South Hastings League. The game will be played in Plainfield and will begin at 1:30 p.m.

The club's next practice is scheduled for Wednesday evening at the Fairgrounds here at 6.30. How about it fellows, that will be as good a time as any to turn in that uniform!

Hospital Day Tea Is Held By Auxiliary

Hospital Day, Saturday, May 9, again proved to be a very successful one, as a large number of interested citizens of Belleville and district made the conducted tour of their hospital to see for themselves "how" it operates and "why" it is responsible for its smooth functioning.

After the various departments had been visited, the guests retired to the nurses' residence, where a delightful afternoon tea was served by members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. At the door to greet them was the president, Mrs. R. Burley and the director of nursing, Miss Doris Smith.

Presiding at the tea table were: Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, Mrs. E. Buchan, Miss Nell Merry, Mrs. W. H. Dickens, Mrs. J. H. Forrester and Mrs. F. Beeby.

Those who served included: Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, Mrs. F. W. Shand, Mrs. E. L. Scott, Mrs. R. H. Hall, Mrs. J. C. Young, Mrs. William Gault, Mrs. R. H. Greene, Mrs. H. L. House, Mrs. H. Vincent McLean, Mrs. Harold Arnott, Mrs. A. J. Wolfenden, Mrs. Arthur Simpson, Mrs. Louis Maraskas, Mrs. L. G. Irvine, Mrs. Kenneth Douglas, Miss Irma Panter and Mrs. G. Tripp.

Tea room attendants were: Mrs. H. J. Fuke and Mrs. Herbert McCabe.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Ben Safe and Mrs. an Kvrgic.

During the entire afternoon, very pleasant background music was played by Mrs. A. V. Barclay at the piano.

An added attraction this year was the placing of booths in the Board Room, at which convenors of the various projects of the Auxiliary were stationed to answer questions which might arise. These, under Mrs. J. E. Buchan, director of public relations, created much interest and were a source of much valued information.

On hand at the booths were: hospital volunteers — Mrs. Dave McDonald and Mrs. J. D. Scott; membership — Mrs. M. F. L. Jones and Mrs. N. C. Mackie; coffee shop — Miss Nell Merry, Miss Ivy Dickens and Mrs. K. G. Duesberry; opportunity shop — Mrs. F. Beeby, Mrs. J. C. Young and Mrs. J. B. Casey; puppets — Mrs. E. L. Scott, Mrs. William Gault and Mrs. E. H. Hall.

At the conclusion of the afternoon, prizes were presented to the winners of the essay and poster contests.

BIRCH TEA

A favorite backwoods "tea" in early days was made by steeping birch leaves and twigs, with root bark, in hot water.

WMS of Presbyterian Church Opens Convention in City

By GLADYS WARD

For the first time in its long history, St. Andrew's was chosen as the host church for the annual council meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church in Canada. The Western division includes the provinces from British Columbia to Quebec.

Receiving the delegates on Monday afternoon were Mrs. R. D. MacLean, Mrs. Vernon Way, President of the Kingston Presbyterial, and Mrs. Frank Farnsworth, President of the afternoon auxiliary. Mrs. J. Miller and Mrs. W. J. Mills were in charge of registrations. Tea was served to the delegates as they arrived in the afternoon.

The theme of the Council was "Consecrated Living" based on the verse, from Chronicles, "Who then is willing to consecrate his service?"

Rev. R. D. MacLean, B.A., B.D. minister of St. Andrew's church, opened the evening service with prayer and welcomed the delegates. Speaking on the theme of consecration, Mr. MacLean said that many people do not live full.

"David had made great preparations for building the temple," said the minister. "When his offer was turned down he did not withdraw his contribution. A leader who calls on his people for sacrifice must set the example. Resources alone are not enough, it takes work to build a church. You who are carrying a large share of the work of the church have your hands full. Many will give money but not services. David threw out the challenge, "Who is willing to consecrate his services?" It took forty-six years to make the temple the thing of beauty it became. Today the church is desperately in need of workers who will invest themselves, and will look for no discharge until the end of time. The kingdom of God will come only with self-giving. We get so wrapped up in the mechanics of living, with business, that we forget to give ourselves. We may get rest in the work but not from the work; we need to get our hands full. So the building grows."

Dr. Harold Williamson, baritone soloist was accompanied by Mr. Egerton Boyce in a sacred song.

Mrs. A. Glenn Thompson of Toronto, national president, constituted the council with prayer. Roll call was conducted by Mrs. Lance B. Beath.

BRINGS GREETINGS

The Moderator of the General Assembly of Canada, the Very Rev. John D. McNab, M.A., S.T.M., D.D., was introduced to the congregation by Rev. R. D. MacLean. Dr. McNab spoke of the great privilege he considered it to bring greetings from the highest court of the church.

"We are greatly interested in all your plans and work for the extension of God's kingdom."

The Moderator told his audience, "You have been constantly aware of the challenge presented, and have carried forward the banner of the Cross. I trust that a fresh outpouring of God's Holy Spirit will carry forward the extension of His work. We are all facing great questions as missionary-minded people of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in the future of the world. We know there are chaotic conditions in the world today, but it is a challenge to the people of faith.

"We live in a wonderful age of mass communication with radio, newspapers, television and streams of books. It is a day of responsibility and a day of opportunity, a day when evangelical missionary zeal ought to be incomparably better than it has ever been. I am fully conscious that it depends on consecration in a great task, that it is only as we offer God our whole life that we are honoring deeply what we are called on to do.

"That is the sky in which to know what we believe. Religion is dynamic, revolutionary, not atomic power. The Christian religion is not a tranquilizer, and not an easy religion. Many lands are fighting for freedom of religion, and from these tortured lands is coming a great witness. We want to see that our freedom is perpetuated.

"During the past eleven months it has been a wonderful experience to me to see our work in nine provinces. The church is expanding its borders and being enriched. It is refreshing to see student ministers playing a great part in the church. The church has been penetrating into new territory and suburbs. God's kingdom must be expanded with men, women and children need the church.

NEW ENTHUSIASM

"One of the most thrilling things to see was the new promise in awakened enthusiasm of the men who are carrying Christ into their vocations. The church is on the march. God's cause is not a lost cause, we are building structures that will last. We have an unfinished task and a duty to proclaim the gospel. Our nation has perhaps the greatest potential of any nation."

PEACEFUL CO-EXISTENCE — Nothing could be friendlier than the relations between these two natural enemies, pets of 15-year-old Barbara Smith of Fredericton, Penny the cat and Lily the mouse are inseparable companions who play, sleep and do tricks together. The mouse seems uneasy away from its feline friend and its favorite spot is between the cat's paws. (CP Photo).

CABINET POST

First Canadian woman to hold a cabinet post, the late Mrs. Tilly Rolston was British Columbia education minister in 1952-53.

Girl, Cat, Mouse, in Favor Of Peaceful Co-Existence

FREDERICTON (CP) — The story has it but girls are afraid of mice and mice are afraid of cats.

But 15-year-old Barbara Smith, 146 The mouse and Penny the cat are rugged individualists. None is afraid of the others, and all are in favor of peaceful coexistence.

The cat was the first to show her individuality. In her seventh year stay with the Smith family she had never shown any interest in mice, vilainous or otherwise.

Then Barbara brought home a mouse she had obtained from the biology laboratory of the University of New Brunswick here. The little white mouse, named Lily, immediately took a liking to Penny the cat.

ALWAYS TOGETHER

Now the three are one big happy family. Cat and mouse do tricks together under the guidance of Barbara. They are inseparable. When Barbara takes Penny outdoors, Lily dashes after them, and the cat and mouse eat and sleep together.

In moments of relaxation Lily's favorite resting place is between Penny's furry white paws. The Persian cat has no objection to the mouse's frequent absent-minded nibbling on her sharp claws.

One of their favorite tricks is a trapeze act by which Penny holds in her jaws the support of a swing from a birdcage. Lily does tricks on the swing and bobs back and forth in show-business fashion.

Barbara says the mouse seems to "feel more secure" with the cat alongside.

Bringing about this happy arrangement was not made without some misgivings, but even Barbara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Smith, are pleased with the results.

The installation ceremony of officers for the coming year was held with Mrs. Cochrane, the retiring president, conducting the ritual.

Mrs. J. A. Pringle presented Mrs. Cochrane with a gift in appreciation of her untiring efforts during her term of office.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE WMS

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the church hall on Wednesday afternoon with 14 ladies and two children attending.

Mrs. Charles Wood, president, welcomed all and read a lovely Mother's Day poem by the late Helen B. Anderson.

After the opening hymn, Mrs. Gordon Alexy, group leader, took charge and gave the call to worship. All sang a hymn.

Miss Sara Stickney read the Bible lesson from Luke 10 and Mrs. Alexy the commentary on this passage.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey read "Changing Customs in Japan." Mrs. Alexy closed the devotional with prayer and thanked her group for its help.

Mrs. Wood thanked Mrs. Alexy and her group and took charge of the business. The secretary read a note from Mrs. Claude Clarke for cards, calls and flowers while she was in Belleville Hospital. A card of thanks for cards of sympathy was read from Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wescott, at the time of their mother-in-law's death. Mrs. Elmer Vivian also sent thanks to all who sent cards at the time of her brother's death.

An invitation was read and accepted from Carnilton WMS to meet with them at their church on May 7.

Mrs. Will Ross gave the treasurer's report. It was decided to buy sugar and to be made into sheets. Used clothing is needed to send to the sale and prizes are still requested. Used cotton is urgently needed to be used for bandages in the leprosy colony. A shower of remnants, preferably cotton remnants, to be used to make cushions, is asked to be brought to the June meeting.

Offerings were dedicated with prayer by Mrs. Wood, meeting the missionary for special prayer, Miss Jessie Oliver, of Vancouver.

Mrs. Alexy, assisted by Mrs. D. Hinchey and Mrs. Gerald Stratton, served delicious refreshments.

MISSION BAND MEETS

RAWDON — Mrs. Barry McAdam was in charge of the May meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Mission Band held at the church hall with 26 children and three adults in attendance.

The president, Kalvin Sharp, gave the call to worship. The theme hymn was sung, followed by repeating the Mission Band Purpose. The group sang, "Will Your Anchor Hold?" and Nancy David read the Bible lesson, after which the leader offered prayer. Brenda Gilmour bell gathered the offering which was dedicated by Barbara Williams. The secretary presented her report and the honorary and annual members answered roll call. One fee was paid.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen was in charge of the study. She told the group when they have finished with the book, "Ten Pairs of Shoes," they will then proceed to study Africa, and the juniors will read "New Magic."

She referred to "The Children's United Nations," as found in April "World Friends." Eighty-two countries are joined together in the United Nations in New York. Close to 240 pupils attend school together and these boys and girls learn to work and play together even though they don't speak the same languages.

The story was based on 'Charley,' a Negro boy who lived in the United States. He was a valued member of the Boy Scout troop of his church and he was the only Negro boy in the troop. The story tells of his adventures at a ball game and later Charley was chosen by the ministers of the town to ride on the festival float.

Articles were read by Brenda Campbell and Sally McAdam from "World Friends." Donna Knight and Shirley Potts each contributed a piano solo.

The leader read an article from "Journeying With the Years," outlining the theme, "practise the music of kindness."

"Kindness is like music. It is one of God's loveliest gifts to the heart of mankind. It can bring peace and comfort and great happiness. Boys and girls everywhere can be kind to friends, neighbors, strangers, folks of other races, colors and religions, and thus they will further the cause of peace."

The service closed with a children's hymn followed by a period of recreation.

C.W.L. Appoints New Officers, Plans Events

CAMPBELLFORD — The annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the club rooms this past Wednesday with a good attendance. The Rev. J. C. Hickey, spiritual director, was present and requested that the 1958-59 officers remain until next year, at which time a whole new slate of officers would be incoming. Mrs. Joseph Smith presided at the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Andrew Clarke, C.W.L. president, who is presently in Hamilton, B.C. Mrs. Leo Doherty acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. William Masterson.

Mesdames Smith and Doherty will convene the "Chinemilk Tea" this month in the club rooms. Mrs. R. Kelleher will have charge of the tea tables. Mrs. E. Collins the home baking table and Mrs. F. McEvoy the variety and candy table.

NEW MOTIONS

Many new motions were introduced and unanimously; one that in future a High Mass of Requiem will be said for a deceased member; that a member or any member of the parish who is ill in the hospital or home for a period of four or five days would receive flowers. The members were reminded that the annual Diocesan convention of the C.W.L. will be held the first week of June at Huntsville.

A special drive is to be held to secure members to the C.W.L. and at the present time group leaders are asked to encourage subscriptions to the Register Magazine, a Catholic weekly.

Officers for the 1959-60 term are: immediate past president, Mrs. Peter Monaghan; president, Mrs. Andrew Clarke; 1st vice - president, Mrs. John Cleary; 2nd vice - president, Mrs. C. W. Long; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. Leo Doherty; recording secretary, Mrs. William Masterson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Kelleher; treasurer, M r J.AinSh.i 'soffS er, Mr. J. Smith.

Ladies will be appointed to the various convenerships at the next meeting.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

"LORD, GIVE US GRACE TO LISTEN WELL"

One of the most endearing and rewarding habits you can have . . . or can cultivate . . . is to listen with a bright, eager attention and interest to the person who is speaking to you. Elegant ears are so often more important than an eloquent tongue! Keep your expression (particularly your eyes) lighted, your listening-enthusiasm lighted, and you'll see and feel the magic effect your good-listening will have on the person who is speaking. And this is true whether the person is speaking only to you, or to one or two others, or even to a larger group.

GIFTS TO WEDDING ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would you like to give some suggestions to several of my dearest friends and me for appropriate gifts for us to give to our attendants? If we're not asking too much, will you also give us some suggestions to pass on to our prospective about the gifts appropriate for them to give to their attendants? We all thank you. Brenda Stewart

— Grateful Readers

Yes, Ma'am . . . indeed I'd like to give you some suggestions about these gifts!

Suggestions of appropriate gifts for the bride-to-be to give to her attendants: a piece of jewelry (real or costume), for example a clip or pair of clips, or pin, ring or bracelet; a gift with attendant's birth stone), earrings or necklace and bracelet (very popular presents today!); vanity-case or compact; daytime purse, or evening bag; comb-in-case, perhaps with small ornament on top of case, for evening bag; cigaret case; wrist watch; locket; charm bracelet, or appropriate charm for bracelet; cosmetic ornament, travel clock, or folding clock for dresser or desk; towel box; guest or silver short key-chain, with initialed tag; gold or silver bill clip (initialed or monogrammed); mirror-in-case, for evening bag; pen and pencil set, or either plain or fitted over-night bag, or dressing-case; photograph frame, perhaps matching, or to contain, the bride's wedding photograph, or a photograph of the wedding party; or if candid camera shots of the wedding and reception are to be taken, a photo album for all or some of these.

Note 1: Sometimes the bride gives a somewhat more important present to her bridesmaid than to her brides-aids.

Note 2: Very often the bride makes a point of choosing presents that can be engraved or marked with the names or initials, and perhaps the date of the wedding.

The groom may give his best man and ushers: cuff links; silver or gold pencil; gold or silver key-rings or key-chains; silver or gold bill clip; pocket wallets; collar pins; tie clasps; pen and pencil sets; wrist watch; silver or gold pocket knives; belt buckles; evening dress sets; combination knife-and-pencil; cameras; small radios.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and the Family Counsellor. Each week one of these case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Jane R. — She should ignore her mother and marry the man.

Sylvia K. — I'd be between the devil and the deep blue sea.

Jane R. — If you're trying hard to help my good friend Sylvia, who is making a mess of her life because of a domineering mother.

Sylvia is 33 and has never been married. For the past eight-years she has been the sole support of her mother who watches her on every step. Her mother even sits around and chaperones if Sylvia brings a friend in at the end of a date. It is hard to believe things like that go on in this day and age, but with Sylvia they do.

Now Sylvia has an opportunity for marriage. This man has been divorced twice, but he is a real nice guy with a good job. Sylvia's mother has nothing good to say about him. She has even threatened to kill herself if Sylvia goes through with this thing. Sylvia knows as well as I do that her mother won't kill herself.

Sylvia K. — It's true that Mother would probably never carry through her threat to kill herself, but I wonder whether I have the right to put her through all this agony. Divorce to her is the most awful thing in the world. She was brought up in a family in Europe and has never adjusted to American ways.

If I married this man, I just don't know what I would do about Mother. I can't leave her by herself and she wouldn't live with Sylvia and me. I know I would be torn between the devil and the deep blue sea.

The possibility of marriage seems very exciting to me now that I'd just about given up all hope. I don't know whether I'll ever get another chance. Jane keeps telling me I've just got to break out of my shell. I want to . . . and yet . . .

The Council: Jane appears to be a good and sympathetic friend, but she should recognize that nobody can solve another's problems. The attempt to do so could make matters worse.

We agree that Sylvia's situation with her mother is terrible and that she should break out of her shell, but that doesn't mean that this particular marriage is the best thing for her.

Sylvia herself seems to see the marriage as the one hope for her to break out of her prison. Well, that just isn't so. She might very well marry and find herself in an even worse prison.

Sylvia doesn't speak of the man himself at all — only of her feeling of desperation and her worry about her mother. Perhaps she doesn't view divorce with her mother's eyes, but she does also recognize that divorce is not a trivial matter. A man who has failures in his background has some fairly serious problems. A frightened and overprotected girl like Sylvia has little chance of working against these odds to make a successful marriage.

Sylvia must recognize that her problems cannot be solved by taking a desperate gamble — no matter how much may urge it. Sylvia's problem calls for careful thought, firmness and courage. She is not entirely dependent upon her mother than she realizes. She must outgrow this by recognizing that she is an adult and that she has rights and responsibility for her own life.

Sylvia should strive for a normal social life and she should insist upon the degree of freedom that is befitting a woman of her age. She now takes refuge behind her mother's domineering skirts. When she learns to stand on her own feet, she will find that her mother is not all-powerful and that the world still holds many opportunities for happiness.

Desserts Different But Not Difficult

by Mary Moore

Candidly toodying to the "sweet tooth" of the beloved young members in your and my family my sister and I have come up with three toothsome beauties for Maple Almond Parfait, Butterscotch Bars; and a Pineapple Chiffon Pie sound to your cooking ear?

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY (Hearty)

Broiled Minute Steaks; Steak Sauce; Quick Duchess Potatoes (see Monday); Canned Shoestring Beets; Celery Hearts and Cheriber; Broiled Grapefruit Halves or Sliced Oranges; Crackers and Cheese; Coffee.

I was impressed with the speed with which I stirred up the Butterscotch Bars. The Maple Almond Parfait is simple and straightforward too. The flavor of both is sensational — but too rich to be served together, of course. Serve the Butterscotch Bars with a Citrus Fruit Cup.

MAPLE ALMOND PARFAIT

Beat 3 egg whites with ¾ teaspoon salt until stiff. Meanwhile heat 1 cup maple syrup just to boiling point. Slowly add maple syrup to stiffly beaten whites while beating constantly until cool. Fold in ½ cup whipping cream which has been whipped until stiff and ½ cup chopped toasted almonds. Freeze in refrigerator trays until solid. This does not require stirring.

BUTTERSCOTCH BARS

In the mixing bowl over hot water barely melt ½ cup butter or margarine and 1 cup butterscotch chips. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 cup well-packed dark brown (or light sugar, (Beat in 1 egg. Sift together ¾ cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt and add. Stir in ¾ teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup chopped walnuts, pecans or cashews (or ½-3 cup each walnuts, cashews and cocoanut). Spread smoothly in buttered and floured 8x8x2" square pan and bake 25 minutes or until when lightly touched, a slightly indentation remains. These must not be overbaked. Cut into 18 bars. Store in layers between wax paper in covered box.

PINEAPPLE CHIFFON PIE

One teaspoon gelatine, ¼ cup sugar, divided, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, separated, 1½ cups pineapple juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2-3 cup icy cold evaporated milk, whipped (see note below), 1 9" baked pastry shell, strawberries for decoration. Mix together gelatine, ¼ cup of the sugar and salt in saucepan. Beat together egg yolks and pineapple juice; add to gelatine mixture. Place over medium heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine and sugar are dissolved and mixture thickens slightly remove from heat and lemon juice. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add remaining ¼ cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold in gelatine mixture; fold in whipped evaporated milk. Turn into baked pastry shell. Chill until firm. To serve, garnish with pineapple spears and sliced strawberries. Note: To whip evaporated milk, chill in freezer tray of refrigerator until ice crystals form around edges. Turn into chilled bowl; and whip with rotary beater or on high speed of electric mixer until stiff.

Continuing Canadian Aid To Ceylon Under Colombo Plan Regarded as Essential

Canada's aid to Ceylon not only meets a definite need but also helps Ceylon's international independence. It is shown in this story by Russell Elman, former Canadian Press staff writer now touring the Commonwealth.

By RUSSELL ELMAN

COLOMBO (CP) — After the first eight years of the Colombo plan continuing Canadian aid today is regarded as essential to Ceylon's future development.

"Canadian aid has made a valuable contribution to the rebuilding of our nation," said Finance Minister Stanley de Zoysa. "We need definitely need this assistance."

Canada's annual $2,000,000 grant represents about 20 per cent of total foreign aid to the island. If Ceylon was compelled to do without it, de Zoysa suggested in an interview, it might be inclesingly difficult to resist pressure to solve economic problems by expropriation of tea estates and foreign-owned businesses without compensation.

WESTERN LINK

Others, including former premier Dudley Senanayake, say withdrawal of Colombo Plan aid would force Ceylon to turn more to the Soviet Union and Communist China.

The official government view welcomes aid from any source, provided there are no non-financial strings attached. Acceptance of Russian aid is considered no more an approval of Communist ideology than receiving $2,000,000 annual American assistance is means endorsement of U. S. foreign policy by neutralist Ceylon.

Russia has made no free gifts but has provided Ceylon with a long- term 12,000,000,000 - rouble credit on easy terms, which can be repaid in kind — presumably Ceylon's traditional exports of tea, rubber and coconuts. Soviet technicians and jungle-clearing machinery now are at work on a sugar cane project at Kantale and further Russian assistance may be given for dams, irrigation, a metallurgical plant, tire factory and flour mill.

Communist China, which for some years has been exporting rice to Ceylon in exchange for rubber, recently gave Ceylon a long-term $10,000,000 loan at 2% per cent interest and plans to install a prefabricated cotton mill.

A large Chinese industrial exhibition, displaying a diversified range of products, and a Chinese film festival were held in Colombo.

Czechoslovakia and West Germany have also sold equipment for major projects on a credit basis. The United Nations usually gives $430,000 in technical assistance.

As aid from either side of the Iron Curtain pours into Ceylon both Prime Minister S.W.R.D. Bandaranaike and Trotskyist Opposition Leader Dr. N.M. Perera advocate a wider international economic planning. While recognizing the value of aid programs such as the Colombo Plan, they urge closer economic ties among Afro-Asian countries to supplement, not supplant, existing arrangements.

"We cannot have collaboration at a political level without trying to achieve as far as possible a greater international co-operation at the economic level," Bandaranaike said in a speech during Prime Minister Diefenbaker's recent visit.

"It is no use our pursuing cut-throat economic policies of one country against another country."

As to the actual form of foreign assistance, Bandaranaike said in an interview that Ceylon prefers cash for long-term loans on easy terms, but naturally is pleased to accept aid in flour or materials as given by Canada under the Colombo Plan. He appreciated this method was more available to Canada.

So far, Canada has avoided cash loans but in 1958 she gave Ceylon a $2,000,000 loan in flour at 4½ per cent interest, repayable in seven annual instalments from September, 1961. At the same time an additional $400,000 in flour was donated for irrigation works, most of that covering the interest on the loan.

"It is just as well that we make our aid on an outright grant or gift basis now and thereby keep ourselves clear of controversy that might arise in years to come over refunding of aid debts," said Nik Cavell, Canadian high commissioner to Ceylon and former administrator of Canada's Colombo plan program.

In the immediate future, the major problem is to tie in Canadian Colombo plan aid with Ceylon's new national development plan. The plan, expected to be published shortly, is designed to meet a spiralling demand for more employment opportunities and better living conditions.

"If the program is to keep pace with the actual demands of our rapidly increasing population, it must be of a magnitude and speed which our own resources cannot possibly sustain," said de Zoysa. "It is there that assistance play a vital role."

LONDON (Reuters) — The Labor party Sunday conceded losses of 322 seats in municipal elections held throughout Britain last week.

Exhausting Algerian Dilemma Essentially Same Despite Work Done By de Gaulle

By ANDREW BORDWING

ALGIERS (AP)—It has been nearly a year since frustrated French officers in Algeria raised the standard of revolt that brought Gen. Charles de Gaulle to power in France.

Now, while de Gaulle has made strides toward settling many of the problems besetting post-war France, the exhausting dilemma of Algeria itself remains essentially unchanged.

The hard core of independence-minded Algerian Moslems is still tucked away in the hills carrying its war and campaign of terror through the fifth year.

FRANCE IS ONE

The million-odd European settlers, only a tenth of the population, still look for total integration with France under the slogan "The 10 Million people of France like the Seine" crosses Paris.

The French Army in Algeria, tied down by what it feels is an aimless war, still is restless and determined that Algeria will not turn out to be another Indochina.

Even the vast Algerian European students stormed the streets in sanction building in Algiers. The army took over and de Gaulle emerged as the symbol of the revolt to "keep Algeria French."

But this weird, intoxicating night of political demonstration bred hope and confusion, which were never fulfilled. Now doubt and uncertainty hang over Algeria, especially over the European settlers.

FEAR NEGOTIATION

De Gaulle's Fifth Republic has not given formal backing to the idea of integrated Negotiation with the rebels still is a prospect and, to most Europeans, negotiation could mean only Moslem independence.

Algerian independence and a Moslem government undoubtedly would mean the gradual expulsion of many Europeans and the decline of European influence in the country.

It is the vision of refugee ships jammed with and crowded living conditions in the rain-drenched cities of France that haunt the Europeans of Algeria.

It is the prospect of hundreds of thousands of unemployed Frenchmen from Algeria—most of them used to a high standard of living —that haunts the French governmost.

POLITICAL THREAT

"These people would not only be an economic problem," says a French official. "They would become a political problem and a threat to the government."

Algerian integration means political integration, not social and racial integration, but the Europeans honestly want this kind of union with the 8,000,000 Algerian Moslems.

Almost every adult European of Algeria belongs to a right wing political group pledged to keep Algeria French.

A few weeks ago, as the result of a demonstration against Premier Michel Debre, the government let it be known it would deport 50 right - wing leaders. Eight major European organizations warned against it. No one was deported.

"They knew we would paralyze the country with a general strike," comments one of the leaders. "For 10 man deported we would throw 20,000 demonstrators on the streets."

FIGHT FOR SURVIVAL

Says one prominent Algerian right winger:

"It is more than a political movement. This is a movement for survival. And when one fights for survival, one does not joke."

What of the Algerian Moslems? In the minds of some French men, most Moslems side with France. Their autumnal vote in last September's constitutional referendum is cited as proof.

To the leaders of the rebel National Liberation Front, the mass of the population is behind them. "How else?" they ask, "could we continue the rebellion for so long?"

OFFICERS DISILLUSIONED

Many officers in the French Army are said to be hostile, toward de Gaulle, even though they helped put him in power. Their major charge against de Gaulle today is that he has remained enigmatic on Algeria. He has not backed the idea of integration. He has fostered talk of negotiation with the rebels.

Another French political observers do not believe there will be any major army revolt against de Gaulle's government.

"Last May," they say, "the army revolted not against the government but against the lack of government. After all, France now has a stable government for better or for worse."

But a highly - placed psychological warfare expert in Algiers is of a different opinion.

"The Fifth Republic is not made of steel," he says.

Bomarc Program Extravagant Say Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress have accused the U.S. Air Force of waste, duplication and extravagance on its still untested new Bomarc missile.

In testimony made public Saturday by the House of Representatives appropriations committee, the air force estimated it will have spent up to $8,000,000,000 on the Bomarc and its related anti-aircraft control system by mid-1963.

Committee members contended that the Bomarc program largely duplicated the army's Nike system of short-range defence missiles, that the new-model Bomarc is untested on targets with supersonic speeds and that the cost of the program is excessive.

The Bomarc is an unmanned surface - launched air defence missile manufactured by the Boeing Airplane Company of Seattle. It is designed for area defence against enemy aircraft and air-to-ground missiles.

It is operated through a semi-automatic ground control system (SAGE) which computes target information and launches the ram-jet missile by remote control.

Questioned by committee members, air force officers said they had tested the model-A Bomarc against only one target firing at supersonic jet speed and had missed. But they said that on subsonic aircraft such as the Second World War B-17 bomber the Bomarc had repeated successes.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The lukewarm receptions given the Boston Bruins and New York Rangers in most European centres are causing certain hockey men in Canada to wonder if newsmen covering the recent world tournament were "in their cups" or merely padding their yarns.

As "one who was there, Charlie," stories of the hockey fever that was plainly evident in Czechoslovakia were not exaggerated one iota.

And we readily believed Ike Hildebrand, Billy Reay, and other members of the McFarlands when they told us open-ally and other stadia in the countries where pre-tournament exhibition games were played, were filled... some of them to capacity.

The Rangers and Bruins are playing to disappointing crowds, according to overseas press reports. In some places the attendance has not exceeded seven and eight hundred. Switzerland, it is stated, provided the best attendance in the opening games of the tour.

London's Wembley stadium was filled with British fans, some of them with blue blood coursing through their veins, when the Maes met and defeated the London team. The visiting pros drew some 1,200, 2,000 short of the expected box-office. However the main reason for this, it seems, was the pounds-that-be upped the prices at the last minute, and London's hockey fans "just plain boycotted the joint."

Actually, this observer believes that the real reason or part of it, is the fact the Rangers and Bruins are playing a brand of hockey that smacks strongly of the international type as played by European squads.

Canadian fans will recall the simulated "horror and indignation" that spiked the stories of European journalists after they spectatored the first few games played by the McFarlands in their exhibition tour.

If you had read between the lines of some of these stories, it was the journalists who were unimpressed by the Canadian style, and only in one or two instances, the fans.

We believe that underneath the European fans' whistling and booing reception of rough Canadian tactics, they actually liked it.

We witnessed first-hand the reception given the Canadians before the Czech iron curtain. The fans booed and whistled at the first bodychecks thrown by the Canadian defence. They would have cheerfully strung up Al Dewsbury at the nearest tree after that first game, but at tournament end in Prague, he could have had the mayor's job if he so desired.

After one game when the Macs were assessed but three penalties foreign journalists invaded their dressing room and inquired as to why players with the query, "What's wrong? You no play good."

In the second period of the Canada-Czech game in Bratislava, which the Macs won 7-2, the Canadians hit the foe with everything they had in the second period when they scored six goals. True, they got the boos and whistles from the home-town crowd, but they were roundly cheered as they skated off the ice.

Twelve thousand rocketed the stadium with their cheers and whatnot when the Russians defeated the Czechs. This game drew fifteen penalties, and produced four fights.

The milk-toast hockey being played by the Rangers and Bruins—and who can blame 'em—is not the brand the Europeans expected. They have heard lots about pro hockey in Canada and the thought probably was, if the Canadian amateurs are this bad or good, what must the pros be like?

They expected to see the knock-em-down drag-em-out type—and they are not getting it. Add to this the high prices being charged by the promoters —and you have the answer.

This is substantiated by a statement by Lynn Patrick, Bruins manager, who is on tour. He said, "The fans here want bodychecking. We found that out in Geneva. For two periods the crowd was pretty quiet. Then we told the referees to let 'em go, and the teams to start hitting. You should have heard the crowd. It was just one loud uproar."

And the tab at the Swiss games was 35 Swiss francs. The rate of exchange when we were there was 4.25 per dollar. Figure it out. Over eight bucks a seat. No wonder they wanted some action.

Oriole Quartet Responsible For 12 of Club's 15 Wins; Wacky Dodgers Squeeze In

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Memo to baseball fans in Los Angeles: Your Dodgers are now back to normal — coming from behind, booting the other club ashead, then scrambling from behind again only to lose the lead before winning an 11-10 ball game on a squeeze bunt in the ninth. And all in a little more than 3½ hours. Yep, these are the Dodgers.

That's exactly the way they beat Philadelphia in Los Angeles Monday night, staying within a ballgame of Milwaukee's National League leading Braves with that 11-10 decision.

The Braves gained their lead the easy way, belting the Chicago Cubs 8-1 in an afternoon game as San Francisco's fourth - place Giants also breezed, walloping Pittsburgh 12-3.

PERFECT BUNT

Norm Larker put down the bunt that brought in the winner for the Dodgers. Don Demeter had opened the ninth with a double against losing reliever Jim Hearn (0-1). A couple of walks, sandwiching a sacrifice, loaded the bases and Larker then bunted perfectly on the first pitch by Phils' fifth pitcher, Jim Phillip.

The Phils had come up a 3-0 lead in three innings against Dodger starter Stan Williams, but Los Angeles tied it in the seventh. Then the Phils scored six in the fifth.

The Dodgers got three more in the fifth, a tying three in the sixth and took the lead for the first time, 10-9, in the seventh against Dick Farrell. But winning reliever Art Fowler (3-2) gave up a tying home run by pinch-hitter Jim Gentile in the eighth. It was Freese's third hit of the season—all pinch homers.

The game took three hours and 38 minutes, but five minutes short of the NL record for nine innings.

FOUR UNEARNED RUNS

The Giants were off and running with four unearned runs in the fourth against loser Bennie Daniels (1-1). They got six in the ninth, with Bob Schmidt socking his second two-run double of game. Jack Sanford (2-2) was the winner.

Bob Buhl gained his first victory for the Braves. Johnny Logan and Ed Mathews hit solo homers off loser Moe Drabowsky (1-3). It was Mathews' 12th, tops in the majors. Hank Aaron was 2-for-4 for the Braves, lining a triple and double while extending his hit streak to 17 games and adding a point to his league-leading average—.386.

Boxing Club Card Promises Lots of Action

Jack "Rocky" Lucas will be gunning for his second victory before hometown fans here Wednesday night when he meets Toronto's Richard Oliver in the main event of the Belleville Boxing Club card.

Oliver, of the Toronto Athletic Club, has had a number of fights at the Palace Pier and is said to be an excellent boxer who should provide a real test for Lucas.

This main bout will be over five rounds on the eight - bout card which gets under way at 8.30 at Memorial Arena.

In the semi-final another pair of boys with plenty of promise will hook up in a five - round affair. Barry Parsons, a Belleville youngster who impressed greatly in a TKO victory here last week ago, will match blows with Yvon Daigle of the Toronto Y.

Local boxing brass are following Parsons' progress keenly since he is young and strong and so far has shown signs of a great future. Daigle will prove a tough test for Parsons.

In a special five - round bout Oshawa's Grant O'Reilly, a crowd favorite in his other appearance here, will tangle with Toronto's Charlie McIntyre. O'Reilly is said to be one of the toughest lightweights in the district.

Five preliminary bouts are also scheduled.

Belleville's Terry Bonnet meets Toronto's Tommy Doucette in the 135 pound class. Bruce Polman-ter, of the Belleville club, will tangle with Colin Fraser of Toronto. Tommy Cross, another Belleville boxer, will clash with Toronto's Joe McCormack in the same weight class. In the 149 lb. division Oshawa's Al Brown will trade punches with local scrapper Ben Hubbs. Another Oshawa fighter, Art Robinson does battle with the Belleville club's Bob Cole.

Whip, Kiniski Renew Feud Here Friday

Whipper Billy Watson and Gene Kiniski renew their hostilities here come Friday night.

Whipper felt he won the British Empire title last Friday — but officiating deprived him of the honor.

Kiniski says he can flip Watson any place, any time, any where, officials or no officials.

It is not known whether Kiniski will bring his Flying night buddy Bert Maxwell with him this time. Neither does Whipper.

In any event, Marse Frank Tunney is sending down some men-in-white to see that things are on the up-and-up, up-and-down-and.

What could happen is that both wrestlers take on a referee, tender him bore-do-combat, then stage a battle of their own without benefit of interference.

That would be quite a brawl. It will be quite a scramble anyway since the Whip is determined to smith back the crown and Kiniski equally determined to hang onto it.

Popular Jardine, the Moncton boy, is back again against the veteran Abe Zvonkovic while Jack Laddin battles Wally Sieber.

Andy Bathgate Named MVP Won't Quit Hockey for Golf

EDMONTON (CP) — Andy Bathgate, New York Rangers' brilliant right winger who was League's most valuable player in Monday, has apparently given up any idea of quitting hockey for professional golf in the immediate future.

The 26-year-old Winnipeg native told a reporter Monday night his battered legs, which gave him consideration to bow out this season, are in good shape and he doesn't intend to play pro golf this summer.

He added that he plans to forgo an operation on his jimmy knee in the hope of getting in a full season of hockey in the coming winter.

Several times last season there were reports that Bathgate was thinking of giving up hockey for golf, in which he shoots in the low 70s.

EXTRA $2,000

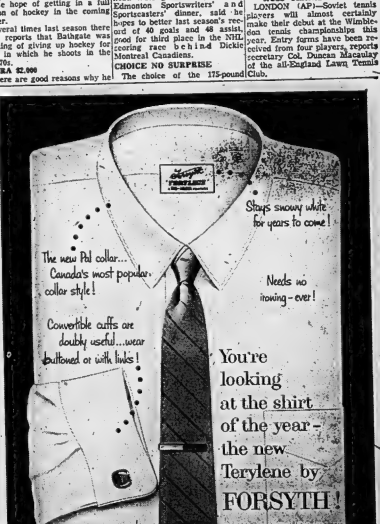
There are good reasons why he should choose to devote at least one more season to hockey. In addition to his regular salary, he picked up an extra $2,000 for winning the Hart Trophy, announced Monday night in Montreal, as the most valuable player and for gaining a first-team berth on the all-star team.

He said he may still decide to turn to golf in 1960 depending on the condition of his legs. If his legs should be reinjured during the coming season he would then undergo an operation.

Bathgate, who was here as head table guest at the annual Edmonton Sportswriters' and Sportscasters' dinner, said he hopes to better last season's record of 40 goals and 48 assists, good for third place in the NHL scoring race behind Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau.

CHOICE NO SURPRISE

The choice of the 175-pound Calgarian as most valuable player came as no surprise. He had a big edge over runner-up Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks' four-time winner, in the first-ball balloting and extended it during the second half.



On the basis of five points for a first-place vote, three for second and one for third, Bathgate had 125 points compared with 69 for right-winger Howe. Bellevue was third with 36 and Terry Sawchuk, Detroit goalie, fourth with 34.

The previous season the trophy went to Howe with Bathgate second.

Andy, who plays with a silver plate in his left knee and a steel brace protecting the right, lives in Vancouver during the off-season.

Patterson, as champion, will receive 40 per cent, and Johansson 20 per cent. Patterson already had been guaranteed a minimum of $200,000 and Johansson $100,000 of the gate receipts.

TIPED TO CANADA

Irving R. Kahn, teleprompter president, said the closed circuit TV would be piped into 200 or more locations in the United States and Canada, with a total more than 300,000 seats available.

The record for such a telecast was set for the second Ray Robinson - Carmen Basilio middleweight championship fight March 1958, when nearly 400,000 spectators viewed the fight in 174 locations, with receipts of $1,464,000.

Rosenkohn said that late Sunday night he received a telegram from Nate Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, indicating Halpern was ready to put $450,000 for the attraction's rights. Rosenkohn said the deal with Teleprompter already had been made.

Halpern said he had been told by Rosenkohn Sunday that the bids were still open, and that sealed bids would be accepted.

'Sugar' Offered Half Million ...d Oil Well

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson has been offered at least $500,000 and perhaps an oil well to defend his middleweight championship a g a inst Ivory Gimabra this fall, a promoter says.

Promoter Hugh Stone and business manager Barney Weinstein of Dallas Sports Enterprises made the offer to the middleweight champion by telephone over the weekend, they said Monday.

But they asked Sugar Ray to sit until next Monday before he answers. Gimbara will fight Harry Jones here Monday and the offer depends on a victory by Gimbara.

Robinson, idle since his last defense against Carmen Basilio in March 1958, has had his title taken away by the National Boxing Association.

The fight would be in October during the state fair of Texas in the 75,000 - seat Cotton Bowl. Dallas Sports Enterprises would appeal to the NBA to sanction the fight as a championship bout.

One Fighter Yvon Likes Is Durelle

CARIBOU, Me. (CP) — Yvon Durelle allows he's no hand at boxing but contends none the less that when he meets Archie Moore again in July, Arch might as well stay on his stool.

The Bale Ste. Anne, N.B. fisherman divested himself of this and other opinions of his ring prowess Monday at an hour-long press conference. Durelle is here to fight Tinker Picot of Dorchester, Mass., tonight.

The scrap is to keep Durelle busy before the title rematch with Moore, who knocked some strong punishment before flattening Durelle in 11 rounds at Montreal last December.

ANSWERS ALL

Durelle didn't evade any questions.

Tony Anthony? "I beat him in Detroit (the official version was a draw) and in New York an Associated TKO victory I couldn't see him. I was blind with food poisoning."

"Patterson? I fought him twice and he doesn't scare me as long as he is waiting. When I hit him they go down. I'm afraid they are dead. Then I get scared."

"Moore? When I fight him again he might as well stay on his stool. As soon as he gets up he is going down. He gets all the money. Why shouldn't I get the title?"

"Pico? The last time I fought him I was behind four rounds before I hit him and until the fifth I never threw a punch. I was catching too many. Then he got close and open. That's the way Yvon likes them."

Palmer Wins 17th Major Golf Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Former Masters champion Arnold Palmer today won the Oklahoma City open golf tournament with a final-round 69 and a 72-hole total of 273.

It was the 13th major championship for the Ligonier, Pa. sharpshooter in a five-year professional career. He won the $3,500 first prize with a 15-under-par performance over the par 36-36—72 Twin Hills Country Club course.

Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., finished with a 67 for a 275 total and runnerup honors. He was one stroke ahead of young Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif. who had 276.

Palmer's putting was sour through the early stages of the final round but he rolled in key putts on the 16th and 17th holes. This enabled him to maintain his edge over the ever-challenging Goalby who pocketed second money of $2,300.

Jacobs, who was Palmer's chief threat off the tee in last 18 holes, finished with a two-under-par 70 for $1,800.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Freddie Haas Jr. of New Orleans tied for fourth at 277 each and picked up $725 each. Leonard shot 72-70-73-71 and Haas 71-70-70-66.

Jerry Magee of Toronto finished out of the money.

50 YEARS OF AMATEUR GOLF — Ada Mackenzie, with an age of 66 and a handicap of five, is one of five Canadian women amateur golfers who are slated to play in British Columbia women's amateur golf tournament in England this month. This will be Ada's fifth try in 30 years for the British title and although she has been close she has never won it. Since she first won the Canadian women's open in 1919, she has picked up four more Canadian open crowns, five Canadian closed titles, seven Ontario, two Bermuda and 20 Toronto and district matches. Here she's seen receiving one of the many trophies that decorate her Richmond Hill, Ont., home. (CP Photo).

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ada Mackenzie will tee off in the British women's amateur golf championship in England this month. This would be common place news except that Ada is 66 and held the ball 200 yards off the tee, as far as she did 50 years ago when she won her first tournament.

Probably just as amazing is that she has a handicap of five, which means a round of 78 or 79. There aren't many women golfers in the country who can drive the skylight plump Ada or who shoot below the high 80s.

"I'm going over to England just for the fun," Ada said in an interview shortly before she left Montreal with five other Canadian women golfers. "I'll be happy if I can survive a couple of rounds in the Amateur."

The other golfers are members of Canada's team in the first Commonwealth tournament. They are Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto; Mary Gay, Calgary, Rae Milligan, Jasper, Alta. Rosa Neundorf is the alternate on the team.

BIG TOURNAMENTS

They will play first in the Wentworth international invitation tournament May 19 - 21; the British Amateur at the Ballybunion Golf Club May 25 - 28 and the Commonwealth tournament over the old St. Andrews course in Scotland June 2 - 6. Miss Mackenzie is entered only in the amateur.

Ada, who says she is making the trip "to boost the kids along," will make her fifth appearance in the Amateur in 30 years. Her best won it, although her most gallant bid was made in 1953 when she was 60 years old.

"I thought I had a real good chance," she recalled. "I got to the fourth round and just missed out on a semi-final spot when I got into trouble on a par-three hole. I flubbed my chances right there."

But Miss Mackenzie hasn't "flubbed" many chances since she first hit the jackpot with victory in the 1919 Canadian women's open tournament. She has been digging divots in courses of the world since and the trophy room in her home in Richmond Hill, just north of Toronto, is stacked with silver plate.

Since her 1919 triumph she has added four more Canadian Open crowns, five Canadian Closed titles, seven Ontario, two Bermuda, 19 Toronto and district and last year won her fourth consecutive Canadian seniors championship.

HELPS YOUNGSTERS

She has kidded her way around just about every course in Canada, has entered the United States amateur championship 19 times and has offered sound advice to up-and-coming youngsters including Mrs. Streit who won the British Amateur in 1953 and the U.S. Amateur in 1956, the only Canadian to win these titles.

Tangy comments attributed to Miss Mackenzie, who wouldn't look out of place pouring tea and suggesting that you try some of her home-baked chocolate cake, are legion among women golfers.

Years ago, women were under the showers and flitting about recently draped in towels when a peep voice bellowed:

"Where the hell's the soap?" Women squealed and ducked for cover. It was only the forthright Miss Mackenzie having fun with her partner.

Greaves Loses To Zalazar

NEW YORK (AP)—Victor Zalazar of Argentina floored Canadian middleweight boxing champion Wilf Greaves in the 10th round to gain a unanimous decision in a St. Nicholas Arena upset Monday night. Zalazar weighed 160½, Greaves 163.

Referee Teddy Martin said he was ready to stop the fight when the bell sounded. Zalazar had battered Greaves to the canvas for an eight-count. When Greaves arose, Zalazar tripped into him with both hands and had him reeling.

Referee Martin had Zalazar ahead 3-1 on points going into the 10th round. Judge Jim Forest scored it 7-3-1 and Judge Charley Rosen 8-2 for the Argentine boxer. Zalazar connected with many more solid punches than Greaves.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Tuesday, May 12, 1959

tory for Zalazar, who had compiled 15 straight knockouts before losing twice to Cuba's Benny Paret and then fighting a draw with Joe Lacy of New York in his last start.

Greaves suffered his 12th setback in 40 fights and his third straight. The 33-year-old Brantford-born Canadian, who lives in Windsor, started strong but was unable to match Zalazar's fast-mill attack in the last three rounds.

Red China May Cause Olympics Row

NEW YORK (CP) — President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee says the IOC's next meeting may develop "into a big dispute" over Russian efforts to get Red China back into the Olympics.

Brundage told the Metropolitan Track Writers Association Monday the Russians have asked that this matter be placed on the agenda at Munich," when the IOC meets there starting May 23 and lasting five or six days.

Brundage said:

"If you will recall, the world's basketball tournament at Santiago, Chile, last winter ended in a big fiasco when Russia and Bulgaria refused to play the Nationalist China (Formosa) team."

The Russians—undefeated and who would have won—were disqualified with the Bulgarians.

COULD BE READMITTED

Brundage said that Red China had been admitted to the IOC and could have taken part in the 1956 Melbourne games but refused when Nationalist China took part.

He said Red China could be admitted again by following the Olympic rules calling for no discrimination between race, religion or political belief.

Brundage leaves Wednesday for Rome to attend a meeting of officials from about 50 countries to make final plans for the 1960 Olympics in that city.

From Rome, he will go to Munich for the IOC meetings.

PICK 1964 SITE SOON

The site of the 1964 Olympic winter and summer games will be decided either May 25 or 26, Brundage said. Detroit, Brussels, Vienna and Tokyo are bidding for the summer games. Innsbruck, Austria; Calgary, and Lahti, Finland, are seeking the 1964 winter Olympics.

Best Seller 'Ugly American' Will Be Made Into Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Should Hollywood show the face of The Ugly American to the world?

There have been indications that some movie executives don't do not want the Eugene Burdick-William L. Lederer best seller filmed. They fear that the novel, which attacks handling of American affairs in southeast Asia, would put the U.S. in a bad light overseas.

But Universal-International has purchased rights to The Ugly American and assigned George Englund to produce. A handsome articulate young man, Englund feels strongly about the story.

"I spent three months in southeast Asia," the producer remarked. "I was absolutely appalled at bungling by our officials over there. For, the most part, they live in compounds and seldom come in contact with the people of the countries.

"I came back convinced that we weren't engaged in a cold war with the Communists in that area because a war indicates combatants on both sides. We're just pumping aid to people."

Englund said that the issue of The Ugly American boils down to this: That we are not sending our best people as representatives to those areas. He said what the authors had in mind, he said, was an attack on the principle of foreign aid.

"The book has been used by isolationists to attack foreign aid," he remarked. "But when I was in Washington recently, many of the internationalist senators told me they thought the book was excellent and should be filmed. They feel, as I do, that this will help us to get Americans people to the need for better foreign policies."

But what will foreigners think of a movie that puts the United States in a bad light?

"This is the only place left on this planet where you can make a movie that is critical of the country," Englund said, "I think it will impress foreign audiences that we can point out our faults."

He said "The Ugly American" is constructive at the end, where the authors make a pitch for better administration of our policies and added that he would incorporate the pitch into the entertainment aspects of the film.

Ravine Deal Has Council In Turmoil

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The city's latest move to clear out Chavez Ravine for the Los Angeles Dodgers' proposed baseball stadium and recreation park threw city council into a turmoil Monday night.

Charges of anarchy, comparisons with the Spanish inquisition and Hitler's Germany, as well as a demand that Mayor Norris Poulson attend the next council meeting "or be dragged if necessary" heated the atmosphere. The meeting was out of town on business.

The hectic session developed when the council tried to air complaints of a Mexican family whose ravine home was destroyed by city bulldozers last week.

Police reserves were called in to the council to guard against violence.

Some 300 people, mostly sympathizers for Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Arechiga and their family, attended.

The city, which has agreed to build the $12,000,000 stadium and park, began condemning all land in the ravine long before the Dodgers decided to move here from Brooklyn. The Arechigas were officially evicted in 1953.

But they have refused to move until they get the $17,000 they believe their home is worth. The city offered them $10,000.

Councilwoman Rosalind Wyman, one of the city's most ardent Dodger boosters, was the object of catcalls and boos every time she tried to speak. She left the council chambers, visibly upset.

A son of the Arechigas called her "a blackhearted woman."

Mrs. Wyman said she had been personally threatened since the Arechigas' two houses were fire-bombed. She named no one and was given police protection.

Councilman Edward Roybal, who has taken up the Arechigas' cause, called the destruction of the two houses, a "reminder of the Spanish inquisition and Hitler's Germany."

Repeats and More Repeats Summer Fare for TV Fans

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — If, from now through September, you have the uncomfortable feeling that you've seen just about everything on your TV screen before, don't be alarmed—you have.

This summer, even more than in previous years, warm weather is reruns time on the TV networks. And if one is a creature of habit, there is no way to miss a flood of reruns in which you'll know in advance who rustled the cattle, or Moonlight Graham will know who fired the fatal shot.

There are, however, a few bright spots in the programing schedules. For instance, the pleasant Jerry Show, summer replacement for Dinah Shore, will be back on Sunday nights, with Janet Blair and John Raitt. The Ed Sullivan show will be on as usual.

Teresa Brewer and Tony Bennett will star in Almanac on Saturday nights to fill in for Perry Como. But in place of Steve Allen there will be a bunch of film repeats of another season's "suspicion" series.

AMATEURS FOR MURROW

One of the more curious bits of summertime programming is the decision to replace Edward R. Murrow's Person to Person on Friday nights with Ted Mack and the Original Amateur Hour. And, in a pleasant switch, the Arthur Murray Party, heretofore a perennial summer replacement is so firmly established now that it too will indulge in the repeat-show activity. There will be a musical show taking over for Lawrence Welk and his crew. Pat Boone's show will also be off for the summer, but what will fill his time has not yet been announced.

The panel and quiz shows will, for the most part, stay on with new shows—or no new—and there are a few new film series around which will run with new shows through the summer largely because they haven't been around enough to come up enough repeats. Milton Berle and his Music Hall will move out to make room for a British comedian named Dave King.

Lovenguth Off To Fine Start With Columbus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus' Lynn Lovenguth is off to a flying start to become the Richmond League's 20-game winner this year. The little right-hander won No. 6 Monday night and is better than half way toward bettering his 1958 production.

Lovenguth tossed a six-hitter as Columbus defeated Miami 5-1. In other action, Richmond scored four runs in the top of the 13th inning to defeat Havana 5-4; the Rochester cooled off Buffalo's four-game winning streak, 6-2, Toronto and Montreal were not scheduled.

Lovenguth had an 11-14 record with Rochester and Columbus in 1958. This year he has yet to go to Buffalo. He has yielded 56 hits and 25 runs in 53 2/3 innings. He has struck out 32 and walked 25.

Miami pitcher Jim Archer had the better of it for six innings, pitching perfect ball until Ken Hamlin opened the seventh with a single. He scored on Joe Christopher's triple. Christopher scored on Jim McDaniel's groundout.

YISONI SPARKS VEES

Jim Pisoni, just arrived from the Milwaukee Braves, opened the 13th with a triple to spark the Richmond rally. He scored on Mike Baxes' fifth hit, a single. When the Vees loaded the bases, starter Miguel Cuellar was relieved by Reid Sanchez. An error and Fritz Brickell's double scored three more runs.

Ben Flowers dueled with Custer for 10 innings. Flowers was lifted for a pinchhitter and John James won, pitching three - hit ball the rest of the way.

Bob Keegan and Gay McClain limited Buffalo to five hits. Rochester got three of its four hits off loser Dick Bunker in the third inning for three runs.

SUPPORTS CANADIAN LINE

President Frost told his Lakehead audience an all-Canadian oil pipeline must be built and would come to the area to help stimulate late new industry.

He said he had hopes of success in his effort to keep the Canadian Pacific Railway plant from closing at the Lakehead.

"Much . . . depends upon the results of discussions which I hope next two months," he said. "I can assure you I am very hopeful the situation here and at Avro."

The premier's reference was to the A. V. Roe Canada Limited plants in suburban Toronto which laid off 15,000 workers when Ottawa cancelled the Arrow interceptor program.

Mr. Frost said he was sure that United States and British companies would also participate and permit construction of aircraft under lease. The project would help both Canada and Avro, he indicated.

The tourist industry of Northwestern Ontario, he said, would be greatly increased by International bridges proposed for Fort Frances and Rainy River. These would give U.S. tourists quick access to the holiday areas.

OVATION FOR LEADER

At one point in his Kitchener speech Mr. Wintermeyer shook his fist as he declared:

"This will be an all-party campaign. This is a fight to the finish—make no mistake about it."

He received a standing ovation from his audience and a tribute from former premier Hon. Leslie Frost, Mr. Nixon said Mr. Frost was the greatest man who has gone to the front for many, many years in Ontario."

Mr. Wintermeyer was one of six persons nominated in Ontario ridings Monday night, bringing the total so far to 209. They include 73 Conservatives, 64 Liberals, 62 CCF'ers, 10 from the Labor - Progressive (Communist) party and one Independent.

NOMINATED

Also nominated:

W. A. Stewart for the Conservatives in Middlesex North, a seat he took in a by-election 20 years ago.

Miss Ruth Donohue, a Sarnia fisherman, for the Liberals in Kenora-Rainy River.

Garnet Brown, chosen by the Conservatives in Dundas, Mr. Nixon's seat;

Ernest Coughlin, a Barrie salesman who will run for the Liberals in Simcoe Centre;

Robert E. Sandercock, who will seek his fourth straight victory under the Conservative banner in Hastings East;

Official nomination day is Thursday, May 28.

lock or up and down in the locks. The line can move easily from the dock.

Some ships have been using the more clumsy cargo winches, contrary to seaway regulations.

Mr. Hees saw 33 ships waiting to enter the seaway.

He said that should either wheat mills requiring ore stockpiles for winter operations or grain movement become endangered, the question of whether to give priority to Canadian ships "would have to be reviewed."

GRADUALLY LEARNING

Canal officials fear a rush of ships from Lake Erie into the canal's Port Colborne entrance could cause a tie-up at that end too, but they added that overseas shippers are "learning the ropes" and traffic is becoming more smoothly.

Ships are awaiting shipping lines from $500 to $1,500 a day.

Another complaint heard in Hees' tour is a shortage of lake pilots to take overseas vessels from Lake Ontario through the canal into Lake Erie and through the St. Clair River to Detroit.

The dispatcher's office at St. Lambert, Que., where ships should 20 pilots, has refused to comment.

After returning to Ottawa Mr. Hees said the situation was "not serious" and that Mary Welland canal would be able to handle shipping adequately this year once the rush is over, he said.

Capt. R. Scott Misener, president of Scott Misener Steamships Limited, said his firm has been behind its contract to deliver iron ore and grain and "won't be able to catch up" because of the Welland delay.

He feared a serious situation for the A. Hannah Company in Cleveland unless additional shipments of iron ore can be delivered.

Aspen Conference Expected To Attract Large Delegation

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian image in graphic art will speak to visitors at the world's most important design conference this summer.

About 150 examples of what Canadians are doing in applied graphic arts—newspaper fashion advertisements, booklets, posters and animated films—will be displayed.

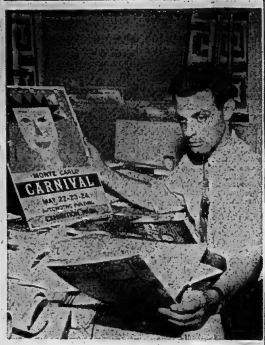
One artist, whose work is included in the Canadian exhibit, called the Aspen conference as it is known, "the most important thing of its kind."

The annual Aspen conference is expected to attract some 750 artists, architects, designers, social scientists and businessmen from all over the world for lectures, seminars and the large graphic arts exhibition.

Toronto designer Arnold Rockman will direct the Canadian display of work by 56 Canadian artists and designers. He received a $5,000 Canada Council grant to finance the project—to collect, select, mount, ship and set up the exhibit at Aspen.

A four - man judging panel helped Mr. Rockman select exhibit items from about 1,000 pieces entered.

When the selecting job was finished, Mr. Rockman said here that the result was "fairly representative of where Canada stands in graphic art at mid-century."



"The exhibit also demonstrates . . . that it is possible for a government to act as an enlightened patron in a democratic society. This is a unique achievement."

The exhibit includes the work of artists and designers for the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the National Film Board the National Gallery and the National Design Centre.

Graphics experts say that a NFB animated film on fish spoilage control, for instance, should be a thought-provoker. It is an imaginative approach to what could be a dreary story on a dull subject.

Among other things, the Canadian exhibit will show some of the work done in Canada that is not also done in the United States.

With its display of magazine spreads and illustrations, annual reports, labels, books and photographs, the Canadian exhibit also is an attempt, to show that graphic art in this country has come of age and that the best work is of the highest calibre.

ORGANIZES EXHIBIT — Toronto designer Arnold Rockman examines some of the 150 examples of Canadian graphic art which will go on display at the International Design Conference at Aspen, Colo., June 21-27. The newspaper fashion advertisements, booklets, posters and animated films are the work of 56 Canadians. It is the first time Canada has been invited to participate in the annual conference. Mr. Rockman directed the display, collecting, selecting and mounting the items. (CP Photo).

READ — The annual meeting of the Alter Society was held after mass on Sunday. The reports were read and adopted. The slate of officers was returned for another term, as follows: president, Mrs. Percy Callaghan; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Mary Callery; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Dennis Kehoe.

The executive of the C.W.I. is reminded that there will be a meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Steve Brenner, on May 17, at 3 .m. All executive members are asked to attend if at all possible.

Sorry to hear Mr. Charles Meagher has not been too well. All wish him a speedy recovery.

Woman Named For Lonely Fire Tower

UPSALA, Ont. (CP) — The watcher at the lonely fire tower near this community 100 miles west of Port Arthur is a woman, the first to be appointed to the post.

Mrs. Georgina Mytymok, 29-year-old widow, says the isolation doesn't bother her. She's used to being alone since she took over the working of the farm which she and her husband operated until his death last year.

The compensations are a two-room abode at the foot of the 70-foot tower and the pay of $235 a month. The lower is to be replaced by one reaching 108 feet.

Five Killed In 2-Car Crash At Severn Bridge

Police Believe Driver Of One Car Fell Asleep

ORILLIA (CP)—Five persons, two men and three women—were killed today in a head-on crash between two cars on Highway 11 near Severn Bridge about 15 miles north of here.

The driver of one of the cars was identified as Dale Seaman Thomas Allan Rees, 21, of Saint John, N.B.

Police have withheld names of the victims in the other car pending notification of relatives. They are believed to be a Cochrane, Ont., family of father, mother and two daughters.

Police said they believe Rees fell asleep at the wheel of his car while rounding a curve.

Rees arrived here Tuesday with his father, by train, his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Alan Rees. The uncle is the local automobile dealer who was called to the scene of the accident.

Rees joined the navy in 1955, celebrated his 21st birthday last Saturday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Rees, of Chippawa village, two miles southeast of Niagara Falls, Ont.

He is survived by his wife Carolyn, now at Lunenburg, N.S.

Reports of the crash also came by telephone from his ship, HMCS St. Croix, berthed in Halifax.

Honduras Rebels Fail in Attempt To Seize Town

TEGUCIA G A L P A, Honduras (AP) — About 500 Honduran rebels were reported in flight today after an unsuccessful attempt to seize Gracias, an old trading center near the Guatemalan frontier.

The government said civilians helped troops rout the armed band when it attacked Gracias, the capital of Lempira state, Monday night.

In a two-hour fight, the government said, three rebels and three army men were killed and four soldiers were wounded.

The rebels split into two groups and retreated into the mountains. One was reported heading toward the El Salvador border, 40 miles to the south; the other toward the state of Intibucu, farther west.

The attack on Gracias was the latest in a series of incidents to spark a revolution since President Ramon Villeda Morales came to power 18 months ago.

Former Honduran Army officers have been named as leader of the rebels opposing Morales, who has proclaimed his government the first democratic constitutional regime in this republic in many years.

Earlier this year the government crushed a short-lived uprising led by Lt.-Col. Armando Valesquez Cerrato, former army chief of staff who fled the country in March.

Tibet Rebellion Appears to Be Dying Out

NEW DELHI (AP)—The rebellion in Tibet appears to be spent and it may already be dead.

Reports reaching Indian towns of Kalimpong and Gangtok indicate the uprising of Khampa Tibetans, which began in Lhasa late in March and early April, has been put down by the Chinese Red or guns of Red Chinese occupation forces.

The provisional government which the resistance forces proclaimed a month ago has not been heard from.

Refugees straggling out of the Himalayan land of the lamas picture it as held firmly under the Red Chinese heel by the regime's tenlined to prove they can rule without Chinese approval — and without the Dalai Lama if need be.

Refugees say the main reason the revolt failed was lack of weapons. Only handmade rifles and clubs of the Tibetan resistance to match for Chinese artillery and machine guns.

Reports published in New Delhi say that Lhasa itself has 10,000 refugees who have flocked into India and the border states of Sikkim, Bhutan and Nepal to escape. Many are believed to have been wounded in the fight.

Gyangtse, where the rebels were strong enough six weeks ago to capture the Red Chinese commissar at gunpoint, now lies in ruins after bombardment by heavy guns. One arrival from there said the huge monastery was under siege. He said that fighting had died to get clearance from Red troops before entering.

The informant said the Chinese are trying to win over the peasants by promising the abolition of better wages or a bigger share of the fruits of their labor. Many rich merchants were reported in prison.

Former Liberal Cabinet Minister Not in Favor

OTTAWA (CP)—A former Liberal cabinet minister Tuesday night opposed a proposal by a party colleague for the appointment of advisers to cabinet portfolios.

Senator William D. Euler, trade minister in Prime Minister Mackenzie King's 1935-40 cabinet, said parliament and the members of the elected House of Commons so they can be called to account for anything they do.

The suggestion he opposed was made by Senator Salter Hayden (L—Ontario) shortly before the upper house gave second reading —approval in principle—to a government bill for the appointment of 16 parliamentary assistants. These MPs, appointed to assist cabinet ministers, would be paid $4,000 a year in addition to their annual salary of $10,000.

In recent years government leaders in the Senate often have been ministers without portfolio but Senator Walter Aseltine, the present government leader, does not hold a portfolio.

Senator Connolly said more executive cabinet representation in the Senate would enable parliament to expedite its work. Such a step would permit more government legislation to originate in the Senate.

Senator Euler said ministers who were senators would not be accountable to the public for their actions. Senators were appointed, for life while members of the Commons had to have the confidence of the majority of voters in a constituency.

FINN TAKES LIFE, BELIEVING HE KILLED FRIEND

Wife and Children Coming to Canada

PORCUPINE, Ont. (CP) — A Finnish miner shot himself to death Tuesday, apparently in the mistaken belief that he had killed his friend.

Antti Kallikoski, 32, whose wife and children were scheduled to arrive from Finland by the end of the month, died with two .45-calibre slugs through his chest. Taxi-driver Hans Pantilla, a countryman, suffered a freak bullet wound.

HAD BEEN DRINKING

Police Chief Charles Evesse of Timmins Tuesday said the two had been drinking in a South Porcupine hotel just west of here. Accompanied by Pantilla's wife and brother, they returned to Kallikoski's home where all lived.

Chief Evesse said Kallikoski, once there, brandished the heavy - calibre handgun and Pantilla's brother-in-law took it from the house. Pantilla, fearful of the weapon, later attempted to hide it, but was shot.

DEFLECTED BY RIBS

The bullet struck him in the left side but was deflected by the rib cage. It ripped around the chest wall, then tore out and across the top of the right shoulder.

Kallikoski then fired two shots into his own body.

Pantilla was treated in hospital and released. An inquest was ordered into Kallikoski's death, but not yet held.

The police chief said Kallikoski may not have intended to kill his friend, that the four had been on good terms all day. He said he did not know why Kallikoski's family — believed his brother and three children — live in Finland.

TTC Will Buy 50 Buses From U.S. Firm

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Transit Commission has approved purchase of 50 buses from a United States company and the chief of the Canadian firm which quoted a price of $2,452 per unit lower.

The TTC operations manager, recommended the $32,- 600 buy from Flxible Motors on the basis that it was of a more modern design and the higher quality would mean lower operating costs.

Two models were offered — a $30,006 unit made by Canadian Car Company and a $31,760 unit by the U.S. Flxible firm.

Mr. Ingils said the Canadian bus was not acceptable because it was practically the same as those purchased in 1953 by the TTC. The GM vehicle featured a 6V-71 model diesel engine, automatic transmission and new styling.

MAY EXTEND TUNNELLING

Meanwhile, subway construction consultant Norman Wilson said some of the TTC's east-west subway may be tunnelled more cheaply than originally planned.

He was commenting on recent views expressed by mining engineers that the entire subway could be built easily and cheaply in bedrock—more than 100 feet below the surface.

He said the section of the subway running under University Avenue and Queen's Park would be tunnelled. "If this proves expensive in construction, there is no reason why other parts of the subway might not be undertaken in the same way."

English Soccer Loop Tries to Get Share of Fortune Bet in Pools

LONDON (Reuters)—The English Soccer League today won the first round in its battle to get a share of the more than $200,000,- 000 that Britons bet each season on its games.

A high court judge ruled that the league's schedule, used by pools firms in a giant sweepstake on the games, are copyright.

The league claims the pools firms should pay for the use of the schedules.

The judge said he had come to the conclusion that Littlewoods Pools, one of the biggest firms, and the one selected by the league for its action in the test case, "has been guilty of a piratical grab" of the league's schedule for its own use.

But he said he did not propose to grant an injunction for next season because Littlewoods might prepare its lists of games in a different way. If the firm scrambled the order of the games, he said, it might be argued that it had not infringed copyright and not reproducing the schedule.

A lawyer for Littlewoods said the decision would be appealed.

Natural Gas Investigation Introduced Into Campaign

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Last year's investigation of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company's operations was introduced into the Ontario election campaign Tuesday night as party leaders scattered across the province to step up the political pace.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald used the gas investigation as the basis for a personal attack on Premier Frost, charging the premier knew of former mines minister Phillip Kelly's involvement with the gas distributing company and had the legislature be did not.

Mr. Frost spoke to groups at Aitkokan and Kenora in Northwestern Ontario, dealing mainly with local issues and the improvements aimed at producing business and industry for the region.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer spent the day on a 15-stop swing through the Upper Peninsula, stopping at 11 points in Ontario and ending with a platform for the June 11 election.

Mr. MacDonald invaded the premier's home riding of Victoria to speak to 25 persons at a noonhour meeting in Lindsay. A larger audience, a community of about 200, 50 miles north of Peterborough.

Mr. MacDonald said: "Personally incorruptible" but must also be "politically wise" in the dealing with his party.

On three occasions Mr. Frost had denied in the House that Mr. Kelly was connected with Northern Ontario Natural Gas. But a subsequent investigation had revealed that Mr. Kelly, and two other cabinet ministers, who also resigned, were connected with the firm as stockholders.

He said it was difficult to believe Mr. Frost could have been telling the truth when he said he knew nothing of Mr. Kelly's involvement until the matter was brought before the House.

Investigation by a government-appointed group had shown that A. D. McKenzie, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Ontario and one of Mr. Frost's personal friends, had purchased stock in NONG. Mr. McKenzie had regularly eaten breakfasts with Mr. Frost during the time the premier was denying knowledge of cabinet involvement in the company.

A report of the investigation tabled in the legislature this year said there was no evidence that more than three cabinet ministers had bought stock. The report named 40 - odd persons who made profits totalling nearly $15,000,000 — the NONG promotion but that there was no indication of bribery of officials.

Mr. MacDonald also raked Mr. Wintermeyer, the Liberal leader, then the party's financial critic, had sat silent during the investigation debate.

In his Kenora address Mr. Frost spoke of encouragement of bringing natural gas to Northwestern Ontario "as fundamental" to the future growth of the held stock purchased from Mr. Kelly.

"As an opposition member had any responsibility to arise and say: Mr. Frost, you know, two I know because I bought stock

31 Killed in One Wreck, 2 in Another of Same Airline

BALTIMORE (AP) — Government investigators picked through the wreckage of a Capital Vicount turboprop airliner today to try to find out why it blew apart with 31 persons aboard late Tuesday enroute from New York to Chicago.

Forty-eight minutes earlier, another Capital airliner, a four-engine Constellation, had crashed over a 200-foot embankment at the Charleston, W. Va., airport, 300 miles to the west as it came in for a landing. It burst into flames, but no bodies were removed from the charred wreckage and six were taken to hospitals.

The Civil Aeronautics Board said it may not have investigators at the scene of the Baltimore crash to try to determine a price for the Viscount.

WEATHER SUSPECT

The weather may have played a part in both crashes.

The Baltimore-area accident occurred during a violent thunder-squall.

Civil engineers and others said they thought the plane was caught in a sudden severe updraft or downdraft which pulled off part of a wing. The fuel in the wing ruptured, spraying fuel into the burning engine. The quick combustion created instantaneous pressure, a low order explosion which tore the plane apart.

At Charleston, rain still was falling when the big Constellation plunged to earth. The pilot's plane seemed to turn before it struck the ground, then veered, and it tumbled off the brink of the hill and burst into flames.

Seven of the 72 passengers, Nancy Marshall, was credited with helping to save many others. She forced open a door after several passengers had been unable to push it open.

"It's not a door that swings out," she explained. "It's a sliding door. All I did was roll it back."

The tragedy near Baltimore came without warning.

Pieces of the airliner were scattered for more than a mile.

It took more than three hours for fire and police rescue volunteers to collect the bodies.

Studebaker Workers Strike At Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—Studebaker-Packard limited plant workers struck today in support of demands for higher wages.

The 490 employees, represented by the United Auto Workers of America (CLC', left the plant at 8 a.m.

They joined the plant to back demands for an extra eight cents an hour on top of the company's new contract offer of 18 cents over three years. The plant has been producing 48 cars a day to answer a strong demand for the Lark, a new model built by Stude-Lark.

It is the first strike in the plant's history.

The Studebaker contract dispute moved to swift climax with the arrival here of UAW assistant Canadian director Dennis Mackie.

He joined the negotiating committee headed by Paul Tuesday, meeting the company representatives for several hours and then made the strike call with UAW President Gordon Grundy.

'NO NEW OFFER'

Mr. Maclean said today his discussions made no progress today. "There was no new offer and there was "no use fooling around with it."

But, he said, the union was "available for further meetings if the company has any new proposals."

Mr. Grundy said he had been told by Mr. Maclean that he said that during his talk "which was not bargaining" with Mr. Maclean and other plant chairman Frank Morco Tuesday "a couple of points had been left on the air," which he had expected to be taken up during negotiations later.

The last agreement, setting wages through 1958, left an hour to 22.21, expired Dec. 31.

Immigrant Dies in Fire

MOUNT FORREST (CP)—Leslie Dann, 35-year-old Hungarian immigrant, was killed early today in a fire which swept through a two-storey frame house on a farm owned by his wife's father north of Kitchener.

The badly burned body was found near the kitchen sink where he had apparently been overcome by smoke as he tried to get water to fight the blaze.

Mrs. Dann, Hans Malgin who lived in the rear of the house escaped with her children.

Damage was estimated at $10,- 000. The cause of the blaze is not known.

Elections Act Made More Clear

OTTAWA (CP) — Enumerators poll clerks, deputy returning officers and returning officers in recounts would have to take oaths that they are qualified electors in federal ridings in which they act under amendments to the Canada Elections Act proposed Tuesday to the Commons elections committee by Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer.

The law now requires that the oaths be taken by qualified electors in the ridings in which they act but does not require that they take an oath to this effect.

INSURANCE FUND UNDER ATTACK BY LIBERAL MPs

Claim Starr in Contempt of House

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals have accused the government of proposing increases in unemployment insurance contributions to cover its mishandling of the insurance fund.

Spearheaded by Lionel Chevrier, Montreal-Laurier, and J. W. Pickersgill, Bonavista - Twillingate, they mounted their opposition to the government measure in Commons on several points, including claims that:

1. Finance Minister Starr was in contempt of Parliament because he "failed" to table a report of the Unemployment Insurance Advisory committee last August suggesting the government set a double 1ts share of contributions.

2. Finance Minister Fleming broke his pledge to maintain the April 9 budget speech the fact the government had loaned $20,000,000 to the insurance fund a few days previously.

3. The government now is making insurance contributors pay the cost of certain benefits from which the government unemployable such as those paying.

ONLY A TAX INCREASE

4. The proposed increases in premium would amount to nothing more than an increase of taxes.

5. The insurance fund lost $10,- 000,000 when Finance Minister by the fund were converted to the government's conversion loan bonds last year. The interest on the fund needed cash—were later at a loss to meet benefits because the new bonds dropped in price.

Both Mr. Fleming and Mr. Starr sat through the debate. The labor minister, Hon. Hugh Hall make use of the right to make the closing speech on this measure proposed under his name, was steadily silent. But Mr. Fleming made frequent interjections.

Both Mr. Fleming and Works Minister Green, government house leader, also raised points of order.

Reds Have Always Been Squares For Round Tables at Conference

GENEVA (AP) — When it right that the carpenters got comes to conference tables, Russians have always been squares — for round tables. They don't want their tables curving, with green cloth tops and a well in the middle to hold the ash trays green doughnut.

Round tables have a long history denoting equality of conference in the Anglo-Saxon world, King Arthur had one, and King Arthur and up through the famous London round table in the 1930s that brought Gandhi before the world.

The Russians got their wish at their foreign ministers' conference here Monday and they kept their manoeuvres is a question.

Business for this East-West get-together is being conducted around a circular table. There are the Communist satellites at the table but those in the background could conceivably get closer to a round table than to a square one if they wanted to speak up.

The table was knocked together by Swiss carpenters at the Palais des Nations in a matter of hours.

Western Ministers Becoming Fed Up With Red Tactics

Gromyko Wants Poles, Czechs Seated at Parley

GENEVA (AP) — The Western foreign ministers showed signs today of becoming fed up with Russia's insistence on adding more Red nations to the Geneva conference.

The indication came as the third session of the Big Four foreign ministers' conference started at 5:36 p.m.

Italian Secretary Christian A. Herter planned to use his power as today's chairman to try to open the East-West debate on German issues for which the conference was called.

He added privately they were not sure he could pull off this manoeuvre unless the Soviet campaign to seat more Communist nations ended.

A French spokesman said "we think this afternoon's session will be wasted" on further argument over Red Polish, Czechoslovak and Red Hungarian proposals to give Red Poland and Czechoslovakia seats at the conference round table.

The Western Allies rejected the Russian demand Tuesday, but Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko then, adjourned the session with a blunt political statement that his Polish-Czech proposals were undecided and remained before the conference.

RUSSIAN VIEW

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin told reporters Tuesday night:

"We consider that the success of the whole conference will to a large extent depend on the decision."

When a reporter asked about the possibility of Gromyko walking out of the conference if Poland and Czechoslovakia are not seated, Zorin called the question a little premature.

Western diplomats reported that the West has no intention of backing down on the issue. They offered a plan for admitting Poland, Czechoslovakia and one or more other nations can be invited to the conference later for discussion of such questions as European security measures.

NOT CONVINCING

Gromyko argued that Poland and Czechoslovakia should be invited because they were the first victims of Hitler's attack and because they border on Germany.

The Western ministers, rejected this argument as not convincing.

Responsibility for a German settlement rests primarily with the Four powers. They said many nations not just two—suffered from Hitler. Poland and the Low Countries were mentioned.

SHEEP IN CREEK

HARROW (CP)—A charge that someone has dumped dead sheep into Pleasant Valley Creek near here was made at a protest meeting of the Pleasant Valley Ratepayers' Association.

Residents blamed the Ontario department of health and the Ontario water resources commission. Donald Bartlet, association chief, said part of a shipment of 300 Canada apparently died and were dumped in the creek by a farmer.

Canada Will Not Participate in British Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada still not participate in a British plan to launch an earth satellite in cooperation with the United States and some Commonwealth countries. It was learned here.

An informant said that all of Canada's efforts in this connection will be devoted to supplying instruments for an American satellite scheduled for launching in California in 1962.

Britain announced Tuesday it plans to enter the space race with help from the U.S. and Commonwealth countries — among them probably Australia — and may attempt to put a 1,000- pound satellite in orbit with British rockets.

The Canadian government announced April 20 that the Defence Research Board will build some instruments for a scientific investigation on the upper atmosphere for the American 1961 satellite.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The British decision to launch earth satellites was welcomed by the state department. A spokesman expressed the hope there would be many opportunities for the United States to co-operate as the program develops, "thereby widening the area of bilateral technical co-operation in the peaceful use of outer space."

Turbines Do Not Fall in Category Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Production Minister C. O'Hurley admitted because they were the first victims of inflation in wartime and because they border on Germany.

The Western ministers, rejected this argument as not convincing.

JOHN R. BUSH BUYS HACKNEY IN UNITED STATES

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bush have recently returned from a trip to Taylorville and Springfield, Illinois, where they visited many of the hackney pony farms in that district and came home with a beautiful hackney mare to team up with the one that is now in the barn.

Mr. Bush stated that he had no intention of making a purchase on the trip as he and his wife were out for a vacation, but after looking at this mare on several occasions, it was just too much to pass up and Jack is not sorry that he brought the mare home. She is a perfect mate for the other mare and he will have a splendid team to take to the Royal Winter and Ottawa fairs as well as the several other large fairs in the district.

Gerard Miner of Audit Firm Now Acting City Treasurer

Mr. Gerard Miner, member of the F. A. R. MacFadden Company, chartered accountants, has been appointed as acting treasurer for the city of Belleville during the suspension of City Manager Drury S. Denyes.

Mayor Gerald Hyde said the appointment was made at a special meeting of council last evening following a closed meeting with officials from the Municipal Affairs Department. Mr. Miner will be acting city treasurer pro tempore, until auditing of city books up until May 9th has been completed.

The F. A. R. MacFadden Company acts as the city auditor and it was the recommendation of Municipal Affairs Department officials that a member of their firm be named as acting treasurer.

Mr. Denyes, who served in the capacity as city treasurer and city manager, and also as manager of the McFarland's Hockey Club, was suspended at council earlier, this week after auditors had brought to the attention of officials that a member of the club grossly misspent in connection with the operation of the team. The club was allegedly over spent was said to be in the neighborhood of $7,000 and a complete audit of city books by the Dept. has been ordered.

SEPARATE STORY over

In order to facilitate the audit of the books, the city's data processing machine and two experienced operators. This is being done to accelerate the audit which is hoped to be completed possibly within three weeks.

Mr. Miner's appointment has been made to the Municipal Affairs Department at the request of enquiry into the city's financial affairs and it is expected the application will be before the cabinet today.

Some of the hearing, if granted, is expected to be set for some time after the completion of the audit.

The new acting city treasurer has had four years' training ward his chartered accountant's degree.

4-H Members Enjoy Outing To Capital

On Thursday last the 1958 winners of the Ottawa Bus Trip visited our National capital city. This was the first year in which the trip was taken in the month of May; it has always been customary to go during the winter. The pleasant weather and colorful lawns and gardens made for some fine photography throughout the day.

This trip is an annual event made available to the high member in each 4-H agricultural club, and in each 4-H homemaking club member receiving county honors.

Mr. Les Grills, M. P. for South Hastings planned a most interesting day for the group at Parliament and the war museum as well as many parts of the Parliament Buildings. After having dinner with Mr. Grills in the main parliamentary dining hall they witnessed, many for the first time, parliament in session.

To round out the day, the bus boys journeyed down the driveway along the canal. Beds and cots of Netherlands lilies along with other spring flowers were just in the very early stages of bloom, looking for a few minutes at the Ottawa Experimental farm everyone had a look at the dairy and beef barns, horticultural and field crops plots.

Clinton Nesbitt, Assistant Agricultural Representative and Mrs. Marilyn Sauve, Home Economist with the Hastings County arranged the trip and accompanied the group on it.

MacPherson, C.D., Royal Canadian Navy, Major R. A. Reid, M.C., C.D., Royal 22nd Regiment, Canadian Army, and Squadron Leader R. K. Edwards A.F.C., Royal Canadian Air Force, will act as equerries. Acting Mayor Robert Tully Chambers (sitting) discusses a problem of city administration with Thompson, city assessment commissioner, during the course of the Junior Citizen of the Year's tenure as Chief Magistrate.

Junior Citizen's First Fling at City Government

By ROBERT TULLY CHAMBERS

(Editor's note: Following his being selected as Bellevilles Junior Citizen of the Year, Mr. Chambers was offered the opportunity of taking over as Acting Mayor for a day by Mayor George E. Hyde. This is Mr. Chambers account.)

I have prepared a brief statement to thank the city officials which is elsewhere in this edition, and I would like to draw your attention to it.

Yesterday afternoon, arriving at City Hall to take office, I was met by the City Clerk, Mrs. Ann Haggerty, in the front lobby and was escorted to the Mayor's Office. Later Mrs. Haggerty explained the basic organization of the city's government and also the procedure followed by the City Council in their meetings.

My next visitor was Mr. T. L. Thompson, the Assessment Commissioner for the city. Mr. Thompson invited me to visit his department and there he explained the workings of the Tax, Assessment Office. Later in the afternoon Mr. Lloyd Doran, the Recreational Director, and Mr. Malcolm Turnbull, the City Engineer, were visitors to my office and they also explained the workings of their departments.

During the course of the afternoon I had visits from the citizens of Belleville who had complaints to put forward. There were several telephone calls from citizens who also had complaints to lodge. As I pointed out in the prepared statement, which is elsewhere in this edition, these phone calls and visits are very much appreciated as the city officials are anxious to do the best possible job for you.

I might suggest however, that complaints should be directed in the form of a letter to the complaint department of City Hall, or to the specific department to which the complaint applies. This will ensure that the city officials will remember to investigate your source of trouble.

I have found that the majority of these problems should be directed to the Engineering Department.

Towards the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Ann Haggerty came to the office with a bylaw which was passed at Monday evening's Council meeting and which was ready for the Mayor's signature — another lesson in democracy.

At six o'clock yesterday afternoon, as I sat at the Mayor's desk in a then quiet City Hall, about to leave this world of city government I sincerely hoped that all citizens of Belleville and all other communities will realize the tremendous task which they have given the men and women who administer the government of their city. I hope that you will all give your loyal support to Mayor Hyde and the city fathers — a group of fine men and I compliment you on your choice of them as the best people to operate your city.

Acting Mayor Thanks Council For Honor

The following statement was issued by Acting Mayor Robert Tully Chambers, Belleville's Junior Citizen of the Year, during his tenure of office yesterday afternoon as "Mayor for the Day." This is an honor is a part of the "Citizenship Week" activities which are being observed this week:

"I would like to express my appreciation to Mayor Gerald R. Hyde, the Aldermen of the City of Belleville, and the heads of the departments at the City Hall for their kind co-operation and interesting instruction, which they extended towards me during the afternoon of May 12th, when I was given the honor of being Acting Mayor of the city. I would like to thank Mayor Hyde very much for this honor.

"I would also like to express my appreciation to the members of the Belleville Rotary Club for the award which they presented to me in connection with this honor.

"I might say to all the citizens of Belleville that in my afternoon at city hall I have found the regular administrators of the city to be a very kind and co-operative group of people. I have found that they are more than willing to listen to any complaints that you might have, and I feel certain that they want to do the best possible job in looking after the government of your city.

"Signed:
"Robert Tully Chambers,
"Acting Mayor.
"May 12th, 1959."

Judge Anderson Gives Address On Citizenship

County Judge J. C. Anderson and the six winners of the Kiwanis Junior Citizenship Awards theme essay contest were guests of the local Kiwanis Club Tuesday for a special program marking the observance of Citizenship Week.

A brief address emphasizing the importance of Canadian citizenship to new Canadians was given by Judge Anderson.

The judge, who conducts Citizenship Court here, paid tribute to the new Canadians, estimated to be one-quarter of the country's population, who have taken up life with us. He said Canadians are enriched by including people of different countries, in the population.

"The most significant fact is that these people, when they receive their citizenship certificates, feel it's important," he said. "They realize, more than we, what a great privilege it is to be a Canadian citizen because they have not had the privileges we have had," he said in noting some of European origin have left families and homes during World War II.

The judge also commended the Kiwanis Club for honoring some representatives of the city's young citizens during the observance of Citizenship Week.

Winners of the essay contest were Miss Jacqueline George Hume, chairman of the judging committee. He said because of the high calibre of the essays the judges had difficulty in picking the winners.

PRESENTED WITH PRIZES

The winners who were officially presented with their prizes during the City Council meeting Monday night by Mayor George Hyde, are as follows: Grades 7 and 8 — Miss Nancy Mills, from Queen Mary School; Bob Collins, from Queen Elizabeth School; and Miss Darlene Beverley, of Queen Elizabeth School; Grades 9 and 10 — Ist., Jim O'Brien; 2nd., Peter Gibson and 3rd., Lynne Meagher, all of St. Michael's Academy.

First place winners, Miss Mills and Mr. O'Brien, then read their essays.

Thanks to Judge Anderson, the students present, Reeve Hume, Irvine and Kells, was expressed by Canon A. S. Mc-Mahon. Mr. Kells noted Belleville's Citizenship program was just a small beginning and expressed the hope next year's program would be bigger.

School inspector L. A. Kells said because of the short notice the schools were unable to hold special citizenship programs as other events had already been planned, but said, however, all of the city's elementary schools participated in the observance of Citizenship Week.

MEMBER HONORED

A long-time Kiwanian, Cliff Baragar, was honored during the meeting for his perfect attendance. He was presented with a silver perfect attendance pin by past president Charles Lusk.

A report on the Kiwanis peanut drive was given by chairman Gord Crawford. Mr. Crawford announced a one-night "blitz" of the city would be held May 20 to enable Bellevillians to get stocked up on peanuts and peanut butter and the club to get "stocked up on money" for service club projects this year. A final drive will be made during the Bell Drive on Saturday, May 22.

Mr. Crawford said the club should be able to clear slightly over $1000 if the members sell all the products on hand.

Vice-president George Tripp, who presided over the meeting in the absence of president Gerry Wishart, announced next week's meeting will be Mother's Banquet of the Belleville YMCA staff.

International Reading Assoc. Council Organized in City

A meeting of representatives from schools of the city and district, at the elementary, secondary and college level, was conducted Tuesday evening at George Public School, Monday afternoon under the chairmanship of Robert Moorcraft for the purpose of organizing a local council of the International Reading Association.

The following slate of officers was elected: president — C. W. Sloan, Department of English, Quinte Secondary School; vice-president — Sister Mary Andrew, Principal of St. Michael's Academy; secretary — Mrs. Wanda Sine, primary supervisor, Bellevills Public Schools; and treasurer — Murray Irvin, Albert College.

Constitution committee — L. A. Kells, Superintendent of Public Schools; Mrs. Dennesa, Superintendent of O.S.D. and Mrs. I. Walsh, principal, Massanga Public School.

On recommendation of Mr. Kells and Mr. H. R. Irvin it was agreed that the council be named the Quinte Chapter of the International Reading Association. Upon completion, approval and adoption of the constitution application for Charter will be forwarded to C. B. Routley, organization chairman for Canada, Ontario Department of Education, Toronto.

This meeting was the result of an exploratory gathering of interested people held in Sir Winston Churchill Public School last Thursday evening, at which time Mr. R. B. Routley, superintendent of Professional Development, Ontario Department of Education spoke on the topic "Developing Independence in Reading." He explained that the International Reading Association is the only organization in existence that is exclusively devoted to better reading instruction. It holds a unique position in the educational system.

Reading teachers have a challenging job. Their interest, cooperation and support of parents and citizens of Belleville and district will be sought to strengthen the newly formed reading council.

Among the aims of the organization agreed upon at the meeting are:

1. To encourage study of the problems of reading instruction by members and to encourage in-service training at all phases of instruction in reading.

2. To achieve closer and more effective liaison between the different levels of reading instruction, both elementary and secondary.

3. To solicit the interest and co-operation of the public library and staff.

4. To recommend evaluation and investigation of the general practices in reading instruction.

"Reading in a changing society" was the theme of the fourth annual conference of the International Reading Association held recently in Toronto. A number of the Belleville and district teachers and administrators were among the four thousand delegates attending this conference being held for the first time in Canada. Implications of a changing society in the present and future practices in reading instruction were discussed by some of the world's leading authorities on the subject.

Exhibit, Radio Will Feature Citizenship Week

Cultural developments of new Canadians are evidenced in a fine exhibit of oils, handicraft and photography now on display in the lobby and reception rooms of the McCarthy Theatre.

The display, with other planned functions, is being shown in connection with Good Citizenship Week currently being observed in the city.

Some splendid oil paintings and water colors by new residents of the city are on display. These artists come from Germany, Holland, Northern Ireland, Poland and other countries of the old world.

Also commemorating Good Citizenship Week is the special program being broadcast over CJBQ last Friday from eight to nine p.m.

Lee Jourard will be at the microphone and will air a documentary of a Dutch couple, Mr. and Mrs. Reinar Bouma, including an interview on their lives in Holland and their new environment in Canada.

Also on the program will be a half hour of music played by some sixteen pieces directed by Mr. Wade Hoekstra, who conducts choirs, both in this city and in Trenton.

the Goyer premises through a west window next to the Belleville Boat Club. The window was broken after which the sash lock was released. A door was then unlocked and the five motors taken out through the back door.

Police are of the opinion that a truck was used to take the stolen motors across the harbor where they were loaded into a car or truck on the mainland on Victoria Park.

Mr. Jack Goyer, owner of Goyer Marine, lives in the same building and heard no disturbance during the night.

Police said the theft apparently was well planned and is believed to have been a gang from outside the city.

FOUR NEW NEGOTIATORS

Do personalities play a role in international conferences? Despite the limitations imposed by working within fixed frameworks of policy, it seems reasonable to suppose that the individual temperaments of diplomats sometimes have a very real, and perhaps even a decisive, influence on the outcome of a parley. If this supposition is correct, we may soon see some signs of this at Geneva. The Associated Press has pointed out that none of the Big Four foreign ministers assembled there has ever before led his country's delegation at a Big Four parley.

Replacing V. M. Molotov of Russia is Andrie Gromyko. Despite the fact that Molotov oft-times lived up to the meaning of his adopted surname, "The Hammer," there may be no clear gain for amiability here, for Gromyko, too, has exhibited a disposition to fit his iron visage. Still, there is one important point of difference - - Gromyko has spent some time in Western nations, as his country's ambassador at Washington and as its representative at UN headquarters. Though many statesmen regarded Molotov as one of the most skilful diplomats of the century, he may well have lacked that insight into the Western mind which Gromyko may have acquired through living with Westerners.

Britain has Selwyn Lloyd as its representative. Compared with one of Molotov's old sparring partners, Sir Anthony Eden, Lloyd would be considered a lightweight but he has behind him a man whom many regard as possessing one of the sharpest minds of the day, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The voice will be that of Lloyd, but the thoughts behind the words will almost certainly be those of Macmillan.

Of Maurice Couve de Murville of France, comparatively little is known on this side of the Atlantic by relatively casual observers of the international scene. He has not the prestige acquired by Bidault as the result of his lengthy experience and his long tenancy of the foreign ministry despite the ever-changing governments of post-war France. Still, a little freshness, a little enthusiasm, may not be amiss.

The key to the way in which these minds interlock, though it is almost certainly held by Christian Herter, the new U.S. Secretary of State, not merely because the U.S. is the most powerful nation in the western bloc but also because western thinking in past conferences had been dominated by his predecessor, John Foster Dulles. Herter comes to the conference with ostensibly the same policies as those of Dulles, but it is fairly obvious that here the similarity between U.S. representation in the past and today ends. Herter may lack many of the skills of Dulles, his personal prestige is certainly not as high, but he may yet bring to the meeting an invaluable ingredient, a willingness to make concessions on points he considers unimportant. Farther from winning his position on the vital issues, this may actually strengthen it.

The personalities of the foreign ministers, of course, would be of no importance at all if the policy of any of them had been rigidly determined in advance to exclude any possibility of compromise. There is every reason to believe that Khrushchev today is actually anxious for a settlement of some of the problems plaguing central Europe. If this be so, the Russians are likely to find the British co-operative; Herter may be able to join with Macmillan in convincing a cautious Eisenhower that some progress towards a settlement is possible; only time will tell whether Couve de Murville can get the customarily stubborn de Gaulle to co-operate. Given a Russian desire for a settlement, the personalities of those around the conference table at Geneva may prove decisive, either in arranging an agreement on such an agenda impossible.

PROGRESS

THE BEST WAY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I'd rather quit your house at ten
And have you begging me to stay
Than stay till twelve or one and have
You wish that I would go away.
I'd rather keep my tales untold
Than ever sit and see you yawn;
I'd rather be considered dull
Than one who keeps you up till dawn.

I'd rather sit with you and read
The books I find upon your shelf
Than try to keep your ear for hours
The while I talk about myself.
I'd rather have you begging me
To stay and tell you something more,
Than weary you with too much talk
And grow to be a common bore.

The Spirit of Adventure

New York Times

Why do they do it? This question, currently being asked of the seven young volunteer astronauts from whose ranks will come the first American to ride a spaceship, is the same question that has been asked of adventurers from the beginning of time.

The seven, now flitting themselves specifically and gregariously for a meeting in 1961 when one of them is to be blasted into the atmosphere by an Atlas ICBM in an effort to circle the earth from a distance of 125 miles at 18,000 miles an hour, are in the great tradition of adventurers. For the journey, real and figurative, of one of them makes all the journeys that have come before seem puny by comparison.

Why do they do it? Attempts at an answer can be found in a particularly appropriate book that has recently been published, called "The Spirit of Adventure." The work of a British scholar and poet named Wilfrid Noyce, it is the personal chronicle of a number of men who have been skilled enough to have been among the truly great. John de Hillary, it seeks to explain just what it is that makes men seek adventure. What is the lure, he asks, that makes men want to climb sheer cliffs or to challenge the ocean in frail craft, to grope blindly deep in the water or under the earth, to be willing to be strapped and sealed in a space capsule, then fired into the sky, or, so as to hurtle around the globe once every hour and a half for a full day?

In the quest for answers, Noyce has gone directly to the great fighters by nature, to those who have forsaken comfort and security to seek the mystical rewards of adventure in unknown and untried places. Like Melville in his search he learned that the classic answer to the question "why" is "because it's there" — simply was too pat. In its place he has offered a variety of explanations, all of which help to illuminate the indomitable human spirit.

Was it simply to escape that they sailed away? Noyce found that certainly numbers who took to the adventurous life simply because they were fed up with routines of office, factory or classroom that served to fence in their spirits. Some are of the hair - shirt penitential, testing themselves in harrowing fashion simply to learn their own capacities for endurance. Others like doing a thing because they don't like it, as discovered by the comment of one explorer: "Polar exploration is at once the cleanest and most isolated way of having a bad time as has been devised." Was it danger they sought? Lindberg gives the answer: "Of course there's danger but a certain amount of danger is essential to the quality of life." The glory of being alone is the hope of some, and "Alone" is the title of a volume of reminiscences by one of the great adventurers of our own day, Richard E. Byrd.

On the other hand, there are those who seek to put themselves on a high spot just because they enjoy the teamwork imposed on them- selves and they'll follow up the need to extricate the group.

Other explanations are offered to the question. Why do they do it? Fame and fortune. Only of them outward rewards for what one does that are slight part. There is the pleasure of pitting one's self against particular meaning for the ballonists, the skiers, the drivers, the sailors, the divers and so on. And the pleasure of motion can be added the pleasure of flight, of being with the animal joy in doing certain things with skill and dexterity. Some get satisfaction from activities determined never to resist the call for "just another great one" where it leads them. Many who go adventuring, like the Wright brothers, are at heart tin- machines. Some go with the scientist to the poles, as the visionaries, and for them often the conquest of self is linked with the hope that they may be able always there are the curious. Finally, there are those who motivate the seven Mercury Astronauts? Possibly we will have to wait for the first astronaut returns from its maiden voyage, and the long - traveled path down on paper the terrifying story of what it was like to be hived in the cabin to see the world from on high.

Now Ulcers Invade Africa

Manchester Guardian

A sharp reminder that you cannot escape the ills of European civilization without some of its drawbacks is im- plied in the latest report by the East African Medical Journal. Ulcers, it seems, have now be- come a firm grip in Kenya, where, until recently they were extremely rare.

Last year, however, 19 Kikuya (Kenya) undergradu- ates at Makerere University col- lege, Uganda, went down with peptic ulcers. The 23 cases of duodenal ulcers were admitted to the King George VI hospi- tal in Nairobi (with the ex- men, represented eight tribes and were in their early twen- tions office workers, teachers, drivers, domestic servants, and manual workers.

What happened? Dr. A. A. Kisa, principal registrar at the hospital notes a sharp rise in the incidence of duodenal ulcer cases at the declaration of emergency in 1952, and that the fear, flight, and insecurity associated with the unsettled conditions following the Mau Mau menace, could have been a provoking mechanism."

But city life also shares the blame. The 38 Nairobi cases had worked in the urban areas from two to fifty years (with the ex- ception of two) and they react- ed to the pace of modern life in much the same way as any other race — by rearing ulcers. Dr. Kisa predicts "As more Africans leave their reserves and take to city life, there will be a corresponding rise in duo- denal ulcers every year."

If Dr. Kisa is right those who have been fighting tropical dis- eases so successfully to enrich the native population may sprout in the ground they cleared so ardu- ously.

Find House Prices Jump

St. Thomas Times-Journal

A Chicago man signed an agreement to buy the price of a house costing $9,500, upon which he paid $5,000 down which was all he had. Before he got the keys he had reduced the mortgage of $2,500 to where he was called the broker. He sold the house for what he paid for it, paid off the mortgage and banked $2,000. He was re- charged from the service he re- ceived from the bank, however, discovered that what he had paid $9,500 for would now cost him $21,000.

In another case a man who had done the same thing with a $15,000 house got a profit of $14,500.

That's the result of inflation and the purchasing power of the dol- lar had gone down more than 50 per cent.

Foods Not Tax-Exempt

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

When the federal sales tax was increased from 10 to 11 per- cent in the Fleming budget, mention was made that the levy does not apply to food. That is hardly correct. Margar- ine is exempt from the sales tax. Even other foods do not escape the tax collector.

For instance, there is a tax on most food containers. In these times when most foods are sold in packages and cans the tax on containers certainly increases the cost to the consumer. Be- cause the sales has a way of permeating from the time the article leaves the manufacturer and is put on sale by the retail- er.

Furthermore, there are taxes on culinary and trucking equip- ment used to transport food. And there are dozens of other hidden levies that add to the cost of food.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

HISTOPLASMOSIS IS A CURIOUS SORT OF DISEASE

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is histoplasmosis of the lung, what causes it, and is there any cure? — Mrs. J. H."

Suppose we back into the an- swer and start talking about fungus — not a fungus, if you pre- fer.

One of my reference books points out that there are some- thing like 10,000 known varieties of fungi. Only 30 or 40 of which can bother mankind's health.

A fungus is a form of plant life, but unlike most of the vegetable forms that are familiar to us, it contains no chlorophyll. While we don't understand the whole pro- cess, if a plant has chlorophyll, it appears that it-can manufacture its own food from the materials available to it.

Without chlorophyll, it has to gather its food from some other living organism — or one that has been alive. For example, it can be seen fungus, or "mold" on bread, or on dead trees, or what have you.

As I said, few funguses can cause much trouble. But some do. Athlete's foot, ringworm and some others are, in fact, quite common. There is a fungus-like those I just mentioned, which attacks the skin, nails and hair and nails are physiolo- gically, part of the skin. That ac- counts for the sometimes stub- born fungus infections of the nails for example.

Some other funguses can find their way deeper into the body, and one of these is the fungus which causes histoplasmosis.

In this case, the fungus causes trouble in the lungs. For practical purposes, one of the most important facts about it is that it produces such spots from those caused by tuberculosis. Skin tests, as well as a careful study of the history of the case, often are helpful in making a correct diag- nosis. Definitely whether a spot is TB or histoplasmosis.

THOUGHT DEADLY

In earlier years, histoplasmosis was believed to be a rare con- dition. Now we know better. Indeed, medical tests now show that a great many people in the central states of the U.S. (this is, for whatever reason, the area in which this disease is principally found) have had his- toplasmosis and recovered from it without ever knowing, at the time, what they had.

So it's a matter of fact, know of any cure that can be administered to cure cases of it itself in time. A curious sort of disease, isn't it?

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is the blood type of a child the same as a cross between both the mother and father? Could the baby have the mother's blood and not the father's? Can blood tests prove if a baby belongs to a certain person? B. W."

(1) No. (2) Yes. (3) No.

In the ABO classifications (blood can be Type A, B, AB, or O) if both parents have Type O the baby must have Type O. In every other combination of the parents, there is a possibility that the baby will have one or anoth- er. From two Type B's, the baby may be either B or O. If one par- ent is type A and the other B, the baby may have any type the parents, respectively, as A and AB, or B and AB, or AB and AB, the baby may have any by except type O.

In other words, blood tests ca- sometimes, prove that a baby is not the child of two particular people; the tests can never prove positively that the baby is.

Cannot Drive For 30 Years

Stratford Beacon - Herald

The British, it seems, do n- fool with errant drivers.

Caught parked in a car ha- taken, Gordon Ernest Grant, 22, of Hudspeth Crescent, Pily Me, County Durham, was fi- ed $112 and forbidden to drive for 30 years!

The court had ample reason for its action. As the Manchester Guardian reported the case, Grant had been convicted 2 times of taking cars without th- owner's consent, or of attempt- ing to take them.

Besides the disqualification from drive a 6-month prison term for driving an uninsured car. He was warned by the higher court on the charge of taking the car.

The Guardian expressed the hope that by the time Grant is 53 and eligible to drive he will have reached the age of discre- tion. But perhaps he won't wai- that long. For there is Can- ada and the United States, pe- ple apparently exist in dri- ers who shouldn't.

At the time of his recent a- rest, Gordon Grant had a- ready been disqualified to driv- for 15 years.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE CHEERFUL OUTLOOK

I have had doctors tell me that over half of their patients had nothing the matter with them they couldn't cure themselves. It's only they would make the try. Cheerful optimism will give us a cheerful look every day of the year, but we must create that cheer ourselves. The substance of health and happiness is some- thing that our Creator has given to us, as an inheritance.

I try to pick out the happy faces as I walk along the streets in my town. Each one is a bene- diction. Each one shines forth like a new light. There is tragedy in an unhappy face but God al- so can put the sun's glow into that face, and save the day as well.

I like to go into offices and homes where there is the spirit of good will, and courage marked upon every face. We have not as yet experienced the full power that is possible in the human mind and heart. The power of the will, alone, could move mount- tains.

They told Napoleon he could not cross the Alps into Italy. His reply was: "There shall be no Alps!"

People who have this cheerful outlook upon life have life nearly solved, and an endless trail of happy days is created for each one of us, and a multitude be- sides. It isn't the material things that give us the most happiness, but the simple, everyday gifts of Nature that make life worth, to us, last the longest.

The business world is very ac- tive when it gives out cheerful news about the country and the prospects of future profits ahead.

One great corporation that had been hard hit, suddenly had a change of heart and raised its dividend that it had not done in few months before. A cheerful outlook can perform miracles.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The chief difference between a newspaperman and an author, is this: when a newspaperman writes an article his friends and relatives do not swarm around expecting an autographed copy of the newspaper. But the best thing for a poor author to do is go into hiding the day before his book comes out, and stay hidden for about three months until the event is forgotten locally.

In the meantime the author signs with his publisher, he is given six free copies of his book, which he gladly covers his wife, child- ren and mother-in-law. Thereaf- ter, he is free to purchases of his book from the publisher at booksellers' rates, which, if it is, say, a $3.50 book, is $2.43 if he buys them one at a time, or $2.10 if he buys them six at a time.

Carried away by his beauti- pride in the first few days, an author buys a few extra to look after his cousins and his aunts and the bank manager and the parson (with an eye to his future on earth and in heaven.) In due time, he is down to singles, at $2.43, to attend to inescapable cases.

But since the contract with the publisher stipulates that he gets, at the end of the fiscal year, ten per cent of the list price for the first 5,000 sold; and since an author has to be a best seller in this country ever to get out of that bracket, that means he gets 25 cents a copy. As for unsold copies have to be sold before he's got even in sight. He has been strongly squandered on his im- mediate relatives, let alone his friends.

Authors should live in ivory towers for they are not worth one.

Towers with no ladders; or else they soon go broke.

Just Streets

Nobody of fashion or ambition wants to live on a street. Aven- ues are more grand, drives more distinguished, roads more ro- mantic, boulevards more pictur- esque, and places more casual. But a street? Merely a paved road.

ONE ROAD TO HAPPINESS

"Nothing deteriorates faster than an unoccupied house."

We have heard this said, and often we have read such a state- ment. But it is not altogether so true. There are at least two other things which deteriorate faster than an empty house. The first is an empty mind, the sec- ond, an empty life.'

There are people who have not had a thought in their heads for years. And this not because they are incapable of thinking, but be- cause their brains have become heavy, wet sponges which nestle in the hollow of their heads. They read no books, they can talk only about the most inconsequential matters of life and God. Most of them get so bored with them- selves that they have to do numerous and potent infusions of beverage alcohol several times a day to light up the landscape for them. Aristotle believed that the brain is an organ for function of which is to keep the blood cool. Presumably that's all there does.

And as for those of empty life, they, too, seldom do their brains die. Listen brother, do you real- ize that this planet is probably the most interesting place in the universe? Do you realize that there are a million situations pres- ing all about you to which you could give your attention and be thrilled?

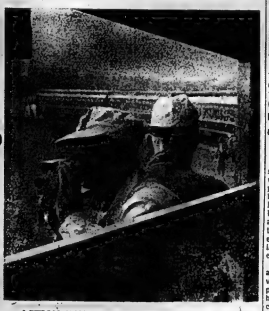
SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

EVERYBODY OUT — A few of the almost 200 persons on the excursion line a hillside for some shots of the steam locomotives as they whistle by on a "run past." Other enthusiasts followed the route of the train over the county roads by automobile catching pictures at the various railroad crossings enroute.

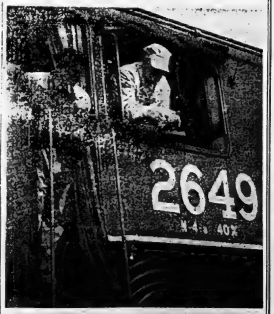


ON THE SIDELINES — Belleville's Canadian National Railways agent Len Gilchrist watches CBC-TV cameraman Koenig set his equipment for some shots of the proceedings. Many thousands of feet of movie film were used during the outing.

ROLL THEM — On board the excursion run were members of the National Film Board. Here a cinematographer lines up a movie shot of a part of the day's activities.

COALING UP — A fifty-year old process of coaling the engines at Bancroft is shown. On the left is a row of carts with iron hampers of coal. The crane (centre) hoists each hamper aloft and swings it out over the engine's tender for dumping. Two men operate the equipment for this lengthy operation.

ACTION PLEASE. A steam enthusiast takes a precarious position to get that "extra special shot" from the baggage car, of the engines up front as the train rounds a bend.



Serious Efforts Being Made To Maintain Steam Engine

Besides taking steam excursions, a form of their activities which will cease due to the scrapping of steam locomotives, members of the Canadian Railroad Historical Association and the Upper Canada Railway Society also collect blueprints, pictures, tape recordings and movies of engines in operation. Some also indulge in model railroading either as a private or a club effort.

More serious efforts, however, are being directed to the preservation of the rolling stock, which played an important part in the heyday of the railroads on this continent. In some sections of North America alert clubs, with financial backing, have managed to acquire, maintain and operate steam engines on short private lines. In Montreal there is a movement to create and maintain a railfenile line which will carry interurban cars.

Unfortunately there seems to be little prospect of raising the funds necessary to acquire a steam locomotive which has been retired by either the CNR or the CPR. Even so the devising of the CNR to demolish all steam engine facilities (i.e - coaling and watering points) along all lines, main and spur, would present no opportunity to run an engine for any length of time over its lines. There exists a possibility of obtaining a closed-down interurban right-of-way, but this would be quite expensive.

With the situation as such it seems that the steam locomotive has had its day in Ontario, both as a regular work-horse and as an enthusiasts' or a tourist attraction. The accompanying photographs are of the second last run of the Iron Horse in Ontario, which occurred last Sunday over the Belleville to Bancroft to Trenton to Belleville route. It will disappear now from the public eye, but in some places the enthusiasts will gather to swap stories, compare pictures and listen to recordings of the engines which played such a great part in the development of Canada.

TIME OUT — The crew members of No. 2649, the second steam locomotive in the train, take time for a little smoking on their own part during a photo stop.

ON LOCATION — The baggage car was the scene of much activity by photographers, both amateur and professional. Here a few of both gather as the National Film Board crew finishes the setting up of its lighting for a few scenes.

MOTHER'S DAY REUNION

Mr. Fred Hobbs, of Saskatoon, Sask., who is visiting his mother, Mrs. E. M. Hobbs, of Dundas St., West, gave a Mother's Day dinner in her honor, on Sunday.

The guests were his brothers, Cpl. V. A. Hobbs with RCEME at Wainwright, Alta.; Harry Hobbs of Miami, Florida; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hobbs and their children, Ced, Mary Lou and Bobbie and Mrs. F. Fisher, mother of Mrs. A. S. Hobbs of Belleville.

This was the first Mother's Day that the brothers and their mother had spent all together since 1941. It was a most enjoyable reunion.

WMS Convention Reports Show Progress, Growth In Presbyterian Church

By GLADYS WARD

Progress and growth in many directions was evident in the 75th outreach of the Presbyterian Church as reports were heard at the forty-fourth annual Council meeting of the Women's Missionary Society in St. Andrew's church on Tuesday.

The opening service of worship was conducted by the minister of the church, Rev. R. D. MacLean. The business meeting took place in the school additorium where baskets of spring flowers, daffodils, peonies, narcissi, and 'mums were placed in all the windows. The President, Mrs. A. Glenn Thompson, constituted the council with prayer, and the roll call and minutes were given by the secretary, Mrs. Lorne B. Smith.

The treasurer's report given by Mrs. T. G. Sinclair showed a receipts of $238,816.91 to December of 1958, and disbursements of $320,419.07. The Peace Thanksgiving fund amounted to $38,003.33.

Mrs. G. R. Fye reported for the Board of Trustees explaining that the board consisted of five members appointed by the Council executive. The board does not administer any property but its duty is to hold any real property which comes as a gift or through purchase or a legacy.

Mrs. R. Keeler commenced on the Life Membership which is a source of considerable revenue, and questioned some discussion concerning those who were eligible for this honor, and also the membership pins which are available from the office.

RECEIVE BANNER

The Christian Literature report contained many interesting facts of this service. Mrs. A. J. Drury who presented the report displayed a banner which had been received from Formosa. It was designed in red, white and blue by the native editor of the church record, and here messages hand stitched in each panel with Chinese characters. The Formosan letters were most appreciative of the help sent to them and Mrs. Drury noted that the knowledge that the W. M. S. can help was beyond value. Over $15,000 in gifts and grants had been received by this department, and this had been used to send Christian literature to Japan, India, Nigeria, Egypt, Latin America, East Asia, Formosa and many other mission fields abroad and at home. Indian village libraries had been established in thirty - three villages with 63 or 70 booklets on many subjects including health, social problems, and agricultural advice. These are sent to a central depot for distribution in oil drums to protect them from the white ants, and are passed along from hand to hand and read until they are worn out. In Canada the Ukrainians were provided with hymn books, and Bibles and Testaments were given Bibles, and the French Protestants in Quebec were given reading matter. Since the bamboo curtain had fallen in China no printed matter can be sent directly there, but communication is kept up through the Council for Christian literature for overseas Chinese with headquarters in Toronto.

Mrs. Cherry pointed out that twenty-nine million people every year are learning to read, and asked, "What are they reading?" They are getting quantities of Communistic literature which is well printed on good paper. These new literacies can be dangerous if they are not Christian, because their reading colors their whole outlook. Our future will be determined by it.

"We must realize the value of the written word," Mrs. Cherry impressed on her listeners. "We consider it a privilege to be able to provide good literature. It is think this work is important, it we think this is a good work and are anxious to preserve it. we must support the work of the Christian literature committee."

PRESENTS REPORT

Mrs. J. M.' Burnett presented the report of the Welcome and Welfare department which is interested in the immigrants who come to Canada each year. The purpose of this department is to show a friendly concern for the happiness and well-being of others. The stranger is welcomed to our country, and is helped by a visit in his new home. A most 39,000 visits were recorded last year. Dinner was served in the church to a group of Hungarians, Christmas gifts were given; one group visits a new mother in the hospital and presents her baby with a spoon in the name of the society; and many other practical services were given which reflected the Christian protestion in action.

Using charts, Mrs. Newstead, Mrs. F. Ransom and Mrs. Whelan showed the new congregations, the new Christian Education centres and the new girls' work and children's groups, in the Synodical of Toronto and Kingston, and how the work might be developed further. There are eleven Presbyteries and twelve Presbyterials in this district. The new groups which included Explorers and Children of the Church showed an increase in membership of over 20,000. Mrs. Whelan explained how the Lindsay Presbyterial had received help from the Council and as a result of its visits some six women are going to Edmonton through with leadership training courses. A ratio of 319 girls in that Presbytery is planned.

British Columbia Synodical was represented by Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Pollock, Mrs. C. Summers, Mrs. Aichen and Mrs. R. J. Murdoch. The picture here was one of struggling young churches and missionary groups lacking enough ministers to provide continuous leadership. The floating population also hindered the development of leaders. The population growth of British Columbia had exceeded every other province. There are twenty-five areas which are ripe for church work to start, but the lack in ministers to man the pulpits. The delegation expressed gratitude for Seacombe's assistance. The overall picture was of a church growing stronger and wealthier in the centre and weaker and poorer on the edges.

GREAT ADVANCEMENT

Victoria Presbytery stressed more outreach and advancement, although there had been a great advancement in the work there with affiliated W. M. S. groups, Children of the Church and Explorers' groups. A list of the various organizations had been presented to the Council to interest them in the work, and it was found many were willing to help if they could get leadership.

Mrs. J. M. Ireton, Mrs. W. Harris, Miss Scott and Mrs. Reynolds spoke for Alberta Synodical which is a large one covering 1,800 miles. There has been an increase in junior groups, and it was planned to give more time to adult groups, although the lack of ministers was disheartening.

Mrs. Reynolds of Edmonton spoke for the Peace River district suggesting that a full time deaconess would help to give a feeling of unity. Most of their problems were local ones requiring local remedies.

At noon a buffet luncheon was served by the Harmony group of St. Andrew's Women's Guild, and tea was served in the maid-at-arms room.

REMEMBRANCE SERVICE

A service of remembrance was held at the afternoon session, honoring all the faithful members who had passed on.

Mrs. Wm. Wylie presented a report from the Saskatchewan Synodical, pointing out the changing conditions because of mechanized farming. There are fewer farms now, and families live in larger centres. School buses picked up the children and took them to town schools doing away with the small centre activities. They were grateful for the summer student ministers and student deaconesses, sent to them.

Closer co-operation between Presbyteries and Presbyterials was stressed, also between Synods and Synodicals. Appreciation was voiced to the faithful members of small groups who were going forward on Christ's promise, "Lo I am with you always."

The Manitoba Synodical consisted of a panel conducted by Mrs. R. A. Davidson, with members Mrs. L. Hamilton, Mrs. T. Tweedy, Mrs. S. V Gordon and Mrs. J. McKay. There were seven presbyteries represented, sisting of lakes, forests, swamps and rivers, covering 600 square miles. This divided people and groups into farming areas, mining areas, and transportation sections.

The Superior Presbyterial asked for Council executive members when travelling west to visit the girls in training centres. A real problem in the Winnipeg area now is making Canadian Indian young people feel welcome in our church and services. It was also felt that there was a need for Christian education in the Indian residential schools, and that more Presbyterian teachers and supervisors should be employed.

CONDUCT PANEL

Miss M. Boyd, regional secretary, conducted the panel from Northern Ontario Synodical, assisted by Mrs. Donald Perkins, Mrs. J. Moffit and Mrs. W. E. McCutcheon. This Synodical is second in total membership, although one of the smallest in area. It was thought the greatest need in the Synodical was to have Deaconesses in the rapidly growing larger centres and Industrial Missions were started. Where there are Children of the Church groups should be reached through the Welcome and Welfare secretary. The greatest task was to make them feel this was their home community. Assistance to small groups in rural areas was also vitally important. Regional workshops and training centres had made such an impression on those attending that they should be continued. It was suggested that missionaries be allotted to each Synodical to realize their purpose and work of the WMS and the new groups.

Mrs. Dumley spoke for the Montreal and Ottawa Synodical suggesting that more thought be put into the formation of Guild and W.M.S. groups working together. Mrs. Dumley favored the idea of establishing a project fund, the formation of Guild supply to each Presbyterial for hospitals, schools and homes.

MODERATOR HEARD

The evening service of worship was conducted by Rev. D. H. Gutchleod, M.A., of Trenton, Moderator of the Kingston Presbytery, who welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Presbytery and hoped that their stay in this part of Canada would be profitable and richly blessed. Speaking on the story of the Tower of Babel in Genesis and a passage from Revelations, Mr. McLelland emphasized that the noise and confusion at the time of building the tower stilled any possibility of consecration or co-operation. It sometimes seemed in church work that many voices caused confusion speaking of different aims and purposes until we create a modern Tower of Babel, lacking in unity of those who were here to build steps so our children could reach God.

The Bible might well ask us to consider our aims," said the speaker. "First there is the sin of our sign. We are distinguished by the name of Presbyterian, an honored and respected name. The sin lies in the fact that hundreds are using that name without attending that church or contributing to it in any way. It no longer has the meaning it used to have. We who love our church ought to try to make the name Presbyterian a symbol for consecration to Christ, for membership, and should try to elevate the standard of living.

"There is the sin of our silence. Many pulpits and session rooms are silent when they should be speaking. We need to turn the community's thinking upside down and what God's truth is more important than prosperity. We must speak out in public when we need to pray for our home and church problems and sin flecks. Our selfishness is a sin. We enjoy civilized living. We are so selfish that we become more self-contained. People do not want the church to tell them what they should do for the glory of God.

"There is a remedy. God shows us the picture where Christ comes to the door of our hearts and knocks. Christ wants to come in and when we allow him in, He gives us life. Conference that no door can remain closed to a congregation that has Christ in it."

SOLO GIVEN

Mrs. Newstead of Toronto was the soloist for the evening, singing the "Holy City" with Miss Marie Kerr at the piano accompanying at the organ.

Miss Ethel Chapman of the Home Economics Services for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto, was introduced by Miss Frieda Matthews who described her as a writer of distinction, an associate of press club in Toronto, editor of Farmer's magazine and the Women's Institute magazine, and a woman who had always found time for her work and who continued her interest and writing in her church. Miss Chapman will be attending the Federated Women of the World Assembly at Edinburgh, Scotland this year.

"In spite of labor saving devices, the woman who takes care of her family is one of the hardest working today," began Miss Chapman. "There are changing patterns coming over our homes today, but in a time of change the message of the Bible is changeless. The content is dated, but not the message."

Basing her address on the description of a virtuous woman given in Proverbs Miss Chapman made many points for modern language with her definition of home a woman could create a happy relationship in the home. She would be intelligent, good, family conscious, kind and tactful with her own; know how to budget, be practical, have a sense of social responsibility; have a religion that molded her daily life, a thing of beauty. In a time of social change there was a danger that threatened a family which we hold precious.

"A home must be economically sound. Advertisers have made consumers out of television, radio and newspapers, psychologists and researchers to influence us to buy. There is always pressure being used to get the newest models. Women must be aware of this, and give it thought. I recommend the book 'Hidden Persuaders' to home-makers.

CAN'T BUILD ON GADGETS

"A home should be mechanically convenient. There is a danger here in thinking we can build a home on gadgets. The yardstick in getting a standard for a standard of living is not in material possessions. It takes thought to make sure we are not carried away.

"It should be artistically satisfying. The standards here have changed. Instead of attempting to carry one design throughout the home, credit is being given to the woman who makes something out of what she has got. There should be an interest in music and pictures that give a true interpretation of the life around us, trying to discover the beauty and meaning of life.

"Mental stimulation is necessary. There should be suitable material for conversation, good talk, with one mind stimulating another, and there with all. Radio and TV programs should be a means of education. Church women carry their influence and outreach into secular meetings, and make their mark on them. Children should get their reading habits when they are little. Any learning which makes us more interesting is bound to rub off on others, especially children. I suggest you ask your librarian to help map out a reading plan. Include in it biography, history, psychology, fiction and an anthology of poetry.

"We must be socially responsible. We are becoming more world-conscious with the study of other countries, but we should also take an interest in our own Canadian Eskimos and Indians. We should show that we are good neighbors with the strong bearing the burdens of the weak. Our youngsters will get a feeling of responsibility from us and will grow up without prejudices. I consider it a definite evil the way emphasis is put on sex in our society is conform and to be popular. We should have more mature and individual thinking, not conformity.

MUTUAL RESPECT

"Human relations in the family are based on mutual love and respect and affection. It means more than any material things and the family is the climate in the family is what we need in world peace. It means, and that is taught through living. Christian ethics should be at the centre of home life and standards should not be cheapened. Religion is the responsibility of the home as well as the church."

In expressing appreciation to the speaker Mrs. Cherry said the talk had made the audience feel a great sense of the honor, worth and beauty of womanhood, and that the address had been a source of inspiration.

Christ Church W.A.E.B. Holds Business Meet

On Monday evening members of the Evening Branch of the W.A. of Christ Church met in the parish hall for their May business meeting.

The devotional service was conducted by the president, assisted by Mrs. Goodfellow, with Mrs. J. Hibbard at the piano.

Mrs. J. MacDonald, treasurer, Miss F. Reid, secretary, presented their reports, as well as those by Mrs. H. Luttrell, as sewing convener; sunshine fund by Mrs. Hibbard; social convener, Mrs. J. Spencer; social fund, Mrs. E. Smith; Vestry Council representative, Mrs. D. Donnely, and "Forwards," Mrs. N. Green.

Mrs. E. Smith expressed her appreciation for cards and remembrance sent her in hospital. Mrs. W. Evans for Easter cards and Miss Bliss Reid of Hampton for Easter cards and her "Living Message" subscription gift.

COMING EVENTS

Mention was made of several events of the future to be kept in mind, among them the W.O.W. tea, sale on the market, rummage sale and that the annual Deanery meeting will be held in Christ Church in October.

The study book for next year will deal with Africa.

The closing meeting in June will take the form of a supper a party with members of the Evening Branch being joined by afternoon members. Trustees of A., and several diocesan officials and others are anticipated to have the opportunity of visiting the groups.

Mrs. A. Bongard, who had attended as a delegate the 73rd annual business meeting of the Anglican Woman's Auxillary in Brockville, gave an interesting account, complete in every detail. She also had the honor of moving the vote of thanks to the guest speaker, Miss Gwyneth Bedford Jones.

A social half hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by Mrs. L. Barkis, Mrs. A. Wilson and Miss Mary Moon.

NATO POST

PARIS (AP) — Denmark's air force chief, Lt.-Gen. Tage Andersen, will take command of NATO air forces in Northern Europe (Denmark and Norway) in July. He was nominated by Gen. Laurie Norstad, the supreme commander, to succeed the retiring Maj. - Gen. Norman Sillin of the U.S.

Missionary teachers from India and Formosa are among the speakers being heard at the W.M.S. annual council at St. Andrew's Church. GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TWO WORDS TO AVOID

Two of the most vicious words are "bored" and "nervous." Avoid them . . . avoid them. Don't let yourself get the unwise habit of using them . . . and it's such an easy habit to get. Every breath pleasant words to hear, and the conversation is never pleasant. And, grimly, they "grow by what they feed on"!

PLANS FOR WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Since quite a number of people are coming to our daughter's church wedding who won't be coming to the reception (the bodies get, you know!), would it be proper procedure to have a receiving-line at the back of the church, immediately following the ceremony?

2. The reception and the seated wedding luncheon will be held in a very attractive inn nearby. There will be approximately ninety guests. Is it my duty to greet and seat the guests as they arrive, before I sit down? And does there have to be a Parents' Table? Since the two families do not know each other at all well, we thought we might let each family sit with their own relatives rather than trying to mix the two sets of relatives.

— Bride's Mother

1. In the circumstance it is gracious plan for the bride and groom to form a receiving line at the church to receive the guests who aren't going on to the reception. However, since there is to be a reception and luncheon to follow soon after the ceremony, I suggest only the bride and groom receive the guests, and very briefly, that there not be a real receiving-line, which would take a too much time, would keep people invited to the reception.

2. I would like to have you have the real reception at the inn, with a receiving-line: you, the hostess, first in the line, to greet and welcome the guests; the groom's father (optional); groom's mother; bride's father (optional); the bride and groom. It is very important that the bride stand at the right of the groom; the maid of honor; the bridesmaids.

Your husband may prefer not to stand in the line, but instead to mingle with the guests, making introductions and so forth. When all the guests have been received, the receiving line breaks up, and the wedding party, headed by the bride and groom, leads the way to the room where the luncheon is to be served.

I don't at all approve of the awkward procedure of having each family sit with their own relatives. Why not give your daughter the joyous memory of having a Bridal Table for her and her groom and their attendants, with the festive ceremony of the cutting-of-the-cake? And it's so simple and easy to have a Parents' Table: you, the hostess, at the head of the table; your husband, the host seated opposite you. At your right, the groom's father, man guest of honor; and at your left, the minister. At your husband's right, the groom's mother, woman guest of honor; and at his left, the minister's wife, if he is married, or, if not, a woman relative of your family.

A few other close relatives and intimate friends of the two families may also be invited to sit at this table, the women and men alternately. This gives rightness and dignity to the proceedings, gives honor and compliment to those most importantly concerned. The other guests may be seated at long tables or (better, if possible) at small tables for four or six.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. J. F. — Ellen doesn't date.

Ellen F. — I don't have to depend on boys to enjoy life.

* * *

Mrs. J. F. — I am somewhat concerned about my daughter Ellen, who is nearly 16, very attractive and likable, but dateless.

Ellen is one of the top students in her school and is active in many extracurricular events. You would think that would throw her into contact with boys, but somehow it doesn't. When there is a dance Ellen and her little crowd of girl friends are left out.

Ellen doesn't seem to mind, but I feel that she should be getting some dating experience now. She plans to go to college and I know that many girls age left out of dating activities at college. I feel she should get into the swing now if she doesn't want to be cast aside, when dates become more important to her.

Ellen F. — Nobody will ever fling me moaning over not having a date. I have so many things to do, so many things that interest me that I don't have to depend upon boys.

My friends are all like me. We all have high marks and lots of interests outside of dating and boys. We all go to the theater together or to other places of interest. Sometimes we get together for the evening at one of our homes and just talk and laugh ourselves sick.

Of course, we are normal girls and would welcome dates if they came our way, but we don't see any sense in sitting around crying about it if they don't. My friends tell me that my mother is like all the others — always pushing them to get dates.

The Council: It is doubtful whether there is much to be gained by pressuring girls or boys into dating earlier than they want to. Such youngsters sometimes force themselves into social contacts with the opposite sex purely to please their parents. But at heart they resent the whole situation and take it out on themselves and their companions. It certainly doesn't open the road toward a happy relationship with a mate.

On the other hand, children often need help in understanding themselves and the world around them, and if parents keep the communication arteries open they may achieve the same results they seek when they wrongfully use pressure.

A girl like Ellen, for example, undoubtedly has some desire to meet and form friendships with boys. Happy as she is with all her friends and interests, she is curious about boys and just a little bit worried about why he has been totally left out of the social picture at her school.

Pride keeps Ellen from acknowledging some of these things to herself, but if she felt that her mother was deeply interested and sympathetic without being at all demanding, she might open up more and confess that she is a little hurt and confused. Then Mrs. J. F. can help her go to work and find out how to build up contacts with boys.

Undoubtedly Ellen and her friends stick together so closely to build a barrier against the very social contacts they really want. They do not realize that the boys are just as fearful as they are and need opportunities and encouragement. Mothers can certainly help the girls understand this.

Delightful Dinner Dress

By VERA WINSTON

Whether one enjoys an unrestricted wardrobe or must perforce operate on a budget, a black silk chiffon dinner dress is a gem to be sought and treasured. Seek no longer, if you are in search of a dress that should be in good standing for several seasons. This treasure has a deep V neckline. A contrasting laced corselette belt is most flattering to the slim waistline. It may be replaced by a narrow self belt, if desired.

Chicken Pies To Freeze

by Mary Moore

As a result of requests, some from readers, some from researchers, my refrigerator-freezer is full of chicken pies.

These are going to serve multipl purposes. They are going to feed me and mine. They are going to provide fodder for a cokmm. They are going to provide know how for many a city and country cook to fill her deep freezre with the best chicken pies yet. There goes little Miss Modesty again!

Since making pastry was not my objective, but making chicken pies that froze well and reheated to perfect hot chicken pies on the table was, I used a homogenized pie crust mix which cost 34 cents for an 18-oz. box.

When mixed as directed, this amount of pastry-(equivalent to 4 cups sifted flour, 1 1-3 cups shortening, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 cup water) will make two 7" or 8" deep chicken pies—lined sides, bottom and top with pastry, or 5 individual chicken pies—pastry-lined sides, bottom and top.

I bought one roasting chicken for $1.43 weighing 3 2-3 pounds; giblets—cooked in for speed's sake in 1 cup water and 10 pounds pressure 50 minutes. I turned it out on a big tray to cool off so I could slip the meat from the bones and tipped the liquid into a bowl to chill so I could skim off the fat. I discarded the bones, gristle and most of the skin.

FILLING FOR CHICKEN PIES

(Which may be frozen.)

Amount fills 2 large deep pies or 5 or 6 man-size individual pies. Skim chicken fat from broth and make it up to 1-2 cup by adding butter or margarine. Add 1-2 cup flour and heat and stir until blended. Remove from chicken broth, add 1 cup milk or cream and smooth; hot water to make it up to 3 cups. Stir into flour-butter mixture until thick and bubbling. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon of pepper.

Have ready your pastry-lined baking dishes — 2 large or 5 or 6 individual. Do not use glass or pyrex or enamel. I used stainless steel baking dishes simply because I have them. You can use them or tin or aluminum or heavy aluminum foil or heavily waxed cardboard. The latter two being available from bakers for this purpose.

Have lined up in a row 1-4 to 1-2 cup chopped canned pimiento, 1-2 to 1 pound fresh frozen or canned peas, the white sauce and the boneless chicken in large pieces. Apportion some of each evenly into the pastry-lined baking dishes — finishing with a layer of white sauce and meat on top of each. Cover and seal on top crust. Note: If these chicken pies are to be frozen for more than a week do not grab top crust. Slip into heavy polyethylene bags and tie top with twister. (25 quart-size bags with ties are 85 cents.) Freeze. Pastry not store too long. Figure on using a layer deep and stored pies in your freezer within two months.

To bake; Bake chicken pies at 400 deg. Fahr. If frozen solid bake individual pies 70 minutes, large pies 90 minutes. If thawed 55 minutes for large. To my mind there is not much choice between baking them thewed or frozen. Both were excellent.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

All of a sudden it is early summer. As usual we don't know where spring went; we are not sure if it was here or not. There was the late dragging winter, a few days in suspension and now the beginning of summer. However, we are sure many will disagree and say, "Now we have spring", and maybe they are right. We would have to admit that rhubarb and asparagus come in the spring and that this is their season. So whether spring or early summer, it is May and time for planning clothes.

We maintain that there has not been a year for a long time when all kinds of fashions have been so pretty, so flattering, so gay or so feminine. From head to toe, it is a joy to buy or to consider buying. While all fashions are colorful, to have a coordinated wardrobe it is best to choose one basic color and have every outfit and accessory to fit into the scheme. But it is best not to look for a perfect match; the blending of colors is the most important point.

Say, for instance, that green is the basic color chosen. This is what might be selected for a spring and summer wardrobe. A coat in soft green cut not too slim or too full, perhaps of a waffle weave or one of the new Canadian fabrics. With this would go a soft green hat possibly with a high crown.

Of course you would want a suit maybe in a Canadian wool worsted, a soft blue shade with a slight greenish cast. For the newest spring suit style, it would have a shorter easy fitting jacket and shorter sleeves. A cotton knit dress, good for the office or the average day at home, might be of green and blue print which would show no wrinkles. Then a spot of brightness for under the green coat might be a synthetic fabric dress in a pastel pink, green and black paisley print. Without the coat later on and with pastel accessories, this dress would be a very useful item.

Two more to go — one is a two - piece drip dry cotton in the new shirtwaist style in a turquoise with green and mauve print; the other is a silk suit, a dress with matching jacket in a navy fabric which has a purple sheen.

So the whole wardrobe consists of one coat, two suits, and three dresses. How many of us plan so that we get the most value for our money and a coordinated costume for most occasions that would arise?

Something new in the way of ornament and home decoration has come out of a new art that is flourishing in Canada. This is a way of embedding nature's products in clear blocks of an acrylic resin called "Lucite". There is a company doing this type of work in a small town in northern Quebec.

Some of the most popular blocks look like sea gardens with authentic shells, sea horses and tropical plants. These need not be blocks but may take such shapes as book ends or table squarisms. In the clear transparency of this resin, the articles embedded seem to float in space.

Small articles of the same type are also produced by this firm. The most popular of these are ear-rings, cuff links and key chains. Sentimental memories all the way from baby's first shoe, to a favorite medallion can also be embedded. The "Lucite" is poured into moulds gradually and allowed to harden. As layers are built up, the objects to be used can be placed at will in the desired arrangement.

It was Emerson who said, — "Finish each day and be done with it. You have done what you could. Some blunders and absurdities, no doubt, crept in. Forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day. Begin it serenely, and with too high a spirit to be encumbered with your old nonsense."

Club Activities

MELROSE 4-H CLUB

The first meeting of the Melrose 4-H Club was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Howard with several members in attendance.

The leaders, Mrs. Howard and Mrs. McLaren, distributed members' pamphlets, "Clothes Closets Up-to-Date."

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows: president, Eileen Reilly; vice-president, Shirley Pearce; treasurer, Joan Milligan and press reporter, Barbara Denville.

A discussion on types of closets, proper ventilation and light of closets and how to decorate and make your closets harmonize with your room, was held.

The home assignment and roll call were given and the meeting was adjourned.

St. Joseph's Hears Talk on Hockey Series

Mr. Jack Devine's remarks on his trip to cover the world championship hockey series in Europe proved an interesting and enlightening topic at a recent meeting of St. Joseph's P.T.A.

The members were impressed by his sincere urging that Canadians should appreciate more fully the wonderful country in which they live.

On May 6th a successful bridge and euchre was held at the Knights of Columbus hall. Mrs. W. Meagher won the ladies' high in bridge, with the men's high going to Mr. H. Townsend.

The ladies' high for euchre went to Mrs. A. Outlaghye and Mrs. Mac Farrell took the men's high. Other fine prizes were also won by the bridge and euchre players.

The two handsome door prizes, grocery hampers, were collected by Mrs. H. Bone and Mrs. J. Holland. Various other door prizes were distributed.

The bake table, convened by Mrs. A. O'Connor, assisted by Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Dumisie offered a tempting display to the guests. The centre of attraction was a lovely cake decorated with St. Joseph's school colors and this was won by Mrs. J. Hanley, complete with the cake keeper.

Mrs. C. O'Neil and her committee of class mothers took care of the delicious refreshments.

Mr. F. O'Connor and his many helpers are to be congratulated on the fine effort put forth to make this annual affair a great success.

Mother's Helper

EVEN after your baby can handle his own bottle or cup of juice, do make yourself sit down and "take a break" with him. It's a temptation to keep working while he's occupied, but you'll get more done in the long run if you give yourself this chance to relax for a few minutes.

Int. Hardware Holds Banquet

The International Hardware Association held the closing banquet and dance recently at Club Canara. There was a large turnout of team members, accompanied by their husbands or wives, and all enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner.

Trophies were presented to the two top-winning teams, the Levers, the winners for the season, received the Carling trophy, and each player received an individual trophy.

The play-off winners were the Clixenden, who received individual trophies.

Gord Russell presented trophies to Dorothy Latchford and Gar Anderson for high average; Veronica Sunderland and Jim Barriage for high triples; Mary Semark and Bob Coles for high singles.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The 1959-60 officers were elected as follows: chairman, Gar Anderson; vice-chairman, Pat Tracey; secretary, Percy Graham; treasurer, Mary Semark; arbitrator, Bob Coles.

Door prizes were drawn at the banquet and dance and also a number of spot dance prizes.

Survey In Australia Shows Women Live Longer Than Men

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Australian women, like their sisters in other countries, are winning the longevity battle.

This triumph in the battle for survival is recognized in a special survey undertaken by the department of social services here.

The total number of women over the age of 60 in Australia—340,000—exceeds the men by two to one.

Details of these statements were given in an official publication called Demography, put out by the department of social services.

Demography is the statistical study of population, births, deaths, marriages, causes of death, mortality rates, immigration and anything else which can be recorded about the way people are born, live and die.

The study deals with what are called "survivors" — the number of people left, at any age, out of 10,000 who were born at the same time.

GIRLS TOUGHER THAN BOYS

For example, out of 100,000 women who were born in Australia between 1933 and 1955, there were, in the years 1953-1955, 69,613 still living.

But out of 100,000 men born at the same time, only 54,054 were still alive.

According to the figures, women's ability to survive longer than men is evident throughout life.

Baby girls are obviously tougher than baby boys. Out of 100,000 Australian girls born between 1946-50, 97,471 survived. Out of the same number of boys born at the same time, 96,611 survived.

A good check at other age groups simply repeats the trend.

Expectation - of - life tables naturally show the same situation. A girl born between 1953-55 can expect to live on an average until she is nearly 71. But a boy born at the same time will die just after his 67th birthday.

There is, however, some comfort in the fact that things have improved for both men and women in the last 20 years or so.

LITTLE HOPE FOR MEN

A boy born in Australia in 1901 could expect to live only until he was 55. But even then the woman had the edge—a girl could expect to live until she was 58.

Doctors, scientists and psychiatrists offer little hope to men who want to reverse what appears to be a natural law.

In sum, what they say is this: If men want to outlive women they will have to give up working, drinking and smoking.

And even then there is no certainty of victory. Some biologists believe that women have a superior built-in capacity for survival.

Nor is there any comfort from observing other species.

Men have one thing in common with 70 other creatures, from worms, crabs and insects to birds, fish, snakes and mammals: The female of the species is more long-lived than the male.

Play Depicts Role Played by Cypriot Women

By SHANE GUERRILLAN

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Greeks in many parts of Cyprus are flocking to see a play which reveals for the first time hitherto-unknown aspects of the role played by Cypriot women in the EOKA independence movement.

Its author is a woman who so far remains anonymous. It has an all-woman cast and is called The Golden Eagles—a code name given to EOKA's women fighters.

Lt.-Gen. George Grivas, the EOKA commander, said on his return to Athens in March after settlement of the long struggle against British rule that without the active participation of Cypriot women, his movement probably would have failed.

But few people in Cyprus ever imagined that the women's contribution to the campaign could have been as great as now is claimed in The Golden Eagles.

The play was rehearsed secretly and first was staged on April 1, the anniversary of the birth of EOKA. Since then there have been many repeat performances and halls have been crowded every time.

The Golden Eagles is an intensely emotional drama described as depicting the armed resistance a group of EOKA girls put up against British forces during some four years of strife.

After the inaugural performance Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot leader, said: "I congratulate these girls who, inspired by the most principles of Christianity, took part in the liberation struggle, in which their role was very considerable."

At another performance there was a short address at the end by Miss Ourania Kokkinou, who was arrested several times during the emergency as an EOKA suspect and detained for many months without trial.

"This is no feast, no celebration," she said. "What you have seen is a re-enactment of some of the things that we went through, and did, to achieve liberty . . ."

EOKA, far from being forgotten after the emergency is over, has become for them the emblem of successful strife.

Fulfilling Girlhood Dream Of Adventure, Helping Others

By ED SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAPPY VALLEY, Labrador (CP) — Kathleen Lately, affectionately known as "Jo" along Labrador's east coast, is fulfilling a girlhood dream of adventure and helping others.

Miss Lately 41, native of Devonshire in England, came to Canada in September of 1957 as a nurse with the International Grenfell Association. She is in charge of the six-bed station in this community near the Hamilton River.

The devoted and energetic nurse is proud of the fact she has delivered some 150 babies without the help of a doctor during her work here and at four other Labrador and Newfoundland Grenfell stations.

"We delivered 77 here last year," she said.

AIR FORCE HELPS

The nursing station is a branch of the main Grenfell Mission hospital at Northwest River, 40 miles away. Emergency cases brought here are normally transferred to the main hospital or, if necessary, to the RCAF's hospital at Goose Bay, seven miles distant.

"I would have many more grey hairs if it wasn't for the air force's assistance," she says.

The Labrador settlements, she admits, are not what Sir Wilfred Grenfell envisioned when he began his work as a medical missionary in this area in 1892.

"Now, it's a mixture . . . Eskimos, Indians, and more and more Canadians."

The talk was interrupted while she went to an adjoining room to stitch and patch the cut forehead of a six-year-old boy, who had bumped into the side of a car just outside.

LOVES GARDENING

Back in her bright living room she surveyed a collection of hooked by housepants and said: "I love gardening. These are my pets."

Her garden is a bright spot in this village. She had a bumper crop of vegetables last summer, including a 10-pound cabbage.

In her nursing duties she has the use of snowmobiles and aircraft as ambulances, and she trades information, news and weather reports with other Grenfell stations on her radio — telephone.

Two doctors from the hospital at Northwest River alternate on twice-weekly visits to the Happy Valley station, which developed to help the Eskimos and Indians from a first aid post in 1946.

For hobbies, besides gardening and reading, Miss Lately has an increasing stack of records with an emphasis on Newfoundland folk songs. In the summer she goes boating on the river. She also has a hula hoop. "It's very practical," she said. "Central heating may have its advantages but this place can get pretty cool in the winter, and what better than the hula hoop to help the circulation?"

Mother's Helper

HI, YE YOU thought of using an individual small pie as an occasional lunch box dessert treat for your young scholars? "Used grocery sleeves carry some pies, there are several varieties available, and they are packed in boxes that keep them from being mashed.

Hires Only Girls For Mechanical Servicing Jobs

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — A woman service station operator here hires only girls for mechanical and servicing jobs because she is confident they do better work than men.

"It's the same old deal," says Joan Crowhurst. "They're more conscientious and as their hands are smaller and more agile they can do lots of jobs which a man can't do as easily."

Miss Crowhurst employs six girls to man the pumps and to service cars. "They always keep the place neat, and we frequently win the oil company's award for cleanliness," she said proudly.

Her unusual career started when she was waiting to enrol in a school of nursing after graduating from high school. "I used to spend the time around a station owned by my dad," she said. "One of the boys taught me how to do a lubrication job and that did it."

But before going into the service station business she served in the Canadian Women's Army Corps overseas.

Soon after her return to Canada her father died and she tried a partnership deal with her brother Patrick. She purchased his share in 1951.

Now she runs the repair shop, service station and car - rental agency.

Dancer Babs Warden Knows Secret in Show Business

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Dancer Babs Warden, doe-eyed and dewlithe, knows the secret of success in show business.

"You've got to work like a slave and study just as hard," she said.

The Vancouver beauty, ballet mistress in the hit revue "La Plume de ma Tante" on Broadway, added these facts about figures:

"The supply is far greater than the demand where dancers and actresses are concerned. For every job, hundreds turn up.

"I suppose 5,000 or 6,000 girls arrive in New York every season, hoping to make good. I know people who've done nothing but study for three or four years — never getting a part.

SOME LUCK TOO

"There's a great deal of luck involved. You've got to be in the right place at the right time, and be the right type for the part that's open.

"Some people are limited by their type. An exotic type, for instance, is limited in the parts open to her. I'm lucky. I'm just average, I guess — the whole-some type, average build, average height, and I never get tired performing.

"The more you do, the more people you get to know. That helps — a lot."

Countless girls would like to be average in the Warden sense — blonde, five-foot six, 115 pounds and, in the words of Plume star Robert Dhery, a "great deal more than average talent."

"Anyway I've been working all the time since I went into show business full time six years ago," said Babs, who can sing and act as well as dance.

Recently she found time to marry Stanley Lebowsky, a composer and conductor whose best-known song is Wayward Wind.

They met while both were with the show Can Can. She also has played in the musical Pal Joey in New York and London, where she assisted with stage production and in Broadway's Music Man.

STUDIED AT VANCOUVER

Miss Warden studied at the British Columbia School of Dancing, Vancouver, and did numerous shows with Vancouver's Theatre Under the Stars. She has also done considerable television and variety work, first appearing in the United States with Jimmy Durante at Dallas, Tex., and later performing for a year as featured dancer at the Thunderbird Hotel, Las Vegas.

In her current role, she is a teacher and understudy for all the dancers in the award-winning Parisian play and admits she would prefer to be a full - time performer although "this is the busiest and most interesting part I've had."

"I watch closely and if I see the kids are not working hard, or making mistakes, I leave notes for them," said Babs, her small face severe for a moment.

"But I like all the girls, and my French is improving in this show. I'm even learning to salute other girls with a kiss, as the French do."

Asked whether she prefers working with blondes, brunettes or redheads, Babs tossed her own blonde curls and countered with this:

"How can you have a preference, when with half the people you don't really know anyway!"

Fluoride Given Top Billing By Dental Assoc.

TORONTO (CP) — Fluoride received top billing in discussions at the Ontario Dental Association's annual meeting here Monday.

Dr. C. L. Strachan of London, association president, said the eyes of the scientific world must view with derision the state of affairs in Ontario regarding fluoridation.

"It is a sad commentary that political power has, for the present at least, nullified scientific knowledge," he told delegates to the four-day convention which opened Sunday.

"To me the next quasi-logical step would be to pass a law prohibiting God from putting any fluoride or elements in the natural water of this province."

REPORT ON FLUORIDE

Three panelists reporting on a continuing study of stannous fluoride, said by painting the substance on children's teeth, tooth decay had been reduced by 28 per cent.

Dr. Frank Compton, Toronto's director of dental services, said this was no substitute for water fluoridation.

Dr. Myron Alzenberg, dean of Baltimore's college of dental surgery, told the convention that smoking and sunshine are the most common causes of lip cancer. He said anybody who risks severe sunburn is asking for trouble and added: "Men get lip cancer more often than women because they smoke more and are in the sunshine more."

TEETH X-RAYS SAFE

At another convention—annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Dentistry for Children (CSDC) —A. G. Richards, professor of dentistry at the University of Michigan, scoffed at fears that cancer or luekemia may result from teeth x-rays.

"There are no reports in dental medical literature of any harm being done by a person's undergoing dental x-rays." He said radiation received in dental x-rays is insignificant.

ICE - CRUSHERS

Large ice-breakers with their sharply-angled bows ride up and crush ice with their weight, rather than cutting through.

2nd Sidney

SND SIDNEY — A christening was held at St. George's Church, Trenton, on Sunday, with Rev. Blackford officiating. One of the babies was Peter DeClerq, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Several of the different babies' elder brothers were made godfathers and the minister said this was the first time he knew of having this happen.

Mr. Jack Chambers of Peterborough spent Sunday supper hour with his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McEwen.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Blackman of Bloomfield were Saturday evening caller of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pearson and Linda, of Trenton, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Flagler of Belleville visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Alexander on Sunday afternoon.

The Bay of Quinte Institute will hold its May meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid on Wednesday evening with a speaker from the port. Mrs. Bill will also assist in arranging the program. All are welcome.

Miss Peggy Ham of Bath spent Saturday with her friends, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. DeClerq.

Mr. Fred White's funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at Weaver's Funeral Home, Trenton. Sympathy is extended to Frank and Richard.

ALLOWS PICKETING

TORONTO (CP) — A ruling Monday by Mr. Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court allows peaceful picketing of the W. C. Wood Company in Guelph. The company sought an injunction to restrain picketing but the motion was adjourned indefinitely. About 125 employees of the company have been on strike since April 3 in a contract dispute.

Manitoba Electors Will Go To Polls on Thursday; Finance Chief Issue in Campaign

WINNIPEG (CP)—Finance has been a main point of controversy in the campaign for Thursday's Manitoba general election.

There are 160 candidates representing three different provincial policies in the running.

The Progressive Conservatives, advocating a more flexible grip on the provincial purse strings, and the Liberal - Progressives, calling for cautious spending, each will contest all 57 seats at stake. The CCF, agreeing with neither of the other parties, will run candidates in 46 constituencies.

Polls will open at 9 a. m. CDT and close at 9 p. m.

DEFERRED VOTE

Elections have been deferred until June 11 in the northern ridings of Churchill and Supertendent, where rugged country hampers election machinery at any time and prevents its operation altogether during spring breakup.

Standing at dissolution of the 57-seat legislature was: Progressive Conservatives, 36, Liberal-Progressives 19, CCF 11, and Independent one.

The most-argued point in the campaign has been the budget of Premier Duff Roblin, who is also treasurer in the Progressive Conservative government. The budget never was presented.

Mr. Roblin contended on the hustings, while sending the unrevealed budget before his listeners, that it is the best ever drawn for no increase in taxes.

Hard opponents, the Liberal-Progressives, claimed that the budget could not be balanced with $3,000,000 in new taxes and to introduce a provincial sales tax to pay for the program his government proposed.

The CCF, using the tax-raising federal Conservative government, said Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his colleagues would raise provincial taxes if a federal Conservative government was elected.

Both opposition parties described Mr. Roblin's promises of "no tax increase" promises and took the stand that "Tories and taxes go together."

The election, coming within a period of 12 months of the previous vote on June 16, 1958, resulted from a hassle over the Conservative financial plans should be presented to the legislature.

$3,000,000 SURPLUS

Mr. Roblin tabled estimates calling for expenditures of $120,000,000 for the 1959 fiscal year. He predicted there would be a surplus of approximately three quarters of more than $3,000,000.

The premier then moved to present his budget by suspending the rules of legislative procedure. But the move was sought to hang a rider on his move and when the matter came to a vote, the Liberal-Progressives and the CCF out-voted the government.

Mr. Roblin obtained his vote-of-confidence and called for dissolution of the house. Polls will be Aug. 31, setting the election for May 14.

Mr. Campbell charged that Mr. Roblin was afraid to present his budget because he knew it was not balanced. He would not say what the government plans would be.

R. W. Bend, health minister in the former Liberal - Progressive government and one of the chief Liberal spokesmen during the campaign, said the Conservatives planned to spend $153,000,000 and expected revenues of only $87,000,000. This meant they would have to borrow or raise taxes.

In either case, the budget was not balanced, Mr. Bend said. The question could only be settled by the voters.

Mr. Roblin urged voters not to be frightened by the Liberal "tax scare." The Conservative program was "within our means to provide."

Outfitter Does Not Favor Bear Hunt Organized

TRAMING (CP)—A North Bay tourist outfitter who organized a mass bear hunt 20 years ago is not in favor of the one scheduled to start Saturday.

Len Hughes, usually in favor of almost anything to attract people to the woods, said Tuesday night this new hunt is not in the best interests of tourist outfitters who count on the post-hibernation hunting period for their living.

"Hordes of hunters tramping through the woods will interfere with the usual spring hunts operated by outfitters," Mr. Hughes said.

TWO SKINS ALREADY

Max Lathem, a hardrock miner, jumped the gun on Saturday's opening when he went out Monday and shot the district's first bear of the season—a 200-pounder.

He gave the skin to the bear hunt committee which received the first skin from Carleton Place rear Ottawa last week.

The skins are expected to be the first of a flood which will provide two hats each in a campaign to replace the deteriorating headgear of the Buckingham Palace guards.

The London War Office has gratefully received an offer by Timmins Mayor Leo Del Villano to send "all the bearskins we can get."

GET HAND-ME-DOWNS

Also interested is the quartermaster of the Royal Canadian Regiment in Toronto. His gulf usually gets its bearskins as hand-me-downs from the British guards.

About 75 hunters, in teams of five, are ready to go bear hunting Saturday. They until June 15 to get the desired number of bears.

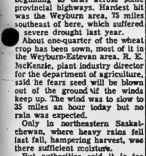
Mr. Hughes, in opposing the hunt, joins several groups of animal lovers who describe it as a "slaughter."

Clouds of Dust Cover Southern Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—The almost-perennial fear of crop failure is hovering over Saskatchewan again.

Clouds of dust swirled over the southern half of the province for the third consecutive day Tuesday as west winds gusted up to 60 miles an hour. It was the worst day of the soil-drifting that has gone on intermittently for six weeks.

The gales have been part of a spring that has brought some of the normal variations of heat and cold, and exceptionally little rain. Visibility was down to 20 yards Tuesday in some rural areas. Ditches were filled and drifts were beginning to drift across some provincial highways. Hardest hit was the Weyburn area, 75 miles southeast of here, which suffered severe drought last year.



About one-quarter of the wheat crop has been sown, most of it in the Weyburn-Estevan area. R. E. McKenzie, plant industry director for the department of agriculture, said he fears seed will be blown out of the ground if the winds keep up. The wind was to slow to 35 miles an hour today but no rain was expected.

Only in northeastern Saskatchewan, where heavy rains fell last fall, hampering harvest, was there sufficient moisture.

But authorities said it is too early in the year for farmers to be discouraged.

"This is bad", said Agriculture Minister I. C. Mollet. "But we get a little soil-drifting every spring."

'Just a Second'

"There used to be some thing about him that I liked, but he spent it all."

3 Labor Groups Ask to Represent Seaway Workers

OTTAWA (CP) — Three labor groups will bid today for jurisdiction among the men who operate the St. Lawrence Seaway locks.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) will apply to the Canada Labor Relation Board for certification rights all along the seaway.

The Seafarers' International Union (CLC), a rival, will apply for certification rights among unlicensed workers on the Beauharnois locks near Montreal. The Dominion Canal Employees' Federation, an affiliate of the Civil Service Federation of Canada, which is independent, will bid for jurisdiction on three locks at the western end of the seaway.

About 1,000 men are involved.

The blanket application by the Canadian Brotherhood, another all-Canadian union, represents a take-off with the United Association of Marine Engineers (CLC) on four steamship companies, A decision was reserved.

The SIU has been ordered by the Canadian Labor Congress to stop raiding the N.A.M.E. membership or face expulsion from the CLC.

Named in the SIU application are Transit Tankers, Seacons field Steamships, Mohawk Navigation and Branch Line tankers.

Transit Tankers previously has been ordered by the board to bargain with the N.A.M.E. rather than the SIU.

Originally, the SIU represented only unlicensed personnel aboard lake and dget-sea vessels but more recently it formed a licensed division covering engineers and other licenced categories.

Khrushchev Likely to Visit U.S. This Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration appears reconciled to a possible visit by Premier Khrushchev to the United States this year, perhaps this summer.

Officials are talking seriously about whether to combine a Khrushchev visit with a summit conference in some American city.

This signals a change in attitude by authorities whose views have been important in deciding both issues. Until now, they have stressed the difficulties involved in a Khrushchev visit or choosing an American site for a summit meeting.

President Eisenhower probably would say "yes" to such a Khrushchev request.

The president would have no alternative, many officials believe, now that the Soviets have agreed to allow Vice-President Richard Nixon to open an American national exposition in Moscow July 25.

HEES VISITS WELLAND CANAL — Transport Minister Hees inspects conditions on the Welland Canal with Thomas Ryan, superintending engineer. Mr. Hees said foreign vessels without proper gear for the Welland canal would not be allowed to enter since lack of gear has slowed them down aggravating the congestion. London Still Optimistic Iraq Won't Go Communist

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's decision to sell arms to Iraq underlines London's optimism that the regime of Premier Karim Kassem won't go Communist.

The Macmillan government's reading of the Middle East situation is still different from Washington's, as it has been since the Suez Canal fiasco of 1956. Washington officials are said to be pessimistic about the chances of stopping a Communist takeover in Iraq.

There is general agreement that Communists dominate peasant and worker groups, student and teacher organizations and frequently instigate demonstrations in favor of the Soviet Union.

But there is less agreement on the extent to which Communists have infiltrated the government. Many American observers believe the penetration is already serious.

In announcing the arms deal to the House of Commons, the minister of state for foreign affairs, John Profumo, said Britain does not accept the premise that the present regime in Iraq is completely dominated by the Communists.

The emphasis, perhaps, should be on the word "completely." Despite much Communist activity in the country, no known Communists hold cabinet positions. There are reports that Kassem will soon revamp his cabinet and it will then be shown whether he still has the authority to reject demands that he should include pro - Soviet men in it.

The sale of British arms to Kassem may be designed to prevent what happened in the United Arab Republic and Guinea. When President Nasser was rebuffed by the West when he asked for money to help build the Aswan dam, he turned to Russia. And after Suez, the Soviet Union became one of the few countries where he could buy arms.

In the case of Guinea, there is talk of Communist infiltration there, too, but President Sekou Toure protests that when France, which formerly held the territory as a colony, refused him guns and money and the United States seemed unwilling to help, all he could do was to accept "gifts" from Communist countries.

The British move, if it is followed by similar ones in other countries, may reduce the occasion when the rulers of newly independent states such as Guinea feel they are being pushed into the Communists' arms.

Another reason for Britain's arms offer may be less humanitarian. Iraq is an important oil-producing state. To the south, around the Persian Gulf, are sheikdoms where British has some of her most important oil investments. A show of support for an independent - minded Kassem could be a form of insurance to keep other oil - producing countries in alliance with Britain and the West.

Fleming Denies Rumor About Bank of Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming has denied that the Bank of Canada has asked the chartered banks to curtail personal and commercial lending.

Replying in the Commons to Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam), the minister said he has seen newspaper articles to this effect but they were "completely speculative."

Mr. Fleming told William Benjamin Nickerson (L — Kenora - Rainy River) he would inform the Commons if Governor James Coyne of the Bank of Canada recommends to the chartered banks a restriction on lending.

3 PROTESTS

Mr. Hees also told Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) that he has heard of no protests by Canadian ship owners that foreign vessels are not required to carry pilots through the entire St. Lawrence seaway.

Mr. Hees accused Paul Hellyer (L-Toronto Trinity) of "talking off the top of his head" when the latter asked whether the federal government would participate financially in construction of a new bridge over the Niagara River.

Mr. Hees said he was not aware of any "unnecessary" delays. The delays were to ships at the canal entrance.

Mr. Hellyer said a lot of ships has been expected at the Port Colborne entrance to the canal in Lake Erie, heavy fog was the only problem Tuesday. But hopes of the season's opening entered the lakes have yet to return.

The Dutch freighter Prinz Willem George Frederik is on her way back to Rotterdam today after being the first ocean ship through the seaway and into the ports of Toronto, Hamilton and Toledo.

Capt. Teunis Sjoerd (Steve) Aadjik remarked during a stopover in Montreal on Tuesday that the seaway "is functioning 100 per cent more effectively now than when I first opened."

In Clayton, N.Y., salvage operators on the tip of Grindstone Island on the St. Lawrence began work today to float a 65-foot steel barge that sank in 65 feet of water Monday were delayed by rain and by heavy fog. Another lanker was sent to unload some of the 1,000 barrels of crude oil in its holds.

Eddie and Liz Spend Wedding Night on Plane

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor stopped off here between planes today on their way to a European honeymoon.

After their wedding late Tuesday in Las Vegas, Nev., they flew to Los Angeles and then took a jet to New York. They spent their wedding night sitting up in the jet.

When photographers asked them to embrace for pictures, Miss Taylor declined and said:

"We're saving that for ourselves."

The couple was scheduled to leave by plane later today for Rome but Fisher said he had to complete passport arrangements and their departure might be postponed until Thursday.

He said he and his wife expect to be abroad three or four months.

Welland Canal Congestion Clearing as Number of Ships Delayed Now Down to 22

By The Canadian Press

The Welland ship canal, which came down with a bad case of congestion about 10 days ago, still isn't breathing easy — but it appears to be into its second wind.

From a recent total of 50 up-bound ships anchored near the canal's Port Weller gate, that number of ships delayed from passing between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie was reduced to 22 early today.

The extra effort which accomplished this created a paradox, however. Canal officials found Tuesday that because they pushed so many down-bound ships through the canal, they'd run out of pilots. Forty-two pilots were on ships spread from Port Weller to Sarnia.

The pilots are required to take overseas vessels through the canal's 26 miles and through the St. Clair River to Sarnia.

HEES ANNOUNCEMENT

In Ottawa Monday night Transport Minister Hees said foreign ships not properly equipped will not be allowed to pass through the Welland Canal system. The radar equipment is standard, and is available at Hamilton, Toronto, and St. Lawrence ports.

"All foreign ships waiting to use the Welland Canal have been advised of the type of equipment necessary for navigation," he said in an interview.

Hellyer, in the House of Commons, Mr. Hees likened the canal to a popular girl at a dance. "She's so popular that in vessels priority over foreign ships were given to Canadian, Canadian ships were among those waiting at Port Weller.

"There is no priority at the present time, but this matter is under study," he said.

NO PROTESTS

Mr. Hees also told Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) that he has heard of no protests by Canadian ship owners that foreign vessels are not required to carry pilots through the entire St. Lawrence seaway.

Mr. Hees accused Paul Hellyer (L-Toronto Trinity) of "talking off the top of his head" when the latter asked whether the federal government would participate financially in construction of a new bridge over the Niagara River.

Mr. Hellyer said a lot of ships has been expected at the Port Colborne entrance to the canal in Lake Erie, heavy fog was the only problem Tuesday. But hopes of the season's opening entered the lakes have yet to return.

The Dutch freighter Prinz Willem George Frederik is on her way back to Rotterdam today after being the first ocean ship through the seaway and into the ports of Toronto, Hamilton and Toledo.

Capt. Teunis Sjoerd (Steve) Aadjik remarked during a stopover in Montreal on Tuesday that the seaway "is functioning 100 per cent more effectively now than when I first opened."

In Clayton, N.Y., salvage operators on the tip of Grindstone Island on the St. Lawrence began work today to float a 65-foot steel barge that sank in 65 feet of water Monday were delayed by rain and by heavy fog. Another lanker was sent to unload some of the 1,000 barrels of crude oil in its holds.

Premier Frost Two Hours Late For Meeting

KENORA (CP) — Premier Frost arrived here Tuesday night about two hours late but made his election campaign speech after an 80-mile trip in the caboose of a freight train and an 140-mile dash by car with a police escort.

The premier spoke at a luncheon meeting in Sioux Lookout and was to fly the 130 miles here by chartered aircraft. But winds gusting to 50 miles an hour and heavy icing conditions forced postponement of the flight.

It was at first decided to make the entire trip by car—a road distance of almost 300 miles. Then a quick-thinking aide thought of a freight train due to leave for Fort Frances in 30 minutes.

Arrangements were made at the station and Mr. Frost, Clem Gordon his executive assistant, Roger Lemelin, publisher of the weekly Fort Frances Times and Ray Lawson, Conservative candidate, boarded the caboose of the train of 85 empty ore cars being pulled by a two-unit diesel.

SIGN RELEASE

Before boarding the train Mr. Frost, Mr. Gordon and others, signed a form releasing the railway from responsibility in case of an accident.

The 89 miles took about three hours. Mr. Frost spent most of the time in the cupola of the caboose watching the scenery and chatting with his fellow passengers.

Chairman Henry Jarvis of Rainy River brewed a pot of tea on the potbellied stove to go with sandwiches hurriedly purchased at the station restaurant.

A telephone call alerted party supporters in Fort Frances.

A provincial police cruiser led the way as the premier was driven here in dignity more than two hours despite unseasonal snow and rain.

Graduates Told To Prepare for Freedom Fight

HALIFAX (CP)—Graduates of three Maritime universities have been warned to be prepared to protect their freedom from the threat of communism.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker called for an international "declaration of freedom's creed" in a convocation address Tuesday at Mount Allison University in Sackville, N.B.

Charles Malik, president of the United Nations General Assembly, told graduates of St. Mary's University here that the world is facing a crisis that calls for clear - cut decisions and judgments.

And Justice Minister Fulton, addressing the graduation class of St. Dunstan's University in Charlottetown, said the free world should match the Communist effectively now than when it first opened."

RECEIVE DOCTORATES

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Malik received honorary doctor of law degrees. St. Mary's also conferred a degree on Richard Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a declaration of free men's beliefs "is demanded now if the peoples of the uncommitted world are to be given a clear and appealing understanding of freedom and democracy and of the superiority of freedom over the false claims of communism.

He said a contest unequalled in all history for the minds and souls of men is taking place in Asia and Africa among neutral countries. Material aid programs themselves "will not meet the challenge of communism, for nothing in the Communist world has planted the suspicion that there must be some ulterior purpose in the actions of the free world in granting assistance," he added.

Mr. Malik said unprecedented triumphs in science and technology had brought two new problems to a small world.

"In an age in which men are frightened, suspicious and divided, who going to affirm their essential human unity if not the university?"

Youth Largely Is Product Of His Environment, Must Be Judged on Other Phase

By G. K. HODENFIELD

WASHINGTON (AP) — American adults are exploiting the juvenile delinquent.

Some are cashing in financially on youth's natural rebellion, all the while bemoaning its behavior.

They are giving the adolescent new standards of toughness, then crying, "I told you so" when he tries to live up to them.

They are neither ready, willing nor able to understand the problem; many of this complaints reflect more adult irritability than juvenile delinquency.

These are the considered opinions of six experts who specialize months seeking the hard learned of truth in the mountains of chaff that have been written about teen-agers. Their report, Delinquent Behavior: Culture and the Individual, was published by the National Education Association.

OF ENVIRONMENT

The experts don't say—as did the late Father Flanagan of Boys' Town—that "there is no such thing as a bad boy." But they do contend that today's youth is largely a product of his environment, and must be judged according to the culture of which he is a part.

The authors of the report, and their special fields, are: William C. Kvaraceus (director of the project), psychology; Milton L. Barron, sociology; Edward M. Daniels, psychiatry; Preston A. McLendon, "pediatrics; Walter B. Miller, cultural anthropology; Benjamin Thompson, criminology.

The picture of juvenile delinquency is complicated, they say, by the pressures of modern life. The public needs a scapegoat, and has found one in "the intimidating adolescent and the annoying delinquent."

"The public, suddenly awakened to its second place in the race to the moon, has pounced on the school and the adolescent learner as the arch-villains responsible for its plight.

"The popular writers of stage, screen, radio television and press have been quick to exploit this situation."

POPULAR IMAGE

In the popular images "The delinquent is black-jacketed and long-haired. He runs around on a bright and noisy motorcycle or in a souped-up hot rod. He is cynical, he is cruel. He is restless. He is dangerously free and uninhibited sexually. He is aggressive. He travels with the pack. He is heartless . . .

"Movie producers, publishers, authors and comic-book artists are hardly insensitive to the great sales value of such an image on the consumer market. Therefore titles and cover illustrations are lurid and titillating, and the image of the juvenile delinquent as the epitome of evil is being sold for all it is worth."

What happens when the youngsters see movies like The Blackboard Jungle and The Wild One? Their reaction, says the report, is: "Gee, I thought I was tough. That kid is twice as tough as me. So that's what you have to do to be tough."

The popular image is inaccurate and exaggerated, says the report. But it becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy because the youngsters begin to act out what they have seen. And when this happens, many people say, "Ah! See, we told you so! The author has written a real-life story!"

ANCIENT COMPLAINT

It's an ancient complaint, say the experts, that the younger generation is flighty, irresponsible, and rebellious.

Today, however, conflict between youth and adults is sharper and much more in evidence. In the past there may have been more tolerance for the sowing of wild oats, but today the machines and methods of rebellion are increasingly dangerous.

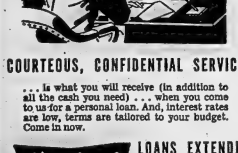
The problem is serious, says the report, and calls for much more research than ever has been done. It also calls for adults to detach themselves emotionally from the problem, and consider adolescents as participating members of a highly volatile society.

Soo Council Urges Uranium Power Plants

SAULT STE. Marie, Ont. (CP) A proposal urging construction of uranium power plants was endorsed by city council Monday night.

The proposal was made in a submission by the Soo and suburban planning board to be presented to the Northern Ontario economic development committee at a three-day meeting of the committee beginning May 19 in North Bay.

The board says construction of such power plants "would seem reasonable, not only as a means of averting future power shortages, but also in view of the fact that the world's greatest sources of uranium ore are located in this area."



Annexation and amalgamation were also affecting economic developments and leading to "uncertainty and inaction," the brief stated. Establishment of a government agency of professional consultants, to provide advice on annexation and amalgamation problems in any area, was urged by the board.

The board also requested a separate Northern Ontario organization that would work strongly with Southern Ontario for industry in the interest of diversified development of the province.

Mayor Oliver of Penticton Gets Votes Despite Actions

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — In Penticton, everybody talks about Charlie.

They scold him, plead with him, write editorials about him, apologize for him and attack him in council, at public meetings and on the street corners.

But at election time in this Okanagan fruit valley city, 250 miles east of Vancouver, they vote for him.

Mayor Charles Oliver got more than 60 per cent of the poll last time.

INGENIOUS APPROACH

He has twice tried to dismiss aldermen because they got in his path. His approach each time was in his typically ingenious manner—he announced that alderman so-and-so was not being of any help and the alderman therefore was a burden on the council. So would the aldermen please go home and not return to city hall.

The aldermen have declined this unusual invitation.

On other occasions Mayor Oliver has dismissed the superintendent of works and one or two lesser functionaries. They have been reinstated by the council.

In a front-page editorial the daily Penticton Herald declared the mayor "seems determined to produce chaos in recurrent cycles." It suggested that His Worship is the man to quit.

PUBLIC "MISTAKEN."

Mayor Oliver had an explanation which must be unique among those politicians to whom the public is always right.

"The only thing wrong," said Mayor Oliver, "is that I no longer have a majority on this council. It just happened the public made a mistake in voting, that's all."

To guide the public he paid for advertisements at the last civic election naming the aldermen he wanted, but Penticton was not willing to let him pick his own city council.

A reporter interviewing the mayor met him in a hotel dining room, where he sat munching raw carrots and cabbage. They are his favorite foods. When he attends conventions of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, it is his custom to take carrots with him in a suitcase so they will be readily available.

At 66, Mayor Oliver is lean, wiry, intense in appearance and gesture, friendly and voluble. He customarily wears a cloth cap, tweedy clothes, a close - clipped mustache and horn - rimmed glasses.

FREMIER'S SON

Mr. Oliver, son of the late John Oliver, premier of B. C. from 1918 to 1927, has been mayor of Penticton since 1957. He was reeve here from 1952 to 1956.

"I can't compete with the other fellow doing things his way," he said with a broad smile. "You see, I'm not smart enough to compete.

"My dad used to say, 'ChCarlie, you will never have a dollar. You are too harumscarum.'"

Nevertheless, son Charlie did.

COLORFUL MAYOR

Charles Oliver, 66, has been mayor of Penticton since 1957. Before that he served as reeve from 1952 to 1956. A son of the late John Oliver, premier of British Columbia in the late 1920s, he captured more than 60 per cent of the votes at the 1957 election. He's a colorful chief magistrate, often feuding with councillors. "People never know what I'm going to say next," he says. "Often I don't know myself." — (CP Photo) 1959 (Herald).

Raymond Massey Charged With Breach of Peace

WILTON, Conn. (AP) — Actor Raymond Massey was arrested Monday night and charged with breach of peace, Massey, 62, was charged with "pushing and shoving" his gardener, Michael Hoshko, after an argument, state police Sgt. Jack Croce said.

Massey, Toronto - born veteran star of the movies, currently is playing one of the leading roles in the 1959 pulitzer prize broadway play "J.B." by Archibald MacLeish. He is to appear in court next Monday.

Mrs. Dorothy Massey, the actor's wife, said Hoshko and his wife, Helen, a chambermaid were employed by them about two weeks ago. Mrs. Massey said the couple was being paid a monthly salary of $450 and were given the use of a five-room furnished apartment.

She said that Hoshko announced to her Monday that he and his wife were quitting. Mrs. Massey said Hoshko wanted his wife to work only two hours a day.

She called her husband and asked Hoshko to repeat the story and at the same time asked him to sit down.

According to the actor's wife, Hoshko became indignant and said he "wouldn't be spoken to that way."

Massey ordered him out of his home. Hoshko refused, according to Mrs. Massey, and made a threatening gesture. She said her husband finally pushed Hoshko out the door.

Premier Frost Says New Road Is Justified

ATIKOKAN (CP) — Premier Frost said Tues. the objective of his government in building a road from the Lakehead to this mining community about 100 miles west was to help "lay the groundwork for the development of secondary industries."

Atikokan, the site of the huge Steep Rock iron ore development, "need not be a single industry," the premier said.

"It is well and important to develop secondary industries and interests." He said it was he who promised the road, "a big and expensive proposition which is thoroughly justified."

Now the government is building an "equally important" road from Atikokan to Fort Frances which also involves the construction of the Rainy Lake causeway. This will be carried out "with all dispatch to get it into operation as soon as possible."

HOW IT WILL AID

Mr. Frost mentioned three ways in which the Atikokan-Fort Frances road will aid the area: It will connect Ontario highways with the Mississippi parkway and United States roads.

It will provide a direct route to Atikokan and the Lakehead and draw traffic from the Trans-Canada Highway which will be connected with it.

It will provide a method for the development of Quetico Park, which until recently only had road connections by way of U.S. highways.

"Quetico . . . will become a very important part of the comprehensive park system which we are planning and constructing in this province."

Mr. Frost's speech was available to the press in advance of delivery.

Immediately following this luncheon meeting address, he was to fly to Kenora where he will speak to an evening meeting.

Previously nominated in contest Rainy River riding for the Progressive Conservatives in the June 11 Ontario election was William G. Noden who held it in the last legislature.

Education Board Will Refuse to Reduce Budget

PORT CREDIT, (CP) — Members of the South Peel board of education have agreed to meet Toronto Township council Thursday night to discuss the board's $3,000,000 budget for 1959 but indicate they will refuse to reduce it.

Township councillors earlier rejected the budget, saying a $30,000 increase in teachers' salaries would add more than five mills to the township's tax rate.

Councillors said they would go to jail rather than approve of the budget. Some of the trustees at a meeting Monday night said in that event they would feed the councillors hot dogs through the bars.

Small Boats Cannot Use Seaway Canals

OTTAWA (CP)—Pleasure craft under 30 feet in length or less than two tons in deadweight are banned from using the St. Lawrence Seaway, it was learned Monday.

The prohibition is contained in seaway regulations made law April 1.

Exempt from the ban are the Lachine and Cornwall canals on the Canadian side and the Welland-Dondero lock on the American side.

Pleasure craft proceeding from Montreal to Toronto, an official said, could use the Lachine Canal, the Ottawa River and the Rideau system to reach Lake Ontario.

U.S. HAS STRONGER FUEL

Membership Recognized

Membership in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for well over half a century was recognized by local Brotherhood officials here yesterday when former Canadian National Railways conductor W. J. Jordan, 133 Chatham Street, was presented with a 55-year membership pin.

The pin was presented to Mr. Jordan by W. D. Findall, president of the Belleville Local No. 108, at his local officials gathered at Mr. Jordan's home. Present for the brief ceremony were Joseph Hunter, chairman of the Ontario Legislative Board of the B. of R. T.; and local Brotherhood officials Harold Arthurs, treasurer; and Bernard Meagher, secretary.

Now 78 years old, Mr. Jordan has been a continuous member of the B of R. T. since 1903 when he first hired with the railway. Born in Tyendinaga township he comes from a railway family.

Mr. Hunter noted that presentation of a 55-year membership pin was a rare occasion in the Brotherhood. Mr. Jordan is shown being presented with the pin by local president W. D. Findall.

INSURANCE FUND

amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act. Besides raising contributions, these would increase benefits and during which benefits may be paid to 53 weeks from 30.

The first Liberal motion, voted down 142 to 44, would in effect have killed the government bill which does not include a provision that the government's share of insurance contributions be raised to the same as that paid in by the employer and the employee.

The present contribution basis is five-tenths each from employer and employee and two-twelfths from the government. The Liberals suggested each of the three contributing parties pay one-third.

Later, Mr. Chevrier moved that the Commons not proceed with the bill because the government drew it up without consulting the unemployment insurance advisory committee.

Speaker Roland Michener ruled that out of order because it did not contradict any principle in the government bill, as House rules require of such amendments.

PROPOSES TWO FUNDS

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) proposed establishment of two funds.

One would be to cover unemployment of a temporary or seasonal character and the other to cover emergency unemployment situations.

He said the cost of extending benefits as proposed in the government bill would be no more than a one-per-cent increase in contributions.

That meant 28 per cent of the increase being sought by the government was to help the fund meet a natural unemployment problem.

Herman M. Batten (L—Humber-St. George's) said the proposed increases in contributions "is nothing more than an increase in taxes of $72,000,000."

NATURAL GAS

from Mr. Kelly?"

The premier's Kenora trip came within an inch of being cancelled when weather knocked out his plan to fly the 180 miles from Dinkan. Emergency arrangements for an 88-mile rail way trip and a police-escorted highway dash of 140 miles put him to the Kenora meeting only two hours late.

CABOOSE TRIP

Mr. Frost made the rail journey in the caboose of a freight train.

At Atikokan the premier visited four schools, and chatted briefly with teachers and students before going to a luncheon meeting arranged by the chamber of commerce.

He explained how the highway program in the Atikokan-Fort Frances area would draw visitors from the United States along the Mainland parkway and from Canada along the Trans-Canada Highway. The program was "a big and expensive proposition which is thoroughly justified." It "totally changed the outlook of the whole northland."

"It has made it a place in which population can grow and secondary industry not only be established but flourish."

A geological survey being undertaken by the Ontario and federal governments in the Patricia district would open "great new vistas for development."

The Kenora meeting drew 350 to the 250-seat Legion hall despite unseasonal rain, snow and the delayed arrival.

Mr. Wintermeyer covered more than 200 miles in his auto tour of Lincoln, Niagara Falls and Welland ridings. He spoke in a high school assembly hall, an automobile showroom, at a party luncheon and several roadside stops.

The Liberal leader told 150 people in the county courthouse at Welland that his proposed department of small business promotion would provide a string of services to storekeepers, small industrialists and businessmen.

This was one of the new points revealed in his keynote address at Kitchener Monday.

The department would provide loans and initiate research to "develop scientific know - how, supply advice regarding marketing, advice concerning location of industry, advice regarding labor problems—regarding a labor pool."

PRESERVE FRUITLANDS

At Chippawa he said a Liberal proposal for loans to farmers would help preserve the Niagara fruitlands and accused the Conservatives of "playing lobbywinks" with Ottawa over tax-sharing.

Elsewhere in the province, other political figures took to the campaign trail.

At Newmarket a nominating meeting heard Miss Minister Stirling predict that Ontario Liberals would have a new leader within a year.

"John Wintermeyer is an old friend of mine and a fine man, but when it comes to politics he is in the wrong league," Mr. Maloney said. "I predict that within a year you will see another leader of the Liberal party in Ontario."

Mr. Wintermeyer was "talking in his sleep" when he said Highway 401 could be completed in two years.

JOLLIFFE DISCUSSES GAS

E. B. Jolliffe, former Ontario CCF leader, told a Toronto meeting the Frost government took the easy way out by placing the development of natural gas in the hands of private firms.

"Mr. Frost knew he could have gone down as the great leader of the people by developing natural gas as a public utility but he refused to accept that responsibility," said Mr. Jolliffe.

Walter Harris, finance minister in the former Liberal government at Ottawa, referred indirectly to the gas issue in a Toronto speech. He said cabinet ministers who make improper use of their office for personal profit should be forced to turn over the money to the taxpayers.

Although more than two weeks remain until nomination day, May 28, the list of chosen candidates rose to 218. Conservatives have nominated 75, Liberals 66, the CCF 53, Labor-Progressives (Communists) nine, the Social Credit one and there is one independent.

TUESDAY NOMINEES

Nominated Tuesday:

Alexander Mackenzie of Woodbridge, the unanimous choice of Progressive Conservatives to contest York North, the riding he has represented since 1945.

Agriculture Minister Goodfellow, acclaimed for Northumberland where he has been the sitting member since 1943.

Arnott Hicks, a former Hamilton controller and alderman, chosen to seek Wentworth for the Liberals.

Mrs. Lillian Allison, 40-year-old farm wife, who got the nod from Liberals in Grenville - Dundas, now held by Highways Minister Cass and represented federally by Mrs. Jean Casselman, Progressive Conservative.

Allan Botting, a CNR section foreman at Haliburton, who took the CCF nomination for Victoria.

Two Teen-agers Leap From Car Before Plunge

CAMPBELLFORD — Two teenagers leapt from their car only a moment before it plunged into 14 feet of water in the Trent Canal here on Sunday night after the brakes on the vehicle failed. Driver William D. McVety, 18, of Warkworth, told police he pulled off the river road near lock 13 to turn around. The brakes failed as he approached the sloping cement bank of the canal, and he was unable to stop the car by applying it down. He grabbed the wrist of his passenger, Beverley Stocker, leaped out the door on the driver's side and pulled the girl out after him. The car plunged into the canal and floated for several seconds, its momentum carrying it about 75 feet out into the water.

Two men working with a boat using a large grab hook, Jack Stocker and Ralph Nuttall, were able to hook the front bumper of the vehicle, and a tow truck winched it in to shore. The car suffered very little damage outside of a thorough soaking.

Several years ago, a car plunged into the canal only a few feet from the scene of Sunday's mishap, and Lockmaster Harry Smith was drowned when he was trapped in the vehicle.

DESERONTO

Tyendinaga Mohawks to Mark Landing on Shores of Bay of Quinte

DESERONTO — A notable event in Canadian history will be quietly and solemnly celebrated next Sunday morning on the shores of the Bay of Quinte two miles west of the town of Deseronto. The Mohawk Band of Indians of Tyendinaga Reserve commemorate the anniversary of their arrival on the shores of the bay on May 25, 1784.

The history of the Mohawks is a proud one and one of unfaltering loyalty to the Crown. They were one of the originators of the Six Nations, formed in the early 1700's to bring about peace among the various Indians on the continent and who were willing to bury the hatchet beneath the tree of peace were welcome to join the union.

In the sixty years after the declaration of independence of the United States, because of their loyalty to the British, their farms were plundered and their land laid waste. The enraged Indians left their homes and travelled down the Richelieu River and up the St. Lawrence. Because of the danger and insecurity of their position, they buried their communion service in a place marked by five trees.

COMMUNION SERVICE PRESENTED

This communion service was given to the Mohawks by the year 1713 by Queen Anne. A delegation of five chiefs had gone to Queen Anne and asked that she build them a church in the Mohawk Valley and send them a clergyman. Greeting their request, the Queen also sent them a double communion set consisting of two patens, two chalices, two flagons and two of the larger plates which were used in those days to hold the bread before the reformers. Half of the set went with the branch of the tribe that went on to settle on the banks of the Grand River and the other half remained at Tyendinaga.

After travelling up the St. Lawrence River the band wintered at Kingston and in the spring of 1784 the local party canoed up the Bay of Quinte to the site of their present reservation. During the winter a party of warriors had returned to their former home and secured the communion service. On arriving at their present home Brant first had his pill box at the garden up on the shore, overturn it and, placing the communion service on it, conduct a service of thanksgiving. This was performed by the Rev. John Stuart, D.D., accompanied the Mohawks and became known as the father of the church in Upper Canada.

The British purchased a tract of 1,000 acres from the Mississaugas Indians and deeded it to the Mohawks as a reward for their services in battle. The deed, bearing the date 1764, grants the land to the chiefs, warriors, people and women of the Six Nations.

CHURCH MARKS SITE

Christ Church, near the cairn to commemorate the landing place, is erected on the site of the original wooden structure that was destroyed by fire. Over the entrance of the church is carved in stone the head of a wolf, the totem of this branch of the tribe. Another feature is the stained glass window in the home of Dr. Crosby-Kahn and his wife Deyoenneh. Beneath are printed in the Mohawk language, the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer and the Creed.

The service this coming Sunday will be conducted by the Venerable Archdeacon J. B. Creegan of Christ Church in Belleville. Dr. Crosby-Kahn and his wife Deyoenneh. Beneath are printed in the Mohawk language, the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer and the Creed.

After the service the beautiful communion service will be on display for any who wish to examine it and read the inscription. "The Gift of Her Majesty Queen Anne by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, of her plantations in North America, Queen of the Indian Chapel of the Mohawks."

NEHRU'S SUCCESSORY — Speculation in Western circles on a successor to Jawaharlal Nehru as prime minister and leader of the Indian Congress party is centred on Morarji R. Desai, 63-year-old finance minister. Desai left his job as chief minister of Bombay state for the cabinet in 1956 and became finance minister in 1958. His name began to crop up after India weathered a severe financial crisis last year. Desai is a socialist and a disciple of the late Mahatma Gandhi. His goal is to make the Indian economy self-generating within the next 10 years. (CP Photo).

DESERONTO

Fire Destroys Two Barns

DESERONTO — A fire on Sunday destroyed two barns and a quantity of hay at the farm of Russell Brant, Tyendinaga Reserve. The fire began about 11 o'clock in the morning and burned fiercely for about three hours. The cause of the blaze is thought to have been children playing with matches in the barn.

Mr. Brant was at home at the time but was unaware of the fire until a neighbor driving by saw the smoke issuing from the barn. There was considerable delay in summoning the Deseronto Fire department because of trouble securing the phone line which is a party line and was in use. When the fire department arrived one barn had fallen in and the roof of the other collapsed about five minutes later.

Firemen were successful in saving a large chicken house which was built against the second barn. Mr. Brant had sold the hay in the barn only the day before and delivery was to be made on Monday. There was no insurance to cover the loss which will run about $6,000.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

Gene Kiniski, the fastest of the foothills, who licked three prairie pugilists before he had his first diaper change, is not the least dismayed over the fact there will be two referees or reasonable facsimiles thereof, in the ring when he meets Whipper Watson in their return battle Friday night.

He figures that after wrapping up the Whipper in a neat bundle ready for shipping back to Toronto, he can take on the two officials, take them apart and sell the pieces as spare parts for injured wrestlers to Morse Frank Tunney.

What he doesn't know is that one of the boys in white will be Wally Sieber, no mean "ranger" in his own right, and one has as much fear of Le Kiniski as a bullhead tomcat of a little white mouse. The identity of the other official is not known at the present but with fearless still in my mind after last week's performance, retired Battle of the Maxwell clan, had better stay close to his beloved Toronto.

Through some force of circumstance the appearance of the midgets, as announced last week, had to be cancelled at the last minute, but they'll be here at some near future date. Taking their place is the promising youngster from Moncton, Frank Jardine, who has just turned nineteen and who has been wrestling for three years. Frank made a big hit in his initial appearance here two weeks ago — and he'll get a warm welcome from the faithful.

BOXING TONIGHT

Jack Fitzgerald has lined up another action-filled card for tonight's Belleville Boxing Club's card at Memorial Arena, which looks every whit as good as the inaugural show staged a week ago Monday night.

There was a lot of favorable comment following the presentation of the Boxing Club's opening card, and this augurs well for the future of the sport here. A good house greeted the hitherto "unknowns," a lot of fans coming through curiosity and ready to criticize or praise as the case may be.

Fitzgerald, with his aides, Folmanter and Tetlen, however, had done a good job. They had uncovered some promising young material and through two or three months of hard work, good training and perseverance, had whipped it into very good shape.

Post-card comment, as far as this reporter heard it, was favorable indeed. There was plenty of action, good matchmaking, and every bout, with the exception of the semi-final TKO was closely fought. We believe that boxing fandom liked what they saw, the way the card was handled, and the general results.

In Rocky Lucas and young Barry Farnon, especially the latter, the new club has two fine young fighters. They have shown well in their "away" fights, and left a fine impression in their home appearance here a couple of weeks ago. The rest of the stable shows lots of promise and with experience should give the promoters lots of material to work with.

Lucas and Farnon headline the card tonight and they will stack up against formidable opponents. Farnons was not extended in his first appearance here but tonight might be a different story. Lucas, too, has a tough opponent and he will be called on to show all he has got to get the verdict.

What looks like a ten strike is the five rounder between Grant O'Reilly, clever Oshawa puncher, and McIntyre of Toronto. This is the first match between pairs of lightweights and from this corner is looks like a honey. O'Reilly caught the eye of the fans in his last show here when he decisioned Paul Daniels, the Ontario lightweight champion. In his only appearance since then he scored a first-round knockout in a Toronto Palace Pier battle.

Young Senator League Senation; Bums Take Lead

Killebrew Has Dozen Homers, Beats Tigers Singlehanded; Dodgers Grab Four in Row

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two months ago Harmon Killebrew figured he'd have a successful year if he stayed with the Washington Senators all season. That will give you some idea of just how much of a surprise the red-haired kid has turned out to be.

At the moment he leads the American League in home runs, with a dozen in runs batted in with 28, and in runs scored, with 26.

In five previous tries with the Senators, since he became their first bonus baby in 1954, his total home run output was only 11, his RBI total was 30 and he had scored just 29 runs.

The 23-year-old third baseman, known as a poor-fielding jolter who never had a chance to play behind Eddie Yost, junked Washington's losing skid at three games Tuesday night by driving in five runs with a pair of homers for a 7-4 victory over Detroit Tigers.

That left the surprising Senators fourth, three games behind Cleveland's first-place Indians, who defeated New York Yankees 7-5. Chicago's White Sox retained second place with a 4-3, 12-inning victory at Boston. Kansas City's game at Baltimore was rained out.

Killebrew, getting his big chance when the Senators traded Yost to the Tigers last winter, now has belied two home runs in four of his last 12 games.

Frank Lary had the Senators blanked on three hits until the sixth inning, when rookie Bob Allison, who drove in the other Washington run, doubled. Killebrew followed with a two-run, 420-foot sock right after Lary had brushed him back. Killebrew's second homer put it away in the seventh against Ray Narleski, after losing reliever Dave Sisler had loaded the bases with a pair of walks.

Bill Fischer, still unbeaten, won his third as Tex Clevenger's hitless, two - inning reliefer pooped.

Unbeaten Cal McLish won his fifth for the Indians, who made it with the help of four unearned runs. Rocky Colavito, who has four hits, and Woody Held homered for Indians against loser Art Ditmar (1-2), Mickey Mantle, Elston Howard and Yogi Berra homered for the Yankees. Rookie Jim Perry saved it by blanking the champs on one hit in the last two frames.

Cleveland's winning run was set up in the fifth on an error by Berra—the latter a not a major league record for catchers in his last game with a string of 148 errorless games since July 28, 1957.

All the White Sox runs came on homers. Starting righthander Dick Donovan hit a two-run shot in the second inning and A. Smith hit a two-run homer in the 12th off losing reliever Murray Wall (1-1). Rookie Rodolfo Arias (2-0) was the winner, although giving up Jackie Jensen's homer in the 12th.

Leafs Defeat Montreal 5-3; Marlins Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More and more, the story behind the Miami Marlins' rise to the top of the International League is infielder Foster Castleman.

The former Baltimore Orioles and New York Giants utilityman gave Miami its 19th victory Tuesday night with two spectacular fielding plays and drove in the winning run in the 10th inning as the Marlins defeated Columbus, 3-2.

Castleman still maintains his league batting leadership with a hefty .383 average. He has 44 hits and scored 23 runs, staying 28 points ahead of his nearest rival, Dave Pope of Toronto.

LEAFS WIN

Toronto Maple Leafs broke a tie in the 10th inning on the sixth inning and held on for a 5-3 victory over Montreal Royals before 6,788 Toronto fans.

Southpaw Pat Scantlebury, who saw another relief help from lefty Hal Woodeshick, struck out Castleman's hit was the second hit off relief loser Art Swanson (0-1) after Gene Conley won (3-1) the victory. Anderson early knotted the score 2-2 but hits, one Jim McDaniel's homer with two out and none on in the ninth to send the game into extra time.

WILSON CLICKS AGAIN

Ray Gray, first of four Montreal pitchers, was combed for 10 hits and six runs in five and five-tenths innings he pitched. He now is 4-2.

Left fielder Archie Wilson and first baseman Joe Altobelli each drove in a pair of runs, the former with two sacrifice flies. Altobelli knocked in one with a double in the first, when Leafs got two runs, and plated another run—the winner—with a fielding single.

Mike Gollat, pinch-hitting for catcher Jim King, added an insurance run by sending Altobelli home with a single in the same inning to round out the scoring.

WILSON SCORES TWO

Right fielder Bobby Wilson accounted for two Montreal runs with a sixth-inning homer—his second of the year—that temporarily knotted the score 3-3.

Dallas Green pitched a five hitter and a 1-for-4 streak Dick Stuart cracked a 539-foot homer for Buffalo that capped a five-second inning against loser Dick Ricketts (1-3). Green's victory, his fourth in five decisions, moved the Bisons back into fourth place.

Brooks homer was in his first at bat since coming from Cleveland.

Tigers Lose Varsity Grad

HAMILTON (CP)—Tim Reid, University of Toronto's bone-crushing backfielder drafted by Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union, is going to get some more education.

The 20-year-old Reid, second man selected in the annual college draft by the Canadian football league in Winnipeg last January, has turned down the Tiger-Cats in favor of a year of post-graduate study in industrial relations at Yale University.

He scored 100 points in three seasons with Toronto and last year carried off the scoring championship of the intercollegiate senior league.

'Sugar' Back in NBA Barrel If Basilo Will Meet Him

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The president of the National Boxing Association said today that Sugar Ray Robinson will be reinstated as middleweight champion if Carmen Basilio is willing to fight him here on Sept. 23.

"If there is definite assurance that Robinson and Basilio will fight in the near future," Dr. Ward Wylie said at his Mullen, W.Va., home, "I'm certain the winner would be recognized as the world champion."

The lawyer - official Robinson signed a contract here Tuesday to fight Basilio on Sept. 23 in Philadelphia's 100,000-seat municipal stadium.

The big question, however, was: will Basilio, the No. 1 middleweight contender, agree to the fight. His camp offered no assurance.

Robinson would get 45 per cent of an estimated $750,000 to $1,000,000 gate and the same percentage of more than $300,000 in television and radio receipts. Basilio would receive 30 per cent from both sources.

By signing, Robinson partially fulfilled a New York State Athletic Commission ultimatum to sign for the Basilio fight by Friday or lose his title in that state.

TOOK AWAY TITLE

The NBA lifted Robinson's title by edict on May 4 after repeatedly warning him to sign for a defence against Basilio. Robinson won the middleweight title from Basilio March 25, 1958, but hasn't fought since.

John Dejohn, co-manager of Basilio, said the Robinson deal sounded phony. "We're certainly not going to let Robinson dictate terms and accept them meekly."

Meanwhile, Al Klein, a member of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, said today he is awaiting an answer to a telegram he sent Basilio advising him of Robinson's signing.

Klein said the deal had been in the works for the last 10 days. "I have $10,000 Robinson posted in bond money that says the deal won't be a phony. When Basilio and his managers realize the financial aspects of the deal, I'm confident they'll sign."

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to pass such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous research institute. Already Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H. Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction or guarantee or money refunded.

Managers Slug It Out After Boxers Finish

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Rival managers Angelo Rogers and John Burtamente engaged in a slugfest Tuesday night after Louis Molina, 138, San Jose, knocked out Kiko Munoz, 137, Tijuana, Mexico, at 2:07 of the fifth round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Nunez pilot, Bustamente, complained to referee Johnny Leiby that his boy had been struck an illegal blow to the back of the head. Rogers immediately leaped into the ring and challenged Bustamente.

The managers took several wild swings without much damage to either. They were separated by Leiby and the seconds.

Marlins Get Two Senators

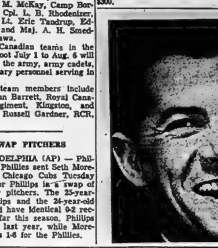
WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Senators have sold the contracts of first baseman Norm Zauchin and pitcher Vito Valentinetti to Miami Marlins of the International League.

Zauchin, 28, was obtained by the Senators from Boston early in 1958 in a trade. He was .221 in 19 games this year.

Valentinetti, 30, came to Washington from Detroit last season in a trade for pitcher Al Cicotte. This season, Vito had appeared in seven games, had a 0-2 record and a 9.81 earned run average.

Duck Fan Back For Fourth Year

CONISTON, Ont. (CP)—A little black duck who likes to live dangerously has flown in for the fourth year in a row to watch Donald Campbell try for a world speedboat record.



The duck has arrived each year shortly before Campbell brought his speedboat Bluebird to Coniston, where he makes his record attempts. Last year Campbell boosted his mark to 248.62 miles an hour.

The duck stays out of the boat's way until it has sped past. Then he bobs up and down in its wake.

When Campbell leaves Coniston, so does the duck.

Durelle Stops Teddy Burns

CARIBOU, Me. (AP)—Yvon Durelle, third - ranking contender for the world light heavyweight boxing crown, stopped substitute Teddy Burns of Boston at 2:18 of the third round Tuesday night in a mild tuneup for his forthcoming title bout with champion Archie Moore. Durelle weighed 175, Burns 195½.

Burns was a last-minute substitute for Tinker Picot of Dorchester, Mass., who had been knocked out twice previously by Durelle. Promoter Ben Shapiro said Picot has a trick knee.

Durelle toyed with Burns for the first two rounds, then came out like a tiger in the third. He dropped him for a seven-count once, then put him down for nine with a left hook.

Referee Otis Labree called a stop to the one-sided spectacle.

Durelle, a leading fisherman from Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., gets his second shot at Moore's light heavyweight title July 15 in Montreal.

Last Dec. 10, Moore knocked out Durelle in the 11th round after taking floored himself four times.

Chris Shahan, Durelle's manager, said he is not interested at the moment in a British Empire title rematch with Mike Holt of Johnsburg.

"I'll have to see what happens against Moore," said Shahan. "I've received three offers now for a Holt - Durelle rematch."

Dupas Favored Over Scott

CHICAGO (AP)—Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, a veteran of 92 fights although only 23 years old, is a slight favorite to put his record record against rugged Charley Scott tonight.

The welterweight 10 - rounder will be televised by ABC starting at 10 p.m. EDT.

Scott, 22-year-old Philadelphia puncher, has won 22, lost two and battled to seven draws. He is ranked seventh.

Dupas is rated No. 2 by the National Boxing Association and No. 4 by Ring magazine.

Willie Toweel Loses Empire Light Title

LONDON (AP)—Dave Charnley, a 25-year-old British corporal, knocked out Willie Toweel of South Africa in the 10th round of a scheduled 15 - round fight Tuesday night to win the British Empire lightweight championship.

It was a major surprise. Toweel, 35, was ranked fourth in the list of contenders for the world title held by Joe Brown of New Orleans and he held a 15-round decision over Charnley from the latter's challenge July 9, 1957.

Charnley may get a shot at Brown's title although the champion is scheduled to meet Paolo Rosi, Italian-born New Yorker, at Washington, D.C.

Charnley weighed 135¾, Toweel, who had difficulty making weight, 135.

The knockout punch was a vicious left to the head which sent Toweel down on one knee. The South African seemed to be only resting briefly so spring of the count reached eight or nine.

But referee Andy Smyth signalled that Toweel sought to lift himself to his feet. Many thus thought he had beaten the count.

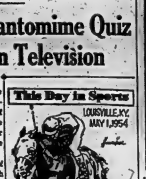
Stokey and Pantomime Quiz Oldest Show in Television



By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Stokey, at 41, is a leading candidate for the title of the dean of television. Certainly the game program, Pantomime Quiz, over which he presides, must be the oldest show in the medium.

Based on the ancient game of charades, Pantomime Quiz with Stokey as activities director, made its debut in Hollywood in 1938. Stokey was a show-struck student at Los Angeles City College given a chance to put on a program. Nobles was short, so Stokey just rounded up a bunch of friends and they played the game they had been playing for fun anyway.

Now, 20 years later, Stokey still is conducting the players in the same game. And today the venerable program, an apparently perennial substitute replacement on network TV, has a permanent niche in the daytime firmament. Pantomime Quiz now is on weekdays (ABC 12:30 p.m. EDT) and, if all goes well, won't disappear in autumn.

This Day in Sports

5 YEARS AGO...

DETERMINE BECAME THE FIRST GREY HOUNDER TO DE KENTUCKY DERBY WHEN HE BEAT HASTY ROAD BY 1½ LENGTHS IN THE 80TH RUNNING OF THE CLASSIC. JIMMY CROKOLUS LITTLE COLT, RIDDEN BY JOHNNY LONG, CARRIED HIS 7TH STARTS WIN IN HIS LAST 8 RACES.

FORMER RADIO ANNOUNCER

Mike's original splash into TV lasted one week: When he got out of college, he joined NBC as a sportscaster. Then he left for wartime military service.

"When I got back," he says, "I was sure somebody would have figured the game out and what it was called then—would be a natural for TV. But nobody had so I picked it up. First we were on a local Los Angeles station, then expanded to a regional network. And then, when those first funny kinescopes came along, we finally got all the way across the country to New York."

That was 10 years ago, and since then Mike and his teams have turned up each summer season.

Stokey won't change the basic formula of the show to meet what might be called daytime TV standards. He usually works with a comparable team of four. In his daytime format, however, Stokey plans to mix up the show by personalities with the usual "serial" pants drawn from the studio audience."

Ted Williams Not Worried Over No Hits

BOSTON (AP) — "I'll be all right, the hits will come."

Ted Williams was not disappointed Tuesday night after going 0-for-3 in his first appearance of the 1959 season for Boston Red Sox.

The 40-year - old defending American League batting champion came back from a sore and shoulder ailment which had forced him out of action in late March.

"I'm satisfied with my efforts for my first game back. I'm not tired," he said after playing in Boston's 3-2 loss to the Baltimore Chicago.

"My problem now is that I was hitting bad pitches." Ted continued. "Those pitches look a lot different in a game when the pressure is on than they do in practice."

Ted said he definitely will be in the starting lineup again today.

Williams struck out twice, popped up to the infield, drew an unintentional walk and twice grounded out.

Erskine Caldwell Mellowing Towards Those Who Ban Him

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Still active banned as ever, Erskine Caldwell appears to be mellowing toward those who ban his books.

A little, anyway. Perhaps it is his ailment that has softened his indignation. He suffered a painful calcification of his hand and underwent an operation to cure it. The hand must remain in a cast and elevated, so Caldwell's vast literary output is stopped temporarily.

"I've always typed with two fingers — couldn't possibly dictate," he says.

NOT BANNED YET

Caldwell and his lovely wife had come here from their San Francisco home to discuss filming of his 35th and latest book, Claudelle Inglish, with Warner Brothers. So far no area has banned this one, but it's early yet.

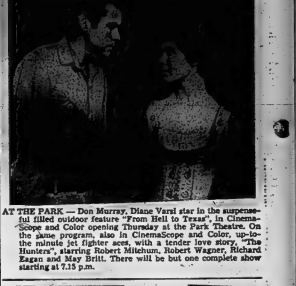
"I had to change the title in England because the spelling of Inglish was considered to be an affront over there," he reported. "Also in France, because it was considered insulting to the memory of a writer named Claudel who had died recently."

The author's problems are usually more extreme.

God's Little Acre is banned in Massachusetts by a special law", cases.

said rather proudly, "though the movie version could play there. I fought it through three courts but didn't take it to the U.S. Supreme Court. A ban by New York state of an Edmund Wilson book had been upheld, so I didn't think I had a chance."

DETROIT TOUGH



The chronicler of raw life in the south said he is banned regularly in Boston but Detroit is worse. "There they have three members of the police department who pass on all the books, plays and movies. They've got to his satisfaction, in order to justify their jobs."

Caldwell's treatment of Negro-white themes has caused him to be banned in South Africa. Even his native Georgia has given his works the heave-ho at regular intervals, he said.

"But that doesn't stop me from going back," he added. "I was there last summer to lecture at the University of Georgia."

OFFERS TIME FOR FRENCH

TORONTO (CP) — Howard C. Caine, manager of radio station CHWO in nearby Oakville, has offered the CBC three hours a day of his program time for French - language radio broadcasts.

Astrological Forecast

BY CARROLL RICHTER

Thursday, May 14

Aries (March 21 to April 19)— Planetary forces are with you so that you can either have a good time at sports, etc., or do more constructive things that will mean greater success in life. During A. M. is fine for seeing influential people. P. M. ideal for fun and frolic.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— While the situation at home may be rather mixed up, that is nonetheless the sphere in which your future success is determined today. Get matters in order here, for the power of the planets is with you. P. M. stay at home and rest.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— As a mercurial Twin, you enjoy hustling about, and this is just the day to do that. Many interesting new outlets will be yours that will prove most remunerative. P. M. have a ball with your most intimate friends. Laugh and be happy.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Think seriously today about how best to increase present income and abundance, and make those improvements that add value to your current prospect. Find some dramatic new outlet that pays well. P. M. set up a better bookkeeping system.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A wonderful day to have fun. Some puzzling things are happening that have you annoyed, so you must counteract this by doing something dynamic and spiritually uplifting. P. M. put your wardrobe in order and take health treatments you need.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A secret and powerful intuition should be followed immediately by you today. Also, confide in your most intimate ties. They will assist you to get your desires. P. M. assist one who is in real trouble.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Combining your energies with those about you in whatever seems promising will bring fine results now. Don't hesitate to attempt something novel in nature, for it is bound to be very successful.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— It behooves you to take an entirely different attitude if you are to gain stability and prestige with higher ups and authorities. Act more positively and you can then perform all civic duties with greater efficiency and success.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you have the courage to put new ideas in motion quickly, many new avenues of success and happiness can open up to you now. Do not be afraid to meet as many interesting and influential people as possible. Be sure of yourself.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — An ideal day to confer with real authorities, influential people, bankers, insurance companies. You will get the right advice that can start an upswing in your daily affairs. P. M. be very affectionate with loved one.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Planetary forces are with you, so make the most of them. See your associates and come up with some brilliant plan for expansion and greater success in your enterprises. However, be co-operative and not imperious.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — By co-operating more closely with regular fellow workers now, fine results will materialize. However, it is important you use modern methods, more streamlined gadgets, machinery, etc. Cut down unnecessary labor and cost.

If your child is born today — The fine child born today will be a little charmer, so full of vim and vitality is he or she. Much creativeness is in the nature and you must take care not to undermine your progeny's ability or there will be a retiring into the shell and nothing will be accomplished throughout life. The chart is fine for any work before the general public, demonstrating, selling, etc.

Insurance Firm Bought Back Half Brockville Loot

Paid Dime on Dollar For Stolen Securities

TORONTO (CP)—The men behind last year's robbery of the Brockville Trust and Savings Company and those who engineered resale of securities and millions in negotiable bonds stolen in Canada's biggest bank robbery cannot be prosecuted in Ontario, Assistant Attorney-General William Common said today.

He said the next move in the case would finally bode from here Wednesday is up to the Police attorney-general and "we can't speak for him."

Attorney-General Roberts called in the press briefly to announce the close of the robbery and the subsequent disposal and recovery of the $3,350,000 in negotiable bonds stolen on the weekend of May 2-3, 1953.

Mr. Roberts said an insurance company in Montreal, in an "unofficial deal" bought back $1,-609,787 in stolen negotiable securities at 10 cents on the dollar. He said police believe they know the five who staged the robbery.

Today in reply to queries about the next legal move, Mr. Common said that the five who robbed the insurance company took place in Ontario and that "no offence has taken place in Ontario and we have no jurisdiction."

NOT MADE CLEAR

Neither Mr. Roberts nor Mr. Common would say whether there were any arrests possible in Canada in connection with the actual robbery. Police are still working on the case.

The official breakdown of the actual robbery take was given by Mr. Roberts as: $3,350,000 in negotiable bearer bonds; $18,000 in cash, $25,000 in jewelry and an undetermined amount of non-negotiable bonds and personal property taken from some of the bank's personal safety deposit boxes.

Mr. Roberts said the $3,350,000 figure constitutes the biggest negotiable bond robbery take in Canadian history.

Assistant Commissioner W. J. Brooks of the provincial police said police also have a fair idea of the identity of the ringleaders in the international trafficking in bonds and securities.

Mr. Roberts's comments were disclosed following a 3½-hour meeting in his office here of police investigators of his department, the OPP and Brockville police.

Mr. Roberts also disclosed that all but $310,000 of the $3,500,000 in negotiable securities stolen have been accounted for or recovered.

"Results of the investigations to date show wide ramifications in disposal of the bonds and have assumed an international character," the attorney-general said.

This made it more difficult to "establish guilt in relation to theft and those engaged in the subsequent disposal and traffic in stolen securities."

Mr. Roberts said a New York lawyer negotiated the sale of bonds in a meeting in downtown Montreal after overtures in Toronto were rejected by the department.

Mr. Roberts sketched the history of the robbery after the meeting:

One day after the gang carted off the loot on the weekend of May 2-3, a man was arrested in Montreal.

Kurd Tribesmen Flee From Iraq To Escape Reds

PASVEH, Iran (AP) — Thousands of Kurd tribesmen have fled across the rugged northwest Iranian frontier from Iraq rather than submit to domination by a pro-Communist chieftain.

There was sharp fighting in the frontier area as recently as four days ago, when about 5,000 Kurds crossed into Iran. Others of the tribe have fled into Turkey.

This information comes from Amir Aly Asheyara, the head khan (landlord) of a huge area occupied by Kurds of the Mamash tribe. He owns 100 villages and about 150 other Kurdish villages in the southwestern part of Iran's Azerbaijan province, only a few miles from the Iraqi border.

IS DIE I FIGHT

The Kurds, under a leader identified as Sneik Raschid, left 13 Barzani tribesmen dead when they attacked Mamash Kegi Izzedinermerie. The khan said Raschid sent two dead men's ears as a pound.

The Barzanis are followers of Mullah Mustafa Barzani, who spent a dozen years in exile in the Soviet Union after an Kurdish attempt to establish a satellite Kurdistan in Iran, Iraq and Turkey.

The khan said Sheik Raschid's people started sufficient ammunition to continue the battle and said he could hold out for three months if promised reinforcements now live in tent settlements not far from here.

Apparently many Kurds preferred Raschid's people across the frontier to the religious which began soon after the Iraqi revolution last July. This country is very rugged, vast and underpopulated that it is easy for Kurds to lose themselves in it.

The khan leases the land to his 8,000 followers, taking a percentage of their production in repayment.

FIERCE ANTI-COMMUNIST

Amir Aly is fiercely anti-Communist and says all his people are, too. Most Kurds are equally anti-Communist, he maintains.

3 U.S. Anglers Lose Lives in Boating Mishap

KENORA (CP)—Three United States anglers lost their lives in a boating mishap Tuesday night at Crow Lake, about 60 miles south of this northwestern Ontario resort town.

Police said the victims, all from Detroit, were identified as Andrew Lee, Albert Stevens and Alfred Alexiew.

Police said the three men were in one boat, while two other occupants of the fishing party were in a second boat.

Alexiew fell out of the boat while Lee and Stevens clung to the overturned craft. The occupants of the second boat pulled Lee and Stevens from the water but they died of exposure on the shore. Alexiew's body was not recovered.

Today's Chuckle

It's all right to save money, but too many are trying to save it from people they owe it to.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Strong northerly winds swept cold air from the Hudson Bay region across Ontario and deep into central United States. Skies will be mainly cloudy across the province today and Friday. Scattered snowflurries or showers will continue across the north country.

Temperatures will drop to the mid 30s over the lower Great Lakes region tonight, creating a risk of frost in sheltered areas. Freezing temperatures will prevail across the north.

COMMISSION SET UP TO DIAGNOSE ILLS OF RAILWAYS

Hon. C. P. McTague Will Head Board

OTTAWA (CP)—For the second time in eight years a royal commission has been set up to diagnose the ills that afflict Canada's rail system, transportation, freight rates and related matters.

Hon. Charles P. McTague, 58-year-old former Ontario jurist and a prominent Toronto businessman, will head the seven-man board which will investigate and recommend solutions for inequalities in the freight rate structure and other problems.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announcement of the commission and its terms of reference in the Commons Tuesday could be received qualified welcomes from the Liberal and CCF.

NEED TIME

Lionel Chevrier, former Liberal transport minister, said he was "surprised" with the powers given the commission. But he added that the commission must be given ample time to do its job.

The Canadian Trucking Associations already have given notice that they will be heard by the commission in support of legislation to bring federal legislation needs to be tightened with regard to interprovincial and international transport.

The railways are involved in long-standing disputes, with their back service being the latest development.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker specifically exempted from the commission's terms of reference the Low Crowsnest Pass freight rates on grain, set in 1925 at levels in effect before 1900.

REPORT ON INEQUITIES

Except for that, the commission is instructed to conduct and report on "inequities in the freight rate structure, their incidence upon the various regions of Canada and possible future and other changes that can and should be made, in furtherance of the national transportation policy, to remove or alleviate such inequities."

The government has suspended any further general freight rate increases pending the commission's examination and provided for payment of a $20,000,000 subsidy for one year to compensate for a partial reduction of a five-cent grain rate boost granted by the Board of Transport Commissioners last year.

The commissioners besides Mr. McTague are: Herbert Anscomb, Kamloops, B.C., chartered accountant; Archibald H. Balch, Ottawa, chairman of the national legislative committee of the railway brotherhoods; Rene Dupuis, Quebec consulting forest engineer; M. A. MacPherson, St. Regis (Cornwall), Que.; Gerard Mask, Moncton, N.B., executive manager of the Maritime Transportation Commission; and Arnold Platt, Lethbridge, Alta., farmer.

PEARSON SPEAKS

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson said Tuesday that the rail issue has been used as a strain on world citizenship as in the last few years. Mr. Pearson told 190 students attending a four-day "adventure in citizenship" conference of the Rotary Clubs that Canadians must know more about other countries to help maintain world peace.

Are Treating Seaway Like New Toy Says Senator of Big Shipping Rush

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Norman Paterson (L—Ontario) says the big shipping rush to use the St. Lawrence Seaway indicates it is "being treated somewhat like a new toy."

Many vessels affected by the doldrums in world shipping were coming to Canada "hoping that the seaway is the answer to their problems," he told the Senate Tuesday.

Senator Paterson, a grain man and lake shipping owner, added that navigation problems will not be solved for many years on the route because of various factors.

Transport Minister Hees has said that a 27-foot seaway channel — permitting maximum draught of 25 or 25.5 feet — is scheduled to be available by June 1.

Senator Paterson said the St. Clair River bed at Detroit consists of solid rock for 11 miles on and ships of more than 23 feet draught never have been allowed through. Blasting to provide a greater depth of channel would be a "very costly and time-consuming job."

"There is no place that I know of from Welland clear through the head of the Lakes where a ship could possibly draw 26 feet of water. Some piles, you will weaken the foundations of the docks."

As he saw it, it would be almost impossible to deepen Fort William's harbor without building "galleries" to transport the grain to deep water.

Unless many ocean ships could be found to enter business, owners probably would prefer to load more quickly at Montreal.

"Ocean-going ships will be straighten away," Senator Paterson said.

Liberal Leader Challenges P.M. to Enter Campaign

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A challenge to enter the Ontario election campaign was issued at Peterborough by Liberal leader Wesley Dies ight.

Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer declared Mr. Diesbaker to join the campaign and defend his tax-sharing arrangements with the province, saying he felt sure the move would cost Premier Frost his job.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald meanwhile was accusing the Frost government of delaying the development of Ontario's north by using a system of patronage in civil service appointments.

He said the province was using "19th century paternalism" in its treatment of employees.

Premier Frost took a day off from campaigning after returning from a 1,000-mile trip to Northwestern Ontario. He was to speak in the Lake Simcoe area today at a meeting to nominate him for Victoria riding.

Mr. Wintermeyer spoke at Lindsay about 100 persons at a Brant association meeting in Paris on the second day of his energetic swing through southwestern Ontario. The Liberal leader named Harry Nixon to contest his 12th provincial election.

"Premier Frost and Mr. Diefenbaker are afraid to discuss the issues squarely before the people of Ontario," the Liberal leader said. "To Mr. Diefenbaker afraid to come into the province today means that his promises he made two years ago?"

The prime minister and Mr. Frost had promised $100 million more tax revenue during the 1957 federal election campaign. Since then only $14,900,000 had been collected of the annual $100,000,000 sought by the premier.

Mr. Wintermeyer said a fiscal conference called for July 6 was merely "window dressing" for the Ontario election.

The province's financial position was "deteriorating every year."

He said Premier Frost had not staged a stronger fight for more tax revenue for fear of embarrassing the Conservatives at Ottawa, "I think it is time these people at Ottawa and Toronto were separated so they cannot continue to play politics with the people of Ontario."

Earlier in the day, at Port Dover, he told 19 women at a tea that the Liberals considered education one of the biggest issues in the campaign.

Rain washed out a Liberal outdoor rally at Simcoe but Mr. Wintermeyer stood in the town without a coat and told 27 listeners the Conservatives were old and tired after 16 consecutive years in office.

Mr. Wintermeyer told 40 supporters at an Owen Sound nominating meeting that the difference between the province and its civil service had developed into "open warfare" and that it would get worse.

He produced a letter which he said was written to him by a cabinet minister opposing the recommendation for the appointment of two persons to the permanent staff.

Manitoba Leaders Continue Campaign to Eve of Voting

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba's political leaders fought the provincial election campaign down to the wire Wednesday night.

Polls were open today from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. CDT (9 a.m. to 10 p.m. EDT) in Greater Winnipeg and 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. CST in areas still on standard time.

Premier Duff Roblin fired his last broadside at a rally in Boniface, the only riding in Greater Winnipeg won by the opposition Liberal-Progressives in the last election.

"Let your ballot speak for Manitoba tomorrow," Mr. Roblin told a packed house in a school auditorium in St. Boniface.

Liberal - Progressive Leader D. L. Campbell, a farmer who has made a big issue of the campaign manner in 36 years of politics, predicted his government returned in his own rural riding of Birtle-Russell by talking to fellow farmers in a small town of St. Ambroise.

TRY-TO-DOOR

CCF Leader Lloyd Stinson, beset by well-organized opponents in South Selkirk, Gimli and Fisher-Osborne, carried his message to the doorsteps of electors pioneering on the final day of the campaign.

The second Manitoba general election in less than a year was called last March after the legislature was dissolved following defeat of the minority Progressive Conservative government on a confidence vote.

The Conservatives took power from the Liberals last June 16, when 26 Conservative members were elected to the provincial legislature. Voters returned 21 Liberal-Progressive members and one independent.

The government vote of the Liberal-Progressives and the CCF in the House toppled the government.

TWO DEFERMENTS

The election has been deferred twice—first by the Canadian Coronation of Churchill and Rupertsland Bishop and Lady Lenidas Lamb and 94-year-old wife, Carmen, and daughters, Madeleine, 16, and Jeanne, 14.

The Guinettes left their Northern Ontario home in Hamilton for a trip to Burlington, where they planned to surprise Mrs. Guinette's brother, Robert Gosselin.

Mrs. Gosselin was reported on the way to Bracebridge to identify the bodies.

Rene, driver of one car, was identified by his uncle, Don Rees, as a local mining engineer. Rees was called to the scene of the crash by relatives who arrived here Tuesday with his father, J. Herbert Rees of Chippawa Village, near Niagara Falls, Ont., on visit relatives.

Rene, who joined the navy in 1955, was home on three weeks leave from his ship, HMCS St. Hilaire, in Halifax. He married his wife, Carolyn, is living at Lunenburg, N.S.

Eskimo Guide Dispatched Bear After Warning up Trigger Finger

OTTAWA (CP) — There was no bullet left in the Eskimo's wonderful and dangerous polar bear was only 50 feet away from Jackoosie, according to the trigger finger of his Eskimo guide Itose.

The bear - raising story—it ended happily, except for the bear, on Baffin Island in the Arctic by Lt. - Cmdr. Croal, a northern expert in charge of sending Eskimos to the Arctic Starkfor a Defence Research Board icing experiment.

Croal set up a base camp on the ice of the strait and then began hazing trails to subsidiary sites. He was accompanied by his eskimo guide, Jackoosie, who was eight to 10 miles from base camp, Jackoosie spotted a polar bear.

"We took off after it with our eight dogs and sledge," Croal said in his report.

"At least, Jackoosie did. I went along as a passenger, willingly, because nothing will keep an Eskimo from a bear hunt.

"Jackoosie had the .30-30. I didn't even have a peashooter. There were five shots in the .30-30 magazine and when the bear only better ice so we could travel faster to catch up. I was scared when I thought about it later."

West Proposes Divided Berlin Be Made United City

Also Wants Beginning Of Global Disarmament

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers proposed to Russia today that divided Berlin be made a united city under Big Four guarantees as the first step in a sweeping package plan to unify East and West Germany and begin global disarmament.

The four-phase Western program was introduced in the fourth session of the Big Four foreign ministers conference as the Western response to Russia's demand that West Berlin be made a free city. It also contained Premier Nikita Khrushchev's call for a peace settlement with divided Germany.

The proposals provide for successive disarmament measures including initial limits of 2,500,000 men in the armed forces of the United States and Russia, and leading eventually to limitation of the armed forces of all foreign troops (Soviet and Western) from Germany and neighboring areas.

It would unify Germany in 30 months. United Germany would be free to elect membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Org. (NATO) or the Soviet Bloc's warsaw pact or to choose a neutral role.

BALANCE OF POWER

Whatever the choice, the big powers would guarantee the European countries would take steps to reduce the disparity in the West balance of power and could enter into agreements against aggression. Western leaders long have expressed confidence Germany would line up with the West.

Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko already has rejected the package plan as a "tangle" of unrelated issues. But parts of it, especially the Berlin proposal, conceivably could lead to some bargaining.

State Secretary Christian Herter, announcing the package on behalf of the United States, British and French, said Gromyko's plan "clearly shows that our governments have gone very far in the search for agreement."

He declared there were important resemblances between the two proposals as it has stood since 1955.

"We earnestly hope," he said, "that the Soviet government will for its part make a comparable effort to find at least a basis for mutual understanding."

The first phase of the package program, would be a Berlin solution. Elections would be held through all Berlin under supervision of a United Nations commission or the United Nations. The United States, Russia, Britain and France would withdraw their troops until the final German peace settlement provided for in the fourth phase.

A city council would be responsible for administration of the whole city under the general supervision of the UN. But the powers could intervene in city affairs by unanimous vote. How this ar-

Only 'Salties' Now Wait at Welland Canal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were no domestic lake vessels waiting to pass through the Welland Canal today—but the "salties," were still waiting.

Lake ships lost a lot of international party, the North American vessels passed ahead of their foreign colleagues through the canal while ships from abroad could only watch and wait.

The federal government Wednesday gave limited priority to North American ships in a move to reduce the shipping lineup at the canal's Port Weller entrance and the anxiety of industries waiting for supplies.

However, the government announced all foreign vessels waiting at the canal's entrance the right to pass through to Lake Erie even though they may be improperly equipped for canal navigation.

BULK CARGO FAVORED

Transport Minister Hees said the Government Group advisers had decided to allow Canadian lake vessels, specially designed to carry, bulk cargo such as iron ore to go through the canal alternately with other types of vessels. The rule will be in effect as long as the congestion continues at the Lake Ontario entrance.

In St. Catharines, Paul Ellis, superintendent of the canal's northern division, said foreign ships not properly equipped would be let through the canal only if they had their cargo unloaded back into the seaway until they had installed the necessary equipment, he said.

VERY FEW WAITING

The figure was small. Only eight or nine foreign vessels were anchored in the harbor off Port Weller Wednesday night. A total of 100 ocean freighters had passed upbound through the canal.

Fractures Skull

The Rev. Gordon Woodcock Inducted to Pastorate of Victoria Avenue Baptist

On Tuesday evening the Rev. Gordon R. Woodcock, B.A., B.D., was inducted to the pastorate of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, with Dr. Harvey L. Dennis, Moderator of the Trent Valley Association of Baptist Churches, as the presiding officer.

After the Scripture reading by Rev. James Gibson of Colborne, the beautiful anthem, "Great and Marvellous" was sung by the Victoria Avenue Baptist choir with Mrs. Dorothy Reilly choir director and Mr. W. Conner of the organ.

The vice-moderator of the association and chairman of the Board of Deacons, Mr. Ernest Mr. W. Hales, presented Mr. Woodcock to the large congregation that had gathered from many churches of the association.

Dr. Harvey Denton, of Murray Baptist Church, Peterborough, outlined the Scriptural charge to one whom God has called to the work of His ministry and the ministerelect responded to the affirmative to the questions involving solemn obligations. This was followed by the promise of the church, to honor, encourage and support the pastor. Rev. Woodcock was then officially declared to be the pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, Ontario.

CHARGE TO MINISTER

The Rev. H. R. Sloyell of Lindsay then led the dedicatory prayer which was followed by the charge to the minister. He is a theologian, a preacher and to have passionate concern for the souls of men, said the Rev. Frank Swarkhammer of Oshawa.

In the charge to the congregation, the Rev. Eric Quirk exhorted the members to love one another; to be in accord in a united heart and mind with no dissenting voice, and to earnestly pray, work and visit and in every way to keep the harmony to assist the minister in the winning of souls.

Mrs. J. Johnston, soprano, of Picton, delighted the audience with her solo, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings."

An inspiring sermon was given by Rev. Mr. Williams of Park Street Church, Peterborough, on the theme, "Be Ye Followers Of Me," from 1st Corinthians 4:15-17.

Paul was sending Timotheus to the church at Corinth to help them remember the important things they had been taught. It is a comfort to know that even Paul had difficulty to keep the early Christians walking the Christ-like way and it is a warning too that present day members might drift away from the way and may need bringing back to remembrance the many things that they have been taught.

SELF DISCIPLINE NEEDED

Paul emphasized the need of the church family to be self-disciplined and to love and even though the path may be tiring and to overcome that church members should excel in love for there is a great future for the church and for members who have love one for another and have zeal and obedience for the fight to be fought with God's weapon.

The future of the church of Jesus Christ is safe in the hands of faithful witnesses who rely on God's way walking in love and truth, accepting difficult tasks to do as they wait for the coming again of the One who alone has the words of eternal life.

Rev. Woodcock then in appropriate hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have," Mrs. Woodcock pronounced the benediction.

Many visitors attended the church hall and greetings were extended by Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Hyde on behalf of the city of Belleville, and by the Rev. O. Davidson, of Kingston Baptist Church, which will be host in June to the meeting of the convention of Ontario and Quebec and the Baptist Federation of Canada.

The Rev. Stanley Woodcock extended greetings to his brother from the Owen Sound church. It was a great joy to have him present with his wife, Mrs. Ruth, a sister of Mrs. Gordon Woodcock.

Mrs. Arthur Wynne welcomed Mrs. R. Arthur Dowsley on behalf of the women's organizations.

The reception luncheon was served by the ladies of the church in a happy social hour following.

WELCOME TENDERED

At a reside at the close of the induction service a reception in honor of Mr. Woodcock's ministry and a cordial welcome was extended to the pastor and Mrs. Woodcock and family. Congress were extended to Mrs. Woodcock and to Mrs. Quirk, wife of the Emerson minister, the Rev. Eric Quirk, B.A., B.D.

As a token of the high esteem in which Mr. Woodcock is held by his untiring efforts in faithfully visiting the sick during the three months at the regular Sunday services and in the visitation of the souls of the people, a Manly Macdonald painting was presented to him.

Ike Hildebrand Voices Surprise At Allegation

At Peterborough today Ike Hildebrand, ex-play-by-coach of McFarlands, said at his home here he was surprised at the statement were "surprised" at allegations of mismanaging Belleville city finances.

"I'm sure that Drury Denyes intended to do nothing to benefit himself financially," Hildebrand said.

He added that the players received their cheques from Denyes.

Hildebrand said less than $20,000 a year in hockey salaries was paid out by the city's general fund. Between 18 and 20 players were on the team, this meant that each member only received about $1,000 a year from it.

Bible Crusader Clubs Hold Joint Rally

Under the direction of Miss Doneida B. Day, the Bible Crusader Clubs met Wednesday in the Selgran Methodist Church, Everett St., with an excellent attendance present.

Mr. Floyd Cummings acted as master of ceremonies. The service opened with the singing of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." This was followed by a prayer chorus, "Daniel Was a Man of Prayer," sung by the girls of Mrs. Ila Walker's club, after which the Rev. J. S. Spearman led in prayer. Kazoo band favored with "For God So Loved the World." Miss Sharon Robbin, Madoc, gave an inspiring testimony after which Mrs. Dorothy McKnight's club sang "Jonah and the Whale."

Fourteen quizzers from Madoc and Belleville thrilled the audience as they answered questions on the book of Jonah, with the Madoc club winners. A girls' trio from Miss B. Trotter's club sang "I Will Make You Fishers of Men."

The service was climaxed with the showing of a 46-minute film entitled, "Tammy," a simple dramatic presentation of God's way of salvation.

The service closed with prayer by the Rev. Murray McKnight.

Parks Board Will Improve Appearance Bay Shore Park

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Parks Board turned out yesterday to plan further steps in the improvement of the appearance of the Bay Shore Extension Park and the portion of the park which is in front of the Canadian Legion Memorial Hall.

Plans for the park, which have been drawn up by Miss Marion Baker, who is also in charge of the three parks of that area, will include a sidewalk from the government pier to the front of the park and then across to the Canadian Legion Hall. Large flower beds will also be planted in the park and suitable space will be left for a band side and between the light standards for parking cars.

A curb at the edge of the sidewalk will prevent careless motorists from driving on the grass areas as has been a habit in the past, it was said.

At the present time an underground, pop-up sprinkler system is being installed in the Fraser Memorial Park, the lighted grounds of the Bay Shore Extension Park. Town gardener Bart Boers is in charge of the work and says that the existing him under the winter work program.

Mr. Boers reports that the Fraser Park has been completed but he expects the Legion grounds to be finished today. The men will then move into the Extension Park at Bay Shore Extension.

At the regular meeting of the Parks Board held on Tuesday night in the board rooms of the Municipal Building, the board decided to assist the Girl Guides in the planting for planting tulips in a park on the east side of the river this fall. The Trenton Guides project is part of a dominion-wide plan in which the Girl Guides of Canada will plant a "River of Gold" in marking their 50th anniversary.

TREES ARRIVE

The Parks Board was informed that 500 trees which they have ordered have arrived and the shrubs have been planted at the Hollandale Nurseries by the owner and town gardener, Mr. Boers. Mr. Boers said they will be left there until the Parks Board has the land planted with some of them going to Mt. Pelion. An offer from the Trenton Kinsmen Club to assist in the planting them has been accepted.

A letter of complaint concerning the "bare-look" on the Bay Shore Park was received and read at the meeting and an explanation was given that in forming the persons that no trees have been cut down on the park but that the land had been only dead and fallen ones have been removed as the vast majority of the underbrush. Many compliments have been voiced about the board's work in improving the appearance of the slopes of the park. Further work there was done under the Winter Works Scheme and decided at last winter by the Provincial and Federal Governments.

The board decided at the meeting to purchase ten cement posts for benches and they will install them on Mount Pelion and other park areas.

A letter from the Tatham Construction Company was read by the board members in which the company offered to co-operate in any way possible with the Parks Board in the management in respect to the gravel pit and Mount Pelion area.

The board also approved the building of a stone cairn around the fountain at the town hall. This will make three to be done in the near future. The others are the one at Gilmor Hill and one at Hanna Park.

Attending both meetings were, Ted Parker, chairman of the board, and members Miss Marion Baker, Bill Ireland, Claude Smith, John Saylor and Al Georgeson.

Batawa Defeats Kingston 4-1 In Soccer Play

TRENTON — Batawa soccer team defeated Kingston Dynamos 4-1 in an Eastern/Ontario League fixture at Kingston on Saturday. The game was fast and clean, with officials right on top of the play all the way. The Batawa squad took a 1-0 lead in the first half and the dynamos came back to tie it up early in the second half. The Batawa squad, still unbeaten in the 1958 season, showed great strength and were never headed and finished the game well out in front 4-1).

European-style of soccer and fine team work is giving the Batawa team a good start in the Eastern section of the league and things about the team is the large number of different racial and national origins shared by the teammates. The language barrier, which was a slight drawback, is now gone. These boys play a fine soccer and are pleasing the fans in both the Quinte District League and also in the Eastern Ontario League.

Goal getters on Saturday were the two brothers Cook with one each, Kusters and Smets. They play Thursday night in Kingston in a league game with Trenton, and the surge of soccer interest in the Batawa and Trent Valley district is understandable.

Cannot Sell Fireworks To Minors

With May 24th fast approaching and consequently an increased demand for firecrackers, City Fire Chief Gerald Vance today reminded local dealers that a city by-law provides heavy penalties for the sale of firecrackers to minors.

He notes that a penalty of not exceeding $300 is provided for a dealer convicted of selling fireworks to a minor.

The by-law provides that no person, firm or corporation in the city shall sell fireworks to any person under 16 years of age on any day during the year.

"We are not opposed to the sale of fireworks," noted Pire Chief Vance, "only that we do not want them to get in the hands of minors."

The chief noted that each year usually sees reports of fires being caused as the result of the use of fireworks, or somebody being injured as the result of insufficient care being taken in their use.

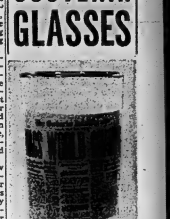
Charles Tupper Speaks to CBRT

On Monday evening, Charles A. Tupper, CCF candidate for Hastings-East Hastings, recording secretary of Local 128, C.W.A.-C.L.C., addressed the members on the forthcoming provincial election at a meeting in Engineers' hall here.

"The Canadian Labor Congress and the Ontario Federation of Labor have both endorsed the democratic convention the formation of a new political party (in 1960) which will support the legitimate aims of the labor movement, social justice and jobs for all — no discrimination against people on account of age, sex, color or religion and better homes, health services and pensions for all," he said.

"The CCF is a part of the new party plans, and in this provincial election in Ontario, labor should support CCF candidates as the CCF party is the only party which has endorsed labor's program, so that no matter what politics you formerly were, if you wish to back labor's program for honest government then back the CCF in this election.



"With regard to a name for the new party, several many suggestions have come in from the various political forums being held in various parts of the country. It was stated Saturday at the public meeting held at the Odd Fellows hall here, that a total of some 136 names had been already submitted. Apparently this has been considered a rather unimportance among the delegates. But at a joint democratic convention of the CLC of the CCF held in Montreal, September 1960, the delegates there present will vote on the name at that time deemed to be most suitable.

SHOULD THE IRON HORSE DIE?

After this year there will be no more steam locomotives operating on the Canadian National Railways lines in Ontario. Two excursion runs sponsored by the Canadian Railway Historical Association from the Upper Canada Railway Society will have been held for the benefit of those who would like to see the "Iron Horse" in action. It seems a shame that our publicly-owned railway has apparently taken no action whatsoever to preserve an operating piece of what played so important a part in Canada's history. If the "iron horse" had never existed we cannot conceive how Canada, or the United States, could have progressed to the civilization and way of life which they enjoy today.

Much has been made in many circles about maintaining a Canadian way of life and of developing or preserving (depending on one's school of thought) the factors which contribute or have contributed to the Canadian culture. Culture is not only literature, painting and music. It also includes social, industrial, transportation, and economic facets, according to modern sociology.

Surely in the interests of future generations of Canadians there could be a few spur lines across the Dominion equipped with a steam engine and a few pieces of rolling stock, and with operating facilities maintained on these lines. These could be operated as tourist attractions and as living evidence of a vital part of Canadian development. There would not have to be very many, perhaps one in the Maritimes, one in Quebec, another in Ontario, one in the Prairie provinces and another in British Columbia.

These would not be too expensive, surely, for either the railways or the Canada Council to maintain, and they would to an increasing degree pay a part or all of their own way as the years passed and they became more of an attraction.

We feel that the persons-that-be in Ottawa might take immediate action to ensure that such a program is inaugurated before it is too late and the remaining "iron horses" have been destroyed by the cutting torches of the scrap and junk dealers.

Such an important part of our history does not deserve such an inglorious fate and we feel that most Canadians would agree.

THE PERFECT LIQUOR LAW

We see by the papers that John J. Wintermeyer, Ontario Liberal leader, has promised that if his party is elected to power June 11 it will name a committee to hold hearings and make recommendations for a revision of Ontario's liquor laws.

Almost certainly, if this committee met, it would not recommend the one system which seems to please everybody concerned. If you are from Missouri about the existence of any such system, you are in the right region but the wrong state - - its Mississippi which has the perfect system, according to a story in the New York Times.

This system is prohibition, with variations. The law is on the books but is enforced only in areas where public sentiment favors such action. In river towns like Natchez and Vicksburg and along the resort-studded Gulf Coast, liquor can be bought in stores. In some places there are bars. According to the story in the Times, everybody's happy, "the drys have their law; the wets have their liquor".

And the tax collector? Oh, he's happy too. Although it is illegal to sell liquor, the state still levies a tax on the liquor coming into the state and cities which are wet levy monthly "fines" on those who sell it. About the only people who are sometimes unhappy are the bootleggers, for if citizens are not satisfied with the service they get they just call the National Guard and have the bootlegger raided. Gov. J. P. Coleman ordered one raid after citizens complained. The bootleggers sought a tax refund. But State Tax Collector William Winter ruled against them, holding that such raids "are just one of the hazards of the particular occupation."

Sounds like a fairy tale; somehow we don't think Ontario citizens would get the spirit of the thing.

TAKING THE BABY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

When home from work he comes at night
And settles in his chair
To rest himself a little, while
In peace and comfort there,
Quite oft his wife comes in and says:
"I'm worn and weary, too,
I'd like to get a little rest.
Let baby play with you."

And then he takes her in his arms
And romps around the room
And quite forgets his weariness,
Cheaper is rest and fume;

He will admit more splendid fun
Is known of somewhere—
maybe,
But, after all, he'd rather be Allowed to take the baby.

O, you who go to lodge, and you
Who take in all the shows,
Who have no little tots at home—
No Marybell or Rose—
Will never know supremest Joy
Until—and soon the day be—
Your wife says: "I am weary now;
I wish you'd take the baby."

Japan Boosts Its Rice Crop

Fort William Times-Journal

Japanese farmers have formed an alliance with engineers and chemists which has increased the country's annual rice crop by nearly one-third.

They have reduced import requirements from about two-thirds, saved large amounts of foreign exchange, and gone far toward making Japan self-sufficient in spite of its big annual population increase.

The trick has been to develop strains which grow well in the cooler Northern regions, then transplant them to the warmer south and West to take advantage of their newly-developed characteristics.

These can be planted and brought to maturity earlier. A second crop can follow, but, most important of all, if they can be harvested, as they are, in July, the crop is brought in before the annual typhoon season.

While the new strain thus dodges the typhoon season in early summer, the South, also avoids the risk of early frost in August or September in the North.

To the help of the paddy farmer — as the mainstay of the plot of well-worked earth, have come, too, the chemist with new fertilizers, the agricultural scientist with his seed-breeding techniques and the engineer with his dams and sluices for control of flooding and irrigation.

Until 1954, Japan's average rice harvest was something over 9,000,000 tons.

In that year, it was the largest ever recorded: 12,335,000 tons. Then came crops of about 11,000,000 tons in each of the next 2 years and 1958 once again brought more than 12,000,000 tons.

The area of cultivable land has extended only slightly but, for example, land reclamation programs like the sowing of seed and factories cost Japan almost as much land as it gained by reclamation.

So the bigger crops were produced from about the same area. The paddy at Fort William cultivated before and by about the same number of farmers.

The Japanese put down just under 2,000,000 acres to paddy field rice each year. This area is cultivated by 5,500,000 farmers.

With the rice crop coming in earlier, fodder for stock now can be grown in the second half of the season. The land is enriched, and Japanese children get more milk and butter.

Prospects of a double rice crop also are increasing. Two crops in a season can be grown in some Southeast Asian countries.

How Did They Count Laughs?

Peterborough Examiner

We missed seeing a movie last week which advertised "287 certified laughs". We have no doubt that it was funny, but the strain of seeing a picture in which 287 laughs had to be counted would have been too much for us.

Even the count include quiet little chuckles, we wonder, as well as the uproarious guffaws? Did the enumerator, busily counting the laughter of the audience, also subtract the boos from the miscount, and if so would he not feel justifiably unsatisfied with the job in quiet study, while the rest of the audience whooped, roared and chuckled endlessly?

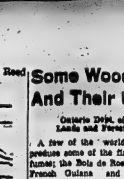
Name Chosen By New State



New York Herald Tribune

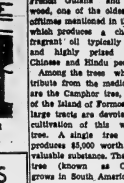
We were not surprised to see that Hawaii was the call letter of the Aloha state. The Hawaiian word "aloha" is a good one, not only in its musical sound but in what it says. It means "love" and is widely understanding in that lovely chain of islands so tastily. It also means "goodbye", and has followed many a reluctant tourist across the sea when he has departed on ship. Not only that — according to Webster, it means "love," "affection" or "kindness," too.

We're happy to have such a beautiful word as the official name for it is one of the few that's honor an abstract idea rather than a specific animal or feature of the landscape. True, Missouri is the Show-Me state, a name that glorifies the proverbial skepticism of its natives. Alabama is the Land of Opportunity and Connecticut is among other things, the Land of Steady Habits.

But otherwise our states endure such feuna as the bald eagle, the gopher, the wolverine, the badger and the blue hen, or such flora as sagebrush, magnolia, pine tree and peach. We have a liking for the Golden state and a Yellowhammer state. Mississippi is Hoosier state and a Hawkeye state, though both names are of obscure origin. Hoosier may be a local term for old word for a frontier ruffian, but Hoosiers Indianans take great pride in it, and made it respectable. As for Hawkeye, it still conjures up the scholarly air of it was the nickname of Natty Bumppo in the last of the Mohicans," which first appeared in 1826, it may have been a synonym then for a noble pioneer.

But there's no mistaking Aloha. It means what it says.

Some Woods And Their Use



Ontario Dept. of Lands and Forests

A few of the world's tree species some of the finest pulpmes; the Bois de Rose tree of French Guiana and Sandalwood, one of the oldest woods, officers mentioned in the Bible, which produces a charmingly fragrant oil typically oriental and highly prized by the Chinese and the Japanese.

Among the trees which contributs from the medical angle are the Camphor tree, a native of the Island of Formosa, whose large tracts are devoted to the cultivation of this wonderful tree. A single tree offtimes yields as much as 100 pounds of this valuable substance. The Quining tree (known as Cinchona) grows in South America and is the source of the medicine of that name.

It is interesting to note the characteristics of certain wood which make them peculiarly adaptable for certain purposes. Yucca, a tree native to the arid sections of the southwestern U.S., produces a wood especially suitable for surgeon's splints. Balsa wood, lightest known to the world, is ideal for life-rafts, surf-boards, stream-lining for airplanes, etc.

Wooden shoes are made from alder and poplar trees because of a combination of toughness and lightness. Spruce possesses special resonance qualities. Fernambuco wood is the only satisfactory wood for violin bows. Practically all engravings are mounted on cherry wood because of resistance to warp. Willow is used for artificial limbs. The playing of cricket and the lilliest tables are made of rosewood. Aromatic Red Cedar is employed for lining cutlery handles are made of Cocobolo rosewood because of its effect on the hands. Teak is desirable for shipbuilding because of its resistance to rot, and the manganese insect which attacks wood, especially pine, will not tackle Pitch Pine of Burma, logged by elephants in the dense jungle. Hickory from any river bank in winter and hurled downstream with the spring freshets sometimes requiring fifteen or twenty years before the logs eventually reach seaport. Red White Oak contains the necessary properties for the curing and aging of brewed and distilled liquors. Hickory, our strongest wood, especially suitable for implement handles, wheel spokes, etc. When burned slowly and allowed to smoulder, it yields a smoke which deliciously "cures" hams and bacon.

Realism Needed

Washington can not seem to rid itself of the idea that the leadership of the Peiping regime as the de facto Government of China would simply mean the triumph of the political views of that Government. After all, it is possible to recognize sin without becoming a sinner.

TRICHINOSIS CAN DEVELOP FROM INFECTED PORK

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been worrying for six months. Should I say anything when I see a loaf of all beef. I gave my little boy a taste, and ate some myself, before it was cooked.

"When we were eating supper, my husband told me he had bought half beef and half pork. I haven't been able to forget about it. Every time my little boy has a fever or cries in the night, I think maybe he has trichinosis from uncooked pork. — Mrs. A.O."

After that long, you have nothing to fear, if pork is infected trichinosis develops quite quickly. But not all pork is infected, by any means. All meat should be cooked to some extent, and pork cooked thoroughly. Best does not carry the threat of trichinosis, but can carry tapeworms. So cook it thoroughly while it raw.)

"Dear Dr. Molner: What can cause bald spots? My daughter has several, and two are the size of a quarter. Some hair. She has had several for more than six months. — Mrs. K. A.T."

I wish that I (or anyone) could answer a question like this more positively. You don't say how old your daughter is. Sometimes she is a youngster, if so, does she pick at her hair? Is she worried about school?

She should be checked to see if any infection is present in the scalp as that can cause bald spots — fungus or parasitic disorders, too. Nervousness can be a factor.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can youthfulness actually be restored by taking skin by the use of creams containing hormones, vitamins, especially, and the like? Is there any danger in using them, —

Fundamentally no, to the first question. Some reports would indicate that creams containing hormones can be harmful in some cases. The answer is that I see no sense in using them. Creams are supposed to, in their reflection of age. "Nutrients" for the skin come primarily from the blood stream to the outside. A good balanced diet, and a vitamin supplement if you need one, will keep skin looking better than it will look with your diet deficient and poorly balanced.

Use of a simple skin cream to help keep the skin soft and oily if you have been overweight, and then reduced, has some benefit and appear older. Exercise and fresh air will perk up the tone of the skin in most instances; however, you can't fool Father Time.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband insists I wash the blankets every week as he says they do the sheets. We sleep between two sheets and I say blankets are dirty, too. Who is right and should we washed about every two months. I know this may sound silly to you, but I have six children and I am tired of washing every blanket in the house every week. — Mrs. W.M.T."

Maybe I am making a mountain out of all beef. I gave my little boy a taste, and ate some myself, before it was cooked.

Why Answer That Phone?

Vancouver Province

We were watching the climax of a play on television the other night when the phone rang. Irritatingly. We got up to answer it. The call was completely unimportant but it destroyed the two-per-cent of the show's 25 minutes, and we got to thinking.

There is no law that says you have to answer a telephone.

If you were at the bottom of the garden, or down at the corner store buying a packet of cigarets, you would not know it had rung, except perhaps in one case in a hundred. You would be no worse off for having the unanswered call.

And yet how many people attract themselves dripping from bathtubs, or abandon their ironing-boards, or fall down stairs, or interrupt a train of thought, or answer a half-chewed mouthful of supper, or abandon a book in mid-paragraph, at the behest of some that demanding bell? Millions. Why?

Perhaps it's just curiosity — the fear of missing something.

Or perhaps it does pay better than that. Might it not be another case of modern man's unconscious desire to electrical stimuli — red light, green light, bell; stop, go, answer.

It's a sad thought, because it reduces us to the level of Pavlov's reflex-conditioned dogs.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BETTER and BIGGER COMING!

We stand at the threshold of what is probably the most great epochs of human history. Unless all signs are leading us astray, we are about to make discoveries in matter-space which may constitute man's greatest accomplishment to date.

Are there people on other planets? Certainly we cannot dismiss the thought. Is there life on Mars? Life on this planet is so diverse, (consider man and the insects), that it is not at all unlikely that there are thinking, purposeful forms of life on other planets. It brings, if you will — which are vastly different from us in form and mode of living. Mars, for instance, which is much smaller than earth, probably cooled millions of years before the earth did, and so made possible forms of life far more ancient than ours. What about the lines on Mars? The so-called "canals". They look man-made. The earth is so small that from most of the planets in our system, even if they have telescopes as efficient as ours, we are only a dim point of light. The sun has no more than 12,000 times that of the earth, but there is another "star" which has a diameter 3000 times that of the sun.

Hold on to your hats, folks. We haven't seen anything yet. Lunik? Pioneer IV? Just be patient for a decade.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A MOTTO OF LIFE — UP!

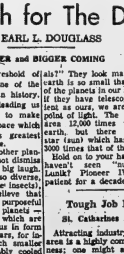
Keep climbing up! It is the law of Nature — even of life itself. The seed takes its start in the ground, but it does not long. It wants the gold of the sun. That seed arises from the ground and its entire history is upward and natural beauty.

If you will but engrave upon the tablet of your heart this little word — up — and let it lead you, you will never have cause to fall.

Everything grows up — beautiful fragrant flowers, trees, children, babies, nations, the world!

What you are in this big life is revealed in the way you interpret your up. It's so easy to fall down. Anyone can do that, over and over again. But it's how you get up that counts. It takes real courage to get up, and take up.

Long ago, that wonderful old Hebrew prophet, Habakkuk said: "Look up — not down." It is the watchword of every passing night. Indicative of a sun-strewn dawn, this up of yours!



The vision of this onward world is — up.

No man ever fell so low but he desired to get up. It is the greatest aspiration that the "great God plants in our souls."

But it isn't enough to get up yourself. You must always remember that —

"He climbs highest who helps another up!"

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the neighborly world in which most of our communities were designed, houses were built with their fronts on the street. Front doors, front porches and living room windows faced the public.

The tradition has persisted to this day. But nobody sits on front porches any more. The streets on which the windows looked out, in former times, were pleasant thoroughfares through which only occasional vehicles passed, and neighbors were to be seen walking by. Walking. Front doors were for running in, to order to call out a greeting to the neighbor strolling by.

Streets today are filled with swiftly passing strangers. Noisy traffic hustles by. It gives you a sense of loneliness to look at the street and all its heedless fugitives.

The backs of houses should face the modern street, for the convenience of the motor age. Street doors should be what they used to call tradesmen's entrances.

And so help me, that is what some of the newest and smartest suburban housing developments are doing. Some people prefer style still characterizes the street front of the houses. But the true front, the great picture windows, the living rooms, the homiest rooms decorated with ornaments, bushes and flowers, all face in upon the garden.

What we can see are the windows, porches, garden chairs and barbecues of the neighbor's dens. We are turning inward for neighborliness.

VON Sponsors Successful and Delightful Tea

Blue and white was the keynote yesterday afternoon for the attractive tea held in Christ Church parish hall under the auspices of the Victorian Order of Nurses. The spacious assembly room was fragrant with the perfume of wild plum blossoms mingled with savory aromas of delicious home cooking.

The long, damask-covered tea tables were prettily appointed with tri-branched silver candelabra holding tall blue and white candles, flanking centrepieces of tall-stemmed tulips in shades of mauve, pink and rose; while the gleaming silver services added a further pleasing touch.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. D. Scott, and Miss Dorothy Connor, head nurse of the VON, and inviting to the tea room were the hostesses, Mrs. S. E. Morton, Mrs. J. G. Gould, Mrs. R. H. Brain, and Miss B. Corbett.

Those presiding at the silver services were: Mrs. J. J. Truman and Mrs. M. E. Bulger; Mrs. H. W. Ackerman and Miss Doris Smith; Mrs. H. M. Francis and Mrs. J. S. Cooper; Mrs. J. A. Parker, and Mrs. W. S. Northcott.

REPLENISHING

Replenishing the tea pots and plates: Mrs. C. Lepper, Mrs. A. Nelles, Mrs. J. Elliott, Mrs. A. E. Miles, Mrs. J. H. Lemhoe, and Mrs. E. E. Fellowes.

Those who served included: Mesdames R. K. Franklin, H. A. Varone, C. R. James, K. Douglas, R. Bateman, G. Locklin, C. Shaw, N. Edwards, G. Trim, A. Andrew, R. Parks, C. B. Morgan, F. H. Rose, L. B. Casey, Miss Cletus Trudeau, and Miss J. Grunspan.

Those in the kitchen included Mesdames F. A. Hitchon, assisted by W. G. McGee, H. Thompson, Cameron Hitchon, W. D. McLaughlin and C. Bishop with Mrs. W. Heard and Mrs. H. Taylor making tea.

Mrs. H. Medill faithfully executed her duties as treasurer.

Beside the blue garlanded homecooking table, which extended across the hall, and the small miscellaneous table at the adjoining corner, the little guest tables with seating for four and six respectively, also had the blue and white tones in the blue and white ruffles around the African violets which centred the tables.

The home cooking was a treat to the eyes with its iced coffee rolls apple, lemon and pumpkin pies; Chinese chews; spice cakes; date loaves, some plain and other iced with sprinkled walnut meats; angel cakes with pink and white boiled icings; tempting chocolate squares, meringues; loaf cakes, walnut topped and mouth-watering cookies of many varieties. Convening these dainties was Mrs. N. Williamson assisted by Mrs. R. Pound; Mrs. W. C. Cochrane; Mrs. E. Neil; Mrs. H. McKay; Mrs. Douglas Graham; Mrs. R. Putnam with Mrs. H. B. Fetterly as treasurer.

Some delicious candy, close by in boxes, and in cellophane bags, included maple creams; cream fudge mellifluj and chocolate fudge. Mrs. J. P. Chipman and Mrs. Howard Francis were in charge of these. Both booths did a brisk business and were soon sold out.

The little miscellaneous, or what-have-you table displayed some choice African Violets, pheasant cactus and totem-pole cactus; rubber plant; costume jewellery; plaster holder; children and adult books; toys; pretty aprons in mauve and yellow; tiny extra bag; perfume; figurines of a kangaroo and baby; crocheted hot plate stands, and a pair of rubber heels. Mrs. R. L. Smith and Mrs. J. Lewis were the conveners of these.

A nursery was provided for the tiny tots under the supervision of Mrs. T. Brown, Mrs. R. Dowsin and Miss Stevenson.

Appreciative thanks go to the conveners, Mrs. J. R. Grant and Mrs. R. R. Brain for a splendidly arranged and successful tea.

Auditor's Report Says City Council Must Levy to Cover Deficit of $102,609 For Arena and Macs up to Dec. 31, 1958

Belleville city council will have to levy on the general rate-payers to cover the deficit of the Belleville Arena Commission and the McFarlands Hockey Club.

This is the opinion expressed by the city auditing firm of F. A. R. McFadden Company in its report for the year ending December 31, 1958, which showed an accumulated deficit for the arena commission and hockey team of $103,609.

The auditor's report was received by Mayor Gerald B. Hyde on Thursday, May 7, and is now in the hands of the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs. The report shows that nearly $97,000 in salaries for hockey players had been paid out of civic funds in the past three years.

Drury S. Denyes, who held the positions of city treasurer and city manager and also acted as manager of the Belleville McFarlands Hockey Team, last weekend gave his resignation to Mayor Hyde. He withdrew his resignation on Monday and Monday evening council voted to suspend his pending a fully detailed investigation of the city's finances which has been asked for by Mayor Hyde.

CANNOT EARN ENOUGH

The city auditor in the report said that from past experience the arena "does not earn sufficient net revenue to recover the accumulated deficit in the foreseeable future."

"It would appear then," the report continued, "that council must levy on the general ratepayers in order to raise sufficient funds to cover this deficit."

"The deficit of the arena and the hockey club is being financed by bank overdraft and advances from the general fund, both of which would appear to be illegal," the report declares.

It also criticized the way the municipality had financed some of the Parking Commission's work and said that the city was still holding some of its own debentures issued in 1957.

HOCKEY SALARIES

The auditor's report shows that the following hockey salaries were paid out of the city's general fund:

1956-57 hockey season. $16,733
1957-58 hockey season $39,256
1958-59 hockey season ... $1,200

In addition, the auditor said there was a direct transfer from the general fund to the hockey club amounting to $8,373.

During 1958, he said, $29,270 was paid from the general fund "as arena costs."

According to his calculations, the arena now owes the city's general fund $35,006.

"The hockey club has no books of original entry and so I have been unable to make an examination of its accounts," the report states.

"The accounts and records of the hockey club have never been audited for me and its assets and liabilities have never been included with those of the arena in the statements of prior years."

The auditor continues:

However, "I now understand the hockey club is the sole responsibility of the Arena Commission and council and for this reason I have set up the overdrafts in the hockey accounts."

"The arena commission has not apparently maintained any minute book, so I am unable to ascertain what authorizations have been made relative to the hockey club."

"So far as I am able to ascertain, there is no existing legislation which will permit the arena commission to borrow money from a bank or to incur an overdraft," the auditor said.

Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender said yesterday at Toronto he would not hesitate to order a judicial inquiry if evidence warrants one.

Deputy Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Carter said yesterday it will take between two weeks and a month to bring the books up to date so a further audit can be conducted. More staff is being hired by the city and more mechanical equipment obtained to do the job, he said.

DEBENTURES UNSOLD

The auditor's report, dated March 13, 1959, reached the Municipal Affairs Department in Toronto Tuesday.

In referring to city debentures raised under bylaw 6889, the auditor said: "A minor portion of this issue was sold locally during 1957 and it is my understanding that council intended to dispose of the remainder as soon as possible. However, I note no sales have taken place during 1958."

West Belleville G.G.-Brownies Hold Meeting

Belleville West Girl Guide and Brownie local association met last Thursday evening at 8 in the Parkdale community hall.

Several members, prior to the meeting, watched the fifth Brownie Pack and were impressed with the work the Brownies are doing. Six Brownies received their Golden Bars and one Brownie received her Star.

The chatrudy commissioner, Mrs. R. Setter, announced that all Guiders in Belleville West have been presented with their wrist pins by members of the local association.

Mrs. Setter commented on the provincial annual meeting held recently in Toronto, which she attended with the district commissioner, Mrs. D. G. Diemmenden.

It was decided to make a donation to the new Avondale Guide company. Guides are under way for Guide camps this summer. At present there is a staff problem as yet to be worked out.

The association is looking for someone with musical ability, willing to visit the packs and companies to play for Brownie and Guides songs and musical games.

Mrs. McLaughlin offered to collect Betty Crocker box tops to the boys' club. Mrs. Donald Neal received its offer to pay 5 cents for each box top this fall.

The Provincial Council of Girl Guides have outgrown its rented quarters and needs a building of its own. It is hoped to have the new building in Toronto ready for the 50th anniversary of Guiding in Canada.

FIVE PRESENTED

The members of the association who had been enrolled as Guiders before were presented with their pins by Mrs. E. Bedford, Mrs. H. Martin and Mrs. J. McLaughlin.

The commissioner enrolled in a group the following ladies in the Guiding movement: Mrs. A. G. Belsey, Mrs. W. Collins, Mrs. T. Graham, Mrs. B. Moore, Mrs. H. W. Hunter, Mrs. J. Rodgers and Mrs. R. Rosson. Mrs. B. Harvey was to be enrolled at the O.S.D. Mrs. E. Sawicki acted as lieutenant and assisted the commissioner, giving out the pips. The simple, but meaningful ceremony, with the words of welcome and responsibilities of Guiding, impressed by Mrs. Setter, were food for thought. The Guiding movement is a world-wide approval and respect and those concerned with it can be justly proud. There are three and one-half million people interested in guiding, 150,000 in Canada, almost half of that number in Ontario.

MUST UPHOLD GUIDE LAW

"Guides must remember and uphold the Guide law. Being dependable is one of the ways we can keep our democratic freedom having a job to do and doing it to the best of our ability. 'A Guide is loyal;' we should carry our loyalties into our lives. Credit everyone with good motives. A Guide is a friend to all we must strive to overcome prejudice. A Guide makes friends and avoids difficulties. This Guide law helps to keep us at peace in heart. In fact the Guide laws help to keep us young and help us to live as God would have us live."

Mission Work in Various Localities Shows Splendid Growth in All Phases

By GLADYS WARD

Opening the third day of the annual council meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society at St. Andrew's Church, a service of worship was held with Rev. R. D. MacLean in the pulpit. President of the council, Mrs. A. Cowan Johnson, constituted the meeting with prayer, followed by the roll call and minutes.

The reports which were presented by the various secretaries of the many departments showed how extensive the work is, how needed and more funds were necessary. The report of the literature department of 33 deaconesses and five summer workers, and they do the Presbyterian Record.

TELL OF WORK

Miss Frieda E. Matthews, executive director of national missions, introduced Miss Flora Whitehead (Mrs. Donald Cameron) of Jenness van Beek who told of their mission work in downtown Toronto. Mrs. Cameron and the speakers revisited the structure of the work, which grew from the congregations and W.M.S. to the General Board of Missions and the Board of Home Missions and the General Assembly. Downtown missions, first started in the gutted areas in cities and the same problems were to be found in Toronto. The methods of work changes as one quarter or the other families move in, ethnic and language reasons, would soon prevail. Missions, of necessity, is continually in flux as the families come and go. Each week 20 people in the permanent residents are older people who went to stay where they were born.

The deaconesses work with the girls' auxiliaries, mothers' boards, and social planning councils. The outreach of downtown missions work finds brownies divided communities, and Sunday school and vacation work of people. There is always the individual at the centre of the problem who can come with the problems of the aged, society, or the children. Children with special needs help. Sometimes it is new Canadians who are confronted and find their own customs. All are referred to the proper authorities and their problems solved. They are brought into church groups, especially the children and Guides, in the hope that Christ's spirit may be within the worker and the children.

BAD HOUSING

Miss Hilda Blackwell who has been in the north west East Toronto, noted that the first requirement was a visitation in the neighborhood, sometimes so that the worker may get to know the people intimately before they may get to know her. Frequently they are living in deplorable conditions and are not aware of what is lacking. They have modern homes due to alcoholism and other vices, and are able to help them to help themselves. The worker is able to give spiritual help as well as practical help and is often bring happiness by solving problems. The church takes the initiative in going to the families where social agencies must wait until called.

Miss Hazell Davis spoke of her work in West Toronto where a large number of girls are aware of the home environment and could accept a program to that need. Children were encouraged to attend groups, to go on hikes and into a happier atmosphere under capable leadership.

In the downtown areas old houses are used where the single room on their pension. Here the church gives friendship and companionship to senior citizens, groups, seeking them out and assisting them that they are cared for. The classes in English offer each person warmth and interest. They are met at the door afresh where they find Christian friendship and a church interested in their welfare.

The church force was often left to help their leaders and resources with other churches, and combined to meet problems to focus public opinion on such problems as juvenile delinquency. Family problems often develop due to unemployment, and the church through its contacts going contact with these families.

COLORED SLIDES SHOWN

Mrs. G. P. Loule outlined her work among the Chinese people in Montreal. Formerly these people were not much interested in Christianity but now they hoped to return to China and their families, but that picture has changed since the granting of citizenship to the Chinese and the change in the Immigration Act. There are now some 700 families in Montreal, ten times the number previously. They have a new church in their new homes and there is a great opportunity to preach the saving grace to them. Kindergartens have been established, and while the little ones attend their mothers are learning English in another classroom, and studying the Christian way of life.

Colored slides were shown of the work arriving in Montreal and the port receptionist; scenes in the immigration shed; groups of children in devotional discussions; Brownies and boys athletic group; the Chinese mission; the travelling van at work in the Rocky Mountains; a mountain top gathering; Indians in Bible school; school at Elliot Lake, Manitoba, and at Kenora. A tape recording of a communion service in Psalm by students of Grades 4 and 6 in the Indian school at Kenora was done by a group who could not speak English a year ago.

GIVEN SERVICE MEDAL

Miss Catherine Watson presented a summary of the work accomplished at Tyndale House in Montreal, speaking of the Sunday school, Bible study activities. There are five paid workers and forty volunteers there. Tyndale house forms the nucleus of the groups. No one is barred because of nationality or religion, all are one in the sight of God at Tyndale House.

Mrs. Laule was the recipient of the twenty-five year service medal which was presented by Mrs. Thompson.

For the presentation of the report from the Publications department Mrs. G. R. Pye conducted the meeting, followed by the committee composed of members of the council. The official publication, "Glad Tidings" had over 18,000 subscribers. It was suggested that the magazine should be used to educate and inform all members of the church. Work done at home and overseas, in giving help and in the educational programs. Mrs. E. P. Pitt demonstrated what took place in the six months that a new subscriber's name came in until it was on the mailing list and asked that the secretaries send in their lists by the middle of October.

Mrs. A. J. Cherry suggested that a thumbnail review should be given in the form of a skit to show the diversity of subjects in each issue of local papers wherever possible was advised by Mrs. J. H. Burnett, speaking on public relations and press releases, adding that the reports should be as informative and congenial as possible. Books are available on request to the publications office.

TEA ENJOYED

Tea hour was served by the members of the Friendship group of the Guild, and later in the afternoon tea was enjoyed.

Organization Department under the chairmanship of Miss Ellen Fee had arranged regional leadership for training centres and camps. One W.M.S. "Training" was held last summer at Albert College in this city, and others in Kemptville and Lindsay Colleges. Two training centres are being planned for this spring. With the use of a map, Miss Louise Reilin illustrated with red and green lights the areas that had increased or decreased groups and givings. This showed the general trend and gave valuable aid in evaluating the reasons for the variations. There was a splendid increase in children's and young people's groups, and a small increase in giving, a rise of 15 cents a person. There was so much that needed to be done in the mission of the church with great opportunities and grave responsibilities.

CHILDREN CONTRIBUTED

Miss Ada Adams, assistant secretary of children's work, showed how the children's missionary dollars had travelled around the world. The children of the church had contributed $13,000. The money went into a fund for the children of Korea and Formosa, the children's home in India which had been a project for many years, the primary school for children in Brazil, Labrador and for literature for Canadian missions.

Mrs. Bennett, a slip chart and a Clarabell puppet, Miss Margaret Boyd and Miss Verona Cartwright pointed out that adults are individuals searching for a relationship with God, seeking God, who need a sense of belonging and a person to person approach. Women should be invited to come to meetings and activities. It should be a well-planned meeting using film strips, discussion groups and work-variates face. For instance a native African thinks of God as a spirit. The spirit should be destroyed; certain tribal rites prevent them from ever believe in witchcraft.

BOOK RECOMMENDED

"The Way in Africa" was recommended as a book with much information on conditions there and particularly in authentic Nigerian woman's dress. Miss Clark dwelt on her interesting and lovely the cry from Nigeria bears answering from the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Margaret McNaughton read a poetic description of Nigeria particularly at camp where the girls meet a real missionary and also girls from other countries. The teenage camps are supporting medical facilities in Nigeria and Vellore, in India.

Mrs. Macintyre, of Acton, reported on the pre-reconciliation conference of the children's work committee and the seven synodicals.

EXPLAINS INDEX

She was assisted in her presentation by Mrs. Aiken of New Westminster-B. C. who explained the index system; and by Mrs. Geddes of Montreal who showed the use of filmstrips.

Thirty-two years' service as a mission worker with "the Presbyterian Church Women's Missionary Society, was completed here Wednesday when at the annual meeting at St. Andrew's Church, Mrs. G. P. Loule, Montreal, was presented with a long service pin.

A native of Hong Kong, Mrs. Loule attended normal school there and was principal of a Hong Kong school before coming to Canada 38 years ago. She has been 17 years at the Chinese Mission and Community Centre in Montreal and for eight years in charge of the work among Chinese students at the University of Toronto.

Mrs. Loule is shown with Mrs. A. Glenn Thompson of Stouffville, president of the Toronto Presbyterial (Western Division) who presented her with the long service pin.

Chinese Woman, 32 Years WMS Worker

The study program for next year, 1959-60, domestically introduced by Regional Secretaries Miss Frances Clark, Miss May Nutt and Mrs. Dean Smith, who appeared in native costume to the crowded jungle music. The habits and customs of the tribes, particularly in the girls, were discussed. A map pack, handicraft pack for girls' groups also were displayed. Contingent grants assist the schools financially but feel there is a need that is too high for many students to afford. Scholarships of $30 were inaugurated to assist students.

Junior High Schools are the most effective way of influencing students with Christianity.

CONDITIONS IN INDIA

Miss Edith Magee, principal of the Vellore, India, Christian Medical School, told of the conditions in India. India, Formosa and the million people in her particular field. There is a new freedom in India with the new schools at the college level. More attention will have to be given to the non-Christians. Ten students as well as Christians.

Miss Isobel Taylor is working in the area of music, and is a member of the committee appointed by the General Assembly of the Formosan Presbyterian Church to develop a hymn book for use in Formosan churches. Adapting the tunes to the mountain folk tunes are being incorporated. The Formosan Church is a young church, a church and music is remarkable in its instrumental in carrying the gospel to those who are not Christians.

Home on her first furlough from India, Mrs Ida White, Reg. N., spoke of her work with the Red Cross and Guild of the Bhil field. This work embraces a wide variety of service, to teach, preach and heal. A native Bible woman always accompanies her in her medical visits and preachers stress the need for a responsible child welfare mission fields, as well as an urgent need for more nurses.

Miss Ada Adams, children's secretary on the staff of the W.M.S., spoke of her recent visit to the World Council of Christian Education at Tokyo, Japan, and to the Philippines. At the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Korean Christian Church she spoke to large audiences require English. Korean and Japanese interpreters everyone present. These people are extremely poor, many living in caves, and some church services being held in the back room of some house.

Miss Mary Whale, executive director for overseas work, brought the presentation to a close when she appealed to support the work of the missionaries by prayer fristly. The church's concern is to look to the W.M.S. for support during the next 50 years of its history in planning and outreach. If the members could visit the missions they would be quite overwhelmed with affection and gratitude for the wonderful missionaries that have been sent there in the past. The message sent from the Formosan Church was: "Tell the women in Canada to pray for us." Miss Whale issued a tremendous challenge to the members of the W.M.S. in the closing of her address, which was coming from overseas.

MONTREAL (CP) — The city has opened a special tourism school at the University of Montreal to improve guide services for visitors. A certificate is awarded to successful students.

Two-Thirds of Population Of World in Need Speaker Tells WMS Convention

Picture a line of people standing at your front door, and stretching as far as your eye could see, standing two feet apart, all the people on the continent, across the ocean, around the world, and back to you in just twenty-five times. If you were to drive 10 hours a day for 365 days a year it would take you three-and-a-half years to pass that line of people. These are the two-thirds of the population of the world who are in need," Rev. Donald Donald-V. Wade, M.A., Ph. D., told the audience at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening as he addressed the Council meeting of the W.M.S. women's Missionary Society.

"Our ignorance of our world is appalling," Dr. Wade continued," and we get the facts about it. We must take the trouble to get the facts of the world crystal clear in our minds and then drive it home.

"The trouble with getting too well organized is getting bogged down with too much machinery and red tape. It is all a question of where to lay the emphasis. Sure we need machinery we are taking far too much about what we are doing instead of what we are doing and what needs doing quickly.

"Opportunities do not, last forever. Sometimes they are there suddenly and go quickly never to return. We need shock treatment from time to time to wake us into real Christians. People are asking if Christianity is relevant. It is. It must be dynamically relevant if these questions are to be answered. The reason for the puzzled question is because Christianity has lost its cutting edge. It is now more a hangover from the nineteenth century than a living and vital force from God helping people to live.

"We are not puttering in the 19th but in the 20th century, there are big issues today which shake the very foundations of the world and its God."

Dr. Wade is at present on tour with the Knox College choir. His itinerary includes Japan, Formosa and the Far East. He has had a distinguished scholastic career, and served with distinction.

Rev. Deane Johnston, MBE, M.A, DD, chairman of the General Board of Missions, was in charge of the devotional period at the evening session, reading from Isaiah, chapter 35.

Mrs. Ivan Rollins, soprano soloist, sang, "Just For Today," with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Keefer, of Trenton.

Mrs. A. Glenn Thompson, presided at the meeting, and the benediction was pronounced by the minister, Rev. R. D. MacLean.

The executive director of overseas missions, Miss Mary Whale, expressed appreciation

Christ Church P.G. Hears Talk On the 'Church'

Members of Christ Church Parish Guild enjoyed an informal and interesting social talk at their meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Speaker for the occasion was Mrs. H. F. Swaan, whose theme "He Who Gives, Gathers," provided much food thought and many helpful suggesting stories of young people's work around the world who "give of their best for their church in other lands."

Mrs. Swaan spoke of experiences in China, India, Africa and Trinidad, saying that "on a mission field there is little talk of denomination, but sincere work and effort for the good of the whole church." The speaker said that people who take part in the work of their church or community gain satisfaction and friendships. "Give of your talents and yourself and you receive help but more something fine."

Mrs. Swaan was introduced by Miss Florence Fitzgerald and thanked on behalf of the Guild by Mrs. Ivan Reid.

The business portion of the meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. R. G. Dawson, who extended a cordial welcome to a number of new members. Mrs. E. Hickey who was attending the funeral of Mr. Hickey's brother, Mrs. Claire Hayes, whose husband is in hospital.

DEVOTIONAL

The devotional was given by Mrs. F. Beeby, who read from the St. Matthew's Gospel. The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few . . ." An appeal was made for more help for older men who wish to enter the ministry, and for help and prayer for the increase of the ministry.

Correspondence included letters of thanks from the wardens and from the Parish Auxiliary. Reports were given by various convenors, cent-a-meal, membership and publicity. Mrs. G. Watkin reported on the recent social and announced that the new curate, Mr. H. Messiah will commence his duties on Sunday, May 31st. Mr. Messiah will be ordained by Bishop George Calhoun, Kingston on Sunday, May 24th.

Mrs. D. Diment told of plans for the forthcoming "Blossom Tea" which will be held in June and urged members to work hard for this event.

The meeting closed by hostesses Mrs. Mark Vanner and Mrs. W. Kempston.

to Dr. Wade for his stirring address, stating that the speaker had revealed things he saw and heard to the depth of his being, and the record of his thought the impact of his vision to the meaning of Christian missions.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by correspondents and others.

John V. — She'd never be happy with that big.

Doris V. — Mary jealous of Frank's prestige.

* * *

John V. — My wife and I have been separated for the past eight months after a stormy marriage of a year and a half.

Now that I look back on it, I feel that most of our quarrels could have been avoided. They were so childish. I feel that we were two selfish, spoiled brats and Dor's temper with me about this.

There is every reason to give our marriage another chance. We have a lot in common — friends, interests and even our similar family backgrounds. But Doris doesn't want to give us another chance. The reason? She has recently met a guy who is a real nothing, but she thinks he is a big wheel because he has a minor official post in our community.

I have talked myself dry trying to make her understand that she would never be happy with this bum, but she's got stars in the eyes and hate in the heifry.

* * *

Doris V. — John is and always has been jealous of anyone who has more prestige than he has. We have known one another from high school and he knows as well as I do that he was always the guy who just missed getting elected to this and that, and then went around bragging about how much better he would have done than he had been beat.

Now Steve John says about Dear Jean's count. Loads of people in our community look up to Frank and think he has a terrific future. Plenty of girls have tried to hook him — and failed.

When we first separated, I felt that I had made a mistake and wanted to try again. At that time John wasn't interested, but now that I've shen up with somebody bigger than he is, he wants me back.

Well, the way I feel now I've got a better future with this "nothing" than I have with John.

The Council: John and Doris seem to have a fairly good understanding of one another — but unfortunately not such a very good one of themselves.

Doris seems to be using "the other man" as a weapon with which to taunt John. If she has any love for the man, she doesn't show it in any way. She appears to be happy to have "hooked" him because other girls have failed in the effort and because she has aroused John's jealousy.

John also appears to be more interested in the man in the case than in Doris. He does not talk like a man who courts a woman because he wants her. He talks like a man who is furious because another man is beating him at the social and romantic game.

John overlooks the fact that it is not his business whether Doris is happy or unhappy with some other man. If he sincerely wants her back as his wife, he must fight for himself in a way that will make her want to look upon her marriage to him as a serious and permanent thing. His sincere love for her would be a much stronger argument than his deflation of another an.

John and Doris have taken a small step toward a more sane existence if they have acknowledged that they both behaved like "selfish, spoiled brats," but that next step is harder. They must admit that they are still behaving that way. Each appears to be pursuing some vague idea of prestige, a sense of self-importance. At bottom, they lack self-esteem and they won't gain this until they put forth a real and honest effort to accomplish something worthwhile. The goal of making a success of their marriage would certainly be a good one for the purpose.

Women's Institute

MOIRA W.I.

The Moira W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Thompson with an attendance of 11 members, four visitors and several children. The president presided and opened the meeting.

The program was taken by the convener, Mrs. Earl Thompson. As it was a mother and baby meeting, the program followed with readings by Mrs. Hugh McMullen, "Mother's Gossip" by Bessie Holbert, "Practical Psychology", by Mrs. Jean Thompson, "Gift and Giver" by Mrs. C. Vandwater, "The Faithful Few" by Mrs. Fred Hagenburg and by Mrs. May Collins, "Home Remodelled" by Mrs. Vandewater, "The 5th Commandment".

The topic was given by Mrs. Marjorie Thompson, "Mothers Are Necessary".

A splendid address was also given by the district president, Mrs. Clifford Teid.

Following the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clayton Vandewater.

Season Opener Cookout

by Mary Moore

Tonight or tomorrow or Saturday you will be doing the grocery shopping for the long weekend. The Glorious 24th is to be held on the 18th and nobody is complaining because we are all aching for a holiday.

A friend om my sister Doris and her son drove up from New York in April and we had the first cookout supper of the spring. She said near Great Neck they brushed the snow from a barbecue in a recreation park and had their first cookout of the year in February.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY (Guests)

Apple Juice; Chicken Pie (see Wednesday); Special Chef's Salad with Avocado Sweet-Type French Dressing; Maple Almond Parfait (see Tuesday); Seed Pound Cake; Coffee.

So it's hard to be first these days, but this is my first column for '59 on cookout menus, but it will not be my last, for in two days from the time of writing this our co-educational Sunday School class is having a hike 35 strong and if the menu and games plans for it prove successful I'll pass on the statistics.

To non-outdoorsy readers I should say today's suggestions taste almost as good inside.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

CONCERNING TOASTS AT THE WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are to be married in June, and we would like to ask your help about the wording of the three toasts. (1) The best man's toast to the bride and groom. (2) The groom's toast to the bride. And (3) my toast to the groom. I'd like to have these toasts worded better than some I've heard at several weddings I've attended lately. — D.

Today most toasts are short and simple . . . and they should be kept that way unless the person proposing the toast has a special talent in this procedure. The grace of manner with which the toast is proposed is extremely important . . . and "practice makes perfect" is the idea here.

You and your groom and the best man would be very wise to do some serious home-work on how to rise to propose the toast, how to look around at the guests to get everyone's attention, how to make a charming little bow to the person to whom you are about to propose a toast.

The best man rises and proposes the first toast, perhaps saying only, "To the bride and bridegroom," or "To the bride and groom . . . and to their happiness always." The groom might say, "A toast to my lovely bride on our wedding day . . . this most precious and memorable day." And you might say, for example, "And I would like to propose a most loving toast to my bride-groom for 'to my husband,' if you wish) on our Day of Days. And I'd like to say too that Phil and I are looking forward to greeting you all on our Golden Wedding Day!"

ADOPTION ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you approve of sending out adoption announcements? (There seems to be a difference of opinion about the propriety of these.) If you do approve, will you please tell us the form you would suggest for the engraved announcement cards? Is it absolutely necessary to give the child's birth-date?

— Adoptive Mother

I do entirely approve of sending out adoption announcements, if the adoptive parents wish to. These can be charmingly worded to show the adoptive parents' happiness and joy in the adoption, and one of their most important points is that later on they may bring comfort and reassurance to the child, if ever told loving reassurance is needed.

I very much like this form:

Mr. and Mrs. John Duncan have the happiness to announce the adoption of Elizabeth aged three months

It is best, wisest really, not to give the birth-date of the child.

Kiss in Public In Italy Can Lead to Trouble

ROME (Reuters)—Kissing in public, which was a capital crime in Italy four centuries ago, can still land an unwary tourist in trouble with the law here.

Italy, whose menfolk are reputed to be among the world's most passionate lovers, frowns today more than any other European country, except Spain and Portugal, on public shows of affection.

The word "kiss" appears in no clause of the Italian penal code. But no other single act of the human being has been punished in the history of Italian law courts under such a wide variety of legal headings.

Kisses have led to charges ranging from "annoyance," "insult," "private violence" and "violent libido" to "acts contrary to public decency" being brought against the perpetrator.

The public kiss first made its appearance in law here in ancient Rome, when Manlio was disgraced by the censor Catone for having kissed his wife in front of his daughter.

The Romans' distinction between the three types of kisses—osculum," an embrace on the cheek in sign of affection," "basium," given on the mouth in sign of love; and "suavium," a sensual kiss—still governs the attitude of Italian judges to public kissing.

In Italy, unlike other countries such as France, where embracing couples are a common sight at street corners or on railroad platforms, a simple kiss, if caught by a policeman can lead to trouble.

Eggleton S.S. Presents Gift to Superintendent

MADOC JUNCTION — There was a good attendance at the morning Sunday School service at Eggleton United Church on Mother's Day.

The service of worship for Christian Family Day was observed with the superintendent, Mr. Murray Martin, presiding.

After the call to worship and opening hymn, Mr. Paul Bridges led in the responsive lesson from Psalm 103.

A group of girls sang the lovely old hymn, "My Mother's Bible."

The Scripture lesson, taken from part of Ephesians 4, was read by Miss Thelma Prest, after which Mrs. W. Harlow offered prayer.

The offering was gathered and dedicated with singing, "Father Bless the Gifts We Bring Thee."

"Happy Birthday" was sung for Sheila Clarke, as she dropped five pennies in the birthday bank.

The special story, "The Little Coat," was given by Mrs. C. Fillchett.

Mrs. Harlow and Mrs. Clancy were in charge of the presentation of seals for faithful attendance during the year. These were placed on the "Diploma of Merit" certificates.

SUPERINTENDENT HONORED

Mr. Martin asked Mrs. Harlow to take the chair of honor at the front.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy had prepared a "This Is Your Life At Eggleton Sunday School" book, and pages from the book were read by Misses Joanne Reide Annamae Clarke, Thelma Prest, Marilyn Reid, Messrs Paul Bridges and Murray Martin. Mrs. Clarence Fitchett, touching on several of the outstanding events that took place during the years Mrs. Harlow was superintendent of Eggleton Sunday School, and also making mention of many of the co-workers with her in the Sunday School during those years.

Mr. Murray Martin, on behalf of the officers and members of Eggleton Sunday School, then presented Mrs. Harlow with a red letter, leather-bound New Testament, for which she expressed her thanks.

Two potted African violets and baskets of lovely tinted tulips, from Mrs. Carl Bridges' garden, had added a spring touch of beauty to the service. The violets were presented to Mrs. Harlow and Mrs. Fitchett, while several of the girls called on Mrs. A. Andrews and Mrs. William Siepley and presented each of them with a basket of tulips, on behalf of the girls' Sunday School class.

Community Honors Young Married Couple

MADOC JUNCTION — A very pleasant time was enjoyed last Tuesday evening when 60 or more neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Chambers to extend congratulations and best wishes to them on their recent marriage and also to welcome Mrs. Chambers to the community.

The pastor, Mr. George Dyson, was chairman for a short program, which opened with community singing, with Mrs. Bruce Stepley as pianist.

A brief address by the chairman was given. Mr. A. Wannamaker, of Stirling, showed a number of colored slides—views of Florida, and also several others of beauty spots here in Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Chambers were then asked to take chairs in the living room.

Mrs. George Heasman was called on to read an address, while Mr. Ross Holland and Mr. Clarence Fitchett, on behalf of the friends and neighbors, presented Mr. and Mrs. Chambers with a lovely gray upholstered platform rocker, for which each expressed thanks. They also invited all to come and visit them at any time.

All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Refreshments were served by the ladies and all enjoyed a social hour together.

Elegance In Brown

By ALICE ALDEN

The brown family has taken on fine airs this season, with that color range moving up in popularity. Taupe browns are forecast for fall. But we are concerned with spring and here is a new definition of the elegant suit which Arthur Jablow has interpreted in Oxford brown woollen. The large-collared, one-button, semi-fitted jacket is worn over a silk print blouse in an unusual pattern of magenta and brown. The blouse follows the low neckline of the jacket, ending in a bow in front.

Springbrook WA Holds Long Business Meet

The May meeting of Springbrook United Church Woman's Association was held in the church last Thursday with the executive acting as hostesses, and Mrs. Carman Sine presiding.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. George Thompson, with the theme "Humility." The Scripture from John 13: 1-15 was read by Mrs. Edward Bateman. Psalm 752 was read in unison.

A prayer for the missionary, Miss Gould, was given, by Mrs. Delbert Fleming. The "Lesson Thoughts" were read by Mrs. Thompson and the worship closed with a prayer and the Lord's prayer.

The members reported 86 cards sent out and 34 calls made. The correspondence read consisted of 6 Thank-Yous; an invitation to a tea at Carmel on May 14th, and a report form and pamphlet from the Friendship secretary.

No report from the April visiting committee owing to the absence of the volunteers, Mrs. Ralph Wellman, and Mrs. Percy Mumby will act as volunteers for May. Mrs. Reg. McKeown acting convener told of one box of fruit; one plant; three sympathy; one congratulation; and four get-well cards sent out by the fruit and flower committee.

The financial report re Williams Livestock sale was given by Mrs. Frank Cosbey showing a profit of approximately $160.

The summary was also given of the buying of the kitchen utensils. Items of new business were: invitations to be sent out to Ryntons; Stanwood and Gospel Hall ladies to share the June meeting.

Mrs. Don Bateman and Mrs. Bert McCoy were appointed as delegates to attend the annual W. A. convention in Belleville on May 28. The Rev. Bears explained fully using the questionnaire, of the unity of the W.M.S.'s and W.A.'s which is being promoted. This concluded the lengthy business period.

An interesting and instructive topic on "Missionary Neighbors" was given by Mrs. Frank Cosbey.

The Mission Band, guests of the afternoon provided an enjoyable program of a play; songs; recitations, and a Bible mother contest.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Mission Band and their leaders, Mrs. Bears and Mrs. Delbert Fleming, by Mrs. Sine.

The collection of $6.80 was gathered by Paul Bailey and given to the Mission Band. A benediction by Mr. Bears closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served in the basement, where a party table was arranged for the children with each one receiving a basket of candy. The hostesses for June will be Mrs. Percy Bateman and Mrs. John McKeown.

A portable heater with a fan makes a fine aid for homemade clothes drying in bad weather.

Women's Institute

TABERNACLE W.I.

The regular monthly meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.A. was held in the church parlor on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Kerr, the president, opened the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Gallagher, members of Group 3 of W.A., had charge of devotional. Lesson was read from John 13: 1-15. Topic was, "Humility." "Humility includes kindness, courtesy, long-suffering, self-effacement. Many times Jesus tried to teach the disciples that he who would be greatest should be willing to serve. The two qualities of Christian communion are humility and love. Jesus gave His disciples a lesson in humility when He took a towel and went from one to the other and washed their feet. We should be willing to do any task, no matter how humble to serve one another."

The following nominating committee was appointed: Mrs. Lockyer, Mrs. Osland, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Paul.

A substantial sum of money was voted to be given to the Official Board. Several other worthy organizations received smaller donations.

Arrangements were made to visit "Home for the Aged" in the evening on May 27.

When business was coniuded Group 3 served refreshments and members enjoyed a social time together.

MELROSE W.M.S.

Mrs. J. Milligan was hostess for the May meeting of Melrose W.M.S. which was well attended with many visitors present.

The president welcomed all including the guest-speaker, Mrs. C. Holmes, Presbyterial president and Mrs. Barnes, of Myrtle and opened the meeting with a suitable poem by Edgar Guest, followed by a short devotional period, during which it was decided to order the new study-book.

Mrs. E. Embury invited all to convene at her home for the June meeting. Two minutes silence was observed in memory of a former president of the W.M.S. recently deceased and a W.M.S. "In Memoriam" card is to be sent the bereaved family.

The president conducted the worship service on "Discovering Neighborhood." Mrs. C. Milligan was in charge of the devotional assisted by Mrs. R. Cappell. Mrs. A. English read the Scripture and Mrs. R. MacFarlane took charge of the study period with Mrs. L. Weese, Mrs. E. Embury and Mrs. R. Badger commenting on the questions asked.

Mrs. C. Bates, group-leader for May, chose as her theme, "Christian Family Week" stressing the need for honor, respect and reverence in the home. She read a timely poem, "May Meddings" were given as follows: "Love" by Mrs. C. Milligan; "The Greatest Mother of All," by Mrs. R. Badger; "The Home is God's Garden-Spot," by Mrs. R. MacFarlane; "Children Taught Hate," by Mrs. J. English. who closed with "The Prayer of a Tired Woman," and thanked all who had taken part.

Mrs. Milligan introduced the guest-speaker in a most gracious manner and Mrs. Holmes expressed her delight of the opportunity of visiting the scene of her childhood and mingling with all her old friends. She chose as her topic, "World Brotherhood" and mentioned the challenges of four neighbors: Johannesburg where the dark minority group is dissatisfied and cannot understand why they elected certain rites as "Honors" are men; Foothills of India where the land is distributed unequally; Indo-China where the natives have few health facilities and few medical doctors, and they ask, "Why do our children have to die?" East Asia, demands its independence and expresses its desire for freedom. Thus it is evident unrest exists and that's the reason Missionaries are sent out to help men who look upward watching for a ray of light to guide them in the future and on this will depend the destiny of the 20th century.

Missionaries are facing oppression and this is a time of great opportunity in the face of communism. There is a wide door open for the Christian church. In India the "Union College" is staffed by natives, agricultural schools are established and the literacy question is being solved by classes taught to teach one. All are grateful for outstanding work in the church who have contributed so generously to the spiritual needs. Mrs. Holmes urged the W.M.S. to be missionary-minded as the fields are ready for harvest and there is an obligation — a leaven to speak, which should stir up the Church to promote a full missionary program in which all have a united fellowship. "We must care for our neighbors and this involves the million — "Go and Preach" so that we may realize fully the Oneness of the Christian Church and the oneness of all."

Mrs. J. English thanked the speaker for her enlightening talk, and Mrs. J. Milligan closed the meeting after which refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Christ Church C.C. Enjoys Bowling Party

On Monday night the members of the Contact Club, Christ Church, had their husbands as guests at a bowling party held at the Bert-O-Drome. An enjoyable hour of bowling and fun was had with the competition high.

After the bowling the members and husbands returned to the parish hall where Mary Fletcher welcomed the husbands and as an enjoyable time was had with the playing of court whist.

Mary Fletcher presented the prizes for bowling, with the men's high going to Cliff Shapter; ladies' high, Edna Kierconnell; men's low, Roger Rouleite; ladies' low, Edith Pringle and hidden score was won by Ron Kerr.

The winners of the military whist were: Betty Ling, Mary Niles, Yvonne Mathers and Edith Pringle.

Mary Fletcher presented a cup and saucer to Marilyn Warren who is leaving the city to take up residence in Toronto.

President Mary also reminded the girls there will be a rummage sale this week and that there will be no meeting on Monday — being a holiday.

Refreshments were in abundance and served by the members of Barbara Berrim's group who gave a well planned social evening.

The evening closed with Les Lennox giving a hearty thanks to the members for inviting their husbands to this much enjoyed get-together.

Anchorage and Fairbanks With Free, Easy Liquor Laws Ideal Setting For B-Girls

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuters)—Among the colorful figures of early Canadian and Alaskan gold rushes was the girl who danced and drank with bearded prospectors and helped to relieve them of their gold "pokes."

Now Alaskans are watching to see, whether the present - day counterpart of the dancehall girl is really on the way out.

Robert W. Service, the Yukon bard, gave the dancehall girl a name when he described one of her number in his verses as "the lady known as Lou."

Alaskans today know the dancehall girl by the far less poetic title of "B-girl." And the new state's legislature has just passed a bill which, for the first time, makes the B-girl's activities illegal in Alaska.

Dawson City, scene of the original Klondike gold strike in Canada's Yukon Territory, now is a slumbering village and the dancehall long since has faded from the scene.

But in Alaska, the booming defence construction centres of Anchorage and Fairbanks, with their free-and-easy liquor laws, have made ideal settings for the modern B-girls.

FEW UNMARRIED WOMEN

In recent years Alaska probably has had easier liquor laws than any other part of the United States. Whole the cities of Anchorage and Fairbanks exercised some control, night life drifted to fringe areas just outside the city limits.

Under territorial laws it was relatively simple to get a liquor-dispensing licence, and night clubs in these fringe areas were free to remain open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Here, in the after - midnight hours, the B-girl flourishes.

She has the odds and the factors in her favor too. One is the census statistic which shows there are relatively few young, unmarried women in Alaska's population.

Another factor which has helped to raise the B-girl's bank account is the fact that the cities of Anchorage and Fairbanks are natural transient centres. The majority of bearded construction workers, their pockets stuffed with the earnings of summer months spent on jobs in isolated bush country, have to stop over at either Anchorage or Fairbanks on their way "outside."

These were the B-girl's natural targets. She offered them companionship — for a price, often high. Many of the building workers counted their bankrolls after a tour of the night spots and learned to their sorrow that they no longer had even the price of an airline ticket home.

BILL ATTACKED

The B-girl has had her critics, many of them in the ranks of the law officers who were helpless to change the situation under territorial law. One Alaskan editor made this comment recently:

"It is well known that the comely young ladies aid the nightly take by more than the price of a few extra drinks. More often than not the pleasant interlude ends in wallet-snatching, rolling, or a rash of cheque cashing. The sit-liner who lost his poke to the composite damsel known as Lou was many times a loser to the victim of the modern B-girl. . . .

Now the new Alaskan state legislature has passed a bill which apparently will change all this. The nearly unanimous vote it approved a law which specifically forbids bars to employ young women to consort with the customers to increase the sale of drinks.

But many Alaskans seem to think that the B-girl bill is worth little more than the paper it is written on. As approved, one section of it would exempt entertainers, hat-check girls and other females who work in a bar, so it would appear to take little imagination on the part of the B-girl to change herself into an "entertainer."

The B-girl was not without her defender in the legislature, despite the near-unanimous vote. One member, a long-time resident of Alaska, attacked the bill in an attempt to save both the last link with the colorful goldrush days. During his impassioned plea, he also pointed out that the older female members of many of Alaska's most prominent families could be traced back to their days in the dance halls.

It appears that in spite of legislation, the B-girl may continue to flourish for some time to come in the new state of Alaska.

999 Inquiries From Parents on Adoption Ads

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government has placed newspaper advertisements for the adoption of 20 homeless children and the province is "pleased with the response," the director of child welfare reports.

Although only one of the 20 has been placed to date, director W. H. Bury said the advertisements have brought a total of 999 inquiries from parents in Canada and the United States and "there is a good chance the rest will be placed within the next few months."

The campaign began April 24 to find homes for many provincial wards, most of whom were handicapped in finding foster homes because of age, physical condition, creed, color of mixed racial origins.

"The most important thing is that the right home is picked and the children stay there until they reach maturity," Mr. Bury said.

Of the 999 inquiries, 111 were from Canadian parents the remaining 888 were from the United States and as far away as Hawaii, South Africa and Hong Kong.

Most everyone in Canada has been impressed by the novel campaign.

Mrs. Charlotte Cornwall, director of case work for the Vancouver Children's Aid Society said: "We don't believe in it. It's almost like advertising a commodity. We think children in our care would feel they're up for sale."

A spokesman for the Catholic Children's Aid Society in Vancouver also said they also are opposed.

The personal classified advertisements in provincial dailies detail some of the child's qualities and disabilities but do not identify the child.

"There are thousands of applications for the blue-eyed, blonde baby girl," Mr. Bury said. "But those looking for those parents who have the utmost in understanding personalities" provide a home for the less fortunate and especially older child.

Children are placed in a home for a six-month trial period, required by Ontario law. Children's Aid Society investigators take care selecting the right home.

Commenting on the Vancouver attitude, Mr. Bury said that in the ads the child's correct name is never used. Also the ad never appears in the child's home town. However, the child's description is accurate.

Former Liberal Leader Claims PCs Write off Farm Vote

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—Former Ontario premier Harry Nixon says the Progressive Conservatives have written off the farm vote.

The 68-year - old veteran of nearly 40 years in the legislature showed he is game for a few more rounds as Liberal candidate in next month's provincial election.

He said it's because farmers now represent only 12 per cent of the voters that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Conservative government is imposing higher taxes on tobacco and removing price controls on milk, hogs and poultry products.

"The Tory government has come to consider farmers as absolutely expendable," declared Mr. Nixon.

Mr. Nixon accused Ontario Agriculture Minister Goodfellow of "muddling, confusion and ineptitude" and rapped Premier Frost for making "not a word of protest" against federal farm policies.

HYDRO "EXTRAVAGANT"

Entrance by the government - operated Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission made an income in rates inevitable within a year or so with farmers already paying twice the urban rate. And only 1.5 per cent of the province's billion dollar budget is devoted to agriculture.

"They, too, consider the farmer expendable."

Mr. Nixon, who launched a frontal attack on provincial liquor policies during the last session of the legislature, was granted a new job by his 42-year-old protege, Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer.

Mr. Wintermeyer told the meeting he plans—when he becomes premier—to appoint a committee of the legislature to study revision of liquor laws and Mr. Nixon would be chairman.

KEEPS AUDIENCE HAPPY

The dean of the legislature, unbeaten in 11 consecutive elections, was in rare form as he kept an audience of 100 chuckling throughout his 40-minute speech.

Mr. Nixon recalled that Premier Frost once accused him in the house of accomplishing nothing during his political career.

"I told him I was a modest man and didn't want to look my own horn but that I had defeated more Tories than any other man in public life."

He has defeated three farmers, a court clerk, a mayor, a lawyer, a doctor, a captain, two majors and a colonel.

"I haven't had a general yet but one may come along. It was a pleasure to run against those men and it was even more of a pleasure to beat them."

He was only 27 when he defeated his first opponent on Oct. 20, 1919. "I looked only 20 and my youth was my greatest embarrassment—I wish I could say that now."

Mr. Nixon went into office with the United Farmers of Ontario and became provincial secretary. The UFO government fell in 1923 but he remained in the House and in later elections ran under the Liberal-Progressive and then Liberal banners.

He became Liberal premier on May 18, 1943, and resigned three months later when the Liberals were defeated at the start of a 16-year reign by Conservatives.

COPY NORTH'S SYSTEM

BARRIE (CP)—J. C. Dillon, fire control officer for Southern Ontario, suggested Tuesday that persons should be required to have permits to burn rubbish—even in their own back yards.

He told a meeting of fire chiefs this system is in effect throughout Northern Ontario but in Southern Ontario individual municipalities would have to pass by laws to require permits.

Diefenbaker Sits Silent Through Whole Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes, who as president of Royal Military College will confer the institution's first honorary degree on Prime Minister Diefenbaker at Kingston Saturday, replied in the Commons Wednesday to questions in this connection.

A series of pointed questions were submitted by Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto Trinity) and among other things they asked: Who recommends candidates for honorary degrees? What qualifications must any candidate for an honorary degree possess? Is the college under the jurisdiction of the defence department.

"I suppose normally the recommendations would originate with the Senate," Mr. Pearkes replied. "But I know of no restrictions to prevent anybody making a recommendation to the senate."

He gave no indication as to whether he figured in the recommendation concerning Mr. Diefenbaker, who is to receive an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Yes, he said, the college is under the jurisdiction of his department.

As for the question on qualifications, Mr. Pearkes, in referring to Mr. Diefenbaker, replied:

"He is, as all members know, prime minister of Canada, a member of Her Majesty's Privy Council, a distinguished member of the Canadian bar, and a gentleman who served overseas with the Canadian Expeditionary Force during the years 1916 and 1917."

Mr. Diefenbaker sat nearby in silence through it all.

Prime Minister Will Meet Big Three Auto Producers on Making Small Cars in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker on Saturday will try some persuasion—he didn't say whether it will be friendly—when he's invited it would be firm—on the big three automobile producers regarding small-car production.

What the government wants, he let the Commons know Wednesday in forceful tones, is that Canadian auto builders produce small cars if United States manufacturers decide to.

To put this view across, he will meet here Saturday with heads of Canadian subsidiaries of Ford, General Motors and Chrysler.

From the discussions, he said, "I hope . . . will be in a position to determine, with my colleagues, on the future course to be taken."

"But let me emphasize that if small cars are manufactured in the United States by these companies we want the same situation in Canada."

Norman L. Spencer (PC—Essex West) opened the matter with a reference to a brief presented to the government on April 20 by a delegation of the United Automobile Workers of America (CLC).

The delegation, led by Canadian UAW director George Burt, had said auto workers fear they may be caught in a squeeze between European-made and U.S.-built small cars.

The brief said there were press reports that General Motors would start production of a small car in the U.S. in July, Chrysler and Ford would soon follow suit.

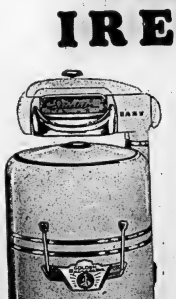
Yet there was no sign of any such intended production in Canadian plants of these three companies.

Russ McNeil, secretary - treasurer of UAW Local 222, Oshawa, commenting on Mr. Diefenbaker's announcement, said union representatives should be at the Saturday meeting.

"What Mr. Diefenbaker is doing is good, but we should be there."

In Windsor, Mr. Burt expressed his delight at Mr. Diefenbaker's announcement.

"We hope the companies will recognize the emergency of the situation and see that the cars are produced here," he said.



All three companies indicated they will be represented at the meeting.

Avro May Get Orders From United States

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says negotiations have been undertaken between Avro Aircraft Limited of Canada and Republic Aircraft Corporation of Farmingdale, N.Y., over Republic's new strike attack interceptor, the F-105D Thunderchief.

The story says a proposal was laid before Canada's Defence Minister Pearkes, Production Minister O'Hurley and Prime Minister Diefenbaker last month to the effect that if Canada would order the aircraft for the RCAF air division in Europe, Republic would supply Avro with certain "rolling-at nominal cost.

Republic would also agree to have Avro make most of the airplane at its Malton plant which was left without airplane orders when the federal government cancelled the Canadian-designed CF-105 Arrow and the Orenda jet engine.

Republic would also buy Avro-produced components for Republic's production of Thunderchiefs for the United States Air Force, The Globe says.

The newspaper says the offer was made to the Canadian ministers personally by Mundy Peel, Republic president.

It has received RCAF support. A main feature of the arrangement, the story says, is that the Canadian - produced Thunderchiefs would be fitted with the Orenda engine, generally recognized as the most powerful yet developed.

CONTRIBUTES MOST

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Chester A. Ronning, Canadian high commissioner in India, says Canada has contributed more per capita aid to India than any other country in the world. Ronning, who arrived here from Calcutta on his way to Ottawa, said Wednesday Canada's greatest contribution to India was towards the building of hydro-electric stations.

Ottawa Widow Loses $4,762 In Swift Racket

OTTAWA (CP) — Police have disclosed that a 64 - year - old widow lost $4,763—the bulk of her life's savings—in a rapid-fire confidence game that took less than three hours.

The Gloucester-Nepean police said two men pushed their way into the woman's home March 12. They identified themselves as a sheriff from Toronto and a private detective and told her they needed money to stamp out a chimney racket. A third man was in a car outside.

They told her that two years ago a chimney cleaner had overcharged her and intimidated her into writing them a cheque.

A man stayed with her while two went to cash the cheque. They had to return to get her to initial it and she was forced to tell the bank by telephone that it was permissible to cash it when the bank still was dubious.

Police said that as yet no arrests have been made. They did not identify the woman, who has been under care for shock since the incident.

CHANGE TAX SYSTEM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has announced its policy of collecting liquor and cigaret excise taxes through the sale of tax stamps. Starting June 24, the industries will pay the tax by filing returns twice a month. About $4,000,000,000 is collected each year through the sale of stamps.

WEST PROPOSES

rangement would affect East Germany's capital in East Berlin was not stated.

A COMPROMISE

The West made a compromise approach to Russia's demand that East and West Germany must negotiate reunification directly between themselves. It proposed in the second phase the creation of a mixed German committee of 25 West and 10 East Germans to make plans for increased contacts between the Germanys and to draft an all-German electoral law.

In the third phase an all-German parliament or assembly would be elected at the end of the 30-month period. The free and secret elections would be supervised by East and West Germans plus either United Nations or Big Four representatives.

A summary released by the Western powers said the all-German assembly would complete the unification process by drafting a constitution and forming an "all-German government on the basis of free unification with freedom of decision in internal and external affairs."

The all-German government (would) be responsible for negotiating an all-German peace treaty," the summary said.

That would be the fourth phase.

SECURITY STEPS

Parallel with the stages of reunification, the Western nations would take steps in security and disarmament. In making Berlin a "united city" the big powers would issue a declaration renouncing the aggressive use of force.

Information would be exchanged on military forces in agreed areas of Europe and limitations imposed on the armed strength of the Big Four. Only the figures for Russia and the United States—2,200,000 men each—were specified. Quantities of certain types of armament—presumably nuclear weapons—would be put in international storage depots.

Measures also could be taken in this second phase for inspection against surprise attack. The renunciation of production of nuclear, chemical and biological weapons already pledged by West Germany would becoming binding on East Germany "and other European countries" in the East.

In the third phase, keyed to formation of all-German governmental machinery, a zone of a size to be determined would be created in Europe in which ceilings would be set over native and non-native forces.

Once a peace treaty was concluded all foreign troops would withdraw from countries in the zone, evidently including Germany, "upon the request of the government of the country in which they are stationed".

"Global force limits could be further reduced," the Western powers said, "for example to 2,-100,000 each and later 1,700,000 for the United States and the Soviet Union."

It was also provided that if united Germany allied itself with NATO, special measures about joint reaction against aggression"—which seemed to imply a willingness to enter into a European security treaty.

Recognizing the Russians may stand fast in their opposition, Western representatives already are preparing a second or "fall back" position on Berlin.

LIBERAL LEADER

ancient-civil service in York South, the CCF leader's home riding.

It was the first time in four years in the House, Mr. MacDonald said, that he had received such a letter. It suggested that political patronage still plays a role in government job appointments.

Owen Sound is in Grey North, a riding held by Provincial Secretary Phillips who is the government spokesman on civil service affairs.

Mr. MacDonald said the CCF would give the civil service full collective bargaining rights and revise salary scales to attract a high calibre of employee. Patronage would be abolished by the creation of an independent commission along the lines of the federal system.

URANIUM FUTURE BRIGHT

Energy Minister Macaulay said at Jarvis, 20 miles south of Brantford, he saw a bright future for the province's uranium industry. His department would offer leadership in finding new markets for refined uranium.

Mr. Macaulay came under fire at a Toronto meeting where Paul Hellyer, Liberal member of Parliament for Trinity, was recalled for a royal commission inquiry into land purchases near Sarnia by Ontario Tories.

Mr. Hellyer said the energy minister should resign "if documents bear out what appears to have been done" in the Sarnia purchase. Paying $17,000 an acre for part of a tract which an investment firm had optioned from an Indian band for $2,000 an acre.

CONSIDERS ELECTION

Consider these facts: In every model, Mercury is the most spacious car in its class. It has the largest front doors. It is the easiest car to step into. It is a true six-passenger design.

That's why Mercury has become to many Canadians, the real step up in cars—at a price that makes stepping up easy. Add to this, its classic big car styling, superb, silent-running performance and scrupulous attention to detail, and you'll know that Mercury gives you more of all that counts.

Your Mercury dealer can show you convincing comparison proof. For a preview of these Mercury advantages see below. Then see your Mercury dealer.

Certain features illustrated or mentioned are standard on some models, optional at extra cost on others.

STIRLING

Mrs. A. Brooks Gives Talk at W.I. Meeting

STIRLING — Mrs. Vernon Harry was hostess on Thursday for the May meeting of River Valley Women's Institute, with 29 members and two visitors in attendance.

The new president, Mrs. Roy Tucker, presided and opened the meeting. The new secretary, Mrs. George Heasman, gave a full account of the annual meeting and the financial report to date. Various "thank-you" notes were read. Correspondence included a message from the department regarding a course this fall, and the group chose one on sewing. The delegates to the district annual are the president and district director, Mrs. Mrs. Harry and Mrs. J. R. Donohoe.

Mrs. Glenn Bush reported the plans made by her group for the luncheon at the district annual and this was approved.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, the friendship-link secretary, displayed the March issue of the "English Home and Country," and read a few excerpts. The magazine was started in 1919 and has continued for 40 years to be a family link between the many thousands of Institute members in England. The cover was painted for this special issue and has tulips for spring roses for summer, fruit, nuts and corn for autumn, and moss and ivy leaves for winter, all in a lovely picture.

Mrs. Vernon Harry displayed two handmade rugs which were made by members and spoke briefly regarding Achievement Day.

Mrs. Roy Bush gave a brief message regarding A.C.W.W. About 20 women will be in the Canadian delegation to the international conference August 3 to 16, at Edinburgh, Scotland. The founder, Mrs. Alfred Watt chose as her theme, "Better Living for Rural Women."

It was decided to have a cup and saucer shower for the River Valley kitchen in June in lieu of collection.

On motion the fruit boxes will be discontinued for one year and sick folks will be remembered with a card. The first aid kit at the school is to be replenished.

Mrs. J. L. Donohoe read a full report written by her husband regarding the building fund. Some $600 was given in labor and machinery, and over $500 in cash. The gifts from outside points were listed. This report will be placed in the Tweedsmuir history book. A vote of appreciation was tendered Mr. Donohoe.

The program was convened by Mrs. Gerald Brooks, who read a poem, "Success," by Edgar Guest.

The president read a paper prepared on the theme, "Spring in the Country." It read in part: "Springtime in the country is free to all those who search for it over hills and valleys, and very often it is one of the unappreciated blessings of nature. The gorgeous colors of spring are the red of the robin's breast, dogwood blossoms, blue violets, yellow daffodils, and such. Then there is the warbling brook, croaking frogs, warbling birds, and wild fowl. "New life breaks forth and once again there is a renewal all around the countryside, and thus springtime is our basis for believing we do not live in vain."

The prayer by St. Francis, written over 700 years ago was quoted and it contained much food for thought.

Mrs. Glenn Bush read an amusing article on agriculture entitled "The Cow in The Machine."

Mrs. Ralph Utman introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Ashley Brooks, and she based her address on "Flowers." She first gave a vivid description of the proper methods of growing African violets successfully.

She then displayed several plants grown from small slips, and recommended the use of moss for starting both slips and seeds.

The planting and culture of tuberous begonias, also winter storage, brought to a close her informative address.

Mrs. Ross Bush expressed thanks to the speaker and presented her with a small gift.

Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh read a humorous article on "Spring Cleaning." A contest, "Farm Tools and Implements," was conducted and the winning group received as a prize a box of mixed nuts which all enjoyed.

The hostess was auctioneer and sold a large array of potted plants, bulbs, garden mums, an old-fashioned plants, and collected approximately $12 for the treasury.

At the close of the program the lunch conveners served light refreshments. Mrs. Don Scott expressed thanks for hospitality, program and refreshments.

The June meeting will be held in the new kitchen at the school house.

TO HANG IN AUGUST

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Chapleau, 18, was convicted Tuesday of the knife murder of an aged restaurant owner and sentenced to be hanged Aug. 21. Defence counsel had sought acquittal or a manslaughter verdict on grounds Chapleau wasn't in possession of his faculties when Joseph Alphonse, 71, was stabbed Jan. 21 in his small restaurant.

Rev. D. C. McLelland, of Trenton, Moderator of Kingston Presbyterial, was in charge of the service, and the message was given by Rev. R. D. MacLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville.

Wing Commander Rev. J. Dunn, Trenton, gave the address to the minister. Mrs. Harry Morrow was organist and a combination of choirs from both churches on the charge contributed an anthem.

A reception followed in the church parlors, when several messages of welcome were given by visiting clergymen from other denominations.

Campbell Drives 'Bluebird' to World Record

CONISTON, Eng. (AP)—Donald Campbell drove his speedboat Bluebird twice over a measured kilometre today for an official world water speed record of 260 miles an hour.

The previous record, set by Campbell on the same stretch of Coniston Lake last November, was 248.62 m.p.h.

In the first of today's two runs —one in each direction—required by International rules, Campbell's jet-powered craft hit 275 m.p.h.

SLOW SECOND RUN

Coming back over the measured kilometre the 37-year-old British ace was clocked at 245 m.p.h.

The lake was almost dead calm under a warm sun as Campbell entered his sleek, jet-powered craft for the record try.

His wife, night club singer Tonia Bern Campbell, who is expecting a baby, watched from the shore.

In a warmup run Wednesday, Campbell had hit 285 m.p.h.

Mob of 300 Sees Bruins Beat Rangers

DORTMUND, Germany (CP)—Boston Bruins downed New York Rangers 6-4 before 300 persons Wednesday night to put New York's won-lost record in their European exhibition hockey tour to 7-6.

The National Hockey League clubs continue their 22-game series in Essen, Germany, tonight.

Jerry Toppazzini scored two goals for the Bruins and Guy Gendron, Bronco Horvath, Vic Stasiuk and John Hanna one each.

Bill Sweeney, Red Sullivan, Eddie Shack and Jim Bartlett counted for the Rangers.

The Bruins led 4-3 going into the third period after being down 3-1 in the first. New York outshot them 56-37.

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers sold outfielder Larry Doby to Chicago White Sox Wednesday for more than $20,000 cash.

No other player was involved in the deal.

Doby, 34, came to the Tigers during spring training in a trade with Cleveland Indians that sent Tito Francona to the Indians.

He was hailed as the answer to the Tigers' needs for a distance hitter, but hit 13 hits in 18 games included only two for extra bases and both of those were doubles. His average this season is .228.

But They Don't Narrow The Hole!

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP)—Frank Dodge, 33, is one golfer who can shoot his handicap in figures equal to his height and be proud of his score.

Frank, who can almost hide in a golf bag, is 44 inches tall.

He found that out - down clubs didn't do much for his score, 36! Bob Fry, golf professional at the Fort Madison Country Club, helped him order a set of special clubs and then went to work on improving his swing.

Dodge recently shot a 42, seven over par. He plans to compete in the Waterloo open tournament this summer.

Stars Last Night

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching — Sam Jones, San Francisco, blanked Philadelphia on two singles, not allowing a hit for 6-3 innings, and struck out 12 for 4th victory.

Hitting—Ernie Banks, Chicago, backed up Glen Hobbie's three-hit pitching by going 4 in five runs, including a grand - slam homer in the third inning of a 10-9 victory over Cincinnati.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Three jockeys were lucky to escape without serious injuries when three horses fell at the club house turn in the first race at Old Woodbine Park Wednesday.

Ernie Warne suffered a fractured nose and was kept in hospital overnight.

Bob Barnett had a fracture of the left wrist and was released after treatment. The third rider, Georgs Gordon escaped with a bad shaking.

The spill was caused when Dominion Day swerved to the inner rail, bounced off the fence and hit Red Gunner, which was ridden by Warne. Red Gunner tripped over the heels of Windy Clopper, and went down heavily. Gallarat, ridden by Barnett, fell over Red Gunner, Town Lane, ridden by Gordon, stumbled over the fallen pair and threw his jockey.

Red Gunner probably will lose eye as a result of the accident. Gallarat was kicked by at least two other horses as he lay on the ground and veterinarians will give him a thorough examination today.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Those horse racing fans who know what jockey Eddie Arcaro has done in the Preakness stakes in the past are betting money-back at Pimlico Landing, the mount he is to ride in the 83rd running of the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

The track oddsmaker has listed the Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer, who was nosed out by Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby as the probable favorite at 2-to-1 odds. Bob Sloa, the mutuels manager, made First Landing second in the derby—the second choice here at 3-to-1.

The reason—Arcaro.

He is the winningest Preakness jockey with six triumphs. He has ridden in Baltimore's Triple Crown classic 14 times and has been in the money on 18 occasions. He hasn't been worse than third since 1944, with 11 wins.

Tomy Lee has shuffled back to California with the dog with Sword Dancer in the derby.

Bisons Release Luke Easter

BUFFALO (AP)—Luke Easter, who led the International Baseball League in homers and RBIs in 1956 and 1957, was released outright by the Buffalo Bisons Wednesday.

Easter, 38, played for Cleveland from 1949 to 1956 and was named top player in the American League in 1952 by The Sporting News.

The club also released Fred Hahn, 30, who compiled an 11-8 record last season and is 0-2 this year. He was with the Bisons since 1955.

Last season Easter led the Bisons in home runs with 38. This year he batted .176.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montebourg entry, Dr. Hoffstat, won the eighth race at Richlieu Park Wednesday, covering the mile C $1,500 pace in 2:0 2-5. The driver was Percy Robillard.

Ontario entries fared well as True Key from Columbus, driven by John Hayes took the first race, a $500 mile D trot in 2:12 1-5 and Eddie Rea from Oroto with Jack Gordon, the driver, took the $1,000 mile C pace in the third.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

WELCOME KINSMEN!

Starting today some 450 Kinsmen and their attractive ladies will invade the city—and make it their headquarters until Sunday. It is the occasion of the annual convention of District 5 Association of Kinsmen.

From this more or less cloistered corner of the newspaper, we bid you a warm and sincere welcome, ladies and gentlemen from wherever you are.

A lot of you have never been in Belleville. Some may have passed through it. To those strangers in our midst, we hope you like what you see — and how you are entertained. We have no doubt on either score.

You represent some 24 clubs of an outstanding, highly-regarded service club organization. If the community-project efforts of the Belleville Kinsmen Club can be used as a criterion, you are doing, and have done, yeoman service for the people and towns and cities whence you come.

A lot of "convention widows" may not believe it, but much work for the general good is done at get-togethers of this nature. A glance at your agenda for the four-day conclave here is evidence enough that much serious business pertaining to the good of your district in particular and your association in general will be politically-mended.

You will like Belleville — and the Belleville Kinsmen Club. It is an energetic group of young community-spirited executive men who get things done and is greatly appreciated by the community at large.

But "all work . . . makes Jack" and all that, but after all there must be time for relaxation and fun. And being a former member of the Kinsmen Club here, we know that this part of the convention agenda has been well taken care of.

There will be dinners, luncheons and speakers, besides the general convention business. The dinners and luncheons, we know, will satisfy the most fastidious palate. The speakers have been carefully selected for their brevity, wit and sane thinking. There will be no long-winded, meaningless addresses.

Unless of course, Kin. Harry (Senator Claghorne) Rollins, you will know him by his silver-tongued oratory, corrals you in some remote corner of hotel or motel, and cuts loose his famous monologue of "Canada for Canadians."

Just listen to him. You will enjoy it. Unless he starts to get "ornery." One time he got so cussed mean, he started to eat his beart out—and broke a tooth.

Seriously, you will find the Belleville Kin among the best in proper organization. Under convention chairman Murray Hanley, they have left no stone unturned to make your district convention here one of the best. They have toiled long and hard to see that you and your ladies enjoy yourselves to the utmost during your stay.

They have not only arranged the proper facilities for important convention business, but for relaxation, too. Tours and dances have been arranged besides other special events. It has entailed a lot of work, but the "Hunter Kin" has worked as a team and we believe, come through with flying colors.

On Saturday you will meet one of the finest groups of athletes to ever represent Canada in world competition. They are the Belleville McFarlands, 1939 world hockey champions, who will be guests at your "Meet the Macs" luncheon.

Later in the afternoon you will take part in one of the most elaborate parades ever held in this city. It has been carefully planned, and will be witnessed by thousands of people.

Knowing the Belleville Kinsmen Club as we do, we think you will agree with us in your post-convention opinion, that Bay of Quinte hospitality ranks with the best. It has been arranged with that idea in mind.

We trust you will enjoy your all-too-brief stay in Belleville and that the impressions made will be cause enough for you to return and visit this city and environs for a much longer period.

Ancient Lefty Spahn Fifth Southpaw To Win 250

Braves' Ace Nips Cardinals To Hoist Club Back to Top; Lane, Casey Clash Verbally

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

An intermittent rain fell and steady showers flowed at New York's Yankee Stadium Wednesday as Frank Lane and Casey Stengel tangled in the latest round of their verbal feud.

Lane, general manager of the American League-leading Cleveland Indians, was miffed because the Yankees called off Wednesday's game.

"I told everybody this spring", said Lane, "that the Yankees weren't invincible. Now they're inaccessible. You can't find them to play them!"

"Maybe," said Yankee manager Stengel, "somebody will talk too much some time."

CALLED BEFORE NOON-

The afternoon game, the finale of a two - game series which opened with a 7-6 Cleveland victory Tuesday night, was called before noon. Both Lane and Indian manager Joe Gordon expressed surprise that the game wasn't rescheduled for today, an open date for both teams.

The Yankees explained they don't reschedule games that quickly because they feel it is bad business as they can't publicize the n a date properly.

Gordon, ex - Yankee, was quoted in the Cleveland News as saying the Yankees "must be afraid to play us. They want us to wait and play us when they're going better."

SOX STREAK CONTINUES

The second-place Chicago White Sox won the only game played in the American League Wednesday, closing within a game of the Indians by right-hander Bob Shaw blanked the Red Sox on five singles 4-0 at Boston. Rain washed out the Kansas City at Baltimore and Detroit at Washington.

Shaw, 25, didn't walk a man and struck out three as the White Sox won their fifth in a row. He retired the first 10 batters in order while gaining his first complete game in the majors. It was only his sixth start in a three-year career, first this season after 16 relief appearances. He has a 3-0 record.

Two-out singles by Jim Landis, Sherm Lollar, Del Ennis and Earl Torgeson gave the White Sox two first-inning runs against loser Frank Sullivan, now 1-2. Dick Gernert had two of Boston's Bits. Ted Williams, had-one, his first in eight at-bats this season. In the four series and three years of major league baseball, only four left - handed pitchers ever had won 250 games. Now Warren Spahn is the fifth.

The splendid 39-year-old southpaw put it away Wednesday night, beating the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, and hoisting the Milwaukee Braves back into the National League lead.

Spahn, now 4-4 for the season, joined American League right-hander Early Wynn (253) of the Chicago White Sox as the only active pitchers with 250 victories.

LOOKING TOWARDS 300

Spahn figures he might reach 300 if he can stay a starting pitcher for at least two or three more years.

Eddie Plank, an American (and Federal) leaguer, is the top southpaw winner with 327. Lefty Grove (300), Eppa Rixey (266) and Carl Hubbell (253) are the others.

The all - time winner among major league pitchers is Cy Young, a right-hander. He finished with 511.

Elsewhere in the NL Wednesday, San Francisco beat Philadelphia 5-3 on Jack Sanford's pitching of Sam Jones, the Chicago Cubs topped Cincinnati 10-6 behind Glen Hobbie's three-hitter, and Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles 6-4. Dick Stuart's three-run homer brought the Pirates from behind as they chased Don Drysdale (3-3) with three in the eighth and clipped the Dodgers a half-game behind Milwaukee. Don Hoak's solo home run had given the Dodgers a 4-3 edge in the sixth against Ron Kline, but reliever Roy Face (5-0) shut them out on three hits over the last three frames.

Jones (3-4) didn't allow a Philadelphia hit until the seventh. Pinch-hitter Gene Freese singled in the eighth for the other hit off Jones, who then retired the season high with 12 strikeouts. A three-run homer by Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda's five - run first against former mate Ruben Gomez (3-2).

Ernie Banks' grand - slam homer triggered a seven - run third for the Cubs against Bob Purkey (4-3) as Hobbie (4-3) breezed to his third straight win. Ed Bailey had two of the hits off Hobbie, who retired the last 12 men in order.

Toronto Nips Montreal 4-3; Marlins Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami Marlins found Columbus' Dick Lines a worthy competitor on "family night" at Miami Stadium.

The young lefthander took his family from nearby Fort Lauderdale to Miami Wednesday night to watch him stifle the International League-leading Marlins 7-1 for his third victory in four decisions this year.

Lines' family had never before seen him pitch a professional game. And the Marlins, finding in the family plan an answer to its oft-questioned baseball drawing potential, counted the Lines family among the 5,485 attendance. This was the Marlins' biggest home turnout of the 1959 season.

ROCHESTER WINS

In other action, Havana defeated Richmond Vpet 3-1, Rochester staggered to a 7-5 win over Buffalo and Toronto edged Montreal 4-3 in 11 innings.

Lines scattered seven hits and struck out seven while his mates jumped on loser Mickey McDermott and five successors for 14 hits.

Lines was touched for Leo Burke's solo homer in the fifth inning, but ended Foster Castleman's hitting string at 18 games.

Walt Moryn (4-3) pitched a three-hitter for eight innings before an injured elbow brought on Havana reliever Raul Sanchez in the ninth. The Richmond loser was Jim Bronstad (2-3).

Rochester frittered away a 7-0 lead as Jim Coker's three-run homer capped a four-run Bison sixth inning. They added another in the seventh, but were stymied by relievers Joe McLain and Dick Ricketts. Cal Brown (4-2) won it and Ken Hunsinger (2-1) was the loser.

REDEEMS SELF

Joe Amalfitano's single chased home Joe Hannah with the winning Toronto run after Amalfitano threw the error had allowed Montreal to tie the score 2-2 in the sixth inning.

Montreal went ahead 3-2 in the 10th on Clyde Parris run-scoring single but Mike Gollat matched that with a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the inning.

Toronto scored its earlier runs on homers by Dave Pope and Stan Jok, while Sandy Amoros homered for the Royals.

Who Does Brundy Think He's Kidding?

NEW YORK (CP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, doesn't hold with Communist policies but he thinks the Russians have a good idea with their calisthenic coffee breaks.

"It might help us in the United States if we did the same thing," the IOC executive said Wednesday shortly before departing for Rome and thence to the IOC meetings in Munich.

A dispatch from Moscow Tuesday said that 11 a.m. every morning there is a signal throughout all the offices and factories of the Soviet Union.

Then a cheery voice comes over the radio: "Good morning, ready for the exercises—one-two, one, two, one-two — "

"That's no joke," said Brundage, who has been visits to the Soviet Union and Iron Curtain satellites. "They do that in every Iron Curtain country, too, even China.

"It's a serious business with them. They are determined to produce the strongest people in the world—athletically as well as politically—and this is their means of doing it."

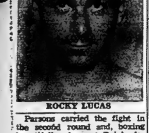
Belleville's Lucas, Parsons Feature Fine Boxing Card

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Two near-sensational knockouts featured the second highly successful card of the Belleville Boxing Club at Memorial Arena last night.

Jack "Rocky" Lucas and Barry Parsons, aces of the Fitzgerald-Polmanter-Totten stable, won their feature bouts in brief but impressive manner.

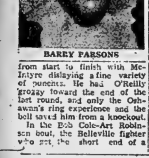


Lucas, billed in the main bout stopped Bernard Holtz of Toronto, in one minute and forty-eight seconds of the first round of the scheduled five-rounder, while Parsons wrapped up his fight with Tom Daigle of Toronto, via the TKO route after 1.33 of the second round.

In the special event, a thriller from gong to gong, Grant O'Reilly of Oshawa, who created a favorable impression with fast here on his last appearance was defeated by Charley McIntyre of Toronto, by a unanimous decision.

He threw the red rights at Holtz at a dizzy pace and floor- ed the Toronto boxer in the first half minute.

He ripped solid punches at Holtz after the round and the Toronto boxer went down again for the count of six. It took but one terrific right to the jaw to end the bout after less than two minutes of action.



In the semi-final, Barry Parsons proved his easy victory last week was no fluke. The young- ster took the offensive early and won the first flurry of exchanges. Daigle was counter- punching well when a solid Parsons' right caught him on the button and dropped him to his knees.

ROCKY LUCAS

Parsons carried the fight in the second round and, boxing beautifully, dropped Daigle for the count of nine. The young Belleville boxer ripped into his foe with rights and lefts and Daigle went down again at 1.32. Referee Fred Fisher examin- ed the Toronto boxer and decl- ded he should not continue.

The best bout of the even- ing from a ringside point of view was the five-rounder be- tween O'Reilly and McIntyre. Both fighters showed plenty of ring experience, hard punching and counter - punching, with McIntyre's aggressive style and two-fisted attack giving him an edge throughout the five rounds. It was a hard-slugging battle from start to finish with Mc- Intyre displaying a fine variety of punches. He had O'Reilly groggy toward the end of the last round, and only the Osh- awan's ring experience and the bell saved him from a knockout.

In the Bob Cole-Art Robin- son bout, the Belleville fighter w'o pt the short end of a trained but some should be in better condition.

An appreciated feature of the night was the excellent announc- ing of "Mac" McCrimmon. He handled the microphone with the ease of a veteran and his announcements were clear, con- cise and left no doubt in the fans' minds as to who was fighting who and who was the winner.

THE RESULTS

Gary Hughes, Belleville, drew with Donnie Ritchie, Belle- ville (21); Tommy Cole, Belle- ville, earned split decision over Joe McCormack, Toronto; Bruce Polmanter, Belleville, lost split decision to Joe Thomas, Tor- onto; Bob Cole, Belleville, de- cisioned Art Robinson, Oshawa, one judge ruling a draw.

Terry Bennett, Belleville, lost decision to Colin Fraser, Toronto, one judge ruling a draw.

All Is Sweet With Sugar But Nobody Asks Basilio

NEW YORK (AP)—The ques- tion of whether Sugar Ray Rob- inson will defend his middle- weight boxing title against Car- men Basilio Sept. 21 at Philadel- phia could be answered Friday when the New York State Athl- tic Commission holds its weekly meeting.

But, in light of all the man- oeuvring that has been going on since the New York commission and the National Boxing Associ- ation ordered Robinson to sign or face loss of his crown, it could be several more days before the scrap becomes official.

Friday is the deadline for Rob- inson to sign for a Basilio fight or lose his title in New York. The NBA already has stripped Sugar Ray of his crown and President Dr. Ward Wylie says his body will not consider rein- statement until both names are on a contract.

FINALLY ASK BASILIO

Robinson signed a contract Tuesday with Samuel Rose, a Philadelphia city councilman, to meet Basilio in Philadelphia's 100,000 - seat Municipal Stadium. But nobody bothered to talk to Basilio until Wednesday. Sugar Ray said the contract called for him to receive 45 per cent of the gate to Basilio 30, and settled the fight would draw $1,000,- 000.

Basilio said he would wait and see what action the New York commission takes before giving his answer.

Meantime, John DeJohn, one of Basilio's managers, said Carmen had received an offer from New Jersey promoter Willie Gilzen- berg to meet Robinson in New- ark or Jersey City this summer. The offer called for Robinson to receive 45 per cent and Basilio 30 per cent of the gate, DeJohn said.

Wylie said he would not poll the NBA's 8-man executive com- mittee until Basilio signs for the fight.

CHAMPS SIGN FOUR

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Golden Bears, ORFU champions, have announced signing of Chuck Scales, 22, a fullback from the University of Indiana, and Gene Gardiner, a two-way end from the University of Dayton, Ohio. Two Canadians just signed were fullback Eric McKeever and Ross Dowswell. Both played with Sar- nia last year.

Scott Verdicts Ralph Dupas

CHICAGO (AP) — "What I have to do to win a fight!" fumed Ralph Dupas after losing to Charley Scott Wednesday night.

The No. 2 welterweight contend- der was a dejected figure after Scott was awarded a split deci- sion.

Referee Sonny Weissman voted 46-45 and Judge Lou Cappadona 47-46, both for Scott. Judge Jim McManus gave it to Dupas 47-43. The Associated Press card had Dupas winning, 46-44.

Scott, an 8-5 ringside favorite decked Dupas in the first round with a left hook. Dupas was cut at the corners of both eyes in the third and fourth rounds and the wounds bled throughout the bout. Scott, ranked No. 7 but a more stern in his punches than the fast-fisted Dupas, who set a furi- ous pace.

"I thought I won big," said Du- pas.

BRAZIL BEATS U.K.

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP)— Brazil stunned England's touring all star soccer team 2-0 Wednes- day before a delighted crowd of 150,000 at the huge Maracana Stadium. Firecrackers exploded throughout the country as Brazil scored in the first two minutes of play and added a second goal after 28 minutes.

TORONTO (CP)—Three young Britons arrived here last week with $180 between and a yen to work and play soccer.

Today, they were happy young men.

Ron Baker, 19-year-old inside left, played on one of Aston Villa's farm teams; Colin Clarke 20, was with Birmingham re- centre-half who also toiled for the Villa group.

They spent all week unsuccess- fully looking for jobs, then did the rounds of the football clubs.

Steve Stavro promptly signed them for his Toronto City team in the International League. The jobs followed soon afterward.

BUILT FIRST U.S. CAR

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Edgar Landon Apperson, 86, designer and builder of the first American automobile, died Tuesday. CAMPBELLFORD

Warm Weather Brings Out Picnic Tables

CAMPBELLFORD — With warm weather apparently here to stay, town workmen have been busy during the past week removing picnic tables from storage and placing them in parks and along the banks of the Trent Canal in the town.

Each year the town adds a few more tables, and each year the tables are put to good use by visitors and local persons. On Sunday, most of the tables lining the canal on highway 30 were being used by picnickers. Tulips are up in the flower beds along the canal, although the grass along the strip of park on which the flower beds are located has not yet been cut.

Road and bridge crews are busy patching sidewalks and pot holes in the streets, although there are still a number of bad spots on the streets that are in need of repair.

BAD ROADWAY

One stretch of roadway on the west river road at the northern outskirts of the corporation is particularly bad and now constitutes a definite danger to motorists using the roadway, if they are not familiar with it. Motorists have created a new roadway on Department of Transport property to the east of the present roadway by driving around the pot holes on the river road. This stretch of road is in September township. Township road crews have patched this section of the roadway each spring for many years, but it is now worse than it was before the road was paved.

The township plans to repave this section of the river road adjacent to the Lions Club beach and playground just north of the town limits. Township councillors say they are awaiting word from the county engineer to start repaving before the tourist season gets under way. The road leads to a half dozen resorts in the Healey Falls area.

U.S. POPULATION UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. population totalled 176,446,000 April 1, the census bureau estimates. This was 3,071,000 more than a year earlier.

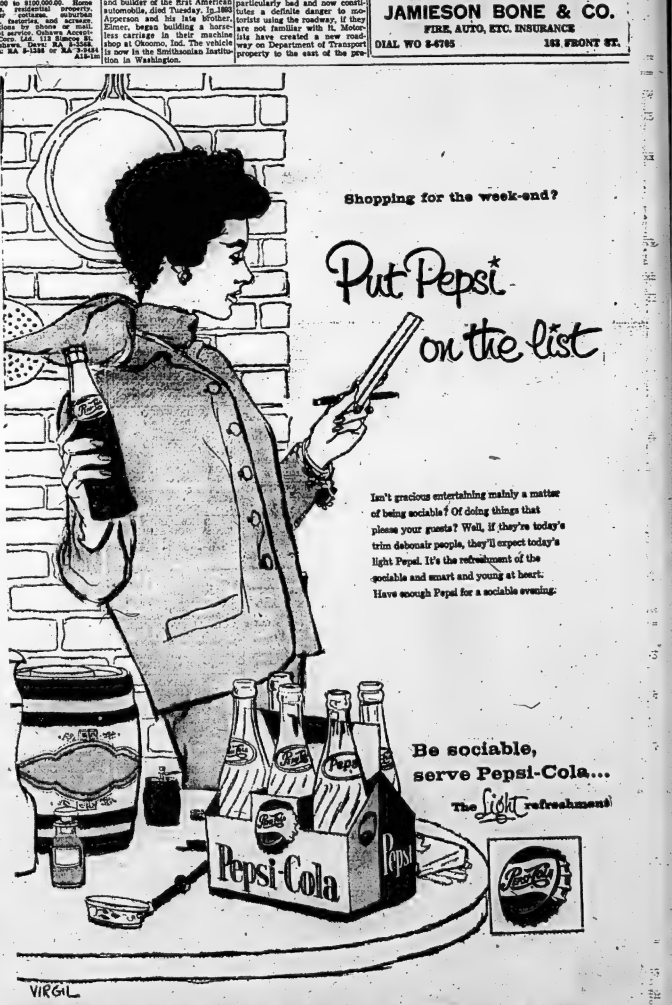
Marsh Hill

CHURCH SERVICE

MARSH HILL — Mother's Day services were held at Marsh Hill Church Sunday morning. The Christian Family Day program was followed during the Sunday School hour and the theme being "A Home for Children."

Marilyn, Elizabeth and Linda Finkle sang "Jesus Son of God Most High." Sheila Slater read the Scripture lesson from Ephesians 4: 1-16; Gwenda Deller read the story, "The Little Colt."

During the church service, Donald Ivan son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Clare, was baptized.



The choir sang as an anthem, "O God Who to a Loyal Home Did Trust Thy Son Divine."

Rev. R. F. Darke delivered a Family Day message.

MORTGAGE LOANS — NOTICE

To those contemplating building or re-financing we suggest getting applications in as early as possible. We do our own inspections and valuations and can, therefore, give immediate action. Advisory service free. Money advanced as building progresses.

Indigestion; Nerves On Edge---Couldn't Sleep

This Woman Tells of Grand Relief She Got By Taking Syntona.

If you suffer from indigestion, headaches, sour, upset stomach or backache and rheumatic pain in limbs, joints and muscles and you feel tired, nervous and worn out, we urge you to try Syntona Herbal Compound. Syntona has brought relief to thousands. It is highly praised and recommended by men and women in all walks of life.

'Remarkable Improvement'

Here is the experience of Mrs. Margaret Carlisle, 727 College St., Woodstock, Ontario, who said:

"I used to wake up almost every night and toss around. Nothing would ease my nerves were all on edge. Food that I ate gave me an awful gas, cramps and indigestion. I never enjoyed my meals, I felt tired, rundown and many nights couldn't get to sleep for hours after going to bed.

"Syntona has given me wonderful results. It relieved the nervous feeling, I no longer have any gas trouble, my appetite is good, I sleep sound, refreshing sleep. As a result I eat better, have more energy and enjoy my work seems easier.

Why not let this grand Herbal medicine help you as it helped Mrs. Carlisle to take and results are guaranteed.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolsen's The Druggist.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, May 15

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — An associate whose habit it is to be very thorough will take so much time today deciding upon certain points of policy, that you are almost in a nervous tizzy before you both decide. It will save time, money and arguments at a later date.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — With so much work and so many tasks facing you, you scarcely know where or how to begin this day. Relax, plan your work methodically and labor diligently. Your calm manner will help others, too. P. M. give abode a thorough cleaning.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Feeling a bit out of sorts, you decide that you do not like your reflection in the mirror and would run out to most expensive beauty or barber shops. Take it easy, do only what is necessary. Rest will have you beaming again soon.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Things are hardly as you would have them there, but starting arguments will only make matters worse. Relax quietly, pray silently, and watch changes take place... Have a peaceful evening at home. Rest is much as you can.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Exercise particular care while out driving or in motion anywhere now. Also take care later in the day you do not lambaste one who is working very hard and earnestly. Be encouraging instead. Give a pat on the shoulder.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Temptation to be extravagant is very strong right now, or you want to get away from it all. Either would be foolish. Make things useful instead, do repair work, add artistry here, a new gadget there. Practice economy.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You could give in to that mood of laissez — Faire now and accomplish nothing this fine day. Be cheerful instead and impress others with your optimistic air. Work and win.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Endeavor to solve ideally the most difficult problem you have. Don't gamble about anything, or you stand to lose out. P. M. assist those persons who are truly in need and far worse off than you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — An unpredictable friend today endeavors in various foolish ways to find out what is on your mind, which could be very annoying. Avoid this by being very short and blunt. Then be quiet, watch results.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If you are very diplomatic in the handling of certain affairs outside your home, you could meet with criticism and disrepute. Impress higher ups with innate intelligence. Don't take any unnecessary chances.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Here is a day when you would like to make radical changes in your everyday life, but this would only lead you further astray. Meet your obligations instead and do not look for new avenues until you are a success in present sphere.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Financial affairs will take up the better part of today's time. Be sure to be economical. Also, avoid annoying or hurting someone you love. Remain poised, smiling and absolutely master or mistress of yourself.

If your child is born today — The deliefhful child born today is somewhat of a paradox of nature. The desire is to work harmoniously with others, but the natural inclinations are pugnacious in order to get what is desired faster. Yours is the duty to bring the co-operative attitude to the fore for best results in adult life. Give plenty of sports to work off excess energy. Good chart for government work, troubleshooting.

FRENCH STATION SET

OTTAWA (CP)—E. L. Bushnell, CBC vice - president, said Thursday a private group is considering formation of a company to open an all-French station in Toronto. He said that if this group does not go ahead with the project, "I think the CBC will be prepared to accept the offer" of Oakville radio station CHWO to carry three hours a day of French broadcasts.

Thugs Slay Timiskaming Bank Manager

Two North Bay Men Arrested At Roadblock

Banker Dies in Street With 2 Bullets in Head

TIMISKAMING, Que. (CP)—Bank Manager A. W. Heron was shot to death today as he grappled with a man attempting to rob his Bank of Montreal branch in this northern Quebec paper town, 40 miles east of North Bay.

Ontario Provincial Police later apprehended two men near North Bay.

The manager was shot twice through the head in the struggle and died on the street in front of the bank as a gunman fled pursue the men.

Half-an-hour later, two North Bay men, answering the description of the wanted men were stopped by an OPP roadblock near Feronia, 10 miles east of Cobalt on Highway 65. They were held pending the arrival of Quebec Provincial Police.

GUN IN BACK

Police said a man from a car parked near the bank put a gun in teller Jacques Thiboutot's back as he unlocked the bank door. Thiboutot pushed it away and open the vault. A second man waited in the car.

Mr. Heron came into the office from his apartment above the bank and was shot twice through the head when he grappled with the man.

The killing resulted before the teller opened the vault.

Mr. Heron's wife and daughter were in the apartment when the shooting occurred. A son was away at boarding school.

Mr. Heron was born in the West Indies and educated there and in England before coming to Canada and joining the bank about 35 years ago.

INTO THE CAR

After the shooting, the gunman ran through the bank door and into the waiting RCMP model car.

Jim Lynn, a garageman changing a tire about 20 feet from the office heard the shots, saw the gunman rush out and Mr. Heron fall moments after him.

When the bank manager fell to the pavement, Lynn ran to a nearby restaurant and telephoned police a description of the getaway car.

Both suspects were taken to North Bay.

FATAL CANDY

TITTLESHALL, England (CP) Two - year - old Adrian Wright died from a piece of sweet choking in a throat at a cocktail party depends only slightly on the number of guests, two Canadian scientists say.

R. F. Legget and T. D. Northwood of the National Research Council say in a paper to be presented to the Acoustical Society of America in Washington here, that their experiments do not bear out the theory that a prominent scientist W. R. MacLean that cocktail parties can be kept down to a certain noise level by number of those in attendance.

The scientists say a striking similarity in the results obtained for all cases studied: First the rapid build-up, developing in about 20 minutes, and then a levelling off at a steady noise level that depends only slightly on the number of guests.

"One interesting observation was that a party of librarians drinking coffee was just as noisy

Warrender Sees Sloppy Handling Of Bookkeeping

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender says sloppy handling of Belleville city bookkeeping might be the cause of the $176,526 deficit incurred by the Belleville arena and the world hockey champion McFarlands.

However, he said Thursday, it is "beginning to shape up" that a judicial inquiry into Belleville city finances might be in order.

Commenting on the use of city money to finance the hockey club, Mr. Warrender said the sloppy handling of city books might be an explanation.

"If so," he said, "then our people might be able to help Belleville get back on track, although we can't help them pay back the money."

City Manager Druzy Denyes, who also was treasurer and manager of the McFarland hockey team, was suspended by city council Monday night.

Teachers Say Boys 13 to 15 Bet on Races

TORONTO (CP)—Two Toronto school teachers said today school boys between 13 and 15, under legal 18-year limit, have been betting as almost daily at the Old Woodbine race track since the spring season meet opened here earlier this month.

Teachers Frank Gibson and Gordon Lawry of east end Beach district schools said they based the at-the-track investigations themselves after hearing reports at their school of underage betting.

The telegram says a Jockey Club policeman told their photographers Thursday that no one under the legal age of 18 was placing bets. The paper said it will continue the photographer was taking pictures of 15-year-olds at the betting windows.

Mr. Lowry said he saw two boys from his class at the track on the other 14, buy four tickets yesterday. He said he recognized other boys at the track but not by name.

Mr. Gibson said: "One boy told me he made $35 last Saturday, and another built his stake up to 70 on Wednesday but lost it on the last race."

"I think some wicket men sincerely and honestly can't tell what an 18-year-old looks like from a glance at a face in peak lineup periods," he said.

'NO APOLOGIES' STARR'S STAND ON JOBLESS FUND

Actions Within Law Fleming Declares

OTTAWA (CP)—"I have no apologies to make."

In that way, Labor Minister Starr summed up in the Commons Thursday his attitude to opposition charges of maladministration of the unemployment insurance fund and violation of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Mr. Starr was the first witness from Liberal speakers, Mr. Starr and Finance Minister Fleming, replied to their critics using adjectives such as picayune, meaningless and baseless. They justified and trumped-up in describing the charges against them.

Their defence was followed by a vote of 133 to 34 in favor of principle — of the government's Unemployment Insurance Act amendments. Liberals and six CCF MPs supported the measure.

During the debate, the Liberals pointed to the rapid shrinkage of the unemployment insurance fund — to $496,251,000 at March 31 from $826,777,000 in 1956—as evidence of maladministration, contending that special warrants totalling $330,000,000 have been paid out of the treasury rather than the fund.

To replenish the fund, the government introduced amendments increasing contributions by employers and employees by an extra 15 per cent in most cases, adding about $6,000 new wage earners under the insurance and lengthening the period for paying benefits to 52 weeks instead of 30.

Mr. Starr said that from the beginning the fund was meant to alleviate human hardship from unemployment and it had been run for just that purpose.

"Canadians will not suffer" unjustly to keep actuarial tables intact, he said.

DENIES CHARGE

Mr. Starr also denied the Liberal charge that the unemployment insurance advisory committee was not consulted about the amendments.

Mr. Starr said all his actions were "within the law" and "nothing was done in excess of the powers conferred by law enacted by this Parliament."

Mr. Fleming, in a speech, the cabinet appointing him as sole authority for disposing of securities from the fund. The fund's investment portfolio is the responsibility of the investment committee but the act provided that the minister could make any terms it saw fit when it came to put up securities against a cash loan from the treasury to pay benefit claims.

He said no securities are being recent loans of $50,000,000 and $200,000,000 and announce minister have sole right to dispose of the bonds used as securities.

Says Coffee-Drinking Librarians Just as Noisy as Cocktail Party

OTTAWA (CP)—The volume of Top East German Communist Rejects Proposals by West

ROSTOCK, East Germany (Reuters) — East German Communist party chief Walter Ulbricht today rejected the West's package plan for German reunification.

Addressing a Communist youth rally, Ulbricht, who also is deputy premier, said the plan aimed at "the annexation" of East Germany.

The package plan was presented at the Geneva East-West talks Thursday.

Ulbricht said the participation of his government in the Geneva talks amounted to "de facto recognition" of East Germany even though the two German delegations sat at separate tables.

He repeated East Germany's threat to sign a separate peace treaty with Russia and other Communist nations if West Germany refused to sign a treaty.

Ulbricht called for the start of "more realistic negotiations" at the foreign ministers' level. He appealed to West Germany to accept Soviet disarmament proposals.

During the debate, the Liberals pointed to the rapid shrinkage of the unemployment insurance fund — to $496,251,000 at March 31 from $826,777,000 in 1956—as evidence of maladministration, contending that special warrants totalling $330,000,000 have been paid out of the treasury rather than the fund.

To replenish the fund, the government introduced amendments increasing contributions by employers and employees by an extra 15 per cent in most cases, adding about 80,000 new wage earners under the insurance and lengthening the period for paying benefits to 52 weeks instead of 30.

Mr. Starr said that from the beginning the fund was meant to alleviate human hardship from unemployment and it had been run for just that purpose.

"Canadians will not suffer" unjustly to keep actuarial tables intact, he said.

PM Attacks Liberal Platform On Liquor, Highways Planks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Frost went on the offensive Thursday on the first time in the Ontario election campaign, attacking the Liberal platform on liquor and highways.

The 70-year - old Progressive Conservative leader said that Liberal leader John Wintermeyer had accused the government of a "negative" democracy in the appointment of boards and commissions.

He was "amazed" that Mr. Wintermeyer's new platform contained proposals to set up "more such bodies—to study liquor law revision and control highway programs.

Mr. Frost said it was another example of the "abysmal inconsistencies" in the Liberal program for the June 11 election.

The premier himself came under attack, minister from CCF Leader Donald MacDonald who called him a "mavericks" political businessman dedicated to "stirring into the hands of the "fast buck boys."

Mr. MacDonald flayed the premier's record on natural gas and deliverance of natural gas and auto insurance profits to private firms. Public ownership was defended by the government for public benefit.

Speaking at St Catharines, Mr. MacDonald said the Frost government had failed to provide employment and was "running away" from the issue. He called for the blunders of the Conservative Ontario Hydro.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer told a cheering London rally that he would be slightly less than enthusiastic if there's a reconvence of Liberal enthusiasm was evident in all areas canvassed.

"We are the only party in this campaign that has made any issues of significance to the people, he said. "The Conservatives have made no statement or declaration of policy. They have not lived up to their promises of the past. They have ignored the problems of the present and they have no plan for the program today."

The Liberals were setting the tone of the campaign with their 16-point platform and challenged the Conservatives to produce a matching program.

Mr. Wintermeyer got loose at the Liberals at a party rally in Lindsay which nominated him to seek the legislature. A crowd of more than half-filled the town theatre.

He said the Liberal power policy as authority to control highways would mean municipalities could build roads to their elected representatives for action on highways matters. "We might as well send all members of the legislature south for the winter and let the all-embracing authority look after things."

Mr. Wintermeyer said the Liberals were looking for advice after years of rumors that they would raise the laws and end any control or semblance of restraint.

Mr. Frost said Ontario's present liquor laws were always perfect but they worked effectively.

Later in the day he told a Peterborough meeting a permanent conference should be set up to study water problems as between the provinces and the federal government. Such a move was long overdue.

He said he planned to ask the federal government for $1,000,000 in new tax-sharing grants at a federal-provincial meeting in Ottawa July 8 and will hang out "like a pup to a boot" to get that amount.

But, "if what is good for Ontario is not good for Canada it is not a good thing." Ontario would make every possible contribution to "continental statesmanship" at the Ottawa talks.

Mr. Wintermeyer toured four ridings Thursday. Rallies were held by Conservatives in the afternoon and evening in Tillsonburg and Ingersoll and spoke to 50 supporters who gathered at the home of a supporter at Woodstock.

In a question-and-answer press conference the Liberal leader said he was in favor of night harness racing at tracks if a plebiscite made up his mind on the issue was held in such areas.

Today Mr. Wintermeyer swings into Eastern Ontario, Glengarry to South with stops at Galt, and Guelph. Mr. MacDonald is in the London area. Mr. Frost is scheduled to speak at Niagara Falls tonight.

Elsewhere on the province's political scene Thursday night Progressive Conservative candidates carried out opposition election promises.

Transport Minister Macaulay took a Galt nominating convention the CCF pledge to make natural gas and electricity utility services a crown.

He said municipalities had authority to set up their own gas and electricity utilities if they wanted of it.

Attorney-General Roberts said at Toronto the Liberal policy appeared to be "campaign for more and cheaper liquor." This counter-attraction to this was just as ridiculous as the suggestion elsewhere.

Mr. Roberts said the CCF does not seem to be a factor in the election.

SMALLWOOD SAYS MINISTER FULTON 'DECLARED WAR'

Thought He Came Bearing Olive Branch

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Fiery Premier Smallwood charged Thursday night that Justice Minister Fulton made a "virtual declaration of war" in a speech here that was designed to promote better understanding between the Newfoundland and federal governments.

"Like thousands of others, I actually thought Mr. Fulton might be coming to Newfoundland bearing an olive branch," the premier said. "Instead, it seems that he has come to declare war on us."

Mr. Smallwood made the caustic comment in reply to Mr. Fulton's address to the Board of Trade, and the premier minimized virtually the province only "to repeat the empty excuses and evasions of the prime minister" on the "life and death" question of financial assistance.

Mr. Fulton's speech dealt mainly with term 29 of the Confederation agreement he said Ottawa had agreed to the royal commission's recommendation that Newfoundland be given $6,000,000 a year but Prime Minister Diefenbaker will review the situation in 1962.

Mr. Fulton said: "Mr. Diefenbaker will have to do much better than this if he is going to stem the tide of Canadian public opinion . . . against him in this province. He will have to do much better."

"I am one of us would have signed the terms of Confederation if we had for a moment suspected that special rights guaranteed us . . . would be brought to a sudden end in 1962."

Mr. Fulton said in his statement that he was "astonished" by Mr. Smallwood's statement that under the Diefenbaker government "the direct financial contribution of the federal government revenues has increased from $34,341,000 to $100,084,000."

In his correct statement, he said, the correct figure should have shown an increase from $34,341,000 to $43,000,000.

Mr. Smallwood said at $100,284,- 000 the federal government in any year it "must have been largely lost in the fog."

On Paper This Gown Is Not Extreme But It Isn't on Paper, It's on Jayne

LAS VEGAS, Nev., (AP) — Jayne Mansfield wore a gown to the Tropicana Hotel in a gown so daring that even the nudes ran for cover.

Her opening entrance Wednesday night brought a gasp from the crowd. Jayne was in the act watching bare-breasted French and German beauties for months on the other side of the stage.

On paper, the gown is not extreme. It covers practically every part of Jayne's anatomy — even has a high-buttoned collar.

But somehow poured over her ample figure, it sort of dissolves. The petticoats are sheer, down to the knee down. The rest of the gown around like a medicine ball, is sheer nylon. Only a few strategic sequins block the view.

"I designed it myself," said Jayne, "and I think it is completely covered. If I had tried to compete with the nudes on their own level, I would have lost my bad taste. And besides those girls are as beautiful as I am."

Jayne does a lot of singing and dancing in her act. She is in Dinah Shore but with that gown and that shape she doesn't have to be.

Mickey Hargitay, her muscleman husband, accompanies her on the piano for one number. In another number, he lifts her the petticoats and tosses her

P.M. Duff Roblin Is Returned With Clear Majority

Takes 34 of 55 Seats, Wins 8 From Liberals

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives led by Premier Duff Roblin won a clear majority in the Manitoba legislature in a general election Thursday, after 18 months as a shaky minority government.

The Conservatives, outnumbered 30 to 28 by the combined Liberal-Socialist-Labor and CCF forces after the last election June 16, 1958, won 34 of 55 seats at stake this year. The Liberal-Progressive total dropped to 11 from 18 and the CCF group to 10 from 11, leaving as opposition total of 21. Standing at dissolution was the same as after the last election.

Elections in the northern ridings of Churchill and Rupertsland, held for 23 Conservatives in the last House, have been deferred until June 11 due to travel difficulties.

OPEN HOUSE IN JUNE

Mr. Roblin said in a post-election statement "There will be a session as soon as we can collect the business that should come before the House on Tuesday, June 9 and go on with our unfinished business."

The election was called March 26 after the opposition parties defeated the government on a confidence vote. None of the government's main legislative program had been approved.

Following is the CP tabulation from 1,716 of 1,731 polls (99 per cent), compared with vote for parties in last two elections (percentages bracketed):

Expect Department Officials Will Report to Warrender

A first hand report on the city's financial affairs and particularly its operation of the Public Utilities and Hydro is expected to be received today by the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs and Minister Hon. W. K. Warrender.

The department officials, F. G. Blake, and N. V. Salonias, who have been in the city since last weekend, left last night returned to Toronto and were expected to report to the provincial Affairs Minister Warrender.

The two officials came to Belleville after the city auditor-general of A. J. Richardson had brought to the attention of Mayor Gerald Hyde that the city had a lifeless operation. Public Mrs. Curtis Houston (Doris) of Belleville, and Mrs. R. McCullough (Marjorie), of Nelson, B.C.

The auditor's report indicated that the accumulated deficit of the local Arena and the hockey club was over $102,000, while the $37,000 in debt had been used to pay hockey players.

City manager Drury Denyes, who also acted as hockey club manager, has been placed on suspension by the city council pending a detailed inquiry into the city's finances which has been ordered by the city council session on the application for an investigation was received from the report of Municipal Affairs officials to Mr. Warrender.

Meanwhile city council has moved to cut expenses wherever possible and at Monday night's council meeting voted to hold up the award of supplies contracts.

Since then a number of temporary civic workers and employees with the city public works department have been laid off.

Tyendinaga Tax Rate Increased

MELROSE — The Tyendinaga township council has set the 1959 tax rate at 40.6 mills for residential and farm properties and 46.5 mills for commercial and industrial properties. This rate also acted as hockey club 1958 rate was necessary due to the purchase of a new motor grader, plow and wing, and to an increase in the high school requisition from 1958.

This year there is no township grant paid toward teachers' salaries as section 115 of the Public Schools Act has been repealed. This grant, was provided by a rate on the assessment of the public school supporters so that the total levy for public school purposes for 1959 does not show any appreciable increase due to increased government grants.

School section rates are as follows: Tyendinaga School Area, 15 mills; No. 6, 15.1 mills; No. 7, 14.2 mills; No. 10, 17.2 mills; No. 15, 19.6 mills; No. 17, 8 mills; No. 20, 22.3 mills; North Marysburgh, 13 mills and Union Separate Schools, 12 mills. Requisition from Richmond Area and Hungerford and Tyendinaga Area had not been received.

Because of the unsightly condition of some roads in the township, the council passed a by-law to prohibit the dumping of rubbish on roadsides in the township and to provide a maximum penalty of $50 for the contravention of this by-law.

Electric Club Members Visit Pyrotenax Firm

TRENTON — Members of the Belleville Electrical Club visited the Trenton Pyrotenax plant on Thursday evening to see the interesting manufacturing methods carried on there. The visit was arranged by Harry Condette, chief electrician at Imbert and Dunn, Ltd. Also present were J. H. Paige, Milton H. Ott, Bill McCrory and Bill Hamilton.

The visitors were conducted over Pyrotenax plant by Duncan McGregor, methods engineers, and were shown how the copper cable, which begins as a 30-foot long 2-inch diameter copper rod, is drawn into copper, is drawn by a series of drawing and annealing operations, until it is finally made into cable with a diameter of less than one inch and more than 2,000 feet long.

Cables from the plant have been used in the Toronto Subway, Seaway and are used in many other situations, including radiant heating of homes. The natural gas distributors use a form of the cable, said Mr. McGregor, which is covered with plastic. The plastic is applied by a machine which Mr. McGregor has invented himself.

The visitors then went into the testing department where they saw the product being tested under fire, twisting and heavy pressure, through which it proved its many qualities. The demonstrations were explained by Roy Blank.

Lunch was then served to the guests and supervisory personnel of the plant.

Town-Briefs

Members of the Trenton Odd-fellows lodge were out working in the Evergreen Cemetery last night as they have been each evening since the group decided to fix up the appearance of the main entrance to the burial ground. Two Oddfellows are doing all the work themselves and thus cutting down as much as possible on the overall cost but it is reported it will cost them in the vicinity of $400 before the work is completed. They will also erect a cairn at the entrance in memory of the former club members who are buried there. The Trenton Kinsmen Club is raising funds to buy and install a set of Memorial Gates at the cemetery which will also add greatly to the appearance of the cemetery.

Grade seven and eight students of the Marmora Street School were given a lesson in Water Safety yesterday morning when Sgt. Gordon Steenburg of the police department showed a film on the subject. The policeman commented on the film's useful-ness in view of the swimming season coming up and he also stressed the importance of children walking and driving bicycles with care.

Third Trenton Scout Ladies Auxiliary discussed plans for their forthcoming tea and sale, which will take place in the fall when the group met last night at the LOL Hall, with president Bernice Simmons in the chair.

The sale will be a fund-raising project, designed to provide money for the group's activities, which include furnishing of meals and flags for the Scouts and Cubs, sending a gift to any boy, or auxiliary member who may be ill or in hospital, and many other things. Nine-per families are represented in 3rd Trenton Scout Group, which consists of 2 Cub Packs, 2 Scout Troops and a Rover Crew.

The Belleville Lodge, No. 123, A.F. & A.M., most fittingly observed a Traditional Past Masters' Night at its monthly meeting.

For this annual event thirty of the thirty-four living Past Masters were present and replies were received from two who were unable to attend.

Following the degree work Wor. Bro. F. S. Fairman introduced a Past Master, V. Wor. Bro. Dr. Percy Sennett, who spoke on his associations with the lodge and his years as minister of Bridge Street United Church. He spoke of the challenge of Masonry in changing times and asked the brethren to meet the challenge through which all are passing with the proper spirit of tolerance, service and good will.

Following the address the Past Masters were presented with a small token to remind them of their service and connection with the Belleville Lodge.

Wor. Bro. Ralph Plumpton in a paper on Masonic education spoke on "The Need of Masonry."

An informal fourth degree brought to a very much enjoyable evening in this lodge.

Happy about receiving her Canadian citizenship papers is Mrs. Paul Veut of Middleton Park, shown with her husband, Sgt. Veut of the R.C.A.D.C., and six-months-old son, Al John. A native of Roumania, Mrs. Veut met her husband in England, where they were married in 1951.

41 New Canadians Are Told Importance of Citizenship At Impressive Ceremonies

The importance of Canadian citizenship was "brought home" to native-born Canadians attending the Citizenship Court held Thursday afternoon at Belleville County Courthouse when 41 people from 10 different European countries became citizens of Canada.

His Worship Mayor Hyde, representatives of the clergy, immigration officials, civic officials, and many interested citizens on hand for the solemn and impressive ceremony presided over by Citizenship Judge C. F. Anderson.

At the conclusion of the court session, the new Canadians who came to Canada from Holland, Italy, Germany, Finland, Latvia, Poland, (Bessarabia), Roumania, Denmark, Austria, Scotland, and Switzerland, were given a reception at the Officers' Mess of the Armouries by the Argyll and Sutherland Chapters of the O.D.D.E. where they were given the opportunity of meeting with and talking with their "fellow Canadian citizens."

The court was called to order by a red-coated member of the Belleville detachment of the R.C.M.P., Cpl. Cowan.

Deputy Clerk, Mrs. M. A. Mc-Caw explained a special Citizenship Court session was held at 1.15 p.m. when four of the 41 applicants — Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard Hoffmann (Roumania), of Belleville, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fokke (Frank) Bouma, all natives of Holland — received their citizenship certificates. These four were interviewed over C.J.B.C. as part of a special Citizenship Week program which will be broadcast tonight.

The applicants were called before Judge Anderson in groups of six, after the remaining two of the first group of six received their certificates.

The oath was presented with a Bible by Rev. R. D. MacLean, of Bridge Street United. After lining up before the judge, each gave his or her full name, then unison repeated the declaration of Renunciation of Foreign Nationality. Holding their Bible in their right hands, they again gave their name, and declaration repeated the Oath of Allegiance to the Queen.

"I swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II . . . ," the oath read, as the 41 immigrants became Canadian citizens.

They were then presented with their citizenship certificates by Deputy Clerk, Mrs. M. A. McCaw. As they returned to their seats, they were each presented with I.O.D.E. literature by members of the Argyll and St. Julien Chapters, who attend Shown above are four members of the Bouma family from Holland, all of whom received certificates. Left to right are: Mrs. Frank Bouma, 94 Orchard Drive; her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bouma, 42 Orchard Drive, and Frank Bouma, Mr. and Mrs. Bouma came to Canada eight years ago with their nine children. Their now grown children are all married and two sons have become Canadian citizens. Mr. and Mrs. Bouma recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary.

SECRETARY HERE

Guests at the reception in honor of the new citizens were treated at the home of Mrs. L. Irvine. St. Julien Chapter regent; Mrs. Angus Duffy, Argyll Chapter regent; Mrs. G. Hume, immigration convener of St. Julien Chapter, and Mrs. Fred Sprague, of the Argyll Chapter.

Judge J. C. Anderson gave a brief address expressing the hope that the new citizens would all assist these two chapters in holding a reception following other Citizenship Court sittings. He thanked Col. Angus B. Duff and his officers for making the mess available for the reception and also the members of the clergy who participated in this special sitting of Citizenship Court.

A letter from Lee Grills, MP, was read in which he expressed his regret at being unable to attend, and extended a welcome to the new citizens.

Reception convener was Mrs. Fred Veale of the Argyll chapter and the hostess was Mrs. P. O. Jeffrey of St. Julien chapter.

The tea table was attractively decorated with a centrepiece of red tulips and white narcissi interspersed with small flags, flanked by two silver candelabra holding red white and blue tapers.

LET'S TEST THIS THEORY

The Australia Department of Social Services, in an official publication entitled "Demography," gives some facts and figures -- and offers a suggestion -- which ought to interest you if you are a man.

Australian women, it says, like their sisters in other countries, are winning the longevity battle.

The plain truth is that baby girls are tougher than baby boys and that this advantage never is lost - - some biologists believe that women have a superior built-in capacity for survival.

If there is nothing more to the Australian report than this, we should have left it severely alone, filed along with rainy Saturdays and the Cold War under the heading of "Things We Can Do Nothing About."

But, from Down Under, comes a suggestion of what men can do about it.

Doctors, scientists and psychiatrists offer little hope to men who want to reverse what appears to be a natural law," says this Australian story from Sydney. Then, after that gloomy declaration, comes the ray of sunshine. "In sum, what they say is this: if men want to outlive women they will have to give up working, drinking and smoking."

So something can be done about it. It is time men put this theory to the test. Naturally moderation is desirable. Before going overboard with this three-point program, we suggest men test a third of it. We are perfectly willing to act as a guinea pig and give up working - - anything somebody will guarantee that this will not mean that we have to give up something not included in the list, namely eating.

SUMMER JOBS

"Summer Job Picture Grim for Students Here" is the headline which a contemporary ran over a Canadian Press survey on the outlook for summer jobs for university students.

Actually, the outlook is not quite as bad as the heading might suggest. Conditions vary. The description "grim" applies to Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa but conditions are said to be "comparatively good" in some parts of the Maritimes and British Columbia. Perhaps this distinction is more apparent than real. "Comparatively good," when one recalls the size of the unemployment rolls this past winter, may not be much better than "tough." But for a moment's thought will suggest that the wonder is not so much that some students have difficulty finding summer jobs but that so many of them, from high schools as well as from universities, do manage to get work during the summer vacation.

To start with, when spring finally arrives, looking for jobs are all the people who have waited with what patience they could muster during the long winter months for good weather to open up new job opportunities. Then, almost immediately, graduates from universities and high schools start seeking permanent positions. These two groups alone, one would suppose, would flood the labor market. That students planning to return to school in the fall are also able to find work is a striking tribute to the manner in which our economy livens up during the summer.

We have always been accustomed to regard seasonal unemployment as one of the unavoidable penalties imposed on Canada by long, severe winters.

Perhaps another way to say the same thing is that seasonal employment opportunities are more abundant in this country than in many others and that only our winter slow-downs make possible an abundance of vacation-time jobs for our students.

NEW YARDSTICK FOR GREATNESS

Coronet, the Chicago magazine, says that "if enduring quotes are a sign of greatness, Bugs Bunny is a greater American than John Paul Jones." It bases its contention on the fact that 40 per cent of those questioned by a public opinion survey recognized the originator of "What's up, Doc," while only 14 per cent were familiar with the source of "I have not yet begun to suffer."

Using the same yardstick, Franklin Delano Roosevelt is only half as important as Mae West, "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself" being familiar to only 37 per cent of those polled, while 61 per cent were on friendly terms with "come up and see me sometime."

Mae West greater than Roosevelt? Oh, yeah! And if Coronet can discover the person who first uttered those two words we shall know the identity of the greatest person of modern times.

THE ROAD TO RUIN

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

The Road to Ruin! Ah, there's a path
That is easy enough to find;
You can stumble onto it anywhere,
And many who do are blind.
They heedless rush in the hope maybe
That far at the end they'll tread,
The man who's guarding the Gate to Fame
But always they find defeat.

The Road to Ruin is strewn with flowers
And lined with the joys of earth,
The sound of revelry there you hear,
But nothing of lasting worth.
It's bright enough, and it's gay enough,
Its pavements are smooth to tread,
But fas at the end of it you will find
The bones of the early dead.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article 80 contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

THE END OF THE REBELLION

On April 1, 1885, ninety - five volunteers from the 15th Battalion, Argyle Light Infantry, and the 49th Battalion, Hastings Rifles, left Belleville to fight in the North-West Rebellion.

Under the command of Capt. Thomas Leslie and Capt. Sergeant Harrison, they journeyed by train to Kingston, where they joined the rest of the companies of the Midland Battalion.

Within six days the Battalion had been organized and on April 7, it entrained on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway for Pembroke.

From that Ottawa Valley community, the Battalion travelled by the Canadian Pacific Railway to the end of the steel of that line, where the north shore of Lake Superior.

From Winnipeg, in the lumber camps for a day or so, the men marched over the ice and snow a distance of thirty-seven miles, then rested briefly, before pushing off on a final march of forty miles.

This brought the unit to the Canadian Pacific Railway line running east from Winnipeg.

From Winnipeg the Battalion travelled by rail to Swift Current, whence it marched to Fish Creek.

On the morning of May 9, 1885, Company A (Belleville) and Company B (Peterborough), reached Batoche where they united with the troops then engaged in battle against Riel and his followers.

The Belleville forces performed extremely well under fire. Toward the end of the encounter, three companies of the Midland Battalion "charged the enemy's trenches, and made victory possible, dashing forward of their own volition without waiting for orders from the general who, when he saw them, exclaimed, 'By Jove, Williams had accomplished by his charge, turned to someone near him and said: 'D--n them, but let them go, you can't stop them'."

That charge dislodged the enemy from their positions, and made possible the capture of Batoche and Leslie Mills.

Unfortunately, during the fighting at Batoche, three Belleville soldiers were severely wounded. They were Lt. J. Halliwell, Corporal R. E. Halliwell, and Corporal M. S. Daley, a bullet in the latter's back rendering it defective for his life.

Also reported to have been injured in the battle at Batoche were Lt. Laster and Sergeant W. T. Wrighton.

After Batoche, the Midland Battalion was ordered to Prince Albert to aid in the suppression of the Saskatchewan rivers where it entrained for Fort Arthur.

There the men boarded the steamer "Alberta" which carried them to Collingwood, where they resumed their railway ride back to civilization.

At Port Hope, the Battalion was met with full military honors in late Commanding Officer, Col. Wilson, who had died following Batoche.

At Port Hope the Battalion entrained for Belleville. The two Belleville companies returning to their home city were recorded a most enthusiastic reception on July 23, 1885.

Headed by the Belleville Cadet, the streets were decorated "on a scale never before seen in Belleville". And pictures in the files of the Hastings County Historical Society bear testimony to the splendid evidence of the abundant decorations.

After a parade through the principal streets, the men and both companies were entertained at the homes of their commanders, the officers, at home being the residence of Col. Brown known as St. Agnes Manor.

So ended the last Belleville segments of Canada's fascinating story of the North-West rebellion in the Belleville area played an important role.

Alan Jarvis Has Hard Task

Branford Expositor

"I would no more quarrel with a man because of his religion than I would because of his art."

So wrote Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science. She wrote wisely. Whether one man's food may be another man's poison. What one man considers fine or a work of art may appear as pretty poor stuff to another. Perhaps it's all a matter of point of view, or how good the viewer's eyesight and capacity for appreciation may be.

Alan Jarvis, director of the National Gallery in Ottawa, is well acquainted with this human peculiarity. Some of the works he buys (often at considerable public expense) bring down on his head the outraged visitors who say that no such two-penny daubs can be called art. Junk. On the other hand there are those of the modern following who profess to see in every monstrosity and every daub of paint the manifestation of deep spiritual and artistic significance.

Mr. Jarvis, the Mediocre School, we like a picture to look something like what it purportedly represents, he tells face it -- there are among the taxpayers those who claim that anything that looks remotely like anything is art.

Maybe they're right. But then again maybe they aren't. The late great Will Rogers once said in a certain bow on one occasion, "I don't know much about art but I know what I like." Which is probably a fair enough criterion for the gallery who bawled, "Boo" at Jarvis.

"I agree with you, my friend," replied the philosopher, having acknowledged the tumultuous applause of the audience, "but what are you and I against so many?"

Director Jarvis may feel like that at times. But the National Gallery is the National Gallery; it must serve all tastes and all art. So Heaven help him!

More Flexible Than He Seems

Montreal Gazette

The meeting of foreign ministers at Geneva has begun amidst Khrushchevian blasts about his power to deal with the West without hydrogen bombs.

It might not seem a very cordial or promising beginning. Yet it must be remembered that whatever the Russian leader says, whether sweet or sour, is otherwise, may not be quite what it seems to mean. He is a past master at the difficult art of negotiating with Russia. Anything can mean almost anything.

It might seem for example, that the holding of this meeting of foreign ministers in Berlin, a three-summit meeting might be more futile still. Russia appears to be making much of the issue about Berlin that they could not possibly be accepted by the West.

But Khushchev's attitude on the Berlin question seems infexible, but it is statements rather than each by itself. When they are placed together, in a row, they will be found to have considerable variation.

He began by insisting that West and East Berlin must be made into a-single city. That was a hopeless proposition from the standpoint of the Western nations.

But Khrushchev did not stop there. He next came out with the proposal that the troops of all countries should be withdrawn from West Berlin. Then it should be made a free city. If that were done, East Germany would give guarantees that Berlin's communications with the outside nations would not be disturbed.

This is quite a change, if the two statements are compared. Since then Khrushchev has made the concession that the troops of the Western nations have a right to be in West Berlin, provided only they ought to get out.

Nor has the extreme severity of some of his statements about Berlin ever been carried into effect. Trucks were loaded from McMaster University, Toronto, to spend the vacation at her home in Charles St.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club organized for the season at a meeting last evening. The following officers were elected: Commodore — Dr. Ross Ketcheson; Vice-commodores — B. L. Hyman and T. Y. Wills; Secretary — Robert Martin; Corresponding secretary—A. Mowat.

SCIENTISTS STOUT PROPERTIES OF SATURATED AND UNSATURATED OILS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you write about the food value of sunflower oil, corn oil, bateless peanut oil, vegetable shortening, and lard? Thank you -- Mrs. J. K. O."

There's a great deal of interest these days in the various vegetable oils and I rather suspect that you are considering using something other than the "food value" as such.

For all of the oils you have mentioned, the fundamental food value is that of fat, which has about nine calories to a gram, or roughly 270 calories to the ounce. (See why fried foods are so fattening?. It doesn't take many ounces of fat, absorbed into fried foods, to add a lot of calories.

These fats also contain Vitamins A and D.

But the big current interest in fats of various types concerns their effect on the arteries. The so-called "unsaturated oils" are believed to be kinder, in that they do not cause the waxy deposit of cholesterol will be deposited in the walls of the arteries.

The opposite of an unsaturated oil is a saturated oil. The latter is believed to be deposit more cholesterol in the artery walls.

Note that I say it is "presumed" to do so.

This is by no means a settled question. The real factor involved may be something utterly different. We are, in our time, right in the midst of a study of this subject. I suppose that when Columbus made his voyage to the New World there were a lot of people in Spain or Portugal or other European countries who engaged in bitter arguments over whether the world was flat or round, and whether Columbus was running a risk of sailing west until he reached the edge, and just fell off.

We're in the same position now, more or less. We are arguing whether vegetable fats or animal fats are better for us, and we haven't the slightest idea what we're talking about.

Corn oil, peanut oil and the other vegetable oils are classified as "unsaturated oils" or "unsaturated fats" but are the saturated fats such as lard or processed shortenings.

So if you want an answer as to which kind of oils are "best", I don't know, and science hasn't yet achieved a positive answer.

But if you want a rule of thumb, it is to stick to the "unsaturated" oils, and by large, the "saturated" ones are the solid fats or oils which are solid at room temperatures, and the "unsaturated" ones are liquid at room temperature. The calorie values are about the same.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What makes some babies split up more often than others? My baby has dose so from the time that you are born. He is healthy and full of energy. Could it be because he is berwood? -- Mrs. D. M."

Most likely it is because he is an energetic type and doesn't know what else to do with his excess of saliva. If pneumonia has been routinely checked by your doctor, and there is no infection of the mouth or anything like that, which would be readily apparent, irritability would be the most likely cause.

Rarely, of course, a cyst can have an effect. But don't label a baby "nervous." Babies will be only as nervous as you make them. Your son will outgrow the business of spitting up.

Frogs Sent To Hollywood

A consignment of live frogs has left Cape Town in the Union of South Africa for an important mission in Studio City, Los Angeles, reports "The Cape Times."

The frogs are not destined for film stardom but it is already certain they will play an important part in the casting of Hollywood films. The frogs are "Platanas" (Zenopus Laevis) which abound in dams all over the country and which have become famous throughout the world for their efficiency in pregnancy tests.

Altogether 2,000 frogs are being sent to the United States of which 1,000 are bound for Hollywood. The rest will go to Maryland.

TODAY'S TALK

PROGRESS THROUGH DISCOVERY

What a stupendous debt we owe to pioneers — those who blazed the trail up the wild mountains, inspiring us to follow their lead. Many a bloody trail has been left behind by those who had courage, zeal, vision, and who never had the thought of turning back.

And so we are free, with a great country and a challenge to our faith and aspiration. Pioneers, the ones who went, and formed paths to unknown lands beyond the prairies, mountains and forests — and always in the face of danger. It was the age of the covered wagon and of stalwart hearts. Those who braved the way never counted the cost. They often left friends and all behind, for they were heavy with dreams

But there are other pioneers — in medicine, science, electricity, and literally thousands of other pioneering projects. We are constantly having our attention turned to some new gadget or invention. Ideas are multiplying. Progress is made through discovery.

Often we are pioneers and don't know it. But when we realize the fact, the sooner we get on with the way the better. The pioneer has to keep his eyes on the hands of God, which gives to him the secrets of his prayers. Pioneers are brave but they get lonesome.

A man asked one of Admiral Peary's companions what he thought of up there in that desolate North Pole climate when they discovered the North Pole for the first time. "What did we think of it? We did nothing. Peary was with us. He did the thinking for us!"

Due to pioneer: Others have done it. You can do it. We all can do it! Progress Through Discovery.

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

THE OLD AND THE NEW

On a square, brick building in a mid-western town I saw these words: "Established in this outside wall: A. J. Smith, 1881, Livery Stable. On the first floor of the building were two fine stores, one selling TV sets and the other high priced automobiles.

Eighteen hundred and eighty one to nineteen hundred fifty one: from a livery stable to a building engaged in the sale and distribution of the most modern types of merchandise. The man at the head of the old days was a prominent citizen, displayed in the adaptation to new conditions and demands as set forth in the two modern items on the first floor.

Happy life consists in the capacity to accommodate one's self to new conditions and circumstances. Too much adaptation and one has compromise; too little, and one has stagnation and death. Individuals who persisted in the livery stable business and horse trading and selling in the face of the growing demand for automobiles would have been foolish indeed. Anyone who would have thrown up his hands and, given up the fire the onrush of modern modes would have been even more foolish. Yet thousands of people who plunged into the automobile business were soon broke.

The right thing at the right time. Balance does it. A. J. Smith, 1881, livery stable, taught his residents how to turn livery stables into modern, well equipped stores.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

About three years ago, an acquaintance of mine became involved in one of those family disputes that end in court, and the judge ruled in favor of an older brother and his wife.

The main point of evidence consisted of a doorsider. He was the part of the successful petitioner.

My friend wrote his brother a brief note:

"I know you are a liar. You will rankle with you more than the possession of the property will gratify you. My only satisfaction is that every morning of your life, when you are shaving, you will look in the mirror and know that I know you are a liar."

After three years in which the divided family never communicated with each other, members, never recognized each other if they met anywhere, the older brother died and his wife moved to the States after disposing of their Canadian property and interests. There were no family goodbyes or farewells. My acquaintance did not even know to what part of the States his brother had gone. To my mind, it was far worse than a death in the family; and I grieved for him.

Last week, my friend told me the sequel of his brother.

"Some neighbors of mine ran into him in Kansas City. He's wearing a beard."

Commonwealth Day Booklet Issued to Schools

Today is Commonwealth Day in Ontario schools and to mark the occasion, Honorable W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education for the Province, has issued an illustrated booklet to the schools. There are seven pictures of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa and scenes of Parliament in session. Text matter outlines the duties of Parliament and the symbolism connected with it. This booklet is a very worthwhile effort to promote "the observance of Commonwealth and Citizenship Day and will be helpful in increasing our appreciation of our priceless heritage." The editor of The Ontario Intelligencer is indebted to Honorable Mr. Dunlop for his courtesy in permitting reproduction of the booklet and to the National Film Board, Ottawa, for use of the photos. One page of the booklet will be published daily. The foreword from the Minister follows:

"Every citizen should be familiar with the way in which our Parliaments work. Such knowledge helps us to understand and to appreciate the democratic processes on which our system of government is based.

"Behind the procedures which we have evolved for conducting the nation's business there is a rich symbolism which has come down to us from the past. A knowledge of the origins of this symbolism in the beginnings of our history and of its significance today can only increase our respect for the wisdom of our forefathers in developing these processes. It must also increase our appreciation of our good fortune in inheriting them.

"If I were asked to name one single feature which is most characteristic of the whole system of democratic government I would point to the principle that in a democracy the will of the majority, fairly arrived at, is accepted by all. The minority group, in our way of life, knows that, in due course, there will be another opportunity, another fair trial of opinion, and a chance that next time a minority may become a majority. That has happened over and over again and it is the basis of the fairest system of government that man has yet developed.
